PREFACE

The Revised Codes of Montana of 1921 (cited by abbreviation "R. C. M. 1921") were compiled by the code commissioner under authority of chapter 195, Laws of 1919, and chapter 109, Laws of 1921, sections 5531 to 5542 of this code.

A statement of the contents and general plan of the work is here given.

1. CONTENTS.—These codes are a compilation of existing legislation. They aim to give in an orderly arrangement all the permanent laws of Montana, to and including the acts of the 17th legislative assembly of 1921, and to indicate their application and construction by the supreme court. All appropriation acts and resolutions, all titles, enacting and repealing clauses and all local or special laws temporary in character, are omitted from these codes except a few special acts whose retention in the permanent laws of the state has been thought advisable and which are published in part VI of the Political Code under the head of Local and Special Laws. A table of comparative sections and a table of session laws is contained in the appendix, volume 4, from which may be ascertained the location in this code or other disposal made of all sections of the Revised Codes of 1907 and of all session acts subsequent to 1909.

2. ARRANGEMENT.—These codes are divided into four volumes, preserving the four codes in substantially the form in which they have existed since the revision of 1895. Consecutive numbering of the sections throughout the entire code has been retained in accordance with the plan adopted in 1907 and generally followed by other states. The arbitrary divisions heretofore used have been entirely changed and each code is now divided into parts and chapters only. Some changes in the previous arrangement of the codes have also been made wherever it was thought that a more logical classification of the subject-matter would result.

3. HISTORY.—The complete history of each section is given in full in a note immediately following it, beginning with the Bannack Statutes enacted in 1864-65 and extending through the several territorial and state statutes and session laws to the present time. For the sake of brevity and economy this history has in some instances been consolidated by the use of a note following the first section of the chapter or act and directing attention generally to the earlier acts, a reference to the same being then made under each succeeding section. The following abbreviations are used in writing history:

Amd.	Amended	Field	Field Code of New York
Ap. p.	Appears in part	L.	Laws
C.	Code	P.	Page
C. Civ. Proc.	Code Civil Procedure	Pen. C.	Penal Code
Cal.	California	Pol. C.	Political Code
Civ. C.	Civil Code	Re-en.	Re-enacted
Cod.	Codified	Rep.	Repealed
Comp.	Compiled	Rev.	Revised
Div.	Division	Sec.	Section
En.	Enacted	Stat.	Statutes

4. ANNOTATIONS.—The codes are fully annotated to the decisions of the supreme court of Montana from volume 1 to 58, inclusive, and to the United States supreme court decisions. Annotations are arranged chronologically. In all instances where a statute has been construed the language of the court or a brief statement of the point decided is given. Whenever statutes have been cited or applied by the court but not construed, the case is indicated under the heading "cited or applied." The section number of the earlier acts cited in the decision, as also the chapter and section of session laws since the Revised Codes of 1907, is indicated in the annotation. Where a section has been amended since a decision was rendered that fact is also indicated in the annotation. The annotations to the Montana decisions are the work of Messrs. Edward J. Grindrod and Carl E. Cameron, members of the Montana bar. The references to the citations and notes in the National Reporter System and Annotated Case System are supplied by the publishers of the codes.

5. OTHER REFERENCES.—In the time and with the help available it has been impossible to attempt to annotate the codes to the decisions of other states, but the following references have been made. Immediately following the history of each section there is given the corresponding section number of the California codes, as the same appears in Kerr's Cyclopedic Codes, Fairall's Code of Civil Procedure, and other editions of the California statutes. In the Civil Code there is given, also, the corresponding section numbers of the so-called Field Code of New York submitted to the legislature of that state in 1865. While this code was not adopted by the state of New York, it furnished the model for the written law of many states which subsequently enacted a civil code, including Montana. The report of the Montana code commission of 1892, referring to our Civil Code, states that it is taken almost entirely from the Field Code and the Civil Code of California.

6. CHANGES AND CORRECTIONS.—A comparison of the Revised Codes of 1921 with those of 1907 and subsequent session laws will disclose that in some instances, especially in the Political Code, sections have been rewritten and changes therein have been made. This was done in cases where subsequent changes in the law had rendered necessary a slight rewording of a section to harmonize therewith. Throughout, the aim has been to make no changes in the law of the state, but to do away with all obsolete laws, to harmonize so far as possible the existing statutes and to correct all obvious mistakes in grammar and rhetoric. Whenever changes were made by the commissioner which were thought at all important, attention is directed thereto in a note following the section.

Grateful acknowledgment is expressed by the commissioner to the justices of the supreme court of Montana for their considerate advice in the preparation of this work; to Mr. A. K. Barbour, the librarian of the state law library, for his co-operation; to Mr. James H. Bonner, the engineer of the state railroad commission, and to Mr. C. S. Heidel, state engineer, for their aid in defining the boundaries of the counties of Montana; to the many members of the Montana bench and bar to whom the commissioner is indebted for suggestions, and to all those who have helped in the preparation of the work.

Code Commissioner.

Know ye, that we, in the presence of God, and for the salvation of our soul, and the souls of our ancestors and heirs, and unto the honor of God and the advancement of Holy church, and amendment of our Realm, by advice of our venerable fathers, Stephen, Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of all England and Cardinal of the Holy Roman Church; Henry, Archbishop of Dublin, William of London, Peter of Winchester, Jocelin of Bath and Glastonbury, Hugh of Lincoln, Walter of Worcester, William of Coventry, Benedict of Rochester, Bishops; of Master Pandulph, Sub-Deacon and Familiar of our Lord the Pope, Brother Aymeric, Master of the Knights Templars in England; and of the Noble Persons, William Marescall, Earl of Pembroke, William, Earl of Salisbury, William, Earl of Warren, William, Earl of Arundell, Alan de Galloway, Constable of Scotland, Warin Fitz Gerald, Peter Fitz Herbert, and Hubert de Burgh, Seneschal of Poitou, Hugh de Neville, Matthew Fitz Herbert, Thomas Basset, Alan Basset, Philip of Albiney, Robert de Roppell, John Mareschal, John Fitz Hugh, and others, our liegemen, have in the first place, granted to God, and by this our present charter confirmed, for us and our heirs forever:

§ 1. That the Church of England shall be free, and have her whole rights, and her liberties inviolable; and we will have them so observed, that it may appear thence, that the freedom of elections, which is reckoned chief and indispensable to the English church, and which we granted and confirmed by our charter, and obtained the confirmation of the same from our Lord the Pope Innocent III., before the discord between us and our barons, was granted of mere free will; which charter we shall observe, and we do will it to be faithfully observed by our heirs forever.

§ 2. We also have granted to all the freemen of our kingdom, for us and for our heirs forever, all the underwritten liberties, to be had and holden by them and their heirs, of us and our heirs forever: If any of our earls, or barons, or others, who hold of us in chief by military service, shall die, and at the time of his death his heir shall be of full age, and owes a relief; he shall have his inheritance by the ancient relief; that is to say, the heir or heirs of an earl, for a whole earldom, by a hundred pounds; the heir or heirs of a baron, for a whole barony, by a hundred pounds; the heir or heirs of a knight, for a whole knight's fee, by a hundred shillings at most; and whoever oweth less shall give less, according to the ancient custom of fees.

§ 3. But if the heir of any such shall be under age, and shall be in ward when he comes of age, he shall have his inheritance without relief and without fine.

§ 4. The keeper of the land of such an heir being under age, shall take of the land of the heir none but reasonable issues, reasonable customs, and reasonable services, and that without destruction and waste of his men and his goods; and if we commit the custody of any such lands to the sheriff, or any other who is answerable to us for the issues of the land, and he shall make destruction and waste of the lands which he hath in custody, we will take of him amends, and the land shall be committed to two lawful and discreet men of that fee, who shall answer for the issues to us, or to him to whom we shall assign them; and if we sell or give to any one the custody of any such lands, and he therein make destruction or waste, he shall lose the same custody, which shall be committed to two lawful and discreet men of that fee, who shall in like manner answer to us as aforesaid.

§ 5. But the keeper, so long as he shall have the custody of the land, shall keep up the houses, parks, warrens, ponds, mills, and other things pertaining to the land, out of the issues of the same land; and shall deliver to the heir when he comes of full age, his whole land, stocked with ploughs and carriages, according as the time of wainage shall require, and the issues of the land can reasonably bear.

§ 6. Heirs shall be married without disparagement, and so that before matrimony shall be contracted those who are near in blood to the heir shall have notice.

§ 7. A widow, after the death of her husband, shall forthwith and without difficulty have her marriage and inheritance; nor shall she give anything for her dower, or her marriage, or her inheritance, which her husband and she held at the day of his death; and she may remain in the mansion house of her husband forty days after his death, within which time her dower shall be assigned.

§ 8. No widow shall be distrained to marry herself, so long as she has a mind to live without a husband; but yet she shall give security that she will not marry without our assent, if she hold of us; or without the consent of the lord of whom she holds, if she hold of another.

§ 9. Neither we nor our bailiffs shall seize any land or rent for any debt, so long as the chattels of the debtor are sufficient to pay the debt; nor shall the sureties of the debtor be distrained so long as the principal debtor has sufficient to pay the debt; and if the principal debtor shall fail in the payment of the debt, not having wherewithal to pay it, then the sureties shall answer the debt; and if they will they shall have the lands and rents of the debtor, until they shall be satisfied for the debt which they paid for him, unless the principal debtor can show himself acquitted thereof against the said sureties.

§ 10. If any one have borrowed any thing of the Jews, more or less, and die before the debt be satisfied, there shall be no interest paid for that debt, so long as the heir is under age, of whomsoever he may hold; and if the debt falls into our hands we will take only the chattel mentioned in the deed.

§ 11. And if any one shall die indebted to the Jews, his wife shall have her dower and pay nothing of that debt; and if the deceased left children under age, they shall have necessaries provided for them, according to the tenement of the deceased; and out of the residue the debt shall be paid, saving however, the service due to the lords; and in like manner shall it be done touching debts due to others than the Jews.

§ 12. No scutage or aid shall be imposed in our kingdom, unless by the general council of our kingdom; except for ransoming our person, making our eldest son a knight, and once for marrying our eldest daughter; and for these there shall be paid no more than reasonable aid. In like manner it shall be concerning the aids of the City of London.

§ 13. And the City of London shall have all its ancient liberties and free customs, as well by land as by water; furthermore we will and grant, that all other cities and boroughs, and towns and ports, shall have all their liberties and free customs.

§ 14. And for holding the general council of the kingdom concerning the assessment of aids, except in the three cases aforesaid, and for the assessing of scutages, we shall cause to be summoned the archbishops, bishops, abbots, earls, and greater barons of the realm, singly by our letters. And furthermore we shall cause to be summoned generally by our sheriffs and bailiffs, all others who hold of us in chief, for a certain day, that is to say, forty days before their meeting at least, and to a certain place; and in all letters of such summons we will declare the cause of such summons. And summons being thus made, the business shall proceed on the day appointed, according to the advice of such as shall be present, although all that were summoned come not.

§ 15. We will not for the future grant to any one that he may take aid of his own free tenants, unless to ransom his body, and to make his eldest son a knight, and once to marry his eldest daughter; and for this there shall be only paid a reasonable aid.

§ 16. No man shall be distrained to perform more service for a knight's fee, or other free tenement, than is due from thence.

§ 17. Common pleas shall not follow our court, but shall be holden in some place certain.

§ 18. Trials upon the writs of novel disseisin, and of mort d'ancestor, and of darrein presentment, shall not be taken but in their proper counties, and after this manner: We, or, if we should be out of the realm, our chief justiciary, will send two justiciaries through every county four times a year, who, with four knights of each county, chosen by the county, shall hold the said assizes, in the county, on the day, and at the place appointed.

§ 19. And if any matters cannot be determined on the day appointed for holding the assizes in each county, so many of the knights and freeholders as have been at the assizes aforesaid, shall stay to decide them, as is necessary, according as there is more or less business.

§ 20. A freeman shall not be amerced for a small offence, but only after the degree of the offence; and for a great crime according to the heinousness of it, saving to him his contentment; and after the same manner a merchant, saving to him his merchandise. And a villein shall be amerced after the same manner, saving to him his wainage, if he falls under our mercy; and none of the aforesaid amerciaments shall be assessed but by the oath of honest men of the neighborhood.

§ 21. Earls and barons shall not be amerced, but by their peers, and after the degree of the offence.

§ 22. No ecclesiastical person shall be amerced for his lay tenement, but according to the proportion of the others aforesaid, and not according to the value of his ecclesiastical benefice.

§ 23. Neither a town nor any tenant shall be distrained to make bridges or banks, unless that anciently of right they are bound to do it.

§ 24. No sheriff, constable, coroner, or other our bailiffs, shall hold pleas of the crown.

§ 25. All counties, hundreds, wapentakes, and tythings, shall stand at the old rents, without any increase, except in our demesne manors.

§ 26. If any one holding of us a lay fee die, and the sheriff, or our bailiffs, show our letters patent, of summons for debt which the dead man did owe to us, it shall be lawful for the sheriff or our bailiff to attach and register the chattels of the dead, found upon his lay fee, to the amount of the debt, by the view of lawful men, so as nothing be removed until our whole clear debt be paid; and the rest shall be left to the executors to fulfil the testament of the dead, and if there be nothing due from him to us, all the chattels shall go to the use of the dead, saving to his wife and children their reasonable shares.

§ 27. If any freeman shall die intestate, his chattels shall be distributed by the hands of his nearest relations and friends, by view of the church; saving to every one his debts which the deceased owed to him.

§ 28. No constable or bailiff of ours shall take corn or other chattels of any man, unless he presently give him money for it, or hath respite of payment by the good will of the seller.

§ 29. No constable shall distrain any knight to give money for castle guard, if he himself will do it in his person, or by another able man in case he cannot do it through any reasonable cause. And if we have carried or sent him into the army, he shall be free from such guard for the time he shall be in the army by our command.

§ 30. No sheriff or bailiff of ours, or any other, shall take horses or carts of any freemen for carriage, without the assent of the said freeman.

§ 31. Neither shall we nor our bailiffs take any man's timber for our castles or other uses, unless by the consent of the owner of the timber.

§ 32. We will retain the lands of those convicted of felony only one year and a day, and then they shall be delivered to the lord of the fee.

§ 33. All weirs for the time to come shall be put down in the rivers of Thames and Medway, and throughout all England, except upon the sea-coast.

§ 34. The writ, which is called Praecipe, for the future, shall not be made out to any one, of any tenement, whereby a freeman may lose his court.

§ 35. There shall be one measure of wine and one of ale through our whole realm; and one measure of corn, that is to say, the London quarter; and one breadth of dyed cloth, and russets, and haber jeets, that is to say, two ells within the lists; and it shall be of weights as it is of measures.

§ 36. Nothing from henceforth shall be given or taken for a writ of inquisition of life or limb, but it shall be granted freely, and not denied.

§ 37. If any do hold of us by fee-farm, or by socage, or by burgage, and he hold also lands of any other by knight's service, we will not have the custody of the heir or land, which is holden of another man's fee by reason of that fee-farm, socage or burgage, neither will we have the custody of the fee-farm, socage, or burgage; unless knight's service was due to us out of the same fee-farm. We will not have the custody of an heir, nor of any land which he holds of another by knight's service, by reason of any petty serjeanty by which he holds of us, by the service of paying a knife, an arrow, or the like.

§ 38. No bailiff from henceforth shall put any man to his law upon his own bare saying, without credible witnesses to prove it.

§ 39. No freeman shall be taken or imprisoned, or disseized, or outlawed or banished, or any ways destroyed, nor will we pass upon him, nor will we send upon him, unless by the lawful judgment of his peers, or by the law of the land.

§ 40. To none will we sell, to none will we deny, or delay, right or justice.

§ 41. All merchants shall have safe and secure conduct to go out of, and to come into England, and to stay there, and to pass as well by land as by water, for buying and selling by the ancient and allowed customs, without any unjust tolls; except in time of war, or when they are of any nation at war with us. And if there be found any such in our land, in the beginning of the war, they shall be attached without damage to their bodies or goods, until it be known unto us, or our chief justiciary, how our merchants be treated in the nation at war with us; and if ours be safe there, the others shall be safe in our dominions.

§ 42. It shall be lawful, for the time to come, for any one to go out of our kingdom, and return safely and securely, by land or by water, saving his allegiance to us; unless in time of war, by some short space, for the common benefit of the realm, except prisoners and outlaws, according to the law of the land, and people in war with us, and merchants who shall be treated as is above mentioned.

§ 43. If any man hold of any escheat, as of the honour of Wallingford, Nottingham, Boulogne, Lancaster, or of other escheats which be in our hand, and are baronies, and die, his heir shall give no other relief, and perform no other service to us, than he would to the baron, if it were in the baron's hand; we will hold it after the same manner as the baron held it.

§ 44. Those men who dwell without the forest, from henceforth shall not come before our justiciaries of the forest, upon common summons, but such as are impleaded, or are pledges for any that are attached for something concerning the forest.

§ 45. We will not make any justices, constables, sheriffs, or bailiffs, but of such as know the law of the realm and mean duly to observe it.

§ 46. All barons who have founded abbeys, and have the kings of England's charters of advowson, or the ancient tenure thereof shall have the keeping of them, when vacant, as they ought to have.

§ 47. All forests that have been made forests in our time, shall forthwith be disforested; and the same shall be done with the water banks that have been fenced in by us in our time.

§ 48. All evil customs concerning forests, warrens, foresters and warreners, sheriffs and their officers, rivers and their keepers, shall forthwith be inquired into in each county by twelve sworn knights of the same shire, chosen by creditable persons of the same county; and within forty days after the said inquest, be utterly abolished so as never to be restored. So as we are first acquainted therewith, or our judiciary, if we should not be in England.

§ 49. We will immediately give up all hostages and writings delivered unto us by our English subjects, as securities for their keeping the peace, and yielding us faithful service.

§ 50. We will entirely remove from our bailiwicks the relations of Gerard de Atheyes, so that for the future they shall have no bailiwick in England; we will also remove Engelard de Cygony, Andrew, Peter and Gyon, from the Chancery; Gyon de Cygony, Geoffrey de Martyn and his brothers; Philip Mark and his brothers, and his nephew, Geoffrey, and their whole retinue.

§ 51. As soon as peace is restored, we will send out of the kingdom all foreign soldiers, cross-bowmen, and stipendaries, who are come with horses and arms to the prejudice of our people.

§ 52. If any one has been dispossessed or deprived by us, without the legal judgment of his peers, of his lands, castles, liberties, or right, we will forthwith restore them to him; and if any dispute arise upon this head, let the matter be decided by the five-and-twenty barons hereafter mentioned, for the preservation of the peace. As for all those things of which any person has, without the legal judgment of his peers, been dispossessed or deprived, either by King Henry our father, or our brother King Richard, and which we have in our hands, or are possessed by others, and we are bound to warrant and make good, we shall have a respite till the term usually allowed the crusaders; excepting those things about which there is a plea depending, or whereof an inquest hath been made, by our order, before we undertake the crusade, but when we return from our pilgrimage, or if perchance we tarry at home and do not make our pilgrimage, we will immediately cause full justice to be administered therein.

§ 53. The same respite we shall have and in the same manner about administering justice, disafforesting the forests, or letting them continue for disafforesting the forests, which Henry our father, and our brother Richard have afforested; and for the keeping of the lands which are in another's fee, in the same manner as we have hitherto enjoyed those wardships, by reason of a fee held of us by knight's service; and for the abbeys founded in any other fee than our own, in which the lord of the fee says he has a right; and when we return from our pilgrimage, or if we tarry at home, and do not make our pilgrimage, we will immediately do full justice to all the complaints in this behalf.

§ 54. No man shall be taken or imprisoned upon the appeal of a woman, for the death of any other than her husband.

§ 55. All unjust and illegal fines made by us, and all amerciaments imposed unjustly and contrary to the law of the land, shall be entirely given up, or else be left to the decision of the five-and-twenty barons hereafter mentioned for the preservation of the peace, or of the major part of them, together with the aforesaid Stephen, archbishop of Canterbury, if he can be present, and others whom he shall think fit to take along with him; and if he cannot be present, the business shall notwithstanding go on without him; but so that if one or more of the aforesaid five-and-twenty barons be plaintiffs in the same cause, they shall be set aside as to what concerns this particular affair, and others be chosen in their room, out of the said five-and-twenty, and sworn by the rest to decide the matter.

§ 56. If we have disseized or dispossessed the Welsh, of any lands, liberties, or other things, without the legal judgment of their peers, either in England or in Wales, they shall be immediately restored to them; and if any dispute arise upon this head, the matter shall be determined in the marche by the judgment of their peers; for tenements in England, according to the law of England, for tenements in Wales according to the law of Wales, for tenements of the marche according to the law of the marche; the same shall the Welsh do to us and our subjects.

§ 57. As for all those things of which a Welshman hath, without the legal judgment of his peers, been disseized or deprived of by King Henry our father, or our brother King Richard, and which we either have in our hands, or others are possessed of, and we are obliged to warrant it, we shall have a respite till the time generally allowed the crusaders; excepting those things about which a suit is depending, or whereof an inquest has been made by our order before we undertook the crusade; but when we return, or if we stay at home without performing our pilgrimage, we will immediately do them full justice, according to the laws of the Welsh and of the parts before mentioned.

§ 58. We will without delay dismiss the son of Llewellin, and all the Welsh hostages, and release them from the engagements they have entered into with us for the preservation of the peace.

§ 59. We will treat with Alexander, King of Scots, concerning the restoring his sisters and hostages, and his right and liberties, in the same form and manner as we shall do to the rest of our barons of England; unless by the charters which we have from his father, William, late King of Scots, it ought to be otherwise; but this shall be left to the determination of his peers in our court.

§ 60. All the aforesaid customs and liberties, which we have granted to be holden in our kingdom, as much as it belongs to us, towards our people of our kingdom, as well clergy as laity shall observe, as far as they are concerned, towards their dependents.

§ 61. And whereas, for the honor of God and the amendment of our kingdom, and for the better quieting the discord that has arisen between us and our barons, we have granted all these things aforesaid; willing to render them firm and lasting, we do give and grant our subjects the underwritten security, namely, that the barons may choose five-and-twenty barons of the kingdom, whom they think convenient; who shall take care, with all their might, to hold and observe, and cause to be observed, the peace and liberties we have granted them, and by this our present charter confirmed; so that if we, our judiciary, our bailiffs, or any of our officers, shall in any circumstance fail in the performance of them, towards any person, or shall break through any of these articles of peace and security, and the offence be notified to four barons chosen out of the five-and-twenty before mentioned, the said four barons shall repair to us, or our judiciary, if we are out of the realm, and laying open the grievance, shall petition to have it redressed without delay; and if it be not redressed by us, or if we should chance to be out of the realm, if it should not be redressed by our judiciary, within forty days, reckoning from the time it has been notified to us, or to our judiciary, if we should be out of the realm, the four barons aforesaid shall lay the cause before the rest of the five-and-twenty barons; and the said five-and-twenty barons, together with the community of the whole kingdom, shall distrain and distress us in all possible ways, by seizing our castles, lands, possessions, and in any other manner they can, till the grievance is redressed according to their pleasure; saving harmless our own person, and the persons of our queen and children; and when it is redressed, they shall obey us as before. And any person whatsoever in the kingdom, may swear that he will obey the orders of the five-and-twenty barons aforesaid, in the execution of the premises, and will distress us jointly with them, to the utmost of his power; and we give public and free liberty to any one that shall please to swear to this, and never will hinder any person from taking the same oath.

§ 62. As for all those of our subjects who will not, of their own accord, swear to join the five-and-twenty barons in distraining and distressing us, we will issue orders to make them take the same oath as aforesaid. And if any one of the five-and-twenty barons dies, or goes out of the kingdom, or is hindered any other way from carrying the things aforesaid into execution, the rest of the said five-and-twenty barons may choose another in his room, at their discretion, who shall be sworn in like manner as the rest. In all things that are committed to the execution of these five-and-twenty barons, if, when they are all assembled together, they should happen to disagree about any matter, and some of them, when summoned, will not, or can not, come, whatever is agreed upon, or enjoined, by the major part of those that are present, shall be reputed as firm and valid as if all the five-and-twenty had given their consent; and the aforesaid five-and-twenty shall swear that all the premises they shall faithfully observe, and cause with all their power to observed. And we will not, by ourselves, or by any other, procure any thing whereby any of these concessions and liberties may be revoked or lessened; and if any such thing be obtained, let it be null and void; neither shall we ever make use of it, either by ourselves or any other. And all the ill will, indignations and rancours that have arisen between us and our subjects, of the clergy and laity, from the first breaking out of the dissensions between us, we do fully remit and forgive; moreover all trespasses occasioned by the said dissensions, from Easter in the fifteenth year of our reign, till the restoration of peace and tranquillity, we hereby entirely remit to all, both clergy and laity, and as far in us lies do fully forgive. We have, moreover, caused to be made for them the letters patent testimonial of Stephen, lord archbishop of Canterbury, Henry, lord archbishop of Dublin, and the bishops aforesaid, as also of Master Pandulph, for the security and concessions aforesaid.

§ 63. Wherefore we will and firmly enjoin, that the Church of England be free, and that all the men in our kingdom have and hold all the aforesaid liberties, rights and concessions, truly and peaceably, freely and quietly, fully and wholly to themselves and their heirs, of us and our heirs, in all things and places, forever, as is aforesaid. It is also sworn, as well on our part as on the part of the barons, that all the things aforesaid shall be observed, bona fide and without evil subtilty.

Given under our hand in the presence of the witnesses above named and many others, in the meadow called Runingmede, between Windsor and Staines, the 15th day of June, in the 17th year of our reign.

[Note.—Three reissues of Magna Charta were granted in 1216, 1217 and 1225, and these were followed by many confirmations thereof. The third reissue marked the final form assumed by Magna Charta. The identical words were then used, which after became stereotyped and which were confirmed time after time without further modification. It is this charter of 1225, with some slight exceptions, which is always referred to in the original editions of the Statutes, in the courts of law, in Parliament, and in a long series of classical law books beginning with the second Institute of Sir Edward Coke, Id. p. 183.]

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident—that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalianable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate, that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained, and, when so suspended he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large, for their exercise; the state remaining in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others, to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation—

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them by a mock trial from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us, without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas, to be tried for pretended offenses;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our governments;

For suspending our own legislature and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy, scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts, by their legislature, to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity; and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice, and of consanguinity. We must therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that as free and independent states, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

CONSTITUTION

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

PREAMBLE

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives.

2. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

[See section 2 of the fourteenth amendment.]

3. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into the three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice-president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice-president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment, according to law.

[The seventeenth amendment supersedes paragraph 1 of section 3 and so much of paragraph 2 of section 3 as relates to the filing of vacancies.]

4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

The congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

5. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

6. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the president of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment), shall be presented to the president of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

8. The congress shall have power—

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes;

To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

To establish post offices and post roads;

To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;

To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasion;

To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the states respectively the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by congress;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states, and the acceptance of congress, become the seat of government of the United States; and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.

No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to, or from, one state, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state.

10. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the congress.

No state shall, without the consent of congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops, or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice-president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[*The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate, shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for president. And if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said house shall in like manner choose the president. But in choosing the president the vote shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice-president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them by ballot the vice-president.] (*This paragraph superseded by the twelfth amendment.)

The congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice-president, and the congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability both of the president and vice-president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed or a president shall be elected.

The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enters on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm), that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the constitution of the United States."

2. The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion in writing of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law; but the congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions, which shall expire at the end of their next session.

3. He shall from time to time give to the congress information of the state of the union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed; and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

4. The president, vice-president, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and such inferior courts as the congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states [*between a state and citizens of another state]; between citizens of different states; between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens, or subjects.

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be a party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trials shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

3. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

*See article XI of amendments.

The congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings, of every other state. And the congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

2. The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labor in one state, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

3. New states may be admitted by the congress into this union; but no new states shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state; nor any other state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned, as well as of the congress.

The congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular state.

4. The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress; provided that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution, as under the confederation.

This constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

Done in convention by the unanimous consent of the states present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names.

GEORGE WASHINGTON,
President, and Deputy from Virginia.

AMENDMENTS

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

ARTICLE X.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people.

[Note.—The first ten amendments to the federal constitution were proposed by the first congress September 25, 1789, and were ratified by the requisite number of states. The last ratification was by Virginia December 15, 1791.]

ARTICLE XI.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

ARTICLE XII.

The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for president and vice-president, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as vice-president, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as president, and of all persons voted for as vice-president, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate; the president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for president shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as president, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the president. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[Note.—Ratified and proclaimed effective December 18, 1865.]

ARTICLE XIV.

1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each state, including Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for president and vice-president of the United States, representatives in congress, the executive and judicial officers of a state, or the members of the legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such state, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such state.

3. But congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each house, remove such disability.

4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave, but all such debts, obligations, and claims shall be held illegal and void.

5. The congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

[Note.—Ratified and proclaimed effective July 28, 1868.]

1. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

2. TERRITORY OF MONTANA

AN ACT to provide a temporary government for the territory of Montana.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

That all that part of the territory of the United States included within the limits, to-wit: Commencing at a point formed by the intersection of the twenty-seventh degree of longitude west from Washington, with the forty-fifth degree of north latitude; thence due west on said forty-fifth degree of latitude to a point formed by its intersection with the thirty-fourth degree of longitude west from Washington; thence due south along the said degree and thirty minutes of north latitude; thence due west along said forty-fourth degree and thirty minutes of north latitude to a point formed by its intersection with the crest of the Rocky mountains; thence following the crest of the Rocky mountains northward till its intersection with the Bitter Root mountains; thence northward along the crest of said Bitter Root mountains to its intersection with the thirty-ninth degree of longitude west from Washington; thence along said thirty-ninth degree of longitude northward to the boundary line of the British Possessions; thence eastward along said boundary line to the twenty-seventh degree of longitude west from Washington; thence southward along said twenty-seventh degree of longitude to the place of beginning, be, and the same is hereby, created into a temporary government by the name of the territory of Montana: Provided, That nothing in this act contained shall be construed to inhibit the government of the United States from dividing said territory or changing its boundaries in such manner and at such time as congress shall deem convenient and proper, or from attaching any portion of said territory to any other state or territory of the United States: Provided further, That nothing in this act contained shall be construed to impair the rights of person or property now pertaining to the Indians in said territory so long as such rights remain unextinguished by treaty between the United States and such Indians, or to include any territory which, by treaty with any Indian tribes, is not, without the consent of said tribe, to be included within the territorial limits or jurisdiction of any state or territory; but all such territory shall be excepted out of the boundaries, and constitute no part of the territory of Montana, until said tribe shall signify their assent to the president of the United States to be included within said territory, or to affect the authority of the government of the United States to make any regulations respecting such Indians, their lands, property, or other rights, by treaty, law, or otherwise, which it would have been competent for the government to make if this act had never passed.

§ 2. And be it further enacted, That the executive power and authority in and over said territory of Montana, shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States. The governor shall reside within said territory and shall be commander-in-chief of the militia and superintendent of Indian affairs thereof. He may grant pardons and respites for offenses against the laws of said territory, and reprieve for offenses against the laws of the United States, until the decision of the president of the United States can be made known thereon; he shall commission all officers who shall be appointed to office under the laws of said territory, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

§ 3. And be it further enacted, That there shall be a secretary of said territory, who shall reside therein and hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States; he shall record and preserve all laws and proceedings of the legislative assembly hereinafter constituted, and all the acts and proceedings of the governor in his executive department; he shall transmit one copy of the laws and journals of the legislative assembly, within thirty days after the end of each session, and one copy of the executive proceedings and official correspondence, semi-annually, on the first days of January and July in each year, to the president of the United States, and two copies of the laws to the president of the senate and to the speaker of the house of representatives, for the use of congress. And in case of the death, removal, resignation, or absence of the governor from the territory, the secretary shall be, and he is hereby, authorized and required to execute and perform all the powers and duties of the governor, during such vacancy or absence, or until another governor shall be duly appointed and qualified to fill such vacancy.

§ 4. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power and authority of the said territory shall be vested in the governor and a legislative assembly. The legislative assembly shall consist of a council and house of representatives. The council shall consist of seven members having the qualifications of voters, as hereinafter prescribed, whose term of office shall continue two years. The house of representatives shall, at its first session, consist of thirteen members, possessing the same qualifications as prescribed for the members of the council, and whose term of service shall continue one year. The number of representatives may be increased by the legislative assembly, from time to time, to twenty-six, in proportion to the increase of qualified voters; and the council, in like manner, to thirteen. An apportionment shall be made, as nearly equal as practicable, among the several counties or districts for the election of the council and representatives, giving to each section of the territory representation in the ratio of its qualified voters as nearly as may be. And the members of the council and of the house of representatives shall reside in, and be inhabitants of, the district, or county, or counties for which they may be elected, respectively. Previous to the first election, the governor shall cause a census or enumeration of the inhabitants and qualified voters of the several counties and districts of the territory to be taken by such persons and in such mode as the governor shall designate and appoint, and the person so appointed shall receive a reasonable compensation therefor. And the first election shall be held at such time and places, and be conducted in such manner, both as to the persons who shall superintend such election and the returns thereof, as the governor shall appoint and direct; and he shall at the same time declare the number of members of the council and house of representatives to which each of the counties or districts shall be entitled under this act. The persons having the highest number of legal votes in each of said council districts, respectively, for members of the council, shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected to the council; and the persons having the highest number of legal votes for the house of representatives in each of said representative districts, respectively, shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected members of said house: Provided, That in case two or more persons voted for shall have an equal number of votes, and in case a vacancy shall otherwise occur in either branch of the legislative assembly, the governor shall order a new election. And the persons thus elected to the legislative assembly shall meet at such place and on such day as the governor shall appoint; but thereafter the time, place and manner of holding and conducting all elections by the people, and the apportioning the representation in the several counties or districts to the council and house of representatives, according to the number of qualified voters, shall be prescribed by law, as well as the day of commencement of the regular sessions of the legislative assembly: Provided, That no session in any one year shall exceed the term of forty days, except the first session, which may continue sixty days.

§ 5. And be it further enacted, That all citizens of the United States, and those who have declared their intentions to become such, and who are otherwise described and qualified under the fifth section of the act of congress providing for a temporary government for the territory of Idaho, approved March third, eighteen hundred and sixty-three, shall be entitled to vote at said first election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said territory; but the qualifications of voters, and of holding office, at all subsequent elections, shall be such as shall be prescribed by the legislative assembly.

§ 6. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power of the territory shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation consistent with the constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act; but no law shall be passed interfering with the primary disposal of the soil; no tax shall be imposed upon the property of the United States, nor shall the lands or other property of non-residents be taxed higher than the lands or other property of residents. Every bill which shall have passed the council and house of representatives of the said territory shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the territory. If he approve, he shall sign it; but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated, who shall enter the objections at large upon their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of such houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, to be entered on the journals of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the assembly by adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law: Provided, That whereas slavery is prohibited in said territory by act of congress of June nineteenth, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize or permit its existence therein.

§ 7. And be it further enacted, That all township, district and county officers, not herein otherwise provided for, shall be appointed or elected as the case may be, in such manner as shall be provided by the governor and legislative assembly of the territory of Montana. The governor shall nominate, and, by and with the advice and consent of the legislative council, appoint all officers not herein otherwise provided for, and in the first instance the governor alone may appoint all said officers, who shall hold their offices until the end of the first session of the legislative assembly, and shall lay off the necessary districts for the members of the council and house of representatives and all other officers.

§ 8. And be it further enacted, That no member of the legislative assembly shall hold or be appointed to any office which shall have been created, or the salary or emoluments of which shall have been increased while he was a member, during the term for which he was elected, and for one year after the expiration of such term; but this restriction shall not be applicable to members of the first legislative assembly. And no person holding a commission or appointment under the United States, except postmasters, shall be a member of the legislative assembly; or shall hold any office under the government of said territory.

§ 9. And be it further enacted, That the judicial power of said territory shall be vested in a supreme court, district courts, probate courts, and in justices of the peace. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and two associate justices, any two of whom shall constitute a quorum, and who shall hold a term at the seat of government of said territory annually; and they shall hold their offices during the period of four years, and until their successors shall be appointed and qualified. The said territory shall be divided into three judicial districts, and a district court shall be held in each of said districts by one of the justices of the supreme court, at such times and places as may be prescribed by law; and the said judges shall, after their appointments, respectively reside in the districts which shall be assigned them. The jurisdiction of the several courts herein provided for, both appellate and original, and that of probate courts and of justices of the peace shall be limited by law: Provided, That justices of the peace shall not have jurisdiction of any matter in controversy when the title of land may be in dispute, or where the debt or sum claimed shall exceed one hundred dollars; and the said supreme and district courts respectively shall possess chancery as well as common law jurisdiction. Each district court, or the judge thereof, shall appoint its clerk, who shall also be the register in chancery, and shall keep his office at the place where the court may be held. Writs of error, bills of exceptions, and appeals shall be allowed in all cases from the final decisions of said district courts to the supreme court, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law. The supreme court, or the justices thereof, shall appoint its own clerk; and every clerk shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court for which he shall have been appointed. Writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of said supreme court shall be allowed, and may be taken to the supreme court of the United States, in the same manner and under the same regulations as from the circuit courts of the United States, where the value of the property or the amount in controversy, to be ascertained by the oath or affirmation of either party, or other competent witnesses, shall exceed one thousand dollars, except that a writ of error or appeal shall be allowed to the supreme court of the United States from the decision of the said supreme court created by this act, or any judge thereof, or of the district courts created by this act, or of any judge thereof, upon any writs of habeas corpus involving the question of personal freedom. And each of the said district courts shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, in all cases arising under the constitution and laws of the United States, as is vested in the district and circuit courts of the United States; and the first six days of every term of said courts, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be appropriated to the trial of causes arising under the said constitution and laws; and writs of error and appeal in all such cases, shall be made to the supreme court of said territory the same as in other cases. The said clerks shall receive, in all such cases, the same fees which the clerks of the district courts of Washington territory now receive for similar services.

§ 10. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed an attorney for said territory, who shall continue in office four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States, and who shall receive the same fees and salary as the attorney of the United States for the present territory of Washington. There shall also be a marshal for the territory appointed, who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States, and who shall execute all processes issuing from the said courts when exercising their jurisdiction as circuit and district courts of the United States. He shall perform the duties, be subject to the same regulations and penalties, and be entitled to the same fees, as the marshal of the district court of the United States for the present territory of Washington, and shall, in addition, be paid two hundred dollars annually as a compensation for extra services. There shall also be appointed by the president of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, a surveyor general of said territory, who shall locate his office at such place as the secretary of the interior shall from time to time direct, and whose duties, powers, obligations, responsibilities, compensation, and allowances for clerk hire, office rent, fuel, and incidental expenses, shall be the same as those of the surveyor general of New Mexico, under the direction of the secretary of the interior, and such instructions as he may from time to time deem it advisable to give.

§ 11. And be it further enacted, That the governor, secretary, chief justice, and associate justices, attorney, and marshal, shall be appointed by the president of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The governor and secretary to be appointed as aforesaid, shall, before they act as such, respectively take an oath or affirmation before the district judge or some justice of the peace in the limits of said territory, duly authorized to administer oaths and affirmations by the laws now in force therein, or before the chief justice or some associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, to support the constitution of the United States, and faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices; which said oaths, when so taken, shall be certified by the person by whom the same shall have been taken; and such certificates shall be received and recorded by the said secretary among the executive proceedings; and the chief justice and associate justices, and all civil officers in said territory, before they act as such, shall take a like oath or affirmation before the said governor or secretary, or some judge or justice of the peace of the territory who may be duly commissioned and qualified, or before the chief justice or some associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, which said oath or affirmation shall be certified and transmitted by the person taking the same to the secretary, to be by him recorded as aforesaid; and afterwards the like oath or affirmation shall be taken, certified, and recorded in such manner and form as may be prescribed by law. And any person who has heretofore been appointed chief justice or associate justice of the territory of Idaho, who has not yet taken the oath of office, as prescribed by the act organizing said territory, may take said oath or affirmation before the chief justice or some associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. The governor shall receive an annual salary of two thousand five hundred dollars; the chief justice and associate justices shall receive an annual salary of two thousand five hundred dollars; the secretary shall receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars. The said salaries shall be paid quarter-yearly from the dates of the respective appointments at the treasury of the United States; but no payment shall be made until said officers shall have entered upon the duties of their respective appointments. The members of the legislative assembly shall be entitled to receive four dollars each, per day, during their attendance at the sessions thereof, and four dollars each for every twenty miles travel in going to and returning from said sessions, estimated according to the nearest usually travelled routes; an additional allowance of four dollars per day shall be paid to the presiding officer of each house for each day he shall so preside. And a chief clerk, one assistant clerk, one engrossing and one enrolling clerk, a sergeant-at-arms, and door-keeper may be chosen for each house; and the chief clerk shall receive four dollars per day, and the said other officers three dollars per day during the session of the legislative assembly; but no other officers shall be paid by the United States; Provided, That there shall be but one session of the legislative assembly annually, unless on an extraordinary occasion the governor shall think proper to call the legislative assembly together. There shall be appropriated annually the usual sum, to be expended by the governor, to defray the contingent expenses of the territory, including the salary of the clerk of the executive department. And there shall also be appropriated annually a sufficient sum, to be expended by the secretary of the territory, and upon an estimate to be made by the secretary of the treasury of the United States, to defray the expenses of the legislative assembly, the printing of the laws, and other incidental expenses. And the governor and secretary of the territory shall, in the disbursement of all moneys entrusted to them, be governed solely by the instructions of the secretary of the treasury of the United States, and shall semi-annually account to the said secretary for the manner in which the aforesaid moneys shall have been expended; and no expenditure shall be made by said legislative assembly for objects not specially authorized by the acts of congress making the appropriations, nor beyond the sums thus appropriated for such objects.

§ 12. And be it further enacted, That the legislative assembly of the territory of Montana shall hold its first session at such time and place in said territory as the governor thereof shall appoint and direct; and at said first session, or as soon thereafter as they shall deem expedient, the governor and legislative assembly shall proceed to locate and establish the seat of government for said territory at such place as they may deem eligible; Provided, That the seat of government fixed by the governor and legislative assembly shall not be at any time changed except by an act of the said assembly duly passed, and which shall be approved after due notice, at the first general election thereafter, by a majority of the legal votes cast on that question.

§ 13. And be it further enacted, That a delegate to the house of representatives of the United States, to serve for the term of two years, who shall be a citizen of the United States, may be elected by the voters qualified to elect members of the legislative assembly, who shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as are exercised and enjoyed by the delegates from the several other territories of the United States to the said house of representatives; but the delegate first elected shall hold his seat only during the term of the congress to which he shall be elected. The first election shall be held at such time and places, and be conducted in such manner, as the governor shall appoint and direct; and at all subsequent elections, the time and places, and manner of holding elections, shall be prescribed by law. The person having the greatest number of legal votes shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected, and a certificate thereof shall be given accordingly. That the constitution and all the laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable, shall have the same force and effect within the said Montana territory as elsewhere within the United States.

§ 14. And be it further enacted, That when the lands in said territory shall be surveyed under the direction of the government of the United States, preparatory to bringing the same into market, sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in each township in said territory shall be, and the same are hereby, reserved for the purpose of being applied to schools in said territory, and in the states and territories hereafter to be erected out of the same.

§ 15. And be it further enacted, That, until otherwise provided by law, the governor of said territory may define the judicial districts of said territory, and assign the judges who may be appointed for said territory to the several districts, and also appoint the times and places for holding courts in the several counties or sub-divisions in each of said judicial districts, by proclamation to be issued by him; but the legislative assembly, at their first or any subsequent session, may organize, alter, or modify such judicial districts, and assign the judges, and alter the times and places of holding the courts, as to them shall seem proper and convenient.

§ 16. And be it further enacted, That all officers to be appointed by the president of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for the territory of Montana, who, by virtue of the provisions of any law now existing, or which may be enacted by congress, are required to give security for moneys that may be entrusted to them for disbursement, shall give such security at such time and in such manner as the secretary of the treasury may prescribe.

§ 17. And be it further enacted, That all treaties, laws, and other engagements made by the government of the United States with the Indian tribes inhabiting the territory embraced within the provisions of this act, shall be faithfully and rigidly observed, anything contained in this act to the contrary notwithstanding; and that the existing agencies and superintendencies of said Indians be continued, with the same power and duties which are now prescribed by law, except that the president of the United States may, at his discretion, change the location of the office of said agencies or superintendents.

§ 18. And be it further enacted, That until congress shall otherwise direct, all that part of the territory of Idaho included within the following boundaries, to-wit: Commencing at a point formed by the intersection of the thirty-third degree of longitude west from Washington with the forty-first degree of north latitude; thence along said thirty-third degree of longitude to the crest of the Rocky Mountains; thence northward along the said crest of the Rocky Mountains to its intersection with the forty-fourth degree and thirty minutes of north latitude; thence eastward along said forty-fourth degree thirty minutes north latitude to the thirty-fourth degree of longitude west from Washington; thence northward along said thirty-fourth degree of longitude to its intersection with the forty-fifth degree north latitude; thence eastward along said forty-fifth degree of north latitude to its intersection with the twenty-seventh degree of longitude west from Washington; thence south along said twenty-seventh degree of longitude west from Washington to the forty-first degree north latiude; thence west along said forty-first degree north latitude to the place of beginning, shall be, and is hereby, incorporated temporarily into, and made part of, the territory of Dakota. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the legislative assemblies of the several territories of the United States shall not, after the passage of this act, grant private charters or special privileges, but they may, by general incorporation acts, permit persons to associate themselves together as bodies corporate for mining, manufacturing, and other industrial pursuits.

§ 2. And be it further enacted, That the probate courts of the territory of Montana, in their respective counties, in addition to their probate jurisdiction, are hereby authorized to hear and determine civil causes wherein the damage or debt claimed does not exceed five hundred dollars, and such criminal cases arising under the laws of the territory as do not require the intervention of a grand jury; Provided, That they shall not have jurisdiction in any matter in controversy when the title or right to the peaceable possession of land may be in dispute, or chancery, or divorce causes; And provided further, That in all cases an appeal may be taken from any order, judgment, or decree of said probate court to the district court.

§ 3. And be it further enacted, That the chief justice and associate justices of said territory and the territory of Idaho shall each receive an annual salary of thirty-five hundred dollars.

§ 4. And be it further enacted, That the judges of the supreme court of said territory, or a majority of them, shall, when assembled at the seat of government of said territory, define the judicial districts of said territory, and assign the judges who may be appointed for said territory to the several districts, and shall also fix and appoint the times and places for holding the courts in the several counties or sub-divisions in each of said judicial districts, and alter the times and places of holding the courts as to them shall seem proper and convenient, but not less than two terms shall be held at each place of holding court each year.

The apportionment provided for in this section shall be based upon such an enumeration of the qualified electors of the said several legislative districts as shall appear from the election returns in the office of the secretary of said territory, and from such other sources of information as will enable the governor, without taking a new census, to make an apportionment which shall fairly represent the people of the several districts in both houses of the legislative assembly, but the legislature may at any time change the legislative districts of the territory as fixed by the governor.

§ 6. And be it further enacted, That all acts passed at the two sessions of the so-called legislative assembly of the territory of Montana, held in eighteen hundred and sixty-six, are hereby disapproved and declared null and void, except such acts as the legislative assembly herein authorized to be elected, shall by special act, in each case, re-enact: Provided, however, That in all the claims of vested rights thereunder, the party claiming the same shall not, by reason of anything in this section contained, be precluded from making and testing said claim in the courts of said territory: And provided further, That no legislation or pretended legislation in said territory since the adjournment of the first legislative assembly shall be

§ 8. And be it further enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed. [Approved March 2, 1867.]

THE ENABLING ACT

AN ACT to provide for the division of Dakota into two states and to enable the people of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington to form constitutions and state governments and to be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states, and to make donations of public lands to such states.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

That the inhabitants of all that part of the area of the United States now constituting the territories of Dakota, Montana, and Washington, as at present described, may become the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, and Washington, respectively, as hereinafter provided.

§ 2. The area comprising the territory of Dakota shall, for the purposes of this act, be divided on the line of the seventh standard parallel produced due west to the western boundary of said territory; and the delegates elected as hereinafter provided to the constitutional convention in districts north of said parallel shall assemble in convention, at the time prescribed in this act, at the city of Bismarck; and the delegates elected in districts south of said parallel shall, at the same time assemble in convention at the city of Sioux Falls.

§ 3. That all persons who are qualified by the laws of said territories to vote for representatives to the legislative assembly thereof, are hereby authorized to vote for and choose delegates to form conventions in said proposed states; and the qualifications for delegates to such conventions shall be such as by the laws of said territories respectively, persons are required to possess to be eligible to the legislative assemblies thereof; and the aforesaid delegates to form said conventions shall be apportioned within the limits of the proposed states, in such districts as may be established as herein provided, in proportion to the population in each of said counties and districts, as near as may be, to be ascertained at the time of making said apportionments by the persons hereinafter authorized to make the same, from the best information obtainable, in each of which districts three delegates shall be elected, but no elector shall vote for more than two persons for delegates to such conventions; that said apportionments shall be made by the governor, the chief justice, and the secretary of said territories; and the governors of said territories shall, by proclamation, order an election of the delegates aforesaid in each of said proposed states, to be held on the Tuesday after the second Monday in May, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, which proclamation shall be issued on the fifteenth day of April, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine; and such election shall be conducted, the returns made, the result ascertained, and the certificates to persons elected to such convention issued in the same manner as is prescribed by the laws of the said territories regulating elections therein for delegates to congress; and the number of votes cast for delegates in each precinct shall also be returned. The number of delegates to said conventions respectively shall be seventy-five; and all persons resident in said proposed states, who are qualified voters of said territories as herein provided, shall be entitled to vote upon the election of delegates, and under such rules and regulations as said conventions may prescribe, not in conflict with this act, upon the ratification or rejection of the constitutions.

§ 4. That the delegates to the conventions elected as provided for in this act shall meet at the seat of government of each of said territories, except the delegates elected in South Dakota, who shall meet at the city of Sioux Falls, on the Fourth day of July, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, and, after organization, shall declare, on behalf of the people of said proposed states, that they adopt the constitution of the United States; whereupon the said conventions shall be, and are hereby, authorized to form constitutions and state governments for said proposed states, respectively. The constitutions shall be republican in form, and make no distinction in civil or political rights on account of race or color, except as to Indians not taxed, and not be repugnant to the constitution of the United States and the principles of the Declaration of Independence. And said conventions shall provide, by ordinances irrevocable without the consent of the United States and the people of said states:

First. That perfect toleration of religious sentiment shall be secured and that no inhabitant of said states shall ever be molested in person or property on account of his or her mode of religious worship.

Second. That the people inhabiting said proposed states do agree and declare that they forever disclaim all right and title to the unappropriated public lands lying within the boundaries thereof, and to all lands lying within said limits owned or held by any Indian or Indian tribes; and that until the title thereto shall have been extinguished by the United States, the same shall be and remain subject to the disposition of the United States, and said Indian lands shall remain under the absolute jurisdiction and control of the congress of the United States; that the lands belonging to citizens of the United States residing without the said states shall never be taxed at a higher rate than the lands belonging to residents thereof; that no taxes shall be imposed by the states on lands or property therein belonging to or which may hereafter be purchased by the United States or reserved for its use. But nothing herein, or in the ordinances herein provided for, shall preclude the said states from taxing as other lands are taxed any lands owned or held by any Indian who has severed his tribal relations, and has obtained from the United States or from any person a title thereto by patent or other grant, save and except such lands as have been or may be granted to any Indian or Indians under any act of congress containing a provision exempting the lands thus granted from taxation: but said ordinances shall provide that all such lands shall be exempt from taxation by said states so long and to such extent as such acts of congress may prescribe.

Third. That the debts and liabilities of said territories shall be assumed and paid by said states, respectively.

Fourth. That provision shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of systems of public schools, which shall be open to all the children of said states, and free from sectarian control.

§ 5. That the convention which shall assemble at Bismarck shall form a constitution and state government for a state to be known as North Dakota, and the convention which shall assemble at Sioux Falls shall form a constitution and state government for a state to be known as South Dakota: Provided, That at the election for delegates to the constitutional convention in South Dakota, as hereinbefore provided, each elector may have written or printed on his ballot the words, "For the Sioux Falls constitution," or the words, "Against the Sioux Falls constitution," and the votes on this question shall be returned and canvassed in the same manner as for the election provided for in section three of this act; and if a majority of all votes cast on this question shall be "for the Sioux Falls constitution," it shall be the duty of the convention which may assemble at Sioux Falls, as herein provided, to resubmit to the people of South Dakota, for ratification or rejection, at the election hereinafter provided for in this act, the constitution framed at Sioux Falls and adopted November third, eighteen hundred and eighty-five, and also the articles and propositions separately submitted at that election, including the question of locating the temporary seat of government, with such changes only as relate to the name and boundary of the proposed state, to the reapportionment of the judicial and legislative districts, and such amendments as may be necessary in order to comply with the provisions of this act; and if a majority of the votes cast on the ratification or rejection of the constitution shall be for the constitution irrespective of the articles separately submitted, the state of South Dakota shall be admitted as a state in the Union under said constitution as hereinafter provided; but the archives, records and books of the territory of Dakota shall remain at Bismarck, the capital of North Dakota, until an agreement in reference thereto is reached by said states. But if at the election for delegates to the constitutional convention in South Dakota a majority of all the votes cast at that election shall be "against the Sioux Falls constitution," then and in that event it shall be the duty of the convention which will assemble at the city of Sioux Falls on the fourth day of July, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, to proceed to form a constitution and state government as provided in this act the same as if that question had not been submitted to a vote of the people of South Dakota.

§ 6. It shall be the duty of the constitutional convention of North Dakota and South Dakota to appoint a joint commission, to be composed of not less than three members of each convention, whose duty it shall be to assemble at Bismarck, the present seat of government of said territory, and agree upon an equitable division of all property belonging to the territory of Dakota, the disposition of all public records, and also adjust and agree upon the amount of the debts and liabilities of the territory, which shall be assumed and paid by each of the proposed states of North Dakota and South Dakota; and the agreement reached respecting the territorial debts and liabilities shall be incorporated in the respective constitutions, and each of such states shall obligate itself to pay its proportion of said debts and liabilities the same as if they had been created by such states respectively.

§ 7. If the constitutions formed for both North Dakota and South Dakota shall be rejected by the people at the elections for the ratification or rejection of their respective constitutions as provided for in this act, the territorial government of Dakota shall continue in existence the same as if this act had not been passed. But if the constitution formed for either North Dakota or South Dakota shall be rejected by the people, that part of the territory so rejecting its proposed constitution shall continue under the territorial government of the present territory of Dakota, but shall, after the state adopting its constitution is admitted into the Union, be called by the name of the territory of North Dakota or South Dakota, as the case may be: Provided, That if either of the proposed states provided for in this act shall reject the constitution which may be submitted for ratification or rejection at the election provided therefor, the governor of the territory in which such proposed constitution was rejected shall issue his proclamation reconvening the delegates elected to the convention which formed such rejected constitution, fixing the time and place at which said delegates shall assemble; and when so assembled they shall proceed to form another constitution or to amend the rejected constitution, and shall submit such new constitution or amended constitution to the people of the proposed state for ratification or rejection, at such time as said convention may determine; and all the provisions of this act, so far as applicable, shall apply to such convention so reassembled and to the constitution which may be formed, its ratification or rejection, and to the admission of the proposed state.

§ 8. That the constitutional convention which may assemble in South Dakota shall provide by ordinance for resubmitting the Sioux Falls constitution of eighteen hundred and eighty-five, after having amended the same as provided in section five of this act, to the people of South Dakota for ratification or rejection at an election to be held therein on the first Tuesday in October, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine; but if said constitutional convention is authorized and required to form a new constitution for South Dakota it shall provide for submitting the same in like manner to the people of South Dakota for ratification or rejection at an election to be held in said proposed state on the said first Tuesday in October. And the constitutional conventions which may assemble in North Dakota, Montana and Washington, shall provide in like manner for submitting the constitutions formed by them to the people of said proposed states, respectively, for ratification or rejection at elections to be held in said proposed states on the said first Tuesday in October. At the elections provided for in this section the qualified voters of said proposed states shall vote directly for or against the proposed constitutions, and for or against any articles or propositions separately submitted. The returns of said elections shall be made to the secretary of each of said territories, who, with the governor and chief justice thereof, or any two of them, shall canvass the same; and if a majority of the legal votes cast shall be for the constitution the governor shall certify the result to the president of the United States, together with a statement of the votes cast thereon and upon separate articles or propositions, and a copy of said constitution, articles, propositions, and ordinances. And if the constitutions and governments of said proposed states are republican in form, and if all the provisions of this act have been complied with in the formation thereof, it shall be the duty of the president of the United States to issue his proclamation announcing the result of the election in each, and thereupon the proposed states which have adopted constitutions and formed state governments as herein provided shall be deemed admitted by congress into the Union under and by virtue of this act on an equal footing with the original states from and after the date of said proclamation.

§ 9. That until the next general census, or until otherwise provided by law, said states shall be entitled to one representative in the house of representatives of the United States, except South Dakota, which shall be entitled to two, and the representatives to the fifty-first congress, together with the governors and other officers provided for in said constitutions, may be elected on the same day of the election for the ratification or rejection of the constitutions; and until said state officers are elected and qualified under the provisions of each constitution and the states, respectively, are admitted into the Union, the territorial officers shall continue to discharge the duties of their respective offices in each of said territories.

§ 10. That upon the admission of each of said states into the Union sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in every township of said proposed states, and where such section, or any parts thereof, have been sold or otherwise disposed of by or under the authority of any act of congress, other lands equivalent thereto, in legal subdivisions of not less than one-quarter section, and as contiguous as may be to the section in lieu of which the same is taken, are hereby granted to said states for the support of common schools, such indemnity lands to be selected within said states in such manner as the legislature may provide, with the approval of the secretary of the interior; Provided, That the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections embraced in permanent reservations for national purposes shall not, at any time, be subject to the grants nor to the indemnity provisions of this act, nor shall any lands embraced in Indian, military or other reservations of any character be subject to the grants or to the indemnity provisions of this act until the reservation shall have been extinguished and such lands be restored to and become a part of the public domain.

§ 11. That all lands herein granted for educational purposes shall be disposed of only at public sale, and at a price not less than ten dollars per acre, the proceeds to constitute a permanent school fund, the interest of which only shall be expended in the support of said schools. But said lands may, under such regulations as the legislatures shall prescribe, be leased for periods of not more than five years, in quantities not exceeding one section to any one person or company; and such lands shall not be subject to pre-emption, homestead entry or any other entry under the land laws of the United States, whether surveyed or unsurveyed, but shall be reserved for school purposes only.

§ 12. That upon the admission of each of said states into the Union, in accordance with the provisions of this act, fifty sections of the unappropriated public lands within said states, to be selected and located in legal subdivisions as provided in section ten of this act, shall be, and are hereby, granted to said states for the purpose of erecting public buildings at the capital of said states for legislative, executive and judicial purposes.

§ 13. That five per centum of the proceeds of the sales of public lands lying within said states which shall be sold by the United States subsequent to the admission of said states into the Union, after deducting all the expenses incident to the same, shall be paid to the said states, to be used as a permanent fund, the interest of which only shall be expended for the support of common schools within said states respectively.

§ 14. That the lands granted to the territories of Dakota and Montana by the act of February eighteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty-one, entitled "An act to grant lands to Dakota, Montana, Arizona, Idaho and Wyoming for university purposes," are hereby vested in the states of South Dakota, North Dakota, and Montana, respectively, if such states are admitted into the Union, as provided in this act, to the extent of the full quantity of seventy-two sections to each of said states, and any portion of said lands that may not have been selected by either of said territories of Dakota or Montana may be selected by the respective states aforesaid; but said act of February eighteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty-one, shall be so amended as to provide that none of said lands shall be sold for less than ten dollars per acre, and the proceeds shall constitute a permanent fund to be safely invested and held by said states severally, and the income thereof be used exclusively for university purposes. And such quantity of the lands authorized by the fourth section of the act of July seventeenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-four, to be reserved for university purposes in the territory of Washington, as, together with the lands confirmed to the vendees of the territory by the act of March fourteenth, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, will make the full quantity of seventy-two entire sections, are hereby granted in the like manner to the state of Washington for the purpose of a university in said state. None of the lands granted in this section shall be sold at less than ten dollars per acre; but said lands may be leased in the same manner as provided in section eleven of this act. The schools, colleges and universities provided for in this act shall forever remain under the exclusive control of the said states, respectively, and no part of the proceeds arising from the sale or disposal of any lands herein granted for educational purposes shall be used for the support of any sectarian or denominational school, college or university. The section of land granted by the act of June sixteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty, to the territory of Dakota, for an asylum for the insane shall, upon admission of the said state of South Dakota into the Union, become the property of said state.

§ 15. That so much of the lands belonging to the United States as have been acquired and set apart for the purpose mentioned in "An act appropriating money for the erection of a penitentiary in the territory of Dakota," approved March second, eighteen hundred and eighty-one, together with the buildings thereon, be, and the same is hereby granted, together with any unexpended balances of the moneys appropriated therefor by said act, to said state of South Dakota for the purposes therein designated; and the states of North Dakota and Washington shall, respectively, have like grants for the same purpose, and subject to like terms and conditions as provided in said act of March second, eighteen hundred and eighty-one, for the territory of Dakota. The penitentiary at Deer Lodge City, Montana, and all lands connected therewith and set apart and reserved therefor, are hereby granted to the state of Montana.

§ 16. That ninety thousand acres of land, to be selected and located as provided in section ten of this act, are hereby granted to each of said states, except to the state of South Dakota, to which one hundred and twenty thousand acres are granted, for the use and support of agricultural colleges in said states, as provided in the acts of congress making donations of lands for such purpose.

§ 17. That in lieu of the grant of land for purposes of internal improvement made to new states by the eighth section of the act of September fourth, eighteen hundred and forty-one, which act is hereby repealed as to the states provided for by this act, and in lieu of any claim or demand by the said states, or either of them, under the act of September twenty-eighth, eighteen hundred and fifty, and section twenty-four hundred and seventy-nine of the Revised Statutes, making a grant of swamp and overflowed lands to certain states, which grant it is hereby declared is not extended to the states provided for in this act, and in lieu of any grant of saline lands to said states, the following grants of land are hereby made, to-wit:

from the supreme court of either of the territories mentioned in this act, or that may hereafter lawfully be prosecuted upon any record from either of said courts may be heard and determined by said supreme court of the United States. And the mandate of execution or of further proceedings shall be directed by the supreme court of the United States to the circuit or district court hereby established within the state succeeding the territory from which such record is or may be pending, or to the supreme court of such state, as the nature of the case may require: Provided, That the mandate of execution or of further proceedings shall, in cases arising in the territory of Dakota, be directed by the supreme court of the United States to the circuit or district court of the district of South Dakota, or to the supreme court of the state of South Dakota, or to the circuit or district court of the district of North Dakota, or to the supreme court of the state of North Dakota, or to the supreme court of the territory of North Dakota, as the nature of the case may require. And each of the circuit, district and state courts, herein named, shall, respectively, be the successor of the supreme court of the territory, as to all such cases arising within the limits embraced within the jurisdiction of such courts, respectively, with full power to proceed with the same, and award mesne or final process therein; and that from all judgments and decrees of the supreme court of either of the territories mentioned in this act, in any case arising within the limits of any of the proposed states prior to admission, the parties to such judgment shall have the same right to prosecute appeals and writs of error to the supreme court of the United States as they shall have had by law prior to the admission of said state into the Union.

AS ADOPTED BY THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION AUGUST 17, 1889; RATIFIED BY THE PEOPLE, OCTOBER 1, 1889; STATE ADMITTED, NOVEMBER 8, 1889.

PREAMBLE.

We, the people of Montana, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of liberty, in order to secure the advantages of a state government, do, in accordance with the provisions of the enabling act of congress, approved the twenty-second of February, A. D. 1889, ordain and establish this constitution.

The preamble of the constitution is not the source of any substantive power. Jacobson v. Massachusetts, 197 U. S. 22, 49 U. S. (L. Ed.) 643, 3 Ann. Cas. 765; U. S. v. Boyer, 85 Fed. 430.

ARTICLE I.

Original jurisdiction of United States supreme court in action affecting state boundaries, see Ann. Cas. 1912C, 530.

ARTICLE II.

MILITARY RESERVATIONS.

Section 1. Authority is hereby granted to and acknowledged in the United States to exercise exclusive legislation, as provided by the constitution of the United States, over the military reservations of Fort Assinaboine, Fort Custer, Fort Keogh, Fort Maginnis, Fort Missoula, and Fort Shaw, as now established by law, so long as said places remain military reservations, to the same extent and with the same effect as if said reservations had been purchased by the United States by consent of the legislative assembly of the state of Montana; and the legislative assembly is authorized and directed to enact any law necessary or proper to give effect to this article.

Provided, that there be, and is hereby reserved to the state the right to serve all legal process of the state, both civil and criminal, upon persons and property found within any of said reservations, in all cases where the United States has not exclusive jurisdiction.

This section acknowledges absolute sovereignty in the United States over the places named or referred to therein. State v. Tully, 31 Mont. 365, 375, 78 Pac. 760, 3 Ann Cas. 824.

ARTICLE III.

A DECLARATION OF RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF MONTANA.

Section 1. All political power is vested in and derived from the people; all government of right originates with the people; is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole.

This guaranty refers as well to the right of naming candidates for public office as it does to the right of the electors to vote for the candidates at the polls. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 383, 391, 62 Pac. 583; State ex rel. Metcalf v. Wileman, 49 Mont. 436, 441, 143 Pac. 565.

Powers reserved to the people, see 6 R. C. L. 136.

Sec. 2. The people of the state have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves, as a free, sovereign, and independent state, and to alter and abolish their constitution and form of government, whenever they may deem it necessary to their safety and happiness, provided such change be not repugnant to the constitution of the United States.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 387, 414, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39; Pohl v. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co., 52 Mont. 572, 576, 160 Pac. 515.

For text treatment of this subject, see 6 R. L. C. 24; also, article on Constitutional Law, in Cal. Jur.

Sec. 3. All persons are born equally free, and have certain natural, essential, and inalienable rights, among which may be reckoned the right of enjoying and defending their lives and liberties, of acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and of seeking and obtaining their safety and happiness in all lawful ways.

Sections 3 and 27 of this article imply, if they do not express, a prohibition against the power of the legislature to enact a law whose effect would be the impairment of a vested right. Hinds v. Wilcox, 22 Mont. 4, 11, 55 Pac. 355.

The amendment approved February 28, 1899, to section 592 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895, relating to property held in tenancy in common, impairs the vested rights of cotenants whose estates were in existence at the time the amendment became operative, and is repugnant to this section and section 27 of this article. Butte & Boston Consol. Min. Co. v. Montana Ore Purchasing Co., 25 Mont. 41, 68, 63 Pac. 825.

The constitution of this state guarantees to every one the right to pursue happiness and to acquire, possess, and protect property in all lawful ways, and this provision secures the right to peaceable possession and to free ingress to and egress from property. The rights thus secured cannot be invaded, unless the public health, morals, or safety, or the general welfare, requires interference, or the owner is deprived of his rights by due process of law. Iverson v. Dilno, 44 Mont. 270, 273, 119 Pac. 719.

Nothing in this section invalidates a code provision which requires a newspaper, after taking a contract for public printing, to sublet such part of it as it is itself unable to perform to some similar enterprise, within the state. Hersey v. Neilson, 47 Mont. 132, 146, 131 Pac. 30, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 963.

The statutes authorizing the state inspector of fruit pests to destroy infected fruit are valid. Colvill v. Fox, 51 Mont. 72, 79, 149 Pac. 496, L. R. A. 1915F, 894.

Chapter 95, Laws of 1915 (1113-1132), providing for teachers' pensions, is not invalid as in contravention of this section. Trumper v. School District No. 55, 55 Mont. 90, 93, 173 Pac. 946.

Cited or applied in Butte Miners' Union v. City of Butte, 58 Mont. 391, 401, 194 Pac. 149.

See 6 R. C. L. 245.

Sec. 4. The free exercise and enjoyment of religious profession and worship, without discrimination, shall forever hereafter be guaranteed, and no person shall be denied any civil or political right or privilege on account of his opinions concerning religion, but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be construed to dispense with oaths or affirmations, excuse acts of licentiousness, by bigamous or polygamous marriage, or otherwise, or justify practices inconsistent with the good order, peace, or safety of the state, or opposed to the civil authority thereof, or of the United States. No person shall be required to attend any place of worship or support any ministry, religious sect, or denomination, against his consent; nor shall any preference be given by law to any religious denomination or mode of worship.

Sec. 5. All elections shall be free and open, and no power, civil or military, shall at any time interfere to prevent the free exercise of the right of suffrage.

Where an act of the legislature provided for not less than two nor more than five polling places in school districts of the first class, and it appeared that the facilities were somewhat inadequate to accommodate those who wished to vote, but it further appeared that those who were not able to vote did not attempt to do so until the latter part of the day, the law was not in conflict with this section. State ex rel. Bray v. Long, 21 Mont. 26, 34, 52 Pac. 645.

Under the rule that a statute which denies to the elector of the state, or any part of it, the right to nominate candidates for public office is void as violative of this section and section 26 of this article, chapter 113, Laws of 1909, providing for nonpartisan nomination to judicial office, by petition, is invalid because incapable of being made to operate uniformly throughout the state, in that it fails to provide any means by which a candidate for judicial office may be nominated in a newly created municipality, or for a newly created judicial office, or for judicial office in a district the boundaries of which have been changed since the last election, or may be changed hereafter. State ex rel. Holliday v. O'Leary, 43 Mont. 157, 164, 115 Pac. 204.

Sec. 6. Courts of justice shall be open to every person, and a speedy remedy afforded for every injury of person, property, or character; and that right and justice shall be administered without sale, denial, or delay.

Maintenance of a wife may be enforced by the district courts of this state, in the exercise of their equity jurisdiction, by decreeing proper relief in an action brought by the wife against her husband, independently of an action for divorce, where it is shown that he without just cause abandoned her, or by his cruelty or other improper conduct has given her cause for living separate and apart from him, and she is without means of support and he is able to maintain her. Edgerton v. Edgerton, 12 Mont. 122, 145, 29 Pac. 966, 33 Am. St. Rep. 557; 16 L. R. A. 94.

The act approved March 14, 1889, providing that in actions for the foreclosure of mechanics' liens, the owner of the property subject to the lien shall pay as costs a reasonable attorney's fee, is not unconstitutional as being repugnant to this section. Wortman v. Kleinschmidt, 12 Mont. 316, 331, 30 Pac. 280. But see Mills v. Olsen, 43 Mont. 129, 139, 115 Pac. 33. See, also, Doty v. Reece, 53 Mont. 404, 410, 164 Pac. 512.

The act approved December 10, 1903, authorizing each party to disqualify five district judges by filing an affidavit of prejudice, does not violate this section. State ex rel. Anaconda Copper Min. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 543, 77 Pac. 312.

The courts of the state are open to afford a remedy for such an injury as might be suffered by the holder of a valid subsisting mining claim through another person's proceeding to obtain patent to the same ground. Poore v. Kaufman, 44 Mont. 248, 257, 119 Pac. 785.

The provisions of this section, as well as the section of the code defining a nuisance, may be invoked for the protection of a person whose business is interfered with by reason of aggressive manifestations by crowds in the alleged interest of organized labor. Iverson v. Dilno, 44 Mont. 270, 273, 119 Pac. 719.

A district judge cannot, by his own wrongful conduct, deny to a litigant the right to be heard in a court established for the purpose of administering judicial remedies. Stephens v. Nacey, 47 Mont. 479, 482, 133 Pac. 361.

Sections 48 and 49 of the Corrupt Practices Act (10773-10820), awarding the successful party in an election contest attorney's fees, etc., are not open to constitutional objections that they deny to the unsuccessful one the equal protection of the laws, grant to the former a special privilege not enjoyed by successful litigants in other cases, violate the provision that justice shall be administered without sale, denial, or delay, and constitute an attempt to delegate legislative power to the courts. Doty v. Reece, 53 Mont. 404, 408, 164 Pac. 542.

The Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 (2816 et seq.), is not repugnant to this section, as closing access to the courts by the injured employee and compelling him to seek relief through the industrial accident board. Shea v. North-Butte Min. Co., 55 Mont. 522, 530, 179 Pac. 499.

This section is addressed exclusively to the courts. The courts are its sole subject-matter, and it relates directly to the duties of the judicial department of the government. It means no more or less than that under the provisions of the constitution and laws constituting them, the courts must be accessible to all persons alike, without discrimination, at the time or times and the place or places appointed for their sitting, and afford a speedy remedy for every wrong recognized by law as being remediable in a court. The term "injury," as therein used, means such an injury as the law recognizes or declares to be actionable. Shea v. North-Butte Min. Co., 55 Mont. 522, 533, 179 Pac. 499.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Sackett v. Thomas, 25 Mont. 226, 238, 64 Pac. 503; Lane v. Lane-Potter Lumber Co., 40 Mont. 541, 546, 107 Pac. 898.

Sec. 7. The people shall be secure in their persons, papers, homes, and effects, from unreasonable searches and seizures, and no warrant to search any place or seize any person or thing shall issue without describing the place to be searched, or the person or thing to be seized, nor without probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, reduced to writing.

The proper construction of the words "probable cause," as used in this section, may be facts embodied in a complaint which charges the offense upon information and belief. State v. McCaffery, 16 Mont. 33, 38, 40 Pac. 63; State v. Shafer, 26 Mont. 11, 16, 66 Pac. 463.

The protection afforded by this section is waived in a criminal case, unless the defendant objects at the trial; hence, where an information charging a person with the commission of an offense was not verified, but the defendant entered a plea of not guilty and was convicted of murder in the second degree, he thereby waived the right to object upon that ground. State ex rel. Nolan v. Brantly, 20 Mont. 173, 176, 50 Pac. 410.

The provision that no warrant shall issue without probable cause, supported by oath, prevents arbitrary accusations by requiring affidavits of truthfulness to facts constituting probable cause, avoids false issues, and guarantees to the citizen that no warrant of seizure of his person can lawfully issue except upon such probable cause, supported by the oath of some one. But, being a formal matter, the support by oath or affirmation can be waived, and, if the verification can be waived, the illegality of a warrant issued upon an unverified information can also be waived. State ex rel. Nolan v. Brantly, 20 Mont. 173, 178, 50 Pac. 410.

The requirement of the constitution that no warrant shall issue without probable cause, reduced to writing, and supported by oath or affirmation, is, prima facie, satisfied and complied with when an information charging a public offense is filed by the county attorney; and such an information is, prima facie, the statement of probable cause under oath, equally with an indictment presented upon the oath of grand jurors. State v. Clancy, 20 Mont. 498, 501, 52 Pac. 267.

A warrant may issue on an information filed by the county attorney by leave of court on a motion in writing not verified, and the information veried on information and belief only. State v. Shafer, 26 Mont. 11, 15, 66 Pac. 463.

The legislature, by section 1810 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895 (9771), providing that any court in which an action is pending may order either party to give to the other an inspection of any document in his possession containing evidence relating to the merits of the action or defense, has given a construction to this section defining the circumstances under which the inspection of the private papers and documents of one party in an action by another will not be deemed an unreasonable search. State ex rel. Boston & Montana Etc. Co. v. District Court, 27 Mont. 441, 445, 71 Pac. 602, 94 Am. St. Rep. 831.

The constitutional guaranty contained in this section cannot be disregarded to satisfy the idle curiosity of litigants. State ex rel. Mendenhall v. District Court, 29 Mont. 363, 368, 74 Pac. 1078.

Evidence obtained by the taking of the shoes of defendant, charged with murder, whether with or without his consent, and comparing them with footprints leading from the place of the crime, is admissible, and its use does not deprive him of the constitutional guaranty prohibiting unreasonable searches and seizures. State v. Fuller, 34 Mont. 12, 18, 85 Pac. 369, 9 Ann. Cas. 648; 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 762.

Because a search warrant is a process subject to much abuse, it has in this country generally been limited in its use by constitutional restrictions. State ex rel. Streit v. Justice Court, 45 Mont. 375, 382, 123 Pac. 405, 48 L. R. A. (N. S.) 156.

Sec. 8. Criminal offenses of which justice's courts and municipal and other courts, inferior to the district courts, have jurisdiction, shall, in all courts inferior to the district court, be prosecuted by complaint. All criminal actions in the district court, except those on appeal, shall be prosecuted by information, after examination and commitment by a magistrate, or after leave granted by the court, or shall be prosecuted by indictment without such examination or commitment, or without such leave of the court. A grand jury shall consist of seven persons, of whom five must concur to find an indictment.

A grand jury shall only be drawn and summoned when the district judge shall, in his discretion, consider it necessary, and shall so order.

The clause of this section, relating to the prosecution of criminal actions by information, did not execute itself, and before it could be carried into effect, the exercise, jurisdiction, and limitations of the procedure, and the rights and pleadings of the state and accused, must be defined by the legislative department. State v. Ah Jim, 9 Mont. 167, 172; 23 Pac. 76.

The clause of this section relating to the grand jury executes itself, and in the absence of further legislation, all offenses of the grade of felonies, or having their origin in the district court, must be inquired into under the provisions of the Criminal Practice Act relative to indictments. State v. Ah Jim, 9 Mont. 167, 173, 23 Pac. 76.

In a prosecution for murder, the substantial rights of the accused were not prejudiced by the submission of his case to the grand jury created by the constitution, and the clause of this section relating to the number of jurors composing that body is not ex post facto. State v. Ah Jim, 9 Mont. 167, 173, 23 Pac. 76.

Where defendant was indicted by a grand jury of seven persons drawn and summoned by order of the district judge, it was not required that the order should show the necessity therefor, it being presumed that the judge considered his action necessary. State v. King, 9 Mont. 445, 450, 24 Pac. 265.

The provision of the constitution relating to prosecution by information is not self-executing, and in the absence of legislation defining the procedure, a trial and conviction upon information is without process of law. In re Durbon, 10 Mont. 147, 148, 25 Pac. 442.

A conviction in a court of the state for a felony committed in the territory prior to the adoption of the constitution cannot be sustained where the prosecution was by information, as provided by the constitution and the act of March 2, 1891, relating thereto, as the provision of the federal constitution guaranteeing to the accused the right to be prosecuted through the intervention of a grand jury was, at the time of the commission of the offense, the supreme law of the land, and the substitution by the state constitution of prosecution by information in place of that by indictment, not being a matter affecting the procedure, deprived the accused of a substantial right, and gave said act a retrospective operation. State v. Kingsly, 10 Mont. 537, 545, 26 Pac. 1066.

One of the objects of the constitution was to do away, to a great extent, with the machinery and expense of a grand jury, by substituting therefor prosecution by information. It is not necessary, in order to vest power in the county attorney to file an information, that there shall be a preliminary examination and commitment. He may act, after leave has been granted by the court, in a case where there may not have been any charge or information before a committing magistrate. State v. Brett, 16 Mont. 360, 364, 40 Pac. 873; State v. Bowser, 21 Mont. 133, 135, 53 Pac. 179.

Under this section, either there must have been an examination and commitment, or leave of court procured, but both steps are not required. State v. Brett, 16 Mont. 360, 364, 40 Pac. 873.

One of the purposes of the convention in formulating this section, and the people in adopting it, was to dispense with the slow, expensive, and therefore unsatisfactory procedure by indictment, and to substitute a procedure expeditious and inexpensive, to be availed of by the prosecuting officers at their discretion, subject to control by the court, to guard a particular defendant against oppression and malice, and prevent abuse of power by the county attorney. State v. Brett, 16 Mont. 360, 365, 40 Pac. 873; State v. Cain, 16 Mont. 561, 563, 41 Pac. 709; State v. Vinn, 50 Mont. 27, 34, 144 Pac. 773.

The proceeding authorized by this section, allowing prosecution by information with leave of court, without preliminary examination having been had, is not a deprivation of the liberty of the citizen without due process of law, and does not abridge the privileges and immunities of any citizen as guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States. State v. Brett, 16 Mont. 360, 366, 40 Pac. 873.

Prosecutions in the district court may be either by information, in cases where there has been an examination and commitment or admission to bail by a magistrate, in which case an order of the court is not necessary; or by information filed by order of the court upon written motion of the county attorney, which may be done without such examination. State v. Bowser, 21 Mont. 133, 134, 53 Pac. 179.

An information may be filed with leave of court, without a previous commitment of accused by a magistrate. An information need not show on its face that it was filed with leave of court. State v. Spotted Hawk, 22 Mont. 33, 43, 55 Pac. 1026.

The provision of this section, that prosecutions shall be either by information or indictment, and authorizing the court to decide which method shall be pursued in each particular case, is not an abridgment of the privileges and immunities of citizens. State v. Little Whirlwind, 22 Mont. 425, 426, 56 Pac. 820.

When prosecuted under the Code of Civil Procedure, a contempt of court is not to be regarded as a "criminal offense," to be prosecuted only by complaint, information, or indictment, as laid down by this section, but, rather, as a special proceeding of a criminal character—in that sense it is a public offense, yet it is not one a prosecution for which is exclusively controlled by constitutional limitations circumscribing methods of prosecution of strictly criminal offenses. State ex rel. Flynn v. District Court, 24 Mont. 33, 35, 60 Pac. 493; State ex rel. Boston & M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 193, 198, 76 Pac. 10.

After dismissal of an indictment because of substantial defects therein, the district court may, but is not required to, submit the case to another grand jury, or permit, or order, the county attorney to file an information charging the defendant with the same offense ineffectually sought to be charged against him by the indictment. State v. Vinn, 50 Mont. 27, 33, 144 Pac. 773.

Cited or applied in State v. McCaffery, 16 Mont. 33, 36, 40 Pac. 63; State v. Morris, 22 Mont. 1, 3, 55 Pac. 360; State ex rel. Payne v. District Court, 53 Mont. 350, 355, 165 Pac. 294.

Sec. 9. Treason against the state shall consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort; no person shall be convicted of treason except on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on his confession in open court; no person shall be attainted of treason or felony by the legislative assembly; no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate; the estates of persons who may destroy their own lives shall descend or vest as in cases of natural death.

Sec. 10. No law shall be passed impairing the freedom of speech; every person shall be free to speak, write, or publish whatever he will on any subject, being responsible for all abuse of that liberty; and that in all suits and prosecutions for libel, the truth thereof may be given in evidence; and the jury, under the direction of the court, shall determine the law and the facts.

The constitutional freedom of speech mentioned in this section includes the right to discuss matters pertaining to courts, or the practice therein, which have no tendency to affect the merits or results of particular cases pending. In re Shannon, 11 Mont. 62, 72, 27 Pac. 352.

While this section of the constitution secures the largest liberty to the press, it also imposes responsibilities. It is a statute of liberty, not of "licentious scandal." The liberty of the press is one thing; the "abuse of that liberty" is quite another. State ex rel. Haskell v. Faulds, 17 Mont. 140, 145, 42 Pac. 285.

This section is not violated by subdivision 7 of section 293 of the Penal Code of 1895 (10944), making the publication of a false and grossly inaccurate report of the proceedings of any court punishable both as a contempt and as a misdemeanor. State ex rel. Haskell v. Faulds, 17 Mont. 140, 145, 42 Pac. 285.

The system of practice of this state is based upon the theory that it is the province of the jury to determine the facts, and that of the court to determine and declare the law, in all cases, except in prosecutions for libel. The clause of this section conferring upon the jury, under the direction of the court, the power to determine the law and the facts, appears to make it plain that the jury have no right to determine the law in any other case. "Expressio unius est exclusio alterius." Murray v. Heinze, 17 Mont. 353, 365, 42 Pac. 1057, 43 Pac. 714.

The doctrine that the jury are the judges of the law as well as the facts is never recognized in this jurisdiction, except, possibly, in prosecutions for libel, which are regulated by express constitutional provision. King v. Lincoln, 26 Mont. 157, 161, 66 Pac. 836.

While the jury have the power to determine the law and facts in an action for libel, it is the duty of the court to give the jury a correct declaration of the legal principles involved, and an erroneous instruction to the prejudice of a party is cause for reversal. Paxton v. Woodward, 31 Mont. 195, 216, 78 Pac. 215, 107 Am. St. Rep. 416, 3 Ann. Cas. 546. See, also, State v. Koch, 33 Mont. 490, 501, 85 Pac. 272, 8 Ann. Cas. 804.

The language of this section is not susceptible of any other meaning than this: That the individual citizen of Montana cannot be prevented from speaking, writing, or publishing whatever he will on any subject; if, however, what he writes or publishes constitutes a criminal libel, he may be held responsible for the abuse of the liberty in a criminal prosecution, or if what he speaks, writes, or publishes wrongfully infringes the rights of others, he may be held responsible for the abuse in a civil action for damages. Lindsay & Co. v. Montana Federation of Labor, 37 Mont. 264, 276, 96 Pac. 127, 127 Am. St. Rep. 722, 18 L. R. A. (N. S.) 707.

Under this section, a court may not enjoin a labor organization from publishing a circular calling upon all laboring men, and those in sympathy with organized labor, not to patronize a certain business house, characterized therein as "unfair," even though the persons comprising the organization be insolvent, and an abuse of the liberty guaranteed by the constitution may result in loss for which there cannot be any adequate compensation. Lindsay & Co. v. Montana Federation of Labor, 37 Mont. 264, 276, 96 Pac. 127, 127 Am. St. Rep. 722, 18 L. R. A. (N. S.) 707. See, also, Empire Theatre Co. v. Cloke, 53 Mont. 183, 190, 163 Pac. 107, L. R. A. 1917E, 383.

Except in prosecutions for libel, wherein the jury, "under the direction of the court, shall determine the law and the facts," the court shall declare the law, and the jury shall determine the facts. Allen v. Bear Creek Coal Co., 43 Mont. 269, 289, 115 Pac. 673.

The right of free speech is guaranteed by the constitution. It is declared there that no law shall be enacted impairing it, and that every person shall be free to speak, write, or publish whatever he will on any subject. At the same time, it leaves a way open by which everyone who abuses his privilege may be brought to account. Kelly v. Independent Publishing Co., 45 Mont. 127, 139, 122 Pac. 735, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1063, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1160.

In libel cases, since the constitution provides that in such cases "the jury, under the direction of the court, shall determine the law and the facts," the refusal of the jury to follow the advice of the court on the question of the libelous nature of the publication is no ground for granting a new trial. Harrington v. Butte Miner Co., 48 Mont. 550, 554, 139 Pac. 451, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 1257, 51 L. R. A. (N. S.) 369.

The second clause of this section is not alone addressed to the legislature, but under it the courts as well are without authority to restrain one by injunction from publishing what he pleases, though it imposes responsibility for all abuse of that liberty. Empire Theatre Co. v. Cloke, 53 Mont. 183, 191, 163 Pac. 107, L. R. A. 1917E, 383.

The immunity granted by this section does not extend to seditious utterances during time of war, and the Sedition Act of the extraordinary session of 1918 is not invalid. State v. Kahn, 56 Mont. 108, 117, 182 Pac. 107.

Sec. 11. No ex post facto law nor law impairing the obligation of contracts, or making any irrevocable grant of special privileges, franchises, or immunities, shall be passed by the legislative assembly.

The legislature can no more impair the obligation of a contract entered into by the state than it can the obligation of a contract made between individuals. State ex rel. State Sav. Bank v. Barret, 25 Mont. 112, 119, 63 Pac. 1030.

A statute which changes the terms of an agreement by imposing new conditions, or dispensing with those expressed or implied, is repugnant to the constitution as being a law impairing the obligation of a contract; and the degree of impairment is immaterial. State ex rel. State Sav. Bank v. Barret, 25 Mont. 112, 119, 63 Pac. 1030.

Where a contract was made with reference to a certain section of the code, which provided that, if certain state warrants to be issued in payment of work on the state school of mines building could not be paid on presentation for lack of money in the state school of mines building fund, out of which they were to be paid, they should bear a certain rate of interest per annum from the date of presentation, a subsequent law repealing the section of the code in question was void as to such contract, as impairing the obligation of the contract, and the holder was entitled to interest on the warrants. State ex rel. State Sav. Bank v. Barret, 25 Mont. 112, 120, 63 Pac. 1030.

A judgment is in the nature of a contract, but it is not a contract within the meaning of this section, and a statute changing the rate of interest which a judgment shall bear after entry is not unconstitutional. Stanford v. Coram, 28 Mont. 288, 292, 72 Pac. 655, 98 Am. St. Rep. 566.

There is no prohibition in the constitution against retrospective legislation other than that contained in this section. The legislature is therefore untrammeled and free, in so far as constitutional provisions are concerned, to pass any retrospective laws which do not violate the obligations of contracts or interfere with any vested rights. Bullard v. Smith, 28 Mont. 387, 396. 72 Pac. 761.

Chapter 92, Laws of 1909 (11180-11183), making it unlawful to record or register, or to aid or abet in recording, reporting, or registering any bet or wager upon races held without the state, and which, among other things, allows betting on speed contests held within race-track or fair-ground enclosures in this state, for thirty days in first-class counties and fourteen days in other counties, is not in contravention of the provisions of this section prohibiting the irrevocable granting of any special privileges, franchises, or immunities. State v. Rose, 40 Mont. 66, 71, 105 Pac. 82.

The act passed in 1899, page 113, authorizing the directors of a mining corporation to sell its property, does not impair the obligation of contracts, and is valid. See, also, Somerville v. St. Louis Min. & M. Co., 46 Mont. 268, 275, 127 Pac. 464, L. R. A. 1915B, 811.

While no constitutional barriers, other than those stated in this section, exist to restrain retroactive legislation in this state, and while a certain amount of retrospection is necessarily involved in many of our laws, it is nevertheless a fundamental rule of construction that retroactive effect is not to be given to a statute unless commanded by its context, terms, or manifest purpose. Falligan v. School District, 54 Mont. 177, 179, 169 Pac. 803.

Sec. 14. Private property shall not be taken or damaged for public use without just compensation having been first made to or paid into court for the owner.

A railway company is entitled to possession of condemned property upon making a deposit of the damages awarded by the commission, though title pending appeal is merely provisional, and the fact that an appeal has been taken does not abrogate the award of the commission, for until revised by appeal such award is just compensation and this provision has been complied with thereby. State ex rel. Volunteer Min. Co. v. McHatton, 15 Mont. 159, 160, 38 Pac. 711.

By the vacation of a public road, there is no taking of private property for public use, within the meaning of this section. State ex rel. Johnson v. Board of Commrs., 19 Mont. 582, 585, 49 Pac. 147.

By adopting this section the convention modified the rule of the common law, which denied to the owner compensation for infringements upon his right of free access to his property by changes in the grade of the street upon which it abuts, and secured to him the possession and enjoyment of it free from interference with it by any means for any public purpose, until just compensation has been ascertained and made or tendered to him. The making or tendering of compensation is thus made a condition precedent. Less v. City of Butte, 28 Mont. 27, 31, 72 Pac. 140, 98 Am. St. Rep. 545, 61 L. R. A. 601; Eby v. City of Lewistown, 55 Mont. 113, 122, 173 Pac. 1163.

This section was drafted in broad language for the express purpose of preventing an unjust or arbitrary exercise of the power of eminent domain. Less v. City of Butte, 28 Mont. 27, 32, 72 Pac. 140, 98 Am. St. Rep. 545, 61 L. R. A. 601.

A landowner is entitled, under this section, to compensation for damages owing to the grading of a street on which his property abuts, in accordance with a grade established by a city, notwithstanding the fact that such grade is the first one ever fixed. Less v. City of Butte, 28 Mont. 27, 33, 72 Pac. 140, 98 Am. St. Rep. 545, 61 L. R. A. 601.

This section is both mandatory and prohibitory, and it is also self-executing. Less v. City of Butte, 28 Mont. 27, 33, 72 Pac. 140, 98 Am. St. Rep. 545, 61 L. R. A. 601.

It seems that this section does not authorize a remedy for every diminution in the value of property that is caused by public improvements; the damages for which compensation is to be made being a damage to the property itself, and not including mere infringement of the owner's personal pleasure or enjoyment. Less v. City of Butte, 28 Mont. 27, 33, 72 Pac. 140, 98 Am. St. Rep. 545, 61 L. R. A. 601.

An examination of a lode mining claim under section 1314, Code of Civil Procedure of 1895 (9492), is not in contravention of this section prohibiting the taking or damaging of private property without just compensation to the owner. State ex rel. Parrot S. & C. Co. v. District Court, 28 Mont. 528, 544, 73 Pac. 230.

The district court has the power to compel a defendant, upon the payment of the reasonable cost, to lower and hoist the agents of the plaintiff into and from the underground workings of a lode mining claim, while engaged in the inspection thereof, without infringing the provisions of this section. State ex rel. Boston & M. Co. v. District Court, 30 Mont. 206, 219, 76 Pac. 206.

Chapter 106, Laws of 1905, providing for the construction and maintenance of drains "wherever the same shall be conducive to the improvement or reclamation of agricultural lands, public health, convenience, or welfare," is not unconstitutional as permitting the taking of private property for other than a public use. Billings Sugar Co. v. Fish, 40 Mont. 256, 260, 106 Pac. 565, 20 Ann. Cas. 264, 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 973.

The intention of the legislature in enacting section 1340, Revised Codes of 1907, was to declare to be public highways only those that have been established by the public authorities, or had been recognized by them and generally by the public, or those which had become such by prescription or adverse use at the time the provision was enacted. Any other construction would render the legislation open to serious constitutional objection. Barnard Realty Co. v. City of Butte, 48 Mont. 102, 110, 136 Pac. 1064.

The assumption that a railroad, since it is for the public use and benefit, has, through being given authority by the legislature to construct its line, rights to which the rights of adjacent property holders are subordinated, is limited by the principle of the constitution that no person can be deprived of property without due process of law, and compensation first being made to the owner. Wine v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 48 Mont. 200, 206, 136 Pac. 387, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 1102, 49 L. R. A. (N. S.) 711.

The right to compensation for damages to property occasioned by the grading of a street from contour to established grade, is guaranteed by this section. State ex rel. City of Butte v. District Court, 48 Mont. 614, 617, 139 Pac. 791.

Private property cannot be taken for a public use in invitum, except upon compensation first being made to the owner. In other words, the payment or tender of compensation, the amount of which has been ascertained in the manner provided by law, is made a condition precedent to the acquisition of any right by the public. Possession taken from the owner without compliance with this condition is wrongful, and ejectment will lie in favor of the owner to recover it. The fact that the wrong-doer is a municipal corporation does not affect the right to maintain the action. Flynn v. Beaverhead County, 49 Mont. 347, 352, 141 Pac. 673; Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. v. Nolan, 53 Mont. 129, 136, 162 Pac. 169; Eby v. City of Lewistown, 55 Mont. 113, 123, 173 Pac. 1163.

The statutes authorizing the state inspector of fruit pests to destroy infected fruit are valid, though the destruction is without compensation to the owner. Colvill v. Fox, 51 Mont. 72, 79, 149 Pac. 496, L. R. A. 1915F, 894.

This provision of the constitution refers to the authority exercised by the state, or through some designated agency, by virtue of the power of eminent domain, where the property taken is subjected to some public use, as for highway, railway, or other purpose in which the public interest is the predominating factor. It has no application whatever to property destroyed by the public agencies acting by virtue of the police power of the state. Colvill v. Fox, 51 Mont. 72, 79, 149 Pac. 496.

The rule of construction applicable to this provision of the constitution is declared in section 27 of this article. Expressed in terms clearly prohibitory, without words in itself or elsewhere in the constitution expressly declaring it to be otherwise, it is a limitation denying to the legislature the power to authorize the taking or damaging of the property of the citizen without a fulfillment of the condition expressly imposed by it, namely "without just compensation having been first made to or paid into court for the owner." Eby v. City of Lewistown, 55 Mont. 113, 122, 173 Pac. 1163.

Section 13, chapter 89, Laws of 1913, which casts upon the owner of the city or town realty embraced within the limits of a proposed special improvement district the burden of ascertaining the amount of damages likely to ensue to the property by reason of its creation, and making claim for the amount within a specified time, or be debarred thereafter from doing so, is in violation of this section. Eby v. City of Lewistown, 55 Mont. 113, 125, 173 Pac. 1163.

Sec. 15. The use of all water now appropriated, or that may hereafter be appropriated for sale, rental, distribution, or other beneficial use, and the right of way over the lands of others, for all ditches, drains, flumes, canals, and aqueducts, necessarily used in connection therewith, as well as the sites for reservoirs necessary for collecting and storing the same, shall be held to be a public use. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law, but in every case the necessity of the road, and the amount of all damage to be sustained by the opening thereof, shall be first determined by a jury, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceeding, shall be paid by the person to be benefited.

The provisions of this section, that the necessity for, and the damages occasioned by, the opening of private roads shall first be determined by a jury, did not abrogate sections 1495 et seq. of the general laws of 1877 (7382 et seq.), granting to the owners of mining claims a right of way across the claims of others, and providing for the assessment of damages by commissioners, but merely modified the statute as to the method of determining the damages, leaving the jurisdiction and procedure in other respects unchanged. State ex rel. Coleman v. District Court, 14 Mont. 476, 479, 37 Pac. 7.

The phrase "other beneficial use," as used in this section, includes other uses than such as are kindred to rental, sale, or distribution. It includes in the term "public use" the use of water for the purpose of irrigating a particular tract of agricultural land, or working a particular mine, as well as the use of water for irrigating a number of tracts of land, or working a number of mines owned by different persons. Ellinghouse v. Taylor, 19 Mont. 462, 464, 48 Pac. 757. See, also, Eastern Oregon Land Co. v. Willow River L. & I. Co., 204 Fed. 516, 522, 122 C. C. A. 636.

While any person is permitted to appropriate water for a useful purpose, it must be used with some regard for the rights of the public. Fitzpatrick v. Montgomery, 20 Mont. 181, 187, 50 Pac. 416, 63 Am. St. Rep. 622. See, also, Schodde v. Twin Falls Water Co., 224 U. S. 107, 121, 32 Sup. Ct. 470, 56 L. Ed. 686.

Under this section, the use of appropriated water is made a public use. Smith v. Denniff, 24 Mont. 20, 22, 60 Pac. 398, 81 Am. St. Rep. 408, 50 L. R. A. 741.

The use of water to irrigate a farm under the water-right law is a public use. City of Helena v. Rogan, 26 Mont. 452, 475, 68 Pac. 798.

The use of the waters in streams being declared by this section to be a public use, every citizen is entitled to divert and use them so long as he does not infringe the rights of some other citizen who has acquired a prior right by appropriation, on condition that he restore the waters to the channel of the stream on the cessation of his necessity. Bullerdick v. Hermsmeyer, 32 Mont. 541, 554, 81 Pac. 334; Featherman v. Hennessy, 42 Mont. 535, 541, 113 Pac. 751.

The taking of land for the purpose of flooding it, rendered necessary by the construction of a dam for generating electric power, to be sold to industrial enterprises and to the public generally, the power also to be utilized for pumping water upon arid lands, is for such a public use as will support the right to acquire the land by condemnation. Helena Power Transmission Co. v. Spratt, 35 Mont. 108, 128, 88 Pac. 773, 10 Ann. Cas. 1055, 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 567.

The language of this section, in the light of our history and natural conditions, in a region where the conservation and use of its waters is all-important to its development and progress, is a mandate from the sovereign people to the courts. The words "sale" and "rental" are especially significant. This section is self-executing, and should receive a broad construction. Spratt v. Helena Power Transmission Co., 37 Mont. 60, 78, 94 Pac. 631.

Since the use of water is declared by the constitution to be a public use, the right to appropriate water on the land of another may be acquired by condemnation proceedings. Prentice v. McKay, 38 Mont. 114, 118, 98 Pac. 1081.

A beneficial use of the water flowing in the streams of the state is a public use, but it may nevertheless be appropriated to a more necessary public use, an example of which is the right of a city to acquire a water supply by the exercise of the right of eminent domain, even though it may have already been appropriated to some other public use. Carlson v. City of Helena, 39 Mont. 82, 105, 102 Pac. 39, 17 Ann. Cas. 1233.

The appropriator of water need not be an owner of, or a person in the possession of, land in order to make a valid appropriation for irrigation purposes. The use of water is a public use, and a public service corporation can appropriate water, independently of present or future customers; otherwise the improvement of arid lands in localities where the undertaking by individuals would be too vast for them must never take place. Bailey v. Tintinger, 45 Mont. 154, 175, 122 Pac. 575.

The use of water flowing in the streams of this state is declared by the constitution to be a public use. The use must be beneficial, and, when the appropriator or his successor ceases to use the water for such purpose, the right ceases. Conrow v. Huffine, 48 Mont. 437, 444, 138 Pac. 1094.

Cited or applied in Butte, Anaconda & Pacific Ry. Co. v. Montana Union Ry. Co., 16 Mont. 504, 529, 41 Pac. 232, 50 Am. St. Rep. 508, 31 L. R. A. 298.

Sec. 16. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have the right to appear and defend in person and by counsel; to demand the nature and cause of the accusation; to meet the witnesses against him face to face; to have process to compel the attendance of witnesses in his behalf, and a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the county or district in which the offense is alleged to have been committed, subject to the right of the state to have a change of venue for any of the causes for which the defendant may obtain the same.

The accused, in a criminal prosecution, is entitled to meet the witnesses against him face to face, and it is therefore error, in a criminal trial, where the prosecuting witness was not within the state, to admit in evidence the committing magistrate's general recollection of the testimony which such witness gave at the preliminary examination. State v. Lee, 13 Mont. 248, 249, 33 Pac. 690. See, also, State v. Byers, 16 Mont. 565, 569, 41 Pac. 708.

Where a defendant has been twice tried before the expiration of the second term after the filing of the information, and the state prosecutes an appeal from an order granting him a new trial after a conviction on the second trial, which appeal was finally held to be unauthorized, and during the pendency of such appeal two terms elapsed without another trial, this is not a denial to the accused of the speedy trial guaranteed him by this section. State ex rel. Northrup v. Conrow, 13 Mont. 552, 553, 35 Pac. 240.

The constitutional rights, guaranteed by this section to the accused, to demand the nature and cause of the accusation, are not violated by the statute permitting an accusation against one as principal who is in fact an agent, for the reason that the old distinction between principal and accessory before the fact was merely arbitrary, and "without existence in natural reason or the ordinary doctrines of the law." State v. Geddes, 22 Mont. 68, 87, 55 Pac. 919.

Since a disbarment proceeding is not a criminal prosecution, this section, declaring the right of the accused to meet the witnesses face to face, is inapplicable, and depositions can be taken on the application of the attorney-general. In re Wellcome, 23 Mont. 259, 58 Pac. 711.

A jury is an entity. By the constitution of this state, one accused of crime is guaranteed the right to "a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the county or district in which the offense is alleged to have been committed." An impartial jury must be composed of twelve impartial men. A number less than that will not suffice. If one of the jurors is incompetent because of actual bias entertained by him against the accused, and conceals such incompetency on his voir dire, this vitiates the jury as a whole. The accused being entitled to a jury of twelve impartial men, if he has but eleven, while the twelfth is hostile to him, he has not the impartial jury which the constitution and laws contemplate that he shall have. State v. Mott, 29 Mont. 292, 297, 74 Pac. 728.

Section 12,048, providing that when the jury has been guilty of any misconduct by which a fair and due consideration of the case has been prevented, it shall be ground for a new trial, is not unconstitutional as not granting to the accused in a criminal prosecution a "trial by an impartial jury." State v. Mott, 29 Mont. 292, 300, 74 Pac. 728.

Criminal actions must be tried in the county where the offense was committed. State v. Tully, 31 Mont. 365, 369, 78 Pac. 760, 3 Ann. Cas. 824.

Where defendant, in a prosecution for murder, pleads "not guilty," an instruction to the jury to the effect that they could find him guilty of murder in either of its degrees, or of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, but "you cannot find him not guilty," is in contravention of defendant's constitutional right to have the question of his guilt or innocence determined by a jury, of which right he cannot be deprived, no matter how clear and unimpeached or free from suspicion the evidence may be. State v. Koch, 33 Mont. 490, 496, 85 Pac. 272, 8 Ann. Cas. 804. See, also, State v. Sloan, 35 Mont. 367, 371, 89 Pac. 829; State ex rel. Rowe v. District Court, 44 Mont. 318, 327, 119 Pac. 1103, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 396.

The constitutional guaranty, that in all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have the right to trial by jury, includes misdemeanors as well as felonies. State v. Koch, 33 Mont. 490, 496, 85 Pac. 272, 8 Ann. Cas. 804.

The word "trial," as used in this section, embraces all proceedings in the progress of a criminal prosecution after the issues are made up, down to and including the rendition of the verdict. State v. Koch, 33 Mont. 490, 496, 85 Pac. 272, 8 Ann. Cas. 804.

The local jurisdiction of the crime is in the county where it is committed, and the charge must show that fact; the defendant is entitled to know the cause of the accusation, so that he may prepare his defense. State v. Beesskove, 34 Mont. 41, 50, 85 Pac. 376.

The word "district," as used in the provision declaring that in criminal prosecutions the accused shall be tried by a jury from the "county or district in which the offense is alleged to have been committed," is not synonymous with the term "township," but means the precise portion of the territory or political division of the state over which a court may exercise power in criminal matters. State v. O'Brien, 35 Mont. 482, 494, 90 Pac. 514, 10 Ann. Cas. 1006.

The design of this provision of the constitution is to furnish a guaranty to every person charged with a crime of a trial by a jury from the vicinage or neighborhood where the crime is supposed to have been committed, so that he may have the benefit, on his trial, of his own good character and standing with his neighbors, if these he has preserved, and also of such knowledge as the jury may possess of the witnesses who may give evidence against him. State v. O'Brien, 35 Mont. 482, 495, 90 Pac. 514, 10 Ann. Cas. 1006.

That the right secured by this section to a person accused of crime to meet the witnesses against him face to face is not an absolute one is determined by the next succeeding section, wherein provision is made for taking and using the deposition of a witness in a criminal case. State v. Vanella, 40 Mont. 326, 332, 106 Pac. 364, 20 Ann. Cas. 398.

In a criminal action the defendant cannot object that a particular juror was not allowed to sit in his case on a challenge for cause; his right being only that he shall be tried by an impartial jury, as provided in this section. State v. Byrd, 41 Mont. 585, 590, 111 Pac. 407.

If, during the presentation of the case, the court has accorded the defendant all the rights enumerated in this section, and, further, has guarded him against surprise by the introduction of evidence against him by the state which he cannot meet, or the effect of which he cannot minimize, so far as this would have been possible by previous knowledge of the witnesses, he cannot complain that the county attorney has failed to pursue the statute regarding the indorsing of the names of witnesses upon the information. State v. McDonald, 51 Mont. 1, 5, 149 Pac. 279.

In a prosecution under the statute for the infamous crime against nature, the right of the defendant to "demand the nature and cause of the accusation" has been accorded to him, even though the information fails to allege a description of the manner or means by which the offense was accomplished. State v. Guerin, 51 Mont. 250, 257, 152 Pac. 747.

Where, in a prosecution for rape, the court made an order that on account of the nature of the case no one should be allowed in the court room in addition to those then present, and those present, after once leaving, could not return, court officers, doctors, attorneys, and newspapermen being excluded from the order, the enforcement of such order was a denial of the right to a public trial guaranteed by this section. State v. Keeler, 52 Mont. 205, 212, 156 Pac. 1080, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 619, L. R. A. 1916E, 472.

The constitution guarantees to a defendant charged with crime, whether innocent or guilty, a public trial, and when the right is denied him, he has not had a fair and impartial trial within the meaning of the constitution, and all that can be required of him is that he make known the fact of the denial, and the law imputes prejudice. State v. Keeler, 52 Mont. 205, 214, 156 Pac. 1080, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 619, L. R. A. 1916E, 472.

The provision of the constitution guaranteeing to the accused the right to a public trial is to be construed in the light of the conditions prevailing in Montana at the date of its enactment in 1889. State v. Keeler, 52 Mont. 205, 217, 156 Pac. 1080, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 619, L. R. A. 1916E, 472.

The term "criminal prosecutions," as employed in the constitution, refers to prosecutions for offenses which were crimes at common law, and doubtless to statutory offenses. State ex rel. Payne v. District Court, 53 Mont. 350, 355, 165 Pac. 294.

The guaranty contained in this section is but declaratory of the ancient common-law rule that no one shall be held to answer an information or indictment, unless the crime be charged with precision and fullness, to the end that the defendant may have ample opportunity to make his defense and avail himself of his conviction or acquittal in a subsequent proceeding for the same offense. State v. Wolf, 56 Mont. 493, 499, 185 Pac. 556.

The right to trial by an impartial jury, every member of which is impartial, given by the constitution, is an unqualified one, which it is beyond the power of the legislature to curtail, and any provisions of the statutes which relate to the selection of a jury are to be understood as merely providing the means by which the constitutional guaranty may be exercised to the fullest extent. State v. Brooks, 57 Mont. 480, 188 Pac. 942.

Proof of the charge in the information that defendant published the seditious article mentioned herein, in a certain county, was indispensable to give the district court of such county jurisdiction to try the cause. State v. Smith, 57 Mont. 563, 190 Pac. 107.

Sec. 17. No person shall be imprisoned for the purpose of securing his testimony in any criminal proceeding longer than may be necessary in order to take his deposition. If he can give security for his appearance at the time of trial, he shall be discharged upon giving the same; if he cannot give security, his deposition shall be taken in the manner prescribed by law, and in the presence of the accused and his counsel, or without their presence, if they shall fail to attend the examination after reasonable notice of the time and place thereof. Any deposition authorized by this section may be received as evidence on the trial, if the witness shall be dead or absent from the state.

In cases of a criminal nature, depositions can be taken, on notice, in the presence of the accused and his counsel, "or without their presence, if they shall fail to attend." State v. Vanella, 40 Mont. 326, 337, 106 Pac. 364, 20 Ann. Cas. 398.

The right of defendant to be present at the taking of a deposition is not an absolute one, but a privilege which he may waive; and the burden is upon him to show that he was not present, or was not given an opportunity to be present, before he can complain. State v. Vanella, 40 Mont. 326, 337, 106 Pac. 364, 20 Ann. Cas. 398.

Sec. 18. No person shall be compelled to testify against himself, in a criminal proceeding, nor shall any person be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense.

The plea of former jeopardy cannot be maintained on a second trial which a defendant has obtained upon his own motion. Territory v. Hart, 7 Mont. 489, 496, 17 Pac. 718; State v. Thompson, 10 Mont. 549, 562, 27 Pac. 349.

Defendant, who was charged with murder, was tried three times, and at the third trial found guilty of manslaughter. The jury disagreed upon the second trial, and was discharged. At the third trial the plea of once in jeopardy was interposed, on the ground that the jury had been discharged at the second trial without there having existed a necessity therefor, which defense was overruled by the district court. Under these circumstances, the disagreement of the jury and their consequent discharge did not operate to bring the defendant within the provision of this section which prohibits any person from being put twice in jeopardy for the same offense. State v. Keerl, 33 Mont. 501, 509, 85 Pac. 862.

The privilege that "no person shall be compelled to testify against himself in a criminal proceeding," may be waived by consent, either expressly or by implication. State v. Fuller, 34 Mont. 12, 18, 85 Pac. 369, 9 Ann. Cas. 648, 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 762.

Where, on a trial for murder, defendant consented to the taking of his shoes for the purpose of comparison with footprints, leading from the place of homicide, he waived his right to object to the use of such evidence against him on the ground that this section forbids its use in declaring that no person shall be compelled to testify against himself in a criminal proceeding. State v. Fuller, 34 Mont. 12, 18, 85 Pac. 369, 9 Ann. Cas. 648, 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 762.

Evidence obtained by the taking of the shoes of defendant, charged with murder, against his consent, and comparing them with footprints leading from the place of the crime, is admissible, and its use does not deprive him of the constitutional guaranty declaring that no person shall be compelled to testify against himself in a criminal proceeding. State v. Fuller, 34 Mont. 12, 19, 85 Pac. 369, 9 Ann. Cas. 648, 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 762.

Although no compulsion may be exercised upon a person charged with crime to make him testify against himself, still, if the accused goes upon the witness stand in his own behalf, he is subject to all proper cross-examination, even though in such cross-examination he may be compelled to incriminate himself. State v. Vanella, 40 Mont. 326, 336, 106 Pac. 364, 20 Ann. Cas. 398.

The constitutional security a person has against being twice put in jeopardy for the same offense prevents only a second prosecution after the first has resulted in a conviction or acquittal; intermediate steps, such as the dismissal of an indictment on technicalities, give him no such security. State v. Vinn, 50 Mont. 27, 35, 144 Pac. 773.

This section does not mean that, after an indictment has been dismissed, a defendant may not be charged with the same offense by any method the use of which is permitted by the constitution, until his guilt or innocence has been ascertained by the verdict of a jury, or, in any event, until he has once been in jeopardy. State v. Vinn, 50 Mont. 27, 35, 144 Pac. 773.

The right to immunity from a second prosecution is constitutional, and that right is to be measured by the meaning of the term "jeopardy" as employed in the constitutional provision. This is to be ascertained from the state of the law when the constitution was adopted, not from subsequent legislation; and, as so ascertained, the term was not intended to apply merely to those cases where a verdict has been rendered, but it applies as well to every case where the defendant has been brought to trial in a competent court upon a sufficient indictment or information before a jury duly impaneled and sworn; and whenever such jeopardy has occurred for the same offense, and has, without necessity or the procurement of the accused, ended by a discharge of the jury before verdict, the plea is available. State v. Gaimos, 53 Mont. 118, 121, 162 Pac. 596.

When a witness waives his constitutional privilege by testifying in his own behalf, he renders himself liable to be cross-examined upon all facts relevant and material to the issue raised by his denial of the commission of the offense imputed to him. State v. Smith, 57 Mont. 349, 359, 188 Pac. 644.

Sec. 19. All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great.

When an application is made for bail, in a capital case, the county attorney, if he resists the application, should make some showing that the proof is evident or the presumption great, thus bringing the case within the exception mentioned in the constitution. On failure to make such showing, the defendant is entitled to bail in all cases; but, if such showing is made, the court or judge should refuse bail without hesitation. State ex rel. Murray v. District Court, 35 Mont. 504, 508, 90 Pac. 513.

A fine is a penalty exacted by the state for some criminal offense, and this provision has no application to the penalty imposed upon the directors of a corporation for neglect to file the annual statement required by section 3850, Revised Codes of 1907, as amended. For text treatment of this subject, see 18 R. C. L. 1080; also, article on Military in Cal. Jur.

Sec. 23. The right of trial by jury shall be secured to all, and remain inviolate, but in all civil cases and in all criminal cases not amounting to felony, upon default of appearance, or by consent of the parties expressed in such manner as the law may prescribe, a trial by jury may be waived, or a trial had by any less number of jurors than the number provided by law. A jury in a justice's court, both in civil cases and in cases of criminal misdemeanor, shall consist of not more than six persons. In all civil actions and in all criminal cases not amounting to felony, two-thirds in number of the jury may render a verdict, and such verdict so rendered shall have the same force and effect as if all of such jury concurred therein.

The constitution must be construed in view of the conditions existing at the time of its adoption, and the right of trial by jury guaranteed under this broad declaration is the right as it then existed, and not one created or extended, except by express terms, by the instrument itself. This rule extends to both civil and criminal trials. State ex rel. Jackson v. Kennie, 24 Mont. 45, 56, 60 Pac. 589; Montana O. P. Co. v. Boston M. C. C. & S. M. Co., 27 Mont. 288, 306, 70 Pac. 1114.

Under this section the party complained of, in a proceeding in a justice court, to compel him to give security to keep the peace, is not entitled to a jury trial. No such right existed when the constitution was adopted, and there is nothing in the constitution extending the right to any case in which it did not exist at the date of its adoption. State ex rel. Jackson v. Kennie, 24 Mont. 45, 56, 60 Pac. 589.

The direction of a verdict in a creditors' suit to set aside a sale as fraudulent was not an infringement on the defendant's right to a trial by jury, though the testimony in the case was conflicting, since such cases were within the exclusive jurisdiction of chancery at the time the constitution was adopted, and the constitution did not enlarge the right of trial by jury. Finch v. Kent, 24 Mont. 268, 279, 61 Pac. 653.

Since parties in an action to determine an adverse claim to real property, or an interest therein, were not entitled to a jury trial prior to the adoption of the constitution, a defendant in an action to try an adverse claim to a lode mining claim under the statute authorizing such an action, as re-enacted subsequent to the constitution, is not entitled to have the issues submitted to a jury. Montana O. P. Co. v. Boston & M. C. C. & S. M. Co., 27 Mont. 288, 306, 70 Pac. 1114.

Plaintiff, in an action for damages for the maintenance of a nuisance, is entitled to a trial by jury of his right to damages, although he also asks for the equitable relief of injunction to restrain the continuance of the acts complained of. Chessman v. Hale, 31 Mont. 577, 584, 79 Pac. 254, 3 Ann. Cas. 1038, 68 L. R. A. 410.

The right guaranteed by this section is the same as that guaranteed by the seventh amendment of the federal constitution, because the federal constitution was the fundamental law of the territory at the time of its admission as a state, and the right as it then existed was preserved in the state constitution. Chessman v. Hale, 31 Mont. 577, 585, 79 Pac. 254, 3 Ann. Cas. 1038, 68 L. R. A. 410; Consolidated Gold & Sapphire Min. Co. v. Struthers, 41 Mont. 565, 571, 111 Pac. 152.

The right of trial by jury, as it existed at the time of the adoption of the constitution, still exists and cannot be taken away by legislative enactment. Chessman v. Hale, 31 Mont. 577, 585, 79 Pac. 254, 3 Ann. Cas. 1038, 68 L. R. A. 410.

The provision of this section, that a jury may be waived in the manner prescribed by law—that is, by written law—is mandatory and prohibitory. It is the duty of the court to grant to litigants the rights given them by the constitutional provision. The constitution, in effect, commands that a jury trial, if waived, shall be waived in a certain manner, and prohibits its being waived in any other manner. Chessman v. Hale, 31 Mont. 577, 590, 79 Pac. 254, 3 Ann. Cas. 1038, 68 L. R. A. 410.

A party to an action is not under any obligation to demand a trial by jury, nor is he required to submit to the court the question as to whether he has a right to a jury trial, when these rights are granted to him by the constitution. Chessman v. Hale, 31 Mont. 577, 591, 79 Pac. 254, 3 Ann. Cas. 1038, 68 L. R. A. 410.

A juror cannot be said to be fair and impartial who has formed an opinion which will take evidence to remove, and who entertains a prejudice against a class to which the defendant belongs. Shane v. Butte Electric Ry. Co., 37 Mont. 599, 601, 97 Pac. 958.

The provision of this section, that the right of trial by jury shall be secured to all, and remain inviolate, applies only to cases where right of trial by jury existed at the time of the adoption of the constitution. The section refers in terms to "civil cases" and "criminal cases." Cunningham v. Northwestern Improvement Co., 44 Mont. 180, 215, 119 Pac. 554.

The provision of this section, that the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, and referring to civil cases, did not confer the right to trial by jury, in a special proceeding to obtain the benefits of chapter 67, laws of 1909, providing a scheme for industrial insurance for persons engaged in coal mining within the state, and their dependents, in case of injury or death in the course of their occupation; and hence such act was not unconstitutional, as depriving those subject to its terms of their right to trial by jury. Cunningham v. Northwestern Improvement Co., 44 Mont. 180, 217, 119 Pac. 554.

If the relator, in a mandamus proceeding, must litigate therein any private right to damages which he may have against the respondent personally, arising out of the wrong to which the mandate itself is directed, perforce the adversary must submit; so that a cause of action at law becomes summarily justifiable without a jury, notwithstanding the fact that as to such causes of action both parties are entitled to a jury, and cannot be compelled to submit to a summary adjudication. Bailey v. Edwards, 47 Mont. 363, 372, 133 Pac. 1095.

The right of trial by jury is preserved as it existed at the time the constitution was adopted, and since the right to a trial of a contested divorce suit did not exist at that time, a party to such a suit may not now demand, as a matter of right, a jury trial of the issues raised by the pleadings. Davidson v. Davidson, 52 Mont. 441, 443, 158 Pac. 680.

Sec. 25. Aliens and denizens shall have the same right as citizens to acquire, purchase, possess, enjoy, convey, transmit, and inherit mines and mining property, and milling, reduction, concentrating, and other works, and real property necessary for or connected with the business of mining and treating ores and minerals: provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to infringe upon the authority of the United States to provide for the sale or disposition of its mineral and other public lands.

This provision goes no further than to put aliens and denizens on the same footing as citizens in granting the right to inherit. In other words, since citizens have the right, aliens and denizens also have it. The provision is not a limitation upon the power of the legislature to impose upon it the condition prescribed in section 4835 of the Revised Codes of 1907 (7088), that "no non-resident foreigner can take by succession unless he appears and claims such succession within five years after the death of the decedent to whom he claims succession," or any other condition which it may deem necessary to prescribe in order that estates may be properly administered and distributed. The code provision in question is a statute of limitations which does not affect in any way the right conferred. It deals with the remedy only, and, being remedial in its nature, is not in anywise repugnant to this provision of the constitution. In re Colbert's Estate, 44 Mont. 259, 267, 119 Pac. 791.

Sec. 26. The people shall have the right peaceably to assemble for the common good, and to apply to those invested with the powers of government for redress of grievances by petition or remonstrance.

Under the rule that a statute which denies to the elector of the state, or any part of it, the right to nominate candidates for public office is void as violative of this section and section 5 of this article, chapter 113, laws of 1909, providing for non-partisan nominations to judicial office, by petition, is invalid because incapable of being made to operate uniformly throughout the state, in that it fails to provide any means by which a candidate for judicial office may be nominated in a newly created municipality, or for a newly created judicial office, or for judicial office in a district the boundaries of which have been changed since the last election, or may be changed hereafter. Sections 10666 and 10669 authorizing a party to contradict his own witness by other evidence, and to ask him whether he had made other statements, are not repugnant to this section. State v. Bloor, 20 Mont. 574, 585, 52 Pac. 611.

A litigant has no constitutional right to have his cause tried before a particular judge, and hence a party is not deprived of life, liberty, or property by the mere fact that he cannot have his cause tried before the judge of the district where the action was commenced. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 541, 77 Pac. 312.

The act of December 10, 1903, amending section 180 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895 (8868), so as to provide for the disqualification of district judges on the filing of an affidavit of prejudice, is not in violation of this section, in that no notice is required to be given of the filing of the disqualifying affidavit, since, as the mere filing of the affidavit works the disqualification, the giving of notice would serve no purpose. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 541, 77 Pac. 312.

A statute which authorizes the taxation of costs upon the filing of a memorandum, without notice to the person liable therefor, would seem to be obnoxious to the constitutional guaranty contained in this section, the phrase "due process of law" including notice and a hearing before judgment. State ex rel. Riddell v. District Court, 33 Mont. 529, 532, 85 Pac. 367.

The phrase "due process of law" does not necessarily mean by a judicial proceeding. Cunningham v. Northwestern Improvement Co., 44 Mont. 180, 217, 119 Pac. 554. See, also, State ex rel. Marshall v. District Court, 50 Mont. 289, 296, 146 Pac. 743, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 164.

The act of the legislature, laws of 1909, chapter 67, page 81, although invalid for another reason, is not in violation of the due process of law principle of the constitution. Whether the collection of an occupation tax in the summary manner provided by the act affords due process of law is set at rest, as to taxes generally, by Kelly v. City of Pittsburg, 104 U. S. 78, 26 L. Ed. 658. See, also, Palmer v. McMahon, 133 U. S. 660, 10 Sup. Ct. 324, 33 L. Ed. 772. And see, also, McMillan v. Anderson, 95 U. S. 37, 24 L. Ed. 335, where it is said that the mode of assessing taxes is summary in all cases, in order that it may be speedy and effectual, but that summary does not mean arbitrary, or unequal or illegal. Cunningham v. Northwestern Improvement Co., 44 Mont. 180, 217. 119 Pac. 554.

The assumption that a railroad, since it is for the public use and benefit, has, through being given authority by the legislature to construct its line, rights to which the rights of adjacent property holders are subordinated, is limited by the principle of the constitution that no person can be deprived of property without due process of law. Wine v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 48 Mont. 200, 206, 136 Pac. 387, Ann. Cas. 1915D 1102, 49 L. R. A. (N. S.) 711.

The statutes authorizing the state inspector of fruit pests to destroy infected fruit are valid. Colvill v. Fox, 51 Mont. 72, 79, 149 Pac. 496, L. R. A. 1915F, 894.

Chapter 95, Laws of 1915 (1113-1132), providing for teachers' pensions, is not invalid as in contravention of this section. Trumper v. School District No. 55, 55 Mont. 90, 93, 173 Pac. 946.

The rule of construction applicable to the provision of this article, that private property shall not be taken or damaged for public use without just compensation having been first made to or paid into court for the owner, is declared in this section of the constitution. Sec. 29. The provisions of this constitution are mandatory and prohibitory, unless by express words they are declared to be otherwise.

Section 9 of article XIX of this constitution, requiring the secretary of state to publish a proposed constitutional amendment for three months prior to the next general election is mandatory, and a noncompliance therewith renders the adoption of the proposed amendment nugatory. State ex rel. Woods v. Tooker, 15 Mont. 8, 14, 37 Pac. 840, 25 L. R. A. 560. See, also, Durfee v. Harper, 22 Mont. 354, 363, 56 Pac. 582.

This section can have but one meaning, namely, that with reference to the subjects upon which the constitution assumes to speak, its declarations shall be conclusive upon the legislature, and shall prevent the enactment of any law which has for its purpose the extension or limitation of the powers which they confer. In re Weston, 28 Mont. 207, 212, 72 Pac. 512.

The provisions of the constitution providing for the assessment and taxation of all the property of corporations situated within this state are mandatory. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis and Clarke County, 28 Mont. 484, 497, 72 Pac. 982, 98 Am. St. Rep. 572.

The rule declared in this section applies to all parts of the constitution. State ex rel. City of Butte v. Weston, 29 Mont. 125, 129, 74 Pac. 415.

While all the provisions of the constitution are "mandatory and prohibitory," yet the courts, bearing in mind that the legislature is a co-ordinate branch of the government, and that its action, if fair, should be sustained, have given this section a liberal construction, so as to not interfere with or impede proper legislative functions. State v. McKinney, 29 Mont. 375, 381, 74 Pac. 1095, Ann. Cas. 579.

A provision of the constitution is to be deemed mandatory and prohibitory unless declared to be otherwise, or else made by the instrument itself subject to exception. State ex rel. Peyton v. Cunningham, 39 Mont. 197, 201, 103 Pac. 497, 18 Ann. Cas. 705.

The appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court is extended under the constitution to "all cases at law and in equity," and the rule of interpretation for ascertaining the limits of this jurisdiction is included in the maxim, "inclusio unius est exclusio alterius," since "the provisions of this constitution are mandatory and prohibitory, unless by express words they are declared to be otherwise." State ex rel. City of Helena v. Helena W. W. Co., 43 Mont. 169, 173, 115 Pac. 200.

A constitutional provision is construed to be mandatory from the nature of the instrument, but in Montana the character is given by express declaration to that effect. State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 387, 412, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39.

The provision in section 34 of article III of the constitution, limiting, in the case of an appointment to fill a vacancy in an elective office, the tenure of the appointee to the time of the qualification of a person chosen by the electors to serve for the unexpired term, is exclusive and hence prohibitory. The legislature cannot extend the terms beyond that thus definitely fixed, and the governor is equally without power to do so. State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 340, 146 Pac. 932.

The legislature may extend the exemption to the property enumerated in section 2 of article XII of the constitution, but it cannot go further or include any other. This is the construction uniformly placed upon such provisions, and is commanded by the rule of interpretation contained in this section. Cruse v. Fischl, 55 Mont. 258, 263, 175 Pac. 878.

The provisions of section 16, article XII of the constitution, are mandatory and prohibitory, in the sense that the legislature cannot take from the state board of equalization the power to assess railroad property, nor vest such power elsewhere. State v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Mont. 413, 442, 185 Pac. 708, 186 Pac. 697.

ARTICLE IV.

DISTRIBUTION OF POWERS.

Section 1. The powers of the government of this state are divided into three distinct departments: The legislative, executive, and judicial, and no person or collection of persons charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of these departments shall exercise any powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as in this constitution expressly directed or permitted.

A county attorney may hold the office of notary public, without violating the provisions of this section, and it is no objection to an affidavit used by the state, on a motion for a new trial, that the notary before whom it was taken was the county attorney. State v. Jackson, 9 Mont. 508, 519, 24 Pac. 213.

This section does not prevent the courts from controlling by mandamus the exercise by the governor of the state of a purely ministerial duty. State ex rel. State Pub. Co. v. Smith, 23 Mont. 44, 48, 57 Pac. 449.

It is not lawful for any department, or officer thereof, to interfere with the power of any other department. Jordan v. Andrus, 26 Mont. 37, 39, 66 Pac. 502, 91 Am. St. Rep. 396.

The orderly disposition of the business of the state requires the faithful observance of this section; and the legislature cannot impose upon the supreme court, or its justices, the performance of an act not judicial in its character, but purely ministerial or executive. In re Weston, 28 Mont. 207, 219, 72 Pac. 512.

Section 1192 of the Penal Code of 1895, as amended by Laws 1907, page 24, providing that any person who shall wear or use the insignia or ceremonies of any society, order, or organization of ten years' standing in this state, "unless entitled to use or wear the same, under the constitution and by-laws, rules, and regulations of such society or organization," shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, is unconstitutional and void, in that by leaving it to the different societies to supply in their secret work the description of the articles which it is unlawful to use or wear, the legislature delegated legislative powers to the orders mentioned. State v. Holland, 37 Mont. 393, 402, 96 Pac. 719. See, also, State ex rel. Bennett v. State Board of Examiners, 40 Mont. 59, 64, 104 Pac. 1055; O'Neill v. Yellowstone Irr. Dist., 44 Mont. 492, 505, 121 Pac. 283; State ex rel. Smith v. District Court, 50 Mont. 134, 138, 145 Pac. 721.

The constitution, after dividing the powers of government into three distinct departments, namely, the legislative, executive, and judicial, provides that "no person or collection of persons, charged with the exercise of powers belonging to one of these departments shall exercise powers properly belonging to either of the others;" the only exception being where some provision is found in the constitution expressly providing otherwise. State ex rel. Schneider v. Cunningham, 39 Mont. 165, 168, 101 Pac. 962.

The purpose of this section is to constitute each department an exclusive trustee of the power vested in it, accountable to the people alone for its faithful exercise, so that each may act as a check upon the other, and thus may be prevented the tyranny and oppression which would be the result of a lodgment of all power in the hands of one body. State ex rel. Schneider v. Cunningham, 39 Mont. 165, 168, 101 Pac. 962; O'Neill v. Yellowstone Irr. Dist., 44 Mont. 492, 505, 121 Pac. 283; State ex rel. Smith v. District Court, 50 Mont. 134, 140, 145 Pac. 721.

Chapter 146, Laws of 1909 (7166), providing for the creation of irrigation districts, is not, in conferring certain alleged non-judicial powers and duties in that connection upon the district judge, violative of the provisions of this section dividing the powers of government into the legislative, executive, and judicial departments, and prohibiting each from exercising any power properly belonging to either of the others. O'Neill v. Yellowstone Irr. Dist., 44 Mont. 492, 504, 121 Pac. 283.

Where the principal powers conferred upon a district judge by an act, the constitutionality of which is attacked on the ground that the powers thus bestowed are non-judicial in character, contrary to the provisions of this section, are judicial, the fact that their exercise may incidentally require the performance of legislative or administrative functions does not impair the validity of the legislation conferring it. O'Neill v. Yellowstone Irr. Dist., 44 Mont. 492, 507, 121 Pac. 283.

The separation of the government into three great departments does not mean that there shall be no common link of connection or dependence, the one upon the other in the slightest degree; but only that the powers properly belonging to one shall not be exercised by the others. State ex rel. Hillis v. Sullivan, 48 Mont. 320, 330, 137 Pac. 392.

The constitutional requirement that the several departments of government be kept distinct prevents a judge of court being made a ministerial agent to gather and furnish testimony for use by the legislature in passing upon the qualifications of its members. State ex rel. Smith v. District Court, 50 Mont. 134, 140, 145 Pac. 721.

The fact that the state auditor is a member of the industrial accident board does not render the workmen's compensation act unconstitutional on the ground that he thus holds two offices, since the only limitation upon the legislature in imposing duties upon that officer under this section prohibits the imposition of duties appertaining to the legislative or judicial—not the executive—departments of government. Shea v. North-Butte Min. Co., 55 Mont. 522, 538, 179 Pac. 499.

Laws initiated and enacted by the people may be amended by the legislature the same as acts passed by it, and the validity upon favorable action by the people on a referendum vote thereon. State ex rel. Goodman v. Stewart, 57 Mont. 144, 187 Pac. 641.

The legislative declaration that an emergency exists and that for that reason a certain act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace and safety, making the act non-referable, is not conclusive, the question—backed by facts—whether the act is of such character being a judicial one determinable by the courts. State ex rel. Goodman v. Stewart, 57 Mont. 144, 187 Pac. 641.

In determining whether an act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace or safety, and so excepted from the power reserved in the people to have a referendum, courts may consider the face of the act, the history of the legislation and contemporaneous declarations of the legislature, the evil to be remedied, and the natural or absurd consequences of any particular interpretation. State ex rel. Goodman v. Stewart, 57 Mont. 144, 187 Pac. 641.

The exception embodied in this article was not intended to extend further than to matters arising out of some unforeseen menace, public calamity, accident, sudden emergency, extraordinary occurrence or unprecedented climatic condition, rendering immediate action imperative to prevent serious or irreparable injury to the public. State ex rel. Goodman v. Stewart, 57 Mont. 144, 187 Pac. 641.

A statute which authorizes district judges to order the payment of claims against a county after disapproval by the auditor would seem to violate this section for the reason that it undertakes to cast upon district court judges a power which pertains exclusively to the executive branch of the government. State ex rel. Dolin v. Majors, 58 Mont. 140, 151, 192 Pac. 618.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Haviland v. Beadle, 42 Mont. 174, 178, 111 Pac. 720.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

Section 1. The legislative authority of the state shall be vested in a legislative assembly, consisting of a senate and house of representatives; but the people reserve to themselves power to propose laws, and to enact or reject the same at the polls, except as to laws relating to appropriations of money, and except as to laws for the submission of constitutional amendments, and except as to local or special laws, as enumerated in article V, section 26, of this constitution, independent of the legislative assembly; and also reserve power, at their own option, to approve or reject at the polls, any act of the legislative assembly, except as to laws necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, and except as to laws relating to appropriations of money, and except as to laws for the submission of constitutional amendments, and except as to local or special laws, as enumerated in article V, section 26, of this constitution. The first power reserved by the people is the initiative and eight per cent. of the legal voters of the state shall be required to propose any measure by petition; provided, that two-fifths of the whole number of the counties of the state must each furnish as signers of said petition eight per cent. of the legal voters in such county, and every such petition shall include the full text of the measure so proposed. Initiative petitions shall be filed with the secretary of state, not less than four months before the election at which they are to be voted upon.

The second power is the referendum, and it may be ordered either by petition signed by five per cent. of the legal voters of the state, provided that two-fifths of the whole number of the counties of the state must each furnish as signers of said petition five per cent. of the legal voters in such county, or, by the legislative assembly as other bills are enacted.

Referendum petitions shall be filed with the secretary of state, not later than six months after the final adjournment of the session of the legislative assembly which passed the bill on which the referendum is demanded. The veto power of the governor shall not extend to measures referred to the people by the legislative assembly or by initiative referendum petitions.

All elections on measures referred to the people of the state shall be had at the biennial regular general election, except when the legislative assembly, by a majority vote, shall order a special election. Any measure referred to the people shall still be in full force and effect unless such petition be signed by fifteen per cent. of the legal voters of a majority of the whole number of the counties of the state, in which case the law shall be inoperative until such time as it shall be passed upon at an election, and the result has been determined and declared as provided by law. The whole number of votes cast for governor at the regular election last preceding the filing of any petition for the initiative or referendum shall be the basis on which the number of the legal petitions and orders for the initiative and for the referendum shall be filed with the secretary of state; and in submitting the same to the people, he, and all other officers, shall be guided by the general laws and the act submitting this amendment, until legislation shall be especially provided therefor. The enacting clause of every law originated by the initiative shall be as follows:

"Be it enacted by the people of Montana."

This section shall not be construed to deprive any member of the legislative assembly of the right to introduce any measure.

Note.—Section 1 is given as amended by act approved March 2, 1905 (L. 1905, Ch. 61), declared to be in force by proclamation by the governor December 7, 1906.

The initiative and referendum amendment to this section was held to have been properly submitted to the people as against the objection that the secretary of state had failed to literally comply with the constitutional requirement touching publication thereof. State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 387, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39.

The referendum, while in political effect a veto, is not such in the sense in which that term is used in our constitution, and is not an invasion of the executive function. Under it the people proceed toward bills enacted by the assembly, expressing assent or dissent, in essentially the same manner as the senate upon a bill which has passed the house; they are an additional body through which acts of the legislature must pass in certain cases, and disapproval, when it occurs, is purely legislative. State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 387, 407, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39; State ex rel. Esgar v. District Court, 56 Mont. 464, 471, 185 Pac. 157.

There is not any repugnancy either between the provision of this section, which requires referred measures to be voted upon at biennial general elections, and the provisions of section 2041, Revised Codes of 1907, which forbids a local option election to be held in any month in which a general election is held. They deal with different subjects, and each is controlling in its appointed sphere. State ex rel. Eagye v. Bawden, 51 Mont. 357, 363, 152 Pac. 761.

By force of the referendum amendment to the constitution, a referable act does not become finally effective until the people have exercised their reserved power, either by declining to refer it or by approving or disapproving it at the polls. State ex rel. Esgar v. District Court, 56 Mont. 464, 475, 185 Pac. 157.

The provision of this section, reserving to the people the right to refer, and to approve or reject, an act of the legislature by their ballot, and declaring that in the interim the legislation shall be in full force and effect, means that it is in force and effect, subject to the will of the people, and that upon disapproval of a measure it becomes ineffective from the beginning, because it lacks the approval of a constitutional branch of the legislative department, namely, the people. State ex rel. Esgar v. District Court, 56 Mont. 464, 475, 185 Pac. 157.

Under the amendment to this section, a petition for referendum to be effective must be signed by five per cent of all the legal voters of the state, and each of the two-fifths of all the counties must furnish as signers five per cent of the legal voters of that county; if then the whole number from those counties does not make the required five per cent, the petition may be rendered effective by a sufficient number of signers from other counties to supply the deficiency. State ex rel. Gleason v. Stewart, 57 Mont. 397, 188 Pac. 904.

Idem. Where a suspension of a legislative act pending submission thereof to a vote of the people is sought through the medium of a referendum, the petition must be signed by fifteen per cent. of the legal voters of a majority of the whole number of counties of the state—not by fifteen per cent of all the legal voters of the state.

Idem. A legal voter, possessing the qualifications of citizenship, age, residence, etc., is one who has registered.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 264, 99 Pac. 940.

Sec. 3. No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained the age of twenty-one years, or a senator who shall not have attained the age of twenty-four years, and who shall not be a citizen of the United States, and who shall not (for at least twelve months next preceding his election) have resided within the county or district in which he shall be elected.

Sec. 4. The legislative assembly of this state, until otherwise provided by law, shall consisist of sixteen members of the senate, and fifty-five members of the house of representatives.

It shall be the duty of the first legislative assembly to divide the state into senatorial and representative districts, but there shall be no more than one senator from each county. The senators shall be divided into two classes. Those elected from odd-numbered districts shall constitute one class, and those elected from even-numbered districts shall constitute the other class; and when any additional senator shall be provided for by law, his class shall be determined by lot.

One-half of the senators elected to the first legislative assembly shall hold office for one year, and the other half for three years; and it shall be determined by lot immediately after the organization of the senate, whether the senators from the odd or even-numbered districts shall hold for one or three years.

Sec. 5. Each member of the first legislative assembly, as a compensation for his services shall receive six dollars for each day's attendance, and twenty cents for each mile necessarily traveled in going to and returning from the seat of government to his residence by the usually traveled route, and shall receive no other compensation, perquisite, or allowance whatsoever.

No session of the legislative assembly, after the first, which may be ninety days, shall exceed sixty days.

After the first session, the compensation of the members of the legislative assembly shall be as provided by law; provided, that no legislative assembly shall fix its own compensation.

This section and section 15 of this article guarantee to persons occupying the office of legislator certain rights, privileges, and emoluments, which courts of justice will regard and enforce in proper cases and upon proper showing. State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 232, 23 Pac. 733.

Under this section and section 8 of this article, the constitution fixed the compensation of members of the first legislative assembly, and conferred upon that body the power to enact laws for the payment of its successors. Such legislation can be amended at any time, subject to the restrictions that no legislative assembly can pass a law which defines its own compensation, and that members cannot receive an increase of salary or mileage. It was also contemplated that the first legislative assembly would provide the statutes which were applicable to these conditions, but it failed to discharge its functions by the passage of any laws. The second legislative assembly having made an appropriation by law for the payment of its members at the same rate established by this section, it was held that the intent of the constitution being to prevent a legislative assembly from securing extravagant compensation by its own votes, the second legislative assembly did not fix its own compensation within the intent, spirit, or scope of these sections, and the appropriation was valid. State ex rel. Harrington v. Kenney, 10 Mont. 410, 412, 25 Pac. 1022.

Sec. 6. The legislative assembly (except the first) shall meet at the seat of government at twelve o'clock noon, on the first Monday of January, next succeeding the general election provided by law, and at twelve o'clock, noon, on the first Monday of January, of each alternate year thereafter, and at other times when convened by the governor.

The term of service of the members thereof shall begin the next day after their election, until otherwise provided by law; provided, that the first legislative assembly shall meet at the seat of government upon the proclamation of the governor after the admission of the state into the union, upon a day to be named in said proclamation, and which shall not be more than fifteen nor less than ten days after the admission of the state into the union.

For ordinary purposes, the legislature may not convene oftener than once in two years. State ex rel. Bennett v. State Board of Examiners, 40 Mont. 59, 62, 104 Pac. 1055.

Sec. 7. No senator or representative shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any civil office under the state; and no member of congress, or other person holding an office (except notary public, or in the militia) under the United States or this state, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

Sec. 8. No member of either house shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, receive any increase of salary or mileage under any law passed during such term.

This section embodies an express restriction upon the powers of the legislative assembly. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 413, 28 Pac. 453.

Sec. 9. The senate shall, at the beginning and close of each regular session, and at such other times as may be necessary, elect one of its members president pro tempore. The house of representatives shall elect one of its members speaker. Each house shall choose its other officers, and shall judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its members.

The power to try the ultimate right of a person claiming to be a member of the legislative assembly is in the house where he claims his seat. State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 232, 23 Pac. 733.

Speaking generally, the state constitution is a limitation of powers, but the provision contained in this section, that each house shall judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its members, is an exception to that rule. This is a distinct grant of power by the people to each branch of the legislative assembly, a power necessary to the existence and independence of each house as an instrumentality of government. This power, emanating from the sovereign people, cannot be delegated by either house or both acting together; and likewise neither house possesses the power to divest itself of the authority thus conferred upon it. So long as the constitution stands as it is now written, no officer, individual, court, or other tribunal can infringe upon the exclusive prerogative of each house to determine for itself whether one who presents himself for membership is entitled to a seat. State ex rel. Smith v. District Court, 50 Mont. 134, 138, 145 Pac. 721.

The power conferred by the last sentence of this section is a continuing one, and may be exercised at any time during the term of the member. State ex rel. Smith v. District Court, 50 Mont. 134, 141, 145 Pac. 721.

Since each house of the legislative assembly is the judge of the ultimate right of persons to seats as members thereof, the supreme court is without jurisdiction to entertain a proceeding in quo warranto to determine such right. State ex rel. Ford v. Cutts, 53 Mont. 300, 301, 163 Pac. 470.

Each house of the legislative assembly is by the constitution clothed with plenary and exclusive authority to determine for itself, and in its own way, whether a person who presents himself for membership is entitled to a seat, and each member, after seated, holds his office at the will and pleasure of the house to which he belongs, its authority in this respect being a continuing one running throughout the term for which he is elected. State ex rel. Boulware v. Porter, 55 Mont. 471, 473, 178 Pac. 832.

Though each house of the legislative assembly has plenary power to judge of the qualifications, elections, and returns of its membership, the courts are not for that reason required to aid one who was appointed to a vacancy in one of the houses, contrary to a provision of the constitution, in his endeavor to secure the emoluments attached to the office. Sec. 10. A majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may prescribe.

Sec. 11. Each house shall have power to determine the rules of its proceedings, and punish its members or other persons for contempt or disorderly behavior in its presence; to protect its members against violence or offers of bribe or private solicitation, and with the concurrence of two-thirds, to expel a member, and shall have all other powers necessary for the legislative assembly of a free state.

A member expelled for corruption shall not thereafter be eligible to either house of the legislative assembly; and punishment for contempt or disorderly behavior shall not bar a criminal prosecution for the same offense.

Power of legislature to expel members, see 2 Ann. Cas. 759.

Sec. 12. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and may, in its discretion, from time to time, publish the same, except such parts as require secrecy, and the ayes and noes on any question shall, at the request of any two members, be entered on the journal.

This section requires that each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings; but, except those instances where the constitution requires a specific entry to be made in the journals, the question what entries shall be made, or how full or minute the entries made shall be, are matters addressed to the legislative discretion. State ex rel. Gregg v. Erickson, 39 Mont. 280, 288, 102 Pac. 336.

Right of legislature to amend or correct journals, see 21 Ann. Cas. 814.

Sec. 13. The sessions of each house and of the committees of the whole shall be open, unless the business is such as requires secrecy.

Sec. 14. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

Sec. 15. The members of the legislative assembly shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, violation of their oath of office, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sessions of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Immunity of members of legislative body from criminal arrest, see 1 A. L. R. 1156.

Sec. 16. The sole power of impeachment shall vest in the house of representatives; the concurrence of a majority of all the members being necessary to the exercise thereof. Impeachment shall be tried by the senate sitting for that purpose, and the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. When the governor or lieutenant-governor is on trial, the chief justice of the supreme court shall preside. No person shall be convicted without a concurrence of two-thirds of the senators elected.

This section provides that the sole power of impeachment is vested in the house of representatives, and that impeachment shall be tried by the senate sitting for that purpose. The senate cannot initiate the proceedings; the house must perform that function—whereupon the senate tries the impeachment. It will thus be seen that it is the legislative assembly, constituting the legislative department of the state government, to which is delegated, by the constitution, the sole power of impeachment from its initiatory step to the final judgment. In other words, the jurisdiction to conduct and determine impeachments is, by the constitution, lodged solely in the legislative department. A senator or representative, by virtue of the fact that he may act in impeachment proceedings, does not thereby lose his character or status as a member of the legislative assembly. It is only because of the fact that he is such senator or representative that he may act in such proceedings. State ex rel. Haviland v. Beadle, 42 Mont. 174, 180, 111 Pac. 720.

Sec. 17. The governor, and other state and judicial officers, except justices of the peace, shall be liable to impeachment for high crimes and misdemeanors, or malfeasance in office, but judgment in such cases shall only extend to removal from office and disqualification to hold any office of honor, trust, or profit under the laws of the state. The party, whether convicted or acquitted, shall, nevertheless, be liable to prosecution, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

A policeman is not a state officer subject to removal by impeachment in accordance with the provisions of this section. He is a public officer in the sense that he has certain duties to perform other than those strictly pertaining to the government of the municipality for which he is acting. State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 263, 99 Pac. 940.

The words "state officers," as employed in this section, do not include members of the legislative assembly. Members of the legislative assembly are not liable to impeachment. State ex rel. Haviland v. Beadle, 42 Mont. 174, 179, 111 Pac. 720.

The framers of the constitution did not regard a senator as either a state or judicial officer, within the meaning of those terms as employed in this section. He cannot be a judicial officer because the constitution expressly provides that a judicial officer may be removed by impeachment, and a senator cannot be so removed. The governor and other state and judicial officers can be removed only by impeachment. The constitutional provision is exclusive. State ex rel. Haviland v. Beadle, 42 Mont. 174, 180, 111 Pac. 720.

"Judicial officers," as used in this section, was adopted by the legislative assembly in passing section 11668, both provisions using the phrase in the same sense. State ex rel. Haviland v. Beadle, 42 Mont. 174, 180, 111 Pac. 720.

This section is only applicable to constitutional officers, and does not cover a city police judge, whose office is statutory only. State ex rel. Working v. Mayor, 43 Mont. 61, 63, 114 Pac. 777.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Rowe v. District Court, 44 Mont. 318, 323, 119 Pac. 1103, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 396; State ex rel. Payne v. District Court, 53 Mont. 350, 355, 165 Pac. 294.

Sec. 18. All officers not liable to impeachment shall be subject to removal for misconduct or malfeasance in office, in such manner as may be provided by law.

Section 3236, Revised Codes of 1907 (5015), authorizing the city council to remove any officer on written charges after notice by a two-thirds vote of all the members elect, is in consonance with this section, and the statute is a proper exercise of the legislative authority granted, and a police judge of a city may be removed in a proper case by the city council. State ex rel. Working v. Mayor, 43 Mont. 61, 63, 114 Pac. 777.

Any act involving moral turpitude, or any act which is contrary to justice, honesty, principle, or good morals, if performed by virtue of office or by authority of office, is included in the term "misconduct in office." State ex rel. Wynne v. Examining & Trial Board, 43 Mont. 389, 393, 117 Pac. 77, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 143; State ex rel. Ryan v. Board of Aldermen, 45 Mont. 188, 193, 122 Pac. 569.

In pursuance of this provision, the legislature enacted section 11688 and section 11702. From a comparison of the two sections, it appears that the first was intended to apply to those cases only in which the accused has been guilty of wilful or corrupt misconduct or malfeasance, while the other was intended to apply to those derelictions which are the result of incompetency or inattention to official duties. State ex rel. Rowe v. District Court, 44 Mont. 318, 323, 119 Pac. 1103, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 396.

This section added nothing to the power which the legislature would have had in the absence of the provisions therein contained. In other words, the legislature was left entirely free to enact such statutes as it might see fit providing for the removal of officers other than those enumerated in the preceding section. State ex rel. Payne v. District Court, 53 Mont. 350, 356, 165 Pac. 294.

Cited or applied in State v. Driscoll, 49 Mont. 558, 560, 144 Pac. 153.

Sec. 19. No law shall be passed except by bill, and no bill shall be so altered or amended on its passage through either house as to change its original purpose.

No act of legislation has the force of law, even though unanimously passed and approved by the governor, unless the requirements of this section and sections 20 and 23 of this article, that every law shall be passed by bill, that it must have an enacting clause, and a title clearly expressing the subject of the enactment, are met; and a resolution, in the passing of which neither of these essentials has been observed, is not an authoritative expression of the legislative will upon the subject with which it deals. Under this rule house joint resolution No. 13 (Laws 1909, p. 390), conferring upon the state game warden authority to appoint the widow of a deputy warden, who was killed in the discharge of his duties, a deputy in addition those authorized by statute, is invalid, and the state auditor properly refused to issue to her a warrant for services performed as such deputy warden. Sec. 20. The enacting clause of every law shall be as follows: "Be it enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the State of Montana."

Sec. 21. No bill for the appropriation of money, except for the expenses of the government, shall be introduced within ten days of the close of the session, except by unanimous consent of the house in which it is sought to be introduced.

Sec. 22. No bill shall be considered or become a law unless referred to a committee, returned therefrom, and printed for the use of the members.

Sec. 23. No bill, except general appropriation bills, and bills for the codification and general revision of the laws, shall be passed containing more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title; but if any subject shall be embraced in any act which shall not be expressed in the title, such act shall be void only as to so much thereof as shall not be so expressed.

The act of March 4, 1891, entitled "An act to amend sections 790, 795, 796, and 808, Fifth Division of the Compiled Statutes of Montana," relates to one general subject, and is not obnoxious to this section, prohibiting the passage of a law containing more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title. Hotchkiss v. Marion, 12 Mont. 218, 225, 29 Pac. 821.

The unity of title required by this section is served notwithstanding the existence of many provisions in an act, where such provisions are germane to the general subject expressed. Hotchkiss v. Marion, 12 Mont. 218, 225, 29 Pac. 821; State v. McKinney, 29 Mont. 375, 381, 74 Pac. 1095, 1 Ann. Cas. 579; In re Terrett, 34 Mont. 325, 331, 86 Pac. 266; Carlson v. Chapter IX of the proposed Penal Code of 1895, entitled "Gaming," and prohibiting the same, having been stricken out by the legislature, and prior laws authorizing certain gambling games re-enacted in lieu thereof, which were annex to chapter VIII of the Penal Code, entitled "Lotteries," the act of February 28, 1895, entitled "An act to amend chapter IX of the Penal Code of the state of Montana, and prohibiting all gambling, is in conflict with this section, since, at the time of the passage of said act of February 28 there was no chapter IX concerning gaming in the Penal Code to be amended, and as the other chapters numbered IX in said code pertained to other subjects, there was nothing in the title of the bill to indicate to which one, if any, of the three existing chapters it was an amendment. State v. Mitchell, 17 Mont. 67, 75, 42 Pac. 100.

The act entitled "An act to regulate the sale and redemption of transportation tickets of common carriers," passed in 1893, provides for the appointment of agents to sell tickets and the issuance of a license, and prescribes penalties for the violation of parts of the act. The subject of the act is clearly expressed in the title, since the penalty imposed is merely an incident to the regulation of the sale and redemption of transportation tickets, which is the subject of the law. State v. Bernheim, 19 Mont. 512, 518, 49 Pac. 441. See Snock v. Clark, 20 Mont. 230, 233, 50 Pac. 718; State v. McKinney, 29 Mont. 375, 383, 74 Pac. 1095, 1 Ann. Cas. 579; In re Terrett, 34 Mont. 325, 331, 86 Pac. 266; State v. Ross, 38 Mont. 319, 323, 99 Pac. 1056.

Where the purpose of a bill is manifestly to harmonize and revise generally sections of the law referring to the same subject it is not necessary to mention specifically in the title of the bill the several sections proposed to be amended or repealed; in such a case it is sufficient to state in the title that it is a bill for an act to revise the laws pertaining to that subject; and the fact that the title of the bill specified certain sections and did not mention one which was repealed in the body of the bill did not render it void under this section of the constitution. In re Ryan, 20 Mont. 64, 65, 50 Pac. 129. See State ex rel. Cotter v. District Court, 49 Mont. 146, 150, 152, 140 Pac. 732.

The act approved March 2, 1891, entitled "An act requiring railroad companies to pay for damages to stock," and which provides that railroad companies must fence their track or respond in damages, is not void because the title does not refer to fences or penalties. Snook v. Clark, 20 Mont. 230, 233, 50 Pac. 718. See State v. McKinney, 29 Mont. 375, 384, 74 Pac. 1095, 1 Ann. Cas. 579; In re Terrett, 34 Mont. 325, 331, 86 Pac. 266.

An act approved March 4, 1897, was entitled "An act repealing sections 470 and 472, article IX, chapter III, title I, part III, of the Political Code, relating to the appointment of the state land agent and his annual salary." These sections were amended and not repealed. The misuse of the word "repealing" in the title of such act, instead of "amending," does not violate this section, since the other words of the title clearly point out the sections, chapter, title, and code and subject to be affected by the provisions of the bill. State ex rel. Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 242, 50 Pac. 719.

The act of March 9, 1893, amending the act of 1891, concerning the compensation of county officers, and providing for the payment of sheriffs by salary, and that the commissioners shall fix the number of deputy sheriffs, is not repugnant to this section. Jobb v. County of Meagher, 20 Mont. 424, 437, 51 Pac. 1034.

The purpose of requiring singleness of subject is to prevent the practice, which was common in all legislative bodies where no such restriction existed, of embracing in the same bill incongruous matters, having no relation to each other or to the subject specified in the title, by which measures were often adopted without attracting attention. Jobb v. County of Meagher, 20 Mont. 424, 437, 51 Pac. 1034.

The act of March 4, 1897, entitled "An act to provide for the organization * * * of building and loan associations * * *," is a general revision of the laws relating to one subject embraced therein, and provides that corporations then existing should not be affected by the law unless they elected to come within its provisions. The omission in the title of this proviso did not nullify the act. Home B. & L. Assoc. v. Nolan, 21 Mont. 205, 214, 53 Pac. 738.

The title of the act of March 7, 1895, entitled "An act to amend sections 364 and 365 of the Fifth Divison of the Compiled Statutes of Montana and the amendments thereto, approved September 14, 1887," relating to the qualifications of mayors and aldermen, and declaring the same, does not conflict with this section. Dowty v. Pittwood, 23 Mont. 113, 117, 57 Pac. 727.

Laws of 1897, p. 245, entitled "An act to amend section 705 of title X, of the Penal Code of the state of Montana, to have the cages in all mines cased in," making it unlawful for any corporation to sink or work through any vertical shaft where mining cages are used to a greater depth than three hundred feet, unless such shaft shall be provided with an iron-bonneted safety-cage, sufficiently expresses the subject-matter of the act in the title, within the meaning of this section. State v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 23 Mont. 498, 500, 59 Pac. 854.

The purposes of this section are to restrict the legislature to the enactment of laws the objects of which legislators and the public as well may be advised of, to the end that any who are interested, whether as representatives or those represented, may be intelligently watchful of the course of the pending bill. The limitation is likewise designed to prevent legislators and the people from being misled by false or deceptive titles, and to guard against fraud in legislation by way of incorporating into a law provisions concerning which neither legislators nor the public have any intimation through the title read or published. State v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 23 Mont. 498, 501, 59 Pac. 854; State v. Brown, 29 Mont. 179, 208, 74 Pac. 366; Yegen v. Board of County Commrs., 34 Mont. 79, 83, 85 Pac. 740; Russell v. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Ry. Co., 37 Mont. 1, 10, 14, 94 Pac. 501; State ex rel. Holliday v. O'Leary, 43 Mont. 157, 165, 115 Pac. 204; State v. Hopkins, 54 Mont. 52, 58, 166 Pac. 304, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 956.

By this constitutional notice it is only intended that the subject of the bill shall be fairly expressed in the title. It is not necessary—for the constitution has not so declared—that a title shall embody the exact limitations or qualifications contained in the bill itself which are germane to the purpose of the legislature, if the general subject of the measure is clearly expressed in the title. Upon the highest authority it is held that, under constitutional provisions substantially like that referred to in Montana, where the degree of particularity necessary to be expressed in the title of a bill is not indicated by the constitution itself, the courts ought not to "embarrass legislation by technical interpretations based upon mere form of phraseology. The objections should be grave, and the conflict between the statute and the constitution palpable, before the judiciary should disregard a legislative enactment upon the sole ground that it embraced more than one object, or, if but one object, that it was not sufficiently expressed by the title." State v. Anaconda Copper Min. Co., 23 Mont. 498, 501, 59 Pac. 854; Yegen v. Board of County Commrs., 34 Mont. 79, 84, 85 Pac. 740; Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 143, 92 Pac. 462.

The act approved March 6, 1897, entitled "An act to amend sections 4063, 4064, 4065, 4068 and 4083 of the Political Code of Montana, and to add to article 11, chapter XII, title X, part III, of the Political Code, a section to be numbered 4084 regarding licenses," contained provisions relating to licenses of wholesale and retail liquor dealers. The subject was clearly expressed in the title. If any subject is embraced in an act, which is not expressed in its title, such act is void only as to so much as is not so expressed, as this section of the constitution should receive a liberal construction. State v. Courtney, 27 Mont. 378, 386, 71 Pac. 308.

The act approved March 18, 1895, entitled "An act providing for unlawful levy and collection of public revenue," is not in violation of the provisions of this section requiring the subject-matter of acts to be clearly expressed in their titles, the words "providing for unlawful levy," etc., being construed as meaning "providing a remedy for unlawful levy," etc. Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278, 284, 72 Pac. 659.

If the title of an act is single, and directs the mind to the subject of the law in a way calculated to direct the attention truly to the matter which is proposed to be legislated upon, the object of the provision is satisfied. It is not satisfied unless the object of the legislation is clearly so expressed. Western Ranches v. Custer County, 28 Mont. 278, 284, 72 Pac. 659; State v. Brown, 29 Mont. 179, 208, 74 Pac. 366; State v. Cunningham, 35 Mont. 547, 550, 90 Pac. 755.

Chapter 58, Laws of 1903, approved March 4, 1903, amending the game laws, is in conflict with this section and void. The subject of the act is not clearly expressed in the title, and the intent of the legislature cannot be inferred therefrom. State v. Brown, 29 Mont. 179, 207, 74 Pac. 366.

Laws of 1903, chapter 120, p. 232, section 15, entitled "An act to create the office of meat and milk inspector for the state of Montana, and prescribing his powers and duties and compensation therefor," imposing a license on persons selling milk, is not in violation of this section. State v. McKinney, 29 Mont. 375, 380, 74 Pac. 1095, 1 Ann. Cas. 579.

The purposes of this constitutional provision are to prevent the legislature from the enactment of laws surreptitiously; to prevent "log-rolling" legislation; to give to the people general notice of the character of proposed legislation, so they may not be misled; to give all interested an opportunity to appear before committees of the legislature and be heard upon the advisability of the proposed legislation; to advise members of the legislature of the character of the proposed legislation, and give each an opportunity to intelligently watch the course of the proposed bill; to guard against fraud in legislation, and against false and deceptive titles. State v. McKinney, 29 Mont. 375, 380, 74 Pac. 1095, 1 Ann. Cas. 579; State v. Hopkins, 54 Mont. 52, 58, 166 Pac. 304, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 956.

The legislature is the judge, to a great extent, at least, of the title which it will prefix to a bill; and the court has no right to hold a title void because, in its opinion, a better one might have been used. State v. McKinney, 29 Mont. 375, 381, 74 Pac. 1095, 1 Ann. Cas. 579.

The title is generally sufficient if the body of the act treats only, directly or indirectly, of the subjects mentioned in the title, and of other subjects germane thereto, or of matters in furtherance of or necessary to accomplish the general objects of the bill, as mentioned in the title. Details need not be mentioned. The title need not contain a complete list of all matters covered by the act. State v. McKinney, 29 Mont. 375, 381, 74 Pac. 1095, 1 Ann. Cas. 579; Yegen v. Board of County Commrs., 34 Mont. 79, 84, 85 Pac. 740.

Sections 11, 25, and 26 of the act approved March 15, 1901, the purpose of which was to create a state board of health, define its powers and duties, and provide for the compensation of its officers and for the enforcement of its rules, while the body of the statute, among other things, confers upon county boards of health power to declare quarantine against contagious diseases and confine persons affected with such diseases in suitable detention hospitals, for which power is also granted, is unconstitutional as in contravention of this section. Yegen v. Board of County Commrs., 34 Mont. 79, 83, 85 Pac. 740.

A penalty clause may be incorporated in an act without being designated in its title. In re Terrett, 34 Mont. 325, 331, 86 Pac. 266.

The "estray law," p. 30 of Laws of 1903, entitled "An act to define the word 'estray' and to provide a penalty for the taking up, using, or disposing of estrays upon the 'public domain,'" section 1 of which defines an estray as an animal "which is away from its accustomed range," section 2 of which makes it a misdemeanor to take from the range any estray animal, and section 3 of which provides that one who, with intent to steal, disposes of or attempts to dispose of any estray, shall be guilty of grand larceny, is void as violative of this section of the constitution, in that it embraces a subject not expressed in its title, the terms "public domain" and "range" not being synonymous. State v. Cunningham, 35 Mont. 547, 549, 90 Pac. 755.

Meaningless words or phrases in the title of an act may be discarded by construction, and if, after such elimination, the title clearly expresses the subject embraced in the act, it is not objectionable to this section. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 142, 92 Pac. 462.

The act of 1907, chapter 29, p. 50, relating to the establishment and maintenance of county free high schools, does not contain more than one subject, namely provision for the establishment and maintenance of such schools, and for validating all acts done under enactments of the legislature passed on the subject at prior sessions. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 145, 92 Pac. 462.

The object of this constitutional provision is not to embarrass honest legislation, but to prevent the vicious practice, which prevailed in states which did not have such inhibitions, of joining in one act incongruous and unrelated matters. The rule of interpretation now quite generally adopted is that, if all parts of the statutes have a natural connection and can reasonably be said to relate, directly or indirectly, to one general and legitimate subject of legislation, the act is not open to the charge that it violates this constitutional provision; and this is true no matter how extensively or minutely it deals with the details looking to the accomplishment of the main legislative purpose. Or, stating the converse of the proposition, it may be said that if, after giving the act the benefit of all reasonable doubts, it is apparent that two more independent and incongruous subjects are embraced in its provisions, the act will be held to transgress the constitutional provision, and to be void by reason thereof. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 145, 92 Pac. 462, State v. Ross, 38 Mont. 319, 322, 99 Pac. 1056.

In determining the question whether an act offends against the constitutional inhibition that no bill shall be passed containing more than one subject, the object sought to be accomplished by the legislation is a proper subject of inquiry. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 145, 92 Pac. 462.

The act of March 7, 1899 (Laws 1899, p. 79), "relating to bonds of officers and other bonds," in so far as it applies to undertakings on appeal, runs counter to the provisions of this section of the constitution, and is, to that extent, invalid. Russell v. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Ry. Co., 37 Mont. 10, 13, 94 Pac. 501.

Laws of 1907, chapter 115, p. 287, prohibiting certain forms of gambling, is not open to the constitutional objection that it contains more than one subject. State v. Ross, 38 Mont. 319, 322, 99 Pac. 1056.

The so-called "non-partisan judiciary act," Laws of 1909, chapter 113, is not in harmony with the constitutional requirement that the purpose of a statue shall be clearly expressed in the title; the title of the enactment is, "An act to provide for non-partisan nominations for judicial offices," whereas the body of it discloses the purpose of the legislation was not to provide for non-partisan nominations, for which provision was already made, but to prohibit judicial nominations by partisan political organizations. State ex rel. Holliday v. O'Leary, 43 Mont. 157, 165, 115 Pac. 204.

Section 3657, Revised Codes of 1907 (section 91, Civil Code of 1895, as reported by the code commissioner), regulating remarriage of divorced persons, was repealed by House Bill 142, approved March 6, 1895, an act to amend certain sections of the Civil Code dealing with the subject of divorce, though the title of the repealing act did not contain any reference to section 91. State ex rel. Cotter v. District Court, 49 Mont. 146, 149, 153, 140 Pac. 732.

The obvious reason for the exception of appropriation bills and bills for the codification and general revision of the laws is that the first are necessary for the maintenance of the government, and hence their validity ought not to be open to question for informality; and the latter are so extraordinary in their character that both the members of the legislative body and the public are presumed to know what is being done. It would be impracticable to formulate a title which would cover every subject embraced in such a bill, and a bill of either class does not fall within the prohibition of this section. State ex rel. Cotter v. District Court, 49 Mont. 146, 151, 140 Pac. 732.

The title of chapter 96, Laws of 1915, known as the workmen's compensation act, fairly indicates the general subject of the act, is comprehensive enough in its scope reasonably to cover all the provisions thereof, and is not calculated to mislead either the legislature or the public and is therefore sufficient to meet the requirements of this section. Lewis and Clark County v. Industrial Accident Board, 52 Mont. 6, 11, 155 Pac. 268, L. R. A. 1916D, 628.

The act regulating the practice of osteopathy, approved March 1, 1905, and the act amendatory thereof, approved March 6, 1907, are not repugnant to this section, on the ground that there is nothing in the titles of the acts indicating an intention to include "chiropractic;" the latter, like the former, having to do with the art of healing by the use of the hands, falls within the definition of "osteopathy," and must be held to have been intended as included within it. State v. Hopkins, 54 Mont. 52, 56, 166 Pac. 304, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 956.

Chapter 21, extra session Laws of 1918, known as the war defense act, has to do with but one subject, which is clearly expressed in its title namely, "to assist the United States in carrying on and prosecuting the war now existing between the United States and the German and Austrian empires," and does not contravene the provisions of this section. State ex rel. Campbell v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 504, 509, 171 Pac. 755, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1101.

Sec. 24. No bill shall become a law except by a vote of a majority of all the members present in each house, nor unless on its final passage the vote be taken by ayes and noes, and the names of those voting be entered on the journal.

Under this section, the act of March 11, 1901, relating to the limitation of time within which actions may be brought, did not become a law, it appearing from the journal of the senate that the names of the members of that branch of the legislature voting on the measure were not entered on the journal. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 34 Mont. 268, 273, 85 Pac. 1032, 9 Ann. Cas. 579.

The journal of either house of the legislature imports verity, and may be looked to to determine whether or not a bill, valid on its face, signed by the presiding officer of each house, approved by the governor, and deposited in the office of the secretary of state, was in fact passed in compliance with the requirements of this section. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 34 Mont. 268, 273, 85 Pac. 1032, 9 Ann. Cas. 579.

It is the rule in this state that the courts will not go behind the duly authenticated enrolled bill, except to determine whether on its final passage the names of those voting were entered on the journal. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 34 Mont. 268, 274, 85 Pac. 1032, 9 Ann. Cas. 579; State ex rel. Gregg v. Erickson, 39 Mont. 280, 288, 102 Pac. 336; Barth v. Pock, 51 Mont. 418, 426, 155 Pac. 282.

After a bill has, on third reading, passed the house in which it originated, the vote being taken by ayes and noes and the names of those voting entered on the journal, as required by this section, and is amended in the other house of the legislative assembly, and then returned to the first for action on the amendments, it is not necessary that the vote on the adoption of the amendments thus made be again taken by ayes and noes, and the names entered on the journal. Johnson v. City of Great Falls 38 Mont. 369, 371, 99 Pac. 1059, 16 Ann. Cas. 974.

The act approved March 8, 1897, authorizing cities and towns, among other things, to impose a license tax upon professions and occupations, is not open to the constitutional objection that it was not passed as required by this section. Johnson v. City of Great Falls, 38 Mont. 369, 371, 99 Pac. 1059, 16 Ann. Cas. 974.

Under the rule that where the constitutionality of an act is questioned on the ground of irregularity in its passage, the only purpose for which courts may go behind the enrolled bill is to ascertain whether the aye and no vote was entered in the journals of the legislative assembly, it is not permissible to determine whether an amendment to a bill made by a joint conference committee was considered by either house before passage upon third reading. State ex rel. Woodward v. Moulton et al., 57 Mont. 414, 189 Pac. 59.

Sec. 25. No law shall be revised or amended, or the provisions thereof extended by reference to its title only, but so much thereof as is revised, amended or extended shall be re-enacted and published at length.

This section has no application to an act which does not purport to be an amendment to or a revision of a prior act, but which is an additional and independent piece of legislation, impliedly amending, and hence repealing, so much of the prior act as is in conflict with it. The object sought to be attained by this prohibition of the constitution was to remedy a well-known evil. Many statutes were amended by merely striking out or adding words or phrases, the amendatory statute giving no intimation of the language of the statute so amended. To obviate the confusion and uncertainty consequent upon that mode of amendment, this section requires that the statute as amended shall be re-enacted and published at length. King v. Pony Gold Min. Co., 24 Mont. 470, 478, 62 Pac. 783.

The laws of the third legislative assembly, 1893, are not amendments to the code, but the laws of the land at the time of the passage of the codes, and continued in force. This section has no application to the act approved March 9, 1893, relating to the limitation of time within which certain actions must be brought, appearing as section 524 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 34 Mont. 268, 275, 85 Pac. 1032, 9 Ann. Cas. 579.

The act of 1907, empowering foreign corporations to exercise the right of eminent domain, is not in violation of this section. Spratt v. Helena Power Transmission Co., 37 Mont. 60, 79, 94, Pac. 631.

An act, original in form, which grants some power, confers some right, or creates some burden or obligation, is not in conflict with the provisions of this section, even though it does refer to some other existing statute, general or local, for the purpose of pointing out the procedure or some administrative detail necessary for the execution of the power, the enforcement of the right, or the discharge of the burden or obligation. Spratt v. Helena Power Transmission Co., 37 Mont. 60, 86, 94 Pac. 631.

In order to amend section 3119 of the Revised Codes of 1907, as it referred to the salaries of jailers, so as to change the language from "at a salary not to exceed ninety dollars per month" to "and receive the same salary as other deputy sheriffs," it was required, in compliance with this part of the constitution, that the entire section as amended should be re-enacted and published at length. State ex rel. Hay v. Hindson, 40 Mont. 353, 356, 106 Pac. 362.

The fact that the "non-partisan judiciary act" of 1909 amends or revises a previous statute by reference to its title only should render it void irrespective of its other constitutional defects. State ex rel. Holliday v. O'Leary, 43 Mont. 157, 168, 115 Pac. 204.

This section is absolute in its terms. It means that under no possible set of circumstances may a law be revised or amended by reference to its title only, and any act passed in violation of its provisions is absolutely void. State ex rel. Ford v. Schofield, 53 Mont. 502, 508, 165 Pac. 594.

An act which does not assume to be an amendment, nor re-enact that portion of a prior statute claimed to be amended by it, does not, under this section, have the effect of an amendment. State v. Centennial Brewing Co., 55 Mont. 500, 512, 179 Pac. 296.

Cited or applied in State v. Mitchell, 17 Mont. 67, 75, 42 Pac. 100; Dowty v. Pittwood, 23 Mont. 113, 117, 57 Pac. 727.

Necessity of re-enacting and publishing at full length code or compilation of laws sought to be amended, see 55 L. R. A. 853.

Sec. 26. The legislative assembly shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases, that is to say: For granting divorces; laying out, opening, altering or working roads or highways; vacating roads, town plats, streets, alleys or public grounds; locating or changing county seats; regulating county or township affairs; regulating the practice in courts of justice; regulating the jurisdiction and duties of justices of the peace, police magistrates or constables; changing the rules of evidence in any trial or inquiry; providing for changes of venue in civil or criminal cases; declaring any person of age; for limitation of civil actions, or giving effect to informal or invalid deeds; summoning or impaneling grand or petit juries; providing for the management of common schools; regulating the rate of interest on money; the opening or conducting of any election or designating the place of voting; the sale or mortgage of real estate belonging to minors or others under disability; chartering or licensing ferries or bridges or toll roads; chartering banks, insurance companies and loan and trust companies; remitting fines, penalties or forfeitures; creating, increasing or decreasing fees, percentages or allowances of public officers; changing the law of descent; granting to any corporation, association or individual the right to lay down railroad tracks, or any special or exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise whatever; for the punishment of crimes; changing the names of persons or places; for the assessment or collection of taxes; affecting estates of deceased persons, minors or others under legal disabilities; extending the time for the collection of taxes; refunding money paid into the state treasury; relinquishing or extinguishing in whole or in part the indebtedness, liability or obligation of any corporation or person to this state, or to any municipal corporation therein; exempting property from taxation; restoring to citizenship persons convicted of infamous crimes; authorizing the creation, extension or imparing of liens; creating offices, or prescribing the powers or duties of officers in counties, cities, township or school districts; or authorizing the adoption or legitimation of children. In all other cases where a general law can be made applicable, no special law shall be enacted.

This section embodies an express restriction upon the powers of the legislative assembly. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 413, 28 Pac. 453.

The proviso to section 794, Fifth Division, of the Compiled Statutes of 1887, enacted by the territorial legislature, which excepts the county of Missoula from the provisions of the law fixing the rate of interest on county warrants, is in conflict with the provisions of this section prohibiting the passage of local or special laws regulating county affairs and the rate of interest on money. Hotchkiss v. Marion, 12 Mont. 218, 224, 29 Pac. 821.

The creation of a new county by special act is not forbidden by this section, and matters necessarily incidental to the creation of a new county which are provided for in the act creating it, solely for the purpose of organizing the new county, and setting it in motion as one of the governmental subdivisions of the state, do not come within either the letter or the spirit of its inhibitions. Holliday v. Sweet Grass County, 19 Mont. 364, 48 Pac. 553.

A law which classifies school districts according to population, and provides a system for the election of trustees which is uniform for all districts within the same class, is not a local or special law within the meaning of this section, although the law provides that the elections in the different classes shall be held under different supervision. State ex rel. Bray v. Long, 21 Mont. 26, 30, 52 Pac. 645.

A proviso that an act, approved March 4, 1897, shall not affect any building and loan association heretofore organized under the laws of Montana, unless such association elects to come under its provisions, operates alike on all corporations, and is valid. The proviso is neither local nor special, and does not purport to charter an association. Home B. & L. Assoc. v. Nolan, 21 Mont. 205, 215, 53 Pac. 738.

The act of March 9, 1893, which by sections 1 and 2 (9826 and 9827) authorizes any corporation incorporated in the state for guarantying or becoming a surety on bonds to become a sole surety, without an affidavit showing qualifications, is not a special law regulating the practice in courts of justice, or granting to a corporation a special or exclusive privilege. King v. Pony Gold Min. Co., 24 Mont. 470, 476, 62 Pac. 783.

The provision of this section, prohibiting the legislature from passing local or special laws changing the names of persons or "places," applies to the names of counties, notwithstanding section 4, article VI, and sections 1 and 3, article XVI, of the constitution, recognize the power of the legislature to create new counties, and to change those already established. State ex rel. Sackett v. Thomas, 25 Mont. 226, 240, 64 Pac. 503.

Under the constitution, the legislature has the power to create counties and give them names, or destroy them, but after they are created they may not be disturbed by special or local legislation, except incidentally in the exercise of the creative power, or in cases where a general law cannot be made applicable. State ex rel. Sackett v. Thomas, 25 Mont. 226, 240, 64 Pac. 503.

The word "persons," as used in this section, embraces all persons, whether natural or artificial. State ex rel. Sackett v. Thomas, 25 Mont. 226, 241, 64 Pac. 503.

A person who is not one of a class whose rights are said to have been discriminated against by an alleged special act of the legislature, contrary to the provisions of this section, will not be heard to complain of its unconstitutionality on that account. Spratt v. Helena Power Transmission Co., 37 Mont. 60, 88, 94 Pac. 631.

One charged with having aided and abetted in recording, reporting, and registering a bet on a horse-race held without the state, contrary to the provisions of chapter 92, Laws of 1909, may not call the constitutionality of the act in question, on the ground that its provisions having to do with speed contests within the state, are a denial of the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the federal constitution, and local or special in their character. State v. Rose, 40 Mont. 66, 71, 105 Pac. 82.

The words "changing" and "removing" found in the constitution and the statute laws refer to the act of changing or removing a county seat that has been definitely located, and have no reference to a so-called temporary or provisional county seat. State ex rel. Geiger v. Long, 43 Mont. 401, 412, 117 Pac. 104.

The constitution makes it impossible for a private corporation to be created in this state by a special act of the legislature. In re Beck's Estate, 44 Mont. 561, 573, 121 Pac. 784.

Since section 2897, Revised Codes of 1907, requiring county printing to be done within the state, applies to all counties and to all county printing, it is neither a local nor special statute within the meaning of this section. Hersey v. Neilson, 47 Mont. 132, 147, 131 Pac. 30, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 963.

Sections 10813 and 10814, awarding the successful party in an election contest attorney's fees, etc., are not open to constitutional objections that they deny to the unsuccessful one the equal protection of the laws, grant to the former a special privilege not enjoyed by successful litigants in other cases, violate the provision that justice shall be administered without sale, denial, or delay, and constitute an attempt to delegate legislative power to the courts. Doty v. Reece, 53 Mont. 404, 408, 164 Pac. 542.

Chapter 56, Laws of 1917, creating Carter county, is not invalid as violative of this section, forbidding special legislation where a general law can be made applicable; the act creating the county being an implied legislative determination that the general law providing for the creation of new counties is no longer applicable under present conditions. State ex rel. Ford v. Schofield, 53 Mont. 502, 508, 165 Pac. 594.

The concluding sentence of this section does not prohibit special legislation altogether, but does seek to curtail it. It forbids special laws where general laws can be made applicable. State ex rel. Ford v. Schofield, 53 Mont. 502, 508, 165 Pac. 594.

Chapter 95, Laws of 1915 (1113-1132), providing for teachers' pensions, is not invalid as in contravention of this section. Trumper v. School District No. 55, 55 Mont. 90, 93 173 Pac. 946.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Lambert v. Coad, 23 Mont. 131, 139, 57 Pac. 1092; In re O'Brien, 29 Mont. 530, 537, 75 Pac. 196, 1 Ann. Cas. 373; State ex rel. Hay v. Sec. 27. The presiding officer of each house shall, in the presence of the house over which he presides, sign all bills and joint resolutions passed by the legislative assembly immediately after their titles have been publicly read, and the fact of signing shall be at once entered upon the journal.

Where the enrolled bill bore the signature of the presiding officer of each house, but the journal failed to show that the bill was signed as required by this section, and no claim was made that the bill was not duly signed, the presumption is that the legislature and the presiding officers did their duty, and that the bill was regularly passed, State ex rel. Bray v. Long, 21 Mont. 26, 35, 52 Pac. 645.

Sec. 28. The legislative assembly shall prescribe by law the number, duties and compensation of the officers and employees of each house; and no payment shall be made from the state treasury, or be in any way authorized to any such person, except to an acting officer or employee elected or appointed in pursuance of law.

Requisites of appropriation for official salary or expenses, see 16 L. R. A. (N. S.) 631; 27 L. R. A. (N. S.) 537; 49 L. R. A. (N. S.) 67.

Sec. 29. No bill shall be passed giving any extra compensation to any public officer, servant or employee, agent or contractor, after services shall have been rendered or contract made, nor providing for the payment of any claim made against the state without previous authority of law, except as may be otherwise provided herein.

This section embodies an express restriction upon the powers of the legislative assembly. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 413, 28 Pac. 453.

Sec. 30. All stationery, printing, paper, fuel and lights used in the legislative and other departments of government, shall be furnished, and the printing, and binding and distribution of the laws, journals, and department reports and other printing and binding, and the repairing and furnishing the halls and rooms used for the meeting of the legislative assembly, and its committees shall be performed under contract, to be given to the lowest responsible bidder below such maximum price and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law. No member or officer of any department of the government shall be in any way interested in any such contract; and all such contracts shall be subject to the approval of the governor and state treasurer.

A compliance with this section, providing for the approval by the governor and state treasurer of a contract for public printing, is indispensable to its validity. State ex rel. State Pub. Co. v. Hogan, 22 Mont. 384, 389, 56 Pac. 818.

The duty of the governor and state treasurer to approve a contract for state printing is not ministerial, but involves judicial discretion, and cannot be controlled by mandamus. State ex rel. State Pub. Co. v. Smith, 23 Mont. 44, 50, 57 Pac. 449.

Section 705 of the Political Code of 1895 (257), declaring that, before any contract for the furnishing of supplies to the state is let, the state furnishing board must advertise for proposals for twenty days in two daily newspapers printed in the state, is not in conflict with this section. State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 36, 66 Pac. 496; 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

Advertisements for proposals to furnish supplies are not public printing within the language or spirit of this section. State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 36, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

Validity of contract made by public officers individually, see Ann. Cas. 1912A, 867.

Validity of contract with state in which member is interested, see Ann. Cas. 1916A, 237.

Sec. 31. Except as otherwise provided in this constitution, no law shall extend the term of any public officer, or increase or diminish his salary or emolument after his election or appointment: provided, that this shall not be construed to forbid the legislative assembly from fixing the salaries or emoluments of those officers first elected or appointed under this constitution, where such salaries or emoluments are not fixed by this constitution.

Where the constitution itself does not fix the compensation of a public officer first elected thereunder, an act of the state legislature decreasing the emoluments of his office during his term, by amending the territorial statute in which they are prescribed, is not in contravention of this section; and it cannot be said that the compensation of such an officer is fixed by the constitution, within the meaning of the proviso contained in this section, by force of section 1 of article XX of the constitution, adopting the laws of the territory as the laws of the state, as such adoption is made only until such laws may be altered or repealed. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 411, 28 Pac. 453.

The proviso contained in this section is not an inhibition, but a reservation of the right of the legislative assembly to alter the statutes and fix the salary or emoluments of the sheriff, or any other officers of the same class, who were elected when the constitution was adopted. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 414, 28 Pac. 453.

If a section of the act, approved March 6, 1897, attempts to increase the salary of school trustees, elected prior to 1897, and who hold over, no other parts of the law can be held invalid. State ex rel. Bray v. Long, 21 Mont. 26, 33, 52 Pac. 645.

The legislative assembly is not prohibited by this section from adding duties to the office of county surveyor and providing compensation therefor, and thereafter taking away such duties and emoluments from a surveyor elected subsequently and before the last act was passed. The emoluments of a county surveyor, paid by fees or a per diem compensation, are not diminished by a statute, taking effect after his election, which relieves him of the obligation to perform certain duties, and destroys the compensation therefor. State ex rel. Donyes v. Board of Commrs. of Granite County, 23 Mont. 250, 252, 58 Pac. 439.

A provision such as is contained in the above section, prohibiting any law increasing or diminishing the salary or emolument of a public officer after his election or appointment, does not forbid the allowance of compensation for new and different services exacted from him during his term, where the statute imposing the duties also prescribes the compensation for their performance. The constitutional limitation in question was intended to apply only to the salary and emolument to which the officer was entitled for services required of him by the law in force at the time of his election or appointment, unless the salary then provided was intended as compensation for all services which the officer, as such, might render. State ex rel. Donyes v. Board of Commrs. of Granite County, 23 Mont. 250, 254, 58 Pac. 439.

A sheriff, who was elected in November, 1904, was allowed mileage by the law then in force at the rate of ten cents per mile actually and necessarily traveled, and ten cents per mile for each person transported to the state prison, reform school, and insane asylum. This law having been amended in 1905 so as to allow sheriffs only actual traveling expenses for such transportation, it was held not to violate the above section, and to apply to a sheriff elected prior to its passage. Scharrenbroich v. Lewis and Clark County, 33 Mont. 250, 256, 83 Pac. 482.

The amendment to section 4 of article XVI of the constitution, changing the tenure of county commissioners from four years to six years, and extending the tenure of the then incumbents, approved February 26, 1901, is not violate this section, providing that no law shall extend the term of office of any public officer after his election, the term "law," as used in this connection, having reference to legislative enactments only. State ex rel. Teague v. Board of Commrs. 34 Mont. 426, 430, 87 Pac. 450.

This section does not apply to the provision of the act of 1907, commonly called the "Police Commission Bill," that an officer then serving on the force may be reappointed, such appointment to hold during good behavior, or until the incumbent shall become incapacitated, whereby such officer is practically insured an indeterminate tenure, since prior to his appointment under the provisions of the act he is obliged to pass an examination and serve a probationary period of six months, the same as any other applicant for such a position. State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 258, 99 Pac. 940.

The purpose of the constitutional limitation against the passage of laws increasing (or diminishing) the salaries of certain public officers during the term for which they were elected, is to remove the temptation from the legislature to control the executive and judicial branches of government by promises of reward in the form of increased compensation (or threats of punishment by way of reduced salaries). State ex rel. Jackson v. Porter, 57 Mont. 343, 188 Pac. 375.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Rotwitt v. Hickman, 9 Mont. 370, 374, 23 Pac. 740; 8 L. R. A. 403; In re Dewar's Estate, 10 Mont. 426, 442, 25 Pac. 1026.

Who is public officer within constitutional or statutory prohibition against change of salary during term, see Ann. Cas. 1914C, 214.

Sec. 32. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose amendments, as in the case of other bills.

The act regulating the sale and redemption of transportation tickets of common carriers, passed in 1893, and requiring every agent to pay to the secretary of state a license fee of one dollar, is in the nature of a police regulation, and is not for revenue purposes. The fact, therefore, that the bill originated in the senate is not in violation of this section, providing that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives. State v. Bernheim, 19 Mont. 512, 515, 49 Pac. 441. See Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 146, 92 Pac. 462.

In State v. Bernheim, 19 Mont. 512, 49 Pac. 441, it was held that this provision of the constitution must be confined in its meaning to bills to levy taxes in the strict sense of the words, and it has not been understood to extend to bills for other purposes which may incidentally create revenue. And this is the interpretation now generally adopted. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 146, 92 Pac. 462.

The act of 1907, chapter 29, p. 50, relating to the establishment and maintenance of county free high schools, which originated in the senate, and which, in sections 8 and 9, makes provision for a tax to supply funds for the current expenses of such schools, and for bond issues which may be necessary to raise money to build or purchase school property, does not run counter to this section. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 146, 92 Pac. 462.

Attack on enrolled bill for improper origin, see 40 L. R. A. (N. S.) 13.

What are acts for raising revenue which must originate in the lower branch of the legislature, see 35 L. R. A. 188.

Sec. 33. The general appropriation bills shall embrace nothing but appropriations for the ordinary expenses of the legislative, executive and judicial departments of the state, interest on the public debt and for public schools. All other appropriations shall be made by separate bills, each embracing but one subject.

The term "public debt" includes warrants as well as bonds. State ex rel. Palmer v. Hickman, 11 Mont. 541, 29 Pac. 92.

Where an appropriation is a mere incident to a larger, but single subject of legislation, such as the creation of a farm loan commission under chapter 28, Laws of 1915, and providing funds for its inauguration and conduct, it need not be made by separate bill as otherwise required by this section. Hill v. Rae, 52 Mont. 378, 388, 158 Pac. 826, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 210, L. R. A. 1917, 495.

Chapter 21, Extra Session Laws of 1918, known as the war defense act, is not subject to the constitutional objection that, while it appropriates money, such appropriation is not made by a separate bill embracing one subject, as required by this section. State ex rel. Campbell v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 504, 509, 171 Pac. 755; Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1101.

Validity of statute or ordinance authorizing appropriation of money for two or more purposes, see 14 L. R. A. (N. S.) 519.

Sec. 34. No money shall be paid out of the treasury except upon appropriations made by law, and on warrant drawn by the proper officer in pursuance thereof, except interest on the public debt.

Where the state treasurer refused to pay a warrant drawn on him by the state auditor in favor of the relator for his quarterly salary as secretary of state, upon the ground that no appropriation had been made by law for the payment of any warrant issued to state officers for their services, the state treasurer was required to pay such warrant, as the provision of the constitution that certain enumerated officers shall receive the compensations specified therein is an appropriation made by law, and no legislative act is necessary. State ex rel. Rotwitt v. Hickman, 9 Mont. 370, 374, 23 Pac. 740; 8 L. R. A. 403. See, also, State ex rel. Buck v. Hickman, 10 Mont. 497, 499, 24 Pac. 93.

Where the relator applied for a writ of mandate to compel the state auditor to draw his warrant for the payment of an account due it for public printing, under a statute providing that the governor and auditor shall examine the "itemized accounts" of the contractor, which shall be rendered "once in each month," and "if they find it to be correct and in accordance with the provisions of the law, the auditor shall draw his warrant on the territorial treasurer for the payment of the same, the relator was not entitled, under this section and section 10 of article XII of the constitution, to the relief demanded in the absence of a lawful appropriation. State ex rel. Journal Pub. Co. v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 389, 394, 24 Pac. 96.

The term "public debt" embraces the floating debt of the state evidenced by warrants as well as the bonded indebtedness of the state. State ex rel. Palmer v. Hickman, 11 Mont. 541, 29 Pac. 92.

Where a judgment ordered the state auditor to draw his warrant on the treasurer for the payment of money held as escheated property, as provided in chapter 132, Laws of 1913 (9962), although the legislature had not made an appropriation for that purpose, it was invalid as in direct conflict with this section. In re Pomeroy, 51 Mont. 119, 125, 151 Pac. 333.

Cited or applied in State ex rel Donovan v. Barret, 30 Mont. 203, 205, 81 Pac. 349; Hill v. Rae, 52 Mont. 378, 388, 158 Pac. 826, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 210, L. R. A. 1917A, 495.

What constitutes "appropriation of public money within the constitutional provision relating thereto, see Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1240.

Sec. 35. No appropriation shall be made for charitable, industrial, educational or benevolent purposes to any person, corporation or community not under the absolute control of the state, nor to any denominational or sectarian institution or association.

The provision of chapter 28, laws of 1915, appropriating twenty thousand dollars to serve as a guaranty fund to assure prompt payment of interest on farm loan bonds, is void under this section, because the funds thus appropriated are "not under the absolute control of the state." Hill v. Rae, 52 Mont. 378, 388, 158 Pac. 826, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 210, L. R. A. 1917A, 495.

This section does not affect the seed-grain law of 1915, designed to furnish aid to persons engaged in agriculture who, because so reduced in circumstances by natural or other conditions beyond their control that they have no means wherewith to purchase seed, since the legislature made no appropriation for the purpose sought to be served by the act. State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrich, 54 Mont. 390, 394, 398, 170 Pac. 942.

Chapter 21, Extra Session Laws of 1918, known as the war defense act, is not objectionable as appropriating money for charitable, industrial, or benevolent purposes "to any person, corporation, or community not under the absolute control of the state," within the meaning of this section. State ex rel. Campbell v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 504, 509, 171 Pac. 755, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1101.

Validity of statute appropriating public funds for fairs, see 9 Ann. Cas. 52.

Sec. 36. The legislative assembly shall not delegate to any special commission, private corporation or association, any power to make, supervise or interfere with any municipal improvement, money, property or effects, whether held in trust or otherwise, or to levy taxes, or to perform any municipal functions whatever.

The act of 1907 establishing a police commission in cities and towns, commonly called the "Police Commission Bill," is not in violation of this section, since the board created by such act is not a "special commission." State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 261, 99 Pac. 940.

Chapter 106, Laws of 1905, providing for the creation and maintenance of drainage districts, is not open to the constitutional objection that it confers upon the drain commissioner the power to levy taxes. Billings Sugar Co. v. Fish, 40 Mont. 256, 276, 106 Pac. 565, 720 Ann. Cas. 264, 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 973.

Section 3879 et seq., creating a public service commission and defining its powers, does not infringe the provisions of this section, the public service commission not being a "special commission" within the meaning thereof. Public Service Commission v. City of Helena, 52 Mont. 527, 539, 159 Pac. 24.

Delegation of legislative power to regulate internal management of corporations, see 10 L. R. A. (N. S.) 251.

Sec. 37. No act of the legislative assembly shall authorize the investment of trust funds by executors, administrators, guardians or trustees in the bonds or stock of any private corporation.

Right of fiduciary to invest funds in private corporate stock, see 16 Ann. Cas. 69.

Investments a trustee may make without incurring liability in case of loss, see 132 A. S. R. 372.

Sec. 38. The legislative assembly shall have no power to pass any law authorizing the state, or any county in the state, to contract any debt or obligation in the construction of any railroad, nor give or loan its credit to or in aid of the construction of the same.

Appropriation in aid of railroad as within constitutional provision against giving or loaning of money or credit of state or municipality, see Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1233.

Sec. 39. No obligation or liability of any person, association or corporation, held or owned by the state, or any municipal corporation therein, shall ever be exchanged, transferred, remitted, released or postponed, or in any way diminished by the legislative assembly; nor shall such liability or obligation be extinguished, except by the payment thereof into the proper treasury.

The code section making the statute of limitations applicable to actions brought in the name of the state, or for the benefit of the state, in the same manner as to action by private parties, is not in conflict with this constitutional provision; and, since a demand for taxes is a liability created by statute, the statute of limitations may be properly invoked in an action to recover taxes by the state, or for the use and benefit of the state. Board of County Commrs. v. Story, 26 Mont. 517, 520, 69 Pac. 56.

Sec. 40. Every order, resolution or vote, in which the concurrence of both houses may be necessary, except on the question of adjournment, or relating solely to the transaction of the business of the two houses, shall be presented to the governor, and before it shall take effect be approved by him, or, being disapproved, be repassed by two-thirds of both houses, as prescribed in the case of a bill.

Joint resolution of legislature as having force and effect of law, see 18 Ann. Cas. 706.

Sec. 41. If any person elected to either house of the legislative assembly shall offer or promise to give his vote or influence in favor of or against any measure or proposition, pending or proposed to be introduced into the legislative assembly, in consideration or upon condition that any other person elected to the same legislative assembly will give, or will promise or assent to give, his vote or influence, in favor of or against any other measure or proposition pending or proposed to be introduced into such legislative assembly, the person making such offer or promise shall be deemed guilty of solicitation of bribery. If any member of the legislative assembly shall give his vote or influence for or against any measure or proposition pending or proposed to be introduced in such legislative assembly, or offer, promise or assent so to do, upon condition that any other member will give, or will promise or assent to give his vote or influence in favor of or against any other measure or proposition pending or proposed to be introduced in such legislative assembly, or in consideration that any other member hath given his vote or influence for or against any other measure or proposition in such legislative assembly, he shall be deemed guilty of bribery; and any member of the legislative assembly, or person elected thereto, who shall be guilty of either such offenses, shall be expelled and shall not thereafter be eligible to the legislative assembly, and on the conviction thereof in the civil courts, shall be liable to such further penalty as may be prescribed by law.

Solicitation of bribery, see 25 L. R. A. 439.

Sec. 42. Any person who shall directly or indirectly offer, give or promise any money or thing of value, testimonial, privilege or personal advantage, to any executive or judicial officer or member of the legislative assembly, to influence him in the performance of any of his official or public duties, shall be deemed guilty of bribery, and be punished in such manner as shall be provided by law.

For text treatment of this subject, see article on Bribery in Cal. Jur.

Sec. 43. The offense of corrupt solicitation of members of the legislative assembly, or of public officers of the state, or of any municipal division thereof, and the occupation or practice of solicitation of such members or officers, to influence their official action, shall be defined by law, and shall be punishable by fine and imprisonment.

For text treatment of this subject, see article on Bribery in Cal. Jur.

Sec. 44. A member who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the legislative assembly, shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon.

Sec. 45. When vacancies occur in either house the governor or the person exercising the functions of the governor shall issue writs of election to fill the same.

This section provides the only means for filling a vacancy caused by death or resignation of a member of either house of the legislative assembly, and the governor has no power to fill the vacancy by appointment. State ex rel. Cutts v. Hart, 56 Mont. 571, 574, 185 Pac. 769, 7 A. L. R. 1678.

ARTICLE VI.

APPORTIONMENT AND REPRESENTATION.

Section 1. One representative in the congress of the United States shall be elected from the state at large, the first Tuesday in October, 1889, and thereafter at such times and places, and in such manner as may be prescribed by law. When a new apportionment shall be made by congress the legislative assembly shall divide the state into congressional districts accordingly.

Sec. 2. The legislative assembly shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of the state in the year 1895, and every tenth year thereafter; and at the session next following such enumeration, and also at the session next following an enumeration made by the authority of the United States, shall revise and adjust the apportionment for representatives on the basis of such enumeration according to ratios to be fixed by law.

Sec. 3. Representative districts may be altered from time to time as public convenience may require. When a representative district shall be composed of two or more counties, they shall be contiguous, and the districts as compact as may be. No county shall be divided in the formation of representative districts.

Sec. 4. Whenever new counties are created, each of said counties shall be entitled to one senator, but in no case shall a senatorial district consist of more than one county.

The constitution recognizes the power of the legislature to create new counties, to change those already established, and to alter their boundaries. State ex rel. Sackett v. Thomas, 25 Mont. 226, 240, 64 Pac. 503; State ex rel. Geiger v. Long, 43 Mont. 401, 409, 117 Pac. 104.

Sec. 5. The senatorial districts of the state shall be constituted and numbered as follows:

The county of Beaverhead shall constitute the First district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Madison shall constitute the Second district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Gallatin shall constitute the Third district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Jefferson shall constitute the Fourth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Deer Lodge shall constitute the Fifth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Missoula shall constitute the Sixth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Lewis and Clark shall constitute the Seventh district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Choteau shall constitute the Eighth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Meagher shall constitute the Ninth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Silver Bow shall constitute the Tenth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Custer shall constitute the Eleventh district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Yellowstone shall constitute the Twelfth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Dawson shall constitute the Thirteenth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Fergus shall constitute the Fourteenth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Park shall constitute the Fifteenth district, and be entitled to one senator.

The county of Cascade shall constitute the Sixteenth district, and be entitled to one senator.

Sec. 6. Until an apportionment of representatives be made in accordance with the provisions of this article, they shall be divided among the several counties of the state in the following manner:

The county of Beaverhead shall have two (2).
The county of Madison shall have two (2).
The county of Gallatin shall have two (2).
The county of Jefferson shall have three (3).
The county of Deer Lodge shall have seven (7).
The county of Missoula shall have five (5).
The county of Lewis and Clark shall have eight (8).
The county of Choteau shall have two (2).
The county of Meagher shall have two (2).
The county of Silver Bow shall have ten (10).
The county of Custer shall have two (2).
The county of Yellowstone shall have one (1).
The county of Fergus shall have two (2).
The county of Park shall have two (2).
The county of Cascade shall have two (2)
The counties of Dawson and Cascade shall have one (1) jointly.
The counties of Deer Lodge and Beaverhead shall have one (1) jointly.
The counties of Jefferson and Gallatin shall have one (1) jointly.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

Section 1. The executive department shall consist of a governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer, state auditor and superintendent of public instruction, each of whom shall hold his office for four years, or until his successor is elected and qualified, beginning on the first Monday of January next succeeding his election, except that the terms of office of those who are elected at the first election, shall begin when the state shall be admitted into the union, and shall end on the first Monday of January, A. D. 1893. The officers of the executive department, excepting the lieutenant-governor, shall during their terms of office reside at the seat of government, where they shall keep the public records, books and papers. They shall perform such duties as are prescribed in this constitution and by the laws of the state. The state treasurer shall not be eligible to his office for the succeeding term.

The attorney-general is required by this section to perform such duties as are prescribed in the constitution and laws of the state. Inasmuch, however, as there appear to be by the constitution no powers or duties specifically delegated to that officer whereby he is clothed with supervisory powers over other or inferior legal officers of the state, or any subordinate government therein, or directing him to assist such other and inferior officers in the performance of their duties, the laws must be consulted to ascertain what, if any, such duties are prescribed, and what are the extent and limitations of his official authority. State ex rel. Nolan v. District Court, 22 Mont. 25, 27, 55 Pac. 916.

This section regulates the terms of state executive officers. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 590, 104 Pac. 860.

The office of the attorney-general, as it existed in England under the common law, was adopted as a part of the governmental machinery of this state, and in the absence of express restrictions, the common-law duties of that officer attach themselves to the office, in so far as they are applicable and in harmony with our system of government. State ex rel. Ford v. Young, 54 Mont. 401, 403, 170 Pac. 947.

The authority of the attorney-general conferred by the constitution, the statutes, and the common law, to institute and prosecute, in the name of the state, proceedings to abate, as nuisances, buildings used as common brothels or bawdy-houses, was not abridged by the provision of chapter 95, Laws of 1917 (11123 et seq.), under which the county attorney must, or any citizen of the county may, maintain a like action, the purpose of such provision being to supplement, and not to supersede, existing statutes. State ex rel. Ford v. Young, 54 Mont. 401, 404, 170 Pac. 947.

The fact that the state auditor is a member of the industrial accident board does not render the workmen's compensation act unconstitutional on the ground that he thus holds two offices, since the only limitation upon the legislature in imposing duties upon that officer, under section 1 of article IV of the constitution, prohibits the imposition of duties appertaining to the legislative or judicial—not the executive—departments of government. Shea v. North-Butte Min. Co., 55 Mont. 522, 538, 179 Pac. 499.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Rotwitt v. Hickman, 9 Mont. 370, 374, 23 Pac. 740, 8 L. R. A. 403; State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 Mont. 37, 42, 77 Pac. 299; State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 264, 99 Pac. 940.

Sec. 2. The officers provided for in section 1 of this article, shall be elected by the qualified electors of the state at the time and place of voting for members of the legislative assembly, and the persons respectively, having the highest number of votes for the office voted for shall be elected; but if two or more shall have an equal and the highest number of votes for any one of said offices, the two houses of the legislative assembly, at its next regular session, shall forthwith by joint ballot, elect one of such persons for said office. The returns of election for the officers named in section 1 shall be made in such manner as may be prescribed by law, and all contested elections of the same, other than provided for in this section, shall be determined as may be prescribed by law.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 Mont. 37, 42, 77 Pac. 299.

Sec. 3. No person shall be eligible to the office of governor, lieutenant-governor, or superintendent of public instruction, unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years at the time of his election, nor to the office of secretary of state, state auditor, or state treasurer, unless he shall have attained the age of twenty-five years, nor to the office of attorney general unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years, and have been admitted to practice in the supreme court of the state, or territory of Montana, and be in good standing at the time of his election. In addition to the qualifications above prescribed, each of the officers named shall be a citizen of the United States, and have resided within the state or territory two years next preceding his election.

Requirement as to eligibility of public officer as relating to time of election or time of taking office, see 11 Ann. Cas. 950, 20 Ann. Cas. 992.

Power of court to determine whether appointee to office possesses prescribed qualifications, see Ann. Cas. 1915A, 565.

Sec. 4. Until otherwise provided by law, the governor, secretary of state, state auditor, treasurer, attorney-general and superintendent of public instruction, shall quarterly, as due, during their continuance in office, receive for their services compensation, which is fixed as follows:

Governor, five thousand dollars per annum;

Secretary of state, three thousand dollars per annum;

Attorney-general, three thousand dollars per annum;

State treasurer, three thousand dollars per annum;

State auditor, three thousand dollars per annum;

Superintendent of public instruction, two thousand five hundred dollars per annum.

The lieutenant-governor shall receive the same per diem as may be prescribed by law for the speaker of the legislative assembly, to be allowed only during the sessions of the legislative assembly.

The compensation enumerated shall be in full for all services by said officers respectively rendered in any official capacity or employment whatever during their respective terms of office, and the salary of no official shall be increased during his term of office. No officer named in this section shall receive, for the performance of any official duty, any fee for his own use, but all fees fixed by law for the performance by any officer of any official duty, shall be collected in advance, and deposited with the state treasurer quarterly to the credit of the state. No officer mentioned in this section shall be eligible to, or hold any other public office, except member of the state board of education during his term of office.

This section embodies an express restriction upon the powers of the legislative assembly. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 413, 28 Pac. 453.

The language used in the first paragraph of this section, "shall quarterly, as due, during their continuance in office, receive for their services," etc., appears to indicate that the officer may claim his salary whether he serves or not, provided he has title to the office. Sec. 5. The supreme executive power of the state shall be vested in the governor, who shall see that the laws are faithfully executed.

For text treatment of this subject, see 12 R. C. L. 998; also, article on Governor in Cal. Jur.

Sec. 6. The governor shall be commander-in-chief of the militia forces of the state, except when these forces are in the actual service of the United States, and shall have power to cut out any part or the whole of said forces to aid in the execution of the laws, to suppress insurrection or to repel invasion.

The constitution and laws of the state are the charters of the governor's powers, and in them he must find the authority for his official acts. Herlihy v. Donohue, 52 Mont. 601, 609, 161 Pac. 164, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 29, L. R. A. 1917B, 702.

Power of governor, in exercise of power to suppress insurrection, to authorize arrest and detention of persons without turning them over to the civil authorities, see 12 L. R. A. (N. S.) 979.

Sec. 7. The governor shall nominate, and by and with the consent of the senate, appoint all officers whose offices are established by this constitution, or which may be created by law, and whose appointment or election is not otherwise provided for. If during a recess of the senate a vacancy occur in any such office, the governor shall appoint some fit person to discharge the duties thereof until the next meeting of the senate, when he shall nominate some person to fill such office. If the office of secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney-general or superintendent of public instruction shall be vacated by death, resignation or otherwise, it shall be the duty of the governor to fill the same by appointment, and the appointee shall hold his office until his successor shall be elected and qualified.

The power to appoint or delegate the appointing power is reserved to the people, acting through the legislature, in every instance, excepting those enumerated in the constitution. Bounty inspectors are not officers whose appointment is "otherwise provided for" in this section, and the legislature had the power, by the act of March 6, 1903, to delegate the selection of three stockgrowers in each county to appoint bounty inspectors to the district judges. In re Terrett, 34 Mont. 325, 333, 86 Pac. 266.

There is no limit to the term of officers whose offices are established by the constitution or which may be created by law, except as provided in the various portions of the constitution which deal with particular officers. State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 264, 99 Pac. 940.

As soon as a vacancy occurs, the appointing power may act, but since the constitution does not distinguish vacancies into different classes on account of the exigencies which occasion them, the term for which the appointment holds good is governed by the limitations upon the appointing power therein prescribed. State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 336, 146 Pac. 962.

Sec. 8. The legislative assembly shall provide for a state examiner, who shall be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate. His duty shall be to examine the accounts of state treasurer, supreme court clerks, district court clerks, and all county treasurers and treasurers of such other public institutions as may be prescribed by law, and shall perform such other duties as the legislative assembly may prescribe. He shall report at least once a year and oftener if required to such officers as may be designated by the legislative assembly. His compensation shall be fixed by law.

Cited or applied in Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 415, 28 Pac. 453; in State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 264, 99 Pac. 940.

Sec. 9. The governor shall have the power to grant pardons, absolute or conditional, and to remit fines and forfeitures, and to grant commutation of punishments and respites after conviction and judgment for any offenses committed against the criminal laws of the state: provided, however, that before granting pardons, remitting fines and forfeitures, or commuting punishments, the action of the governor concerning the same shall be approved by a board, or a majority thereof, composed of the secretary of state, attorney general and state auditor, who shall be known as the board of pardons. The legislative assembly shall by law prescribe the sessions of said board, and regulate the proceedings thereof. But no fine or forfeiture shall be remitted, and no commutation or pardon granted, except upon the approval of a majority of said board after a full hearing in open session and until notice of the time and place of such hearing, and of the relief sought, shall have been given by publication in some newspaper of general circulation in the county where the crime was committed, at least once a week for two weeks. The proceedings and decisions of the board shall be reduced to writing, and with their reasons for their action in each case, and the dissent of any member who may disagree, signed by them and filed, with all papers used upon the hearing, in the office of the secretary of state. The governor shall communicate to the legislative assembly, at each regular session, each case of remission of fine or forfeiture, reprieve, commutation or pardon granted since the last previous report, stating the name of the convict, the crime of which he was convicted, the sentence and its date, and the date of remission, commutation, pardon or reprieve, with the reasons for granting the same and the objections, if any, of any member of the board made thereto.

In the exercise of the pardoning power, the governor is authorized to impose conditions without restriction, so long as they are not illegal, immoral, or impossible of performance. In re Sutton, 50 Mont. 88, 93, 145 Pac. 6, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1223.

Power of executive to remit fines and forfeitures, see 17 Ann. Cas. 603.

Power of governor to pardon as confined to offenses against the state, see 16 Ann. Cas. 115, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 484.

Sec. 10. The governor may require information in writing from the officers of the executive department upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, which information shall be given upon oath whenever so required; he may also require information in writing, at any time, under oath, from all officers and managers of state institutions, upon any subject relating to the condition, management and expenses of their respective offices and institutions, and may, at any time he deems it necessary, appoint a committee to investigate and report to him upon the condition of any executive office or state institution. The governor shall at the beginning of each session, and from time to time, by message, give to the legislative assembly information of the condition of the state, and shall recommend such measures as he shall deem expedient. He shall also send to the legislative assembly a statement with vouchers of the expenditures of all moneys belonging to the state and paid out by him. He shall also at the beginning of each session present estimates of the amount of money required to be raised by taxation for all purposes of the state.

The utmost extent of the governor's authority, so far as constructive legislative work is concerned, is to recommend such measures as he shall deem expedient. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 535, 77 Pac. 312.

Sec. 11. He may on extraordinary occasions convene the legislative assembly by proclamation, stating the purposes for which it is convened, but when so convened, it shall have no power to legislate on any subjects other than those specified in the proclamation, or which may be recommended by the governor, but may provide for the expenses of the session and other matters incidental thereto. He may also by proclamation convene the senate in extraordinary session for the transaction of executive business.

When convened in extraordinary session, the power of the legislature is as absolute as when convened in regular session, except that it is then limited to enacting laws affecting those subjects only that are enumerated in the governor's call, or in his message. In order to determine whether legislation passed at an extraordinary session of the legislature is germane to the subject specified in the proclamation, it is incumbent on the court to examine the proclamation as a whole, giving to the language used its ordinary meaning, and a rule of liberal interpretation should be applied, to the end that the legislation be operative. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 535, 77 Pac. 312.

Where a proclamation of the governor convened the legislature in extra session, for the purpose of enacting general legislation by which the bias and prejudice of district judges should be made a disqualification of such judges to try any case that may come before them, as well as legislation making suitable provision for the trial of such case or cases in such event, and the legislature met and passed the act of December 10, 1903, amending section 180 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895, so as to provide that, on the filing of an affidavit of prejudice against a district judge, he should no longer act, and also amending section 615 of the same code, so as to provide that in such case, if a jualified judge should be called to try the cause within thirty days after such disqualification, no change of venue therefor should be had, such legislation was germane to the governor's call, as required by this section of the constitution. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 536, 77 Pac. 312.

Although, for ordinary purposes, the legislature may convene only once in every two years, the governor may call it into extra session at other times for extraordinary purposes. State ex rel. Bennett v. State Board of Examiners, 40 Mont. 59, 62, 104 Pac. 1055.

Validity of statute passed at special or extra session of legislature, see 21 Ann. Cas. 409.

Sec. 12. Every bill passed by the legislative assembly shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor. If he approve, he shall sign it, and thereupon it shall become a law; but if he do not approve, he shall return it with his objections to the house in which it originated, which house shall enter the objections at large upon its journal and proceed to reconsider the bill. If then two-thirds of the members present agree to pass the same, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of the members present in that house it shall become a law notwithstanding the objections of the governor. In all such cases the vote of each house shall be determined by yeas and nays, to be entered on the journal. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislative assembly shall by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not become a law without the approval of the governor. No bill shall become a law after the final adjournment of the legislative assembly, unless approved by the governor within fifteen days after such adjournment. In case the governor shall fail to approve of any bill after the final adjournment of the legislative assembly it shall be filed, with his objections, in the office of the secretary of state.

The act of 1907, page 50, relating to the establishment of county free high schools, provides that it "shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage and approval by the governor." It was never expressly approved by the governor, but became a law pursuant to this section. The provision of the section, that if any bill be not returned by the governor within five days after presentment to him, it shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, being binding upon the legislature, the act in question became a law notwithstanding the above provision therein contained. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 153, 92 Pac. 462.

A measure having been passed on the last day of a legislative session, and not acted upon by the executive until after final adjournment, would require the governor's signature to make it operative. State ex rel. Hay v. Hindson, 40 Mont. 353, 357, 106 Pac. 362.

Chapter 56, Laws of 1917, creating Carter county, became a law without the approval of the governor, pursuant to this section. State ex rel. Ford v. Schofield, 53 Mont. 502, 508, 165 Pac. 594.

Right of executive to sign a bill after the adjournment of the legislative bodies, see 37 L. R. A. 391.

Sec. 13. The governor shall have power to disapprove of any item or items of any bill making appropriations of money, embracing distinct items, and the part or parts approved shall become a law, and the item or items disapproved shall be void, unless enacted in the manner following: If the legislative assembly be in session he shall within five days transmit to the house in which the bill originated, a copy of the item or items thereof disapproved, together with his objections thereto, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered, and each item shall then take the same course as is prescribed for the passage of bills over the executive veto.

Power of governor to veto part only of statute, see 55 L. R. A. 882.

Sec. 14. In case of the failure to qualify, the impeachment or conviction of felony or infamous crime of the governor, or his death, removal from office, resignation, absence from the state, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office, for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease, shall devolve upon the lieutenant-governor.

The only instance in the constitution in which authority is given to one called upon to fill vacancy to hold for the residue of the term is in case of a vacancy in the office of governor, and in that instance the lieutenant-governor becomes governor by right of succession, and not of appointment. State ex rel. McGowan v. Sedgwick, 46 Mont. 187, 189, 190, 127 Pac. 94.

Effect of death of person elected before taking office, or of his failure to qualify, see 50 L. R. A. (N. S.) 374.

Sec. 15. The lieutenant-governor shall be president of the senate, but shall vote only when the senate is equally divided. In case of the absence or disqualification of the lieutenant-governor, from any cause which applies to the governor, or when he shall hold the office of governor, then the president pro tempore of the senate shall perform the duties of the lieutenant-governor until the vacancy is filled or the disability removed.

Sec. 16. In case of the failure to qualify in his office, death, resignation, absence from the state, impeachment, conviction of felony or infamous crime, or disqualification from any cause, of both the governor and the lieutenant-governor, the duties of the governor shall devolve upon the president pro tempore of the senate until such disqualification of either the governor or lieutenant-governor be removed, or the vacancy filled, and if the president pro tempore of the senate, for any of the above-named causes, shall become incapable of performing the duties of governor, the same shall devolve upon the speaker of the house.

Sec. 17. The first legislative assembly shall provide a seal for the state, which shall be kept by the secretary of state and used by him officially, and known as the great seal of the state of Montana.

Sec. 18. All grants and commissions shall be in the name and by the authority of the state of Montana, sealed with the great seal of the state, signed by the governor, and countersigned by the secretary of state.

Where the commission of the state land agent was signed by the governor, but the secretary of state refused to countersign it and seal it with the great seal, as required by this section, the appointment was legal notwithstanding such refusal on the part of the secretary of state. The refusal of the latter official to do the acts enjoined upon him cannot affect the validity of the appointment, or destroy the efficacy of the governor's acts. State ex rel. Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 248, 50 Pac. 719.

Sec. 19. An account shall be kept by the officers of the executive department, and of all public institutions of the state of all moneys received by them, severally from all sources, and for every service performed, and of all moneys disbursed by them severally, and a semi-annual report thereof shall be made to the governor, under oath; they shall also, at least twenty days preceding each regular session of the legislative assembly, make full and complete reports of their official transactions to the governor, who shall transmit the same to the legislative assembly.

Although this section provides that the qualifications of a county attorney shall be the same as are required for a judge of the district court, and section 35 of this article prohibits a district judge from holding any other office while he remains in the office to which he has been elected or appointed, a county attorney may hold the office of notary public, and it is no objection to an affidavit used by the state, on a motion for a new trial, that the notary before whom it was taken was the county attorney. State v. Jackson, 9 Mont. 508, 518, 24 Pac. 213.

Sec. 20. The governor, secretary of state and attorney general shall constitute a board of state prison commissioners, which board shall have such supervision of all matters connected with the state prisons as may be prescribed by law. They shall constitute a board of examiners, with power to examine all claims against the state, except salaries or compensation of officers fixed by law, and perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law. And no claim against the state, except for salaries and compensation of officers fixed by law, shall be passed upon by the legislative assembly without first having been considered and acted upon by said board. The legislative assembly may provide for the temporary suspension of the state treasurer by the governor, when the board of examiners deem such action necessary for the protection of the moneys of the state.

The compensation of members of the legislative assembly is fixed by the constitution, and is not a claim against the state which must be considered and acted upon by the state board of examiners. State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 242, 23 Pac. 733.

Where the compensation of a state officer as fixed by law, the claim for his services and mileage cannot be passed upon by the state board of examiners. State ex rel. Bickford v. Cook, 17 Mont. 529, 43 Pac. 928.

The board of examiners have no control over the funds realized from the sale of bonds for the erection of buildings at the state university, and the state treasurer is required to pay any warrants properly drawn against that fund without requiring action on a claim therefor by the state board of examiners. State v. Collins, 21 Mont. 448, 53 Pac. 1114.

The funds and income derived from the grant by act of congress of certain lands for the state agricultural college are trust funds, disbursed through the agency of the state, and are not subject to the provisions of this section relative to the auditing of claims by the state board of examiners. State ex rel. Koch v. Barret, 26 Mont. 62, 68, 66 Pac. 504.

This section, empowering the governor, secretary of state, and attorney-general a board of examiners, cannot be regarded as one of the exceptions contemplated by the constitution, in providing against the invasion of one department of government by another, so as to allow this board to interfere with the supreme court in regard to the appointment, etc., of a stenographer for the court. State ex rel. Schneider v. Cunningham, 39 Mont. 165, 167, 101 Pac. 962.

This section applies to unliquidated claims, and not to those the amounts of which have been fixed specifically by contract or by any department of the state government having authority to fix them. State ex rel. Schneider v. Cunningham, 39 Mont. 165, 172, 101 Pac. 962.

ARTICLE VIII.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENTS.

Section 1. The judicial power of the state shall be vested in the senate sitting as a court of impeachment, in a supreme court, district courts, justices of the peace, and such other inferior courts as the legislative assembly may establish in any incorporated city or town.

The act of March 6, 1891, conferring on clerks of the district courts the power in vacation to grant letters of guardianship, where no protests or objections are filed thereto, cannot be construed to clothe the clerk of a district court with authority to hear evidence and adjudicate a person mentally incompetent to care for himself or to manage his property, as such authority would involve the exercise of judicial power, which, under the constitution and law of the state, is vested in the judge of the district court. In re Kane's Estate, 12 Mont. 197, 203, 29 Pac. 424.

The district courts of this state are distinct entities, and the transfer of a cause from one district to another would amount to a change of venue. State ex rel. Boston & M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 193, 199, 76 Pac. 10.

There is a well-defined distinction between a particular district court and the judges of that court, but the authority of the justice of the peace and of the justice of the peace court, so far as judicial matters are concerned, is identical. State ex rel. Grissom v. Justice Court, 31 Mont. 258, 261, 78 Pac. 498.

A state senator is a member of the legislative department, though the senate, when sitting as a court of impeachment, is a court exercising judicial functions, with power to judge the law and the evidence, and the term "judicial officers," as used in chapter 113, Laws of 1909, requiring nominations for judicial offices to be made by petition only, as provided by section 524, Revised Codes of 1907, does not include a senator, the term "judicial officers" being limited to judges of the supreme and district courts, justices of the peace, and judges of other inferior courts. State ex rel. Haviland v. Beadle, 42 Mont. 174, 179, 111 Pac. 720.

"Judicial power," within the meaning of this section, is the power of a court to decide and pronounce a judgment and carry it into effect between persons and parties who bring a case before it for decision. Shea v. North-Butte Min. Co., 55 Mont. 522, 537, 179 Pac. 499.

What is judicial power within constitutional theory as to separation of powers of government, see Ann. Cas. 1913E, 1097.

SUPREME COURT.

Sec. 2. The supreme court, except as otherwise provided in this constitution, shall have appellate jurisdiction only, which shall be co-extensive with the state, and shall have a general supervisory control over all inferior courts, under such regulations and limitations as may be prescribed by law.

State lands, after sale, but before the price is fully paid, are subject to taxation as the property of the purchaser, notwithstanding this section exempts the property of the state from taxation and the state holds the legal title as security for the deferred payments. Courtney v. Missoula County, 21 Mont. 591, 55 Pac. 359.

The fact that the constitution gives the supreme court supervisory control over inferior courts does not authorize it to grant a writ of prohibition, prohibiting a district court from appointing a receiver of a corporation merely to avert probable injury to the applicants for the writ. State ex rel. Boston & M. C. C. & S. M. Co. v. District Court, 22 Mont. 220, 240, 56 Pac. 219.

Except as otherwise provided in the constitution, the supreme court has appellate jurisdiction only. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 379, 381, 62 Pac. 493, 51 L. R. A. 958.

Under the last clause of this section, the legislature cannot decrease the power granted to the supreme court, but has power to provide the mode of procedure to be employed, by which, and the limitation as to time within which the power granted should be exercised. State ex rel. Whiteside v. District Court, 24 Mont. 539, 563, 63 Pac. 395.

It seems that the supervisory powers of the supreme court cannot be rendered of no avail by the failure of the legislature to act, and that said court may, in the absence of legislation, establish rules for the exercise of its appellate and supervisory jurisdiction. State ex rel. Whiteside v. District Court, 24 Mont. 539, 563, 63 Pac. 395.

The grant of appellate jurisdiction to the supreme court implies all the instrumentalities necessary to make it effective. The provision of this section, that the supreme court "shall have a general supervisory control over all inferior courts," is a distinct and separate grant of jurisdiction, independent of any other power granted. State ex rel. Whiteside v. District Court, 24 Mont. 539, 558, 63 Pac. 395. See State ex rel. Shores v. District Court, 27 Mont. 349, 352, 71 Pac. 159.

One of the functions of the supervisory power of the supreme court is to control the course of litigation in the inferior courts, where those courts are proceeding within their jurisdiction, but by a mistake of law, or wilful disregard of it, are doing a gross injustice, and there is no appeal, or the remedy by appeal is inadequate. State ex rel. Whiteside v. District Court, 24 Mont. 539, 563, 63 Pac. 395; State ex rel. Shores v. District Court, 27 Mont. 349, 352, 71 Pac. 159.

The proper instrument by which the supreme court exercises its power of supervisory control over inferior courts is the "supervisory writ," which must be framed when the case properly arises. State ex rel. Whiteside v. District Court, 24 Mont. 539, 565, 63 Pac. 395.

The writ of mandate will not be made to serve the office of a supervisory control writ. Montana Ore Purchasing Co. v. Lindsay, 25 Mont. 24, 29, 63 Pac. 715.

A writ of supervisory control will not be granted to command a district court to sustain a motion for judgment on the pleadings, since the party has a remedy if he should finally be defeated in the action. State ex rel. Moore v. District Court, 25 Mont. 31, 32, 63 Pac. 686.

The power of supervisory control is a distinct power, and may be exercised to control the discretion of an inferior court in making an order from which no appeal would lie, and for which the writs appertaining to the appellate jurisdiction furnish no remedy. State ex rel. Anaconda

C. M. Co. v. District Court, 25 Mont. 504, 522, 65 Pac. 1020.

Where defendant sued relators, alleging that they were removing ore from certain premises the right to which was in defendant, but the evidence showed that the prima facie right was in relators, an order granting defendant and his employees the right to enter and inspect all of relators' surrounding mines for the period of forty days for the purpose of obtaining evidence, being an order not appealable nor subject to control by any of the specified writs within the jurisdiction of the supreme court, it was a proper case for the supreme court to exercise the power of supervisory control over the inferior court conferred by this section. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. District Court, 25 Mont. 504, 521, 65 Pac. 1020. See State ex rel. Shores v. District Court, 27 Mont. 349, 353, 71 Pac. 159.

The words "limitations" and "regulations," as used in this section, means restrictions of power and rules of conduct or proceeding. The legislature has no power to regulate the physical form of the pleadings and instruments to be filed with the supreme court, and the acts, approved March 9, 1901, providing that transcripts on appeal may be printed or typewritten, at the election of appellant, is invalid. Jordan v. Andrus, 26 Mont. 37, 39, 66 Pac. 502, 91 Am. St. Rep. 396.

The supreme court is without power, either inherent or constitutionally conferred, to allow temporary alimony or suit money pending an appeal in a divorce case. After an appeal is taken the action is still in the district court, the primary forum. The allowance of suit money or temporary alimony is not within the original jurisdiction of the supreme court, nor is it necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Bordeaux v. Bordeaux, 26 Mont. 533, 535, 69 Pac. 103. See Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 118, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517; Bordeaux v. Bordeaux, 29 Mont. 478, 482, 75 Pac. 359.

The power of limitation given the legislature does not extend to the right of appeal from final judgments, or to the power of the court on such appeals, but merely to the time when and within which appeals may be taken, to matters of procedure, and to the extent of relief to be granted on appeals from interlocutory orders. Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 113, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517.

Under the provision of this section conferring appellate jurisdiction on the supreme court "under such regulations as may be prescribed by law," if the legislature fails to provide the necessary appellate procedure, the court may adopt rules for itself in the place thereof. Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 114, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517.

Contempt proceedings are not, within the meaning of the constitution, cases at law or in equity which, in the absence of legislative action authorizing it, may be reviewed by appeal. State ex rel. Sutton v. District Court, 27 Mont. 128, 130, 69 Pac. 988.

If section 2183, Code of Civil Procedure of 1895 (9921), providing that the judgment in a case of contempt is final and conclusive, and there is no appeal, but the action of a district court can be reviewed on a writ of certiorari by the supreme court, is intended to preclude the supreme court from reviewing except by certiorari, a judgment of contempt, it violates the provision of this section giving the supreme court a general supervisory control over all inferior courts, under such regulations and limitations as may be prescribed by statute; a writ of supervisory control being the only means by which the question whether there is evidence to support a judgment of contempt can be determined. State ex rel. Sutton v. District Court, 27 Mont. 128, 130, 69 Pac. 988.

The ordinary appellate power of the supreme court is limited to a review of the decision of the lower court, and a judgment affirming, modifying, or reversing such decision, with the strictly ancillary power to issue, hear, and determine such original and remedial writs as may be necessary or proper to the complete exercise of this appellate jurisdiction. In re Weston, 28 Mont. 207, 215, 72 Pac. 512.

The power of supervisory control is lodged in the supreme court sitting as an organized judicial body, and such power operates only upon inferior courts; it cannot extend to or affect any other body or any individual or individuals. In re Weston, 28 Mont. 207, 215, 72 Pac. 512.

Under this section and sections 3 and 15 of this article, the supreme court has jurisdiction to entertain appeals or writs of error only when the statutory requirements have been complied with. Featherman v. Granite County, 28 Mont. 462, 463, 72 Pac. 972.

The regulations which "may be prescribed by law," mentioned in this section, refer to statutes adopted or to be enacted, providing the methods by which appeals and proceedings upon writs of error may be perfected. Featherman v. Granite County, 28 Mont. 462, 463, 72 Pac. 972.

The purpose of the body that formulated the state constitution was to establish a court exclusively one of review, with all the auxiliary powers necessary to the exercise of this jurisdiction, except in so far as it expressly declared otherwise. State ex rel. City of Helena v. Helena W. W. Co., 43 Mont. 169, 172, 115 Pac. 200.

The appellate jurisdiction granted the supreme court in this section is properly invoked by appeal only, or perhaps by writ of error, and is confined in its exercise to a review of cases which have been decided by the district courts. State ex rel. City of Helena v. Helena W. W. Co., 43 Mont. 169, 173, 115 Pac. 200.

The supervisory power of the supreme court granted by this section was designed to control summarily the course of litigation in the inferior courts and prevent injustice being done through a mistake of law or a wilful disregard of it, where there is no appeal from the erroneous action, or where, there being an appeal, the relief obtained thereby would be inadequate. State ex rel. City of Helena v. Helena W. W. Co., 43 Mont. 169, 173, 115 Pac. 200.

While, under the provisions of this section and section 15 of this article, all the decisions of district courts are subject to review by the supreme court by some appropriate procedure, causes may be removed to it by appeal only under the limitations and regulations prescribed by statute. Pierson v. Daly, 49 Mont. 478, 480, 143 Pac. 957.

By reason of this section, the legislature is without authority to provide that a cause appealed to the supreme court under the provisions of 2962, shall be tried anew upon the record made in the district court and before the Industrial Accident Board. Willis v. Pilot Butte Min. Co., 58 Mont. 26, 34, 190 Pac. 124.

Sec. 3. The appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court shall extend to all cases at law and in equity, subject, however, to such limitations and regulations as may be prescribed by law. Said court shall have power in its discretion to issue and to hear and determine writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, quo-warranto, certiorari, prohibition and injunction, and such other original and remedial writs as may be necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. When a jury is required in the supreme court to determine an issue of fact, said court shall have power to summon such jury in such manner as may be provided by law. Each of the justices of the supreme court shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the state, upon petition by or on behalf of any person held in actual custody, and may make such writs returnable before himself, or the supreme court, or before any district court of the state, or any judge thereof; and such writs may be heard and determined by the justice or court, or judge, before whom they are made returnable. Each of the justices of the supreme court may also issue and hear and determine writs of certiorari in proceedings for contempt in the district court, and such other writs as he may be authorized by law to issue.

This section cannot be construed to restrict the supreme court to the use of a writ of certiorari in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction only, as the clause "necessary and proper to complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction" relates to "such other original and remedial writs," and not to the writs specifically named therein. In re MacKnight, 11 Mont. 126, 132, 27 Pac. 336, 28 Am. St. Rep. 451.

The framers of the constitution, in referring to the writ of certiorari, contemplated that proceeding as defined in our jurisprudence, as to its office and the conditions under which it may be invoked. In re MacKnight, 11 Mont. 126, 132, 27 Pac. 336; 28 Am. St. Rep. 451; In re Finkelstein, 13 Mont. 425, 427, 34 Pac. 847.

The scope of the writ of certiorari is not enlarged by this section so as to permit a review by the supreme court of an order of the district court for the payment of alimony where imprisonment for contempt is involved, notwithstanding the relator had a remedy by appeal from such order. In re Finkelstein, 13 Mont. 425, 427, 34 Pac. 847.

The supreme court has power, in its discretion, to issue, hear, and determine writs of prohibition. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 379, 381, 62 Pac. 493, 51 L. R. A. 958.

Under the constitutional grant of original jurisdiction to the supreme court, the writ of injunction is the equity arm of the court's original jurisdiction, and it, with the other writs granted, fully equip the court as a court of first resort on all judicial questions affecting the sovereignty of the state, its franchises or prerogatives, or the liberties of the people. The writ is made correlative with that of mandamus, and thus it may be resorted to to restrain excess, just as the writ of mandamus may be used in the same class of cases to compel action and supply defacts. State ex rel. Clarke v. Moran, 24 Mont. 433, 439, 63 Pac. 390.

Under the constitutional grant of original jurisdiction to the supreme court, the writ of injunction may properly be used to control a public officer in the exercise of his duties under the election law, that is, to restrain him from proceeding under a valid election law to act in excess of his duty. Mandamus will not lie to restrain a public officer who is proceeding to do what the law does not permit. State ex rel. Clarke v. Moran, 24 Mont. 433, 440, 63 Pac. 390.

Under the constitutional grant of original jurisdiction to the supreme court, where the facts stated, in an application for the writ of injunction, present a case affecting the interests of the whole people of the state, the court has jurisdiction to issue the writ. State ex rel. Clarke v. Moran, 24 Mont. 433, 442, 63 Pac. 390.

The supreme court has no authority, by virtue of its supervisory control, to vacate under a writ of certiorari an order of the district court discharging a prisoner in habeas corpus proceedings, since the supervisory control constitutes a grant of power independent of the court's appellate jurisdiction or power to issue original writs, and cannot be exercised under any original writ specified in this section. State ex rel. Whiteside v. District Court, 24 Mont. 539, 558, 63 Pac. 395.

The provision of this section, authorizing the supreme court in its discretion to issue and to hear and determine the writs therein specified, is a grant of power without limitation or qualification, authorizing such court to issue these writs for whatever purposes they are suitable. State ex rel. Whiteside v. District Court, 24 Mont. 539, 562, 63 Pac. 395.

The supreme court is not authorized to suspend the operation of, vacate, or set aside a prohibitory injunction order restraining parties from entering or mining in a lode claim, during the pendency of an appeal therefrom. Maloney v. King, 26 Mont. 487, 491, 68 Pac. 1012.

No appeal lies from a refusal of a district judge to grant a certificate of probable cause in a criminal case, but a justice of the supreme court can issue such certificate upon such refusal. State v. Broadbent, 27 Mont. 63, 65, 69 Pac. 323.

The writ of injunction is a jurisdictional, prerogative writ, correlative with the writ of mandamus; the writ of injunction, used as a judicial writ in aid of jurisdiction, and not as a prerogative writ, is one of the writs classed with "other original and remedial writs." Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 119, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517.

Under this section, the supreme court may enjoin the operation of a mine, and require it to be preserved in statu quo pending an appeal involving the title thereto. Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 120, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517.

Under this section, the authority to preserve the subject of litigation pending an appeal to the supreme court is exclusively vested in such court from the moment the trial court has entered its final judgment therein, and the trial court has no power whatever to issue an injunction in aid of the appeal. Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 122, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517.

The power of limitation given to the legislature by this section does not authorize it to limit absolutely the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court, to the extent of cutting off all right of appeal, but merely enables the legislature to enact reasonable regulations as to the time in which and the mode by which an appeal is to be taken. Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 126, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517.

The appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court may be exercised only under limitations and regulations prescribed by law touching the time within which, and the mode by which, appeals may be taken. Cornell v. Matthews, 28 Mont. 457, 459, 72 Pac. 975.

The limitations which "may be prescribed by law," mentioned in this section, refer to statutes in existence at the time of the adoption of the constitution, and adopted by the schedule which is a part thereof, or statutes thereafter to be passed, specifying under what limitations appeals may be taken. The regulations which "may be prescribed by law," mentioned in this section and sections 2 and 15 of this article," also refer to statutes adopted or to be enacted, providing the methods by which appeals and proceedings upon writs of error may be perfected. Featherman v. Granite County, 28 Mont. 462, 463, 72 Pac. 972.

In pursuance of the grant of appellate jurisdiction to the supreme court, and as furnishing methods for the exercise of the jurisdiction granted, the legislature has enacted statutes providing how appeals may be taken, determining of what the record on such appeal shall consist, and how such records shall be certified to that court. Substantial compliance with these provisions is necessary to give the supreme court the right to exercise the jurisdiction granted. Emerson v. McNair, 28 Mont. 578, 579, 73 Pac. 121.

An application for a writ of habeas corpus will be dismissed if it appears that the petitioner is not "held in actual custody." In re O'Brien, 29 Mont. 530, 548, 75 Pac. 196, 1 Ann. Cas. 373.

Even if a stay, in a case where a writ of mandate is issued by the district court to compel the transfer of a cause from a police to a justice of the peace court, is not provided for in the Code of Civil Procedure, still the supreme court has power, under this section, to issue a supersedeas, or any other appropriate writ, to effectuate its apellate jurisdiction, and thus to insure the aggrieved party an appeal which might otherwise be of no value. State ex rel. Brass v. Horn, 36 Mont. 418, 421, 93 Pac. 351.

The different justices are clothed with power to issue, hear, and determine writs of habeas corpus, and also writs of certiorari to review proceedings for contempt in the district courts; but these powers are conferred upon the justices individually. State ex rel. City of Helena v. Helena W. W. Co., 43 Mont. 169, 172, 115 Pac. 200.

The framers of the constitution recognized, without limiting, the power of the courts to punish for contempt; but they understood the law of contempt to be a law of necessity, and its exercise in any given instance to be measured and restricted by the necessity which calls it into existence. State ex rel. Metcalf v. District Court, 52 Mont. 46, 53, 155 Pac. 278, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 985, L. R. A. 1916F, 132.

The only method by which a convicted contemnor may submit a record of conviction to the appellate court for review is by invoking the writ of certiorari, or, in proper cases, under the general supervisory power vested in the supreme court. State ex rel. Rankin v. District Court, 58 Mont. 276, 289, 191 Pac. 772.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 231, 23 Pac. 733; Lloyd v. Sullivan, 9 Mont. 577, 587, 24 Pac. 218; State ex rel. Leech v. Board of Canvassers, 13 Mont. 23, 51, 31 Pac. 879; State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. District Court, 25 Mont. 504, 521, 65 Pac. 1020; Jordan v. Andrus, 26 Mont. 37, 39, 66 Pac. 502; 91 Am. District Court, 57 Mont. 517, 520, 189 Pac. 233; Willis v. Pilot Butte Min. Co., 58 Mont. 26, 34, 190 Pac. 124.

Original jurisdiction of state court of last resort to issue writ of habeas corpus, see Ann. Cas. 1913A, 156.

Original jurisdiction of state court of last resort to issue mandamus, see 20 Ann. Cas. 184.

Sec. 4. At least three terms of the supreme court shall be held each year at the seat of government.

Sec. 5. The supreme court shall consist of three justices, a majority of whom shall be necessary to form a quorum or pronounce a decision, but one or more of said justices may adjourn the court from day to day, or to a day certain and the legislative assembly shall have the power to increase the number of said justices to not less nor more than five. In case any justice of the supreme court shall be in any way disqualified to sit in a cause brought before such court, the remaining justice or justices shall have power to call on one or more of the district judges of this state as in the particular case may be necessary to constitute the full number of justices of which the said court shall then be composed, to sit with them in the hearing of said cause. In all cases where a district judge is invited to sit and does sit as by this section provided, the decision and opinion of such district judge shall have the same force and effect in any cause heard before the court as if regularly participated in by a justice of the supreme court.

Note.—Section 5 as amended by act of March 7, 1899 (L. 1899, p. 152), effective by proclamation of the governor December 18, 1900.

An amendment to this section (Sess. Laws, 5th Sess., p. 57), by providing for calling in a district judge when a supreme court judge is disqualified, is void for failure to enter on the journals of both branches of the legislature a full copy of the proposed amendment, before its submission to the people, as required by section 9 of article XIX, post. Durfee v. Harper, 22 Mont. 354, 361, 56 Pac. 582.

Number of judges necessary to transact business of court, see Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1251.

Sec. 6. The justices of the supreme court shall be elected by the electors of the state at large, as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 7. The term of office of the justices of the supreme court, except as in this constitution otherwise provided, shall be six years.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 264, 99 Pac. 940.

Sec. 8. There shall be elected at the first general election, provided for by this constitution, one chief justice and two associate justices of the supreme court. At said first election the chief justice shall be elected to hold his office until the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred ninety-two (1892), and one of the associate justices to hold office until the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred ninety-four (1894), and the other associate justice to hold his office until the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred ninety-six (1896), and each shall hold until his successor is elected and qualified. The terms of office of said justices, and which one shall be chief justice, shall at the first and all subsequent elections be designated by ballot. After said first election one chief justice or one associate justice shall be elected at the general election every two years, commencing in the year one thousand eight hundred ninety-two (1892), and if the legislative assembly shall increase the number of justices to five, the first terms of office of such additional justices shall be fixed by law in such manner that at least one of the five justices shall be elected every two years. The chief justice shall preside at all sessions of the supreme court, and in case of his absence, the associate justice having the shortest term to serve shall preside in his stead.

Sec. 9. There shall be a clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of six years, except that the clerk first elected shall hold his office only until the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred ninety-two (1892), and until his successor is elected and qualified. He shall be elected by the electors at large of the state, and his compensation shall be fixed by law, and his duties prescribed by law, and by the rules of the supreme court.

The clerk of the supreme court is given a term of six years, and until his successor is elected and qualified. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 589, 104 Pac. 860.

Sec. 10. No person shall be eligible to the office of justice of the supreme court, unless he shall have been admitted to practice law in the supreme court of the territory or state of Montana, be at least thirty years of age, and a citizen of the United States, nor unless he shall have resided in said territory or state at least two years next preceding his election.

DISTRICT COURTS.

Sec. 11. The district courts shall have original jurisdiction in all cases at law and in equity, including all cases which involve the title or right of possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll or municipal fine, and in all cases in which the debt, damage, claim or demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy exceeds fifty dollars; and in all criminal cases amounting to felony, and in all cases of misdemeanor not otherwise provided for; of actions of forcible entry and unlawful detainer; of proceedings in insolvency; of actions to prevent or abate a nuisance; of all matters of probate; of actions of divorce and for annulment of marriage, and for all such special actions and proceedings as are not otherwise provided for. And said courts shall have the power of naturalization, and to issue papers therefor, in all cases where they are authorized so to do by the laws of the United States. They shall have appellate jurisdiction in such cases arising in justices and other inferior courts in their respective dictricts as may be prescribed by law and consistent with this constitution. Their process shall extend to all parts of the state, provided that all actions for the recovery of, the possession of, quieting the title to, or for the enforcement of liens upon real property, shall be commenced in the county in which the real property, or any part thereof, affected by such action or actions, is situated. Said courts and the judges thereof shall have power also to issue, hear and determine writs of mandamus, quo warranto, certiorari, prohibition, injunction and other original and remedial writs, and also all writs of habeas corpus on petition by, or on behalf of, any person held in actual custody in their respective districts. Injunctions, writs of prohibition and habeas corpus, may be issued and served on legal holidays and non-judicial days.

The district court, by virtue of its equity powers, and independent of statute, can authorize the inspection and survey of a lode mining claim and the levels, shafts, winzes, and cross-cuts therein, and the prosecution of work to procure evidence, upon the motion of any party to the action. Blue Bird Min. Co. v. Murray, 9 Mont. 468, 476, 23 Pac. 1022.

"All matters of probate," and necessarily the administration of all laws relating thereto, are now under the original jurisdiction of the district courts. In re McFarland's Estate, 10 Mont. 445, 450, 26 Pac. 185.

The first paragraph of section 6, of the Criminal Practice Act of 1887, conferring upon the district and justice's courts concurrent jurisdiction in all misdemeanor, is in conflict with this section, and did not become a law of the state upon the adoption of the constitution by force of section 1 of article XX thereof. State v. Myers, 11 Mont. 365, 368, 28 Pac. 650.

Under this section, providing that the district court shall have original jurisdiction in all cases of misdemeanor not otherwise provided for, the district court does not have original but only appellate jurisdiction to try the misdemeanor of assault and battery, as jurisdiction to try such misdemeanor is conferred by law upon the justice's court. State v. Myers, 11 Mont. 365, 369, 28 Pac. 650.

While the jurisdiction bestowed upon the district court by the constitution cannot be abridged by the legislature, it may invest such court with additional jurisdiction in harmony with its character, and not a usurpation of the constitutional powers of any other court, and therefore the provision of the act to regulate the practice of medicine, approved February 28, 1899, allowing an appeal to the district court by the aggrieved party in case of the revocation or refusal by the board of medical examiners of a license to practice medicine, cannot be held to contravene this section, providing that the district court shall have appellate jurisdiction in all cases arising in justices' and other inferior courts, the latter provision not being prohibitory in form. State ex rel. Kellogg v. District Court, 13 Mont. 370, 372, 34 Pac. 298.

This section does not require that an action as to real property must be tried in the county where the action was commenced when the property in question has been added to another county since the commencement of the action. Bookwalter v. Conrad, 15 Mont. 464, 39 Pac. 573, 851.

When the county attorney (presumably by leave of court) files an information against a person, charging him with the crime of murder, the district court has the capacity to entertain an information for that offense. State ex rel. Nolan v. Brantly, 20 Mont. 173, 177, 50 Pac. 410.

The district court, sitting as a court of equity, has jurisdiction to try and determine an action brought against an estate of a decedent to enforce an agreement made by deceased to devise a certain share in his property; and jurisdiction in such cases is not confined to the district court sitting as a court of probate. Burns v. Smith, 21 Mont. 251, 265, 53 Pac. 742, 69 Am. St. Rep. 653.

Upon the organization of the state government, probate jurisdiction was given to the district courts by the constitution, and thereafter appeals to the supreme court from judgments and orders therein were possible only by classifying them under the head of special proceedings. Estate of Tuohy, 23 Mont. 305, 308, 58 Pac. 722.

The district courts have jurisdiction, under this section, of the writ of prohibition as defined in the Code of Civil Procedure; and the supreme court has jurisdiction, on appeal from judgments and from orders made by district courts, in proceedings of this nature instituted under said code. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 379, 383, 62 Pac. 493, 51 L. R. A. 958.

The proclamation of the governor, convening the eighth legislative assembly in a second extraordinary session, was to accomplish general legislation, whereby bias and prejudice of district judges shall constitute a disqualification of such judges, and making suitable provision for the trial of cases in such event. No recommendations were made by the governor differing in any degree from the matters embraced in the proclamation, and the legislation was in accordance therewith. State ex rel. Boston & M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 193, 201, 76 Pac. 10.

The district court, sitting as an appellate court, is one of limited jurisdiction, and may only proceed in the manner and to the extent provided by law. Clark v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 30 Mont. 458, 464, 76 Pac. 1003.

The act of December 10, 1903, amending section 180 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895 (8868), providing for the disqualification of district judges on the filing of an affidavit of prejudice, is not in violation of the provision of this section conferring on district courts original jurisdiction in "all" cases in law and in equity, by reason of the fact that the filing of the affidavit, without a determination of the question of prejudice, deprives the judge of jurisdiction, since it is the imputation of prejudice, and not prejudice in fact, that constitutes the disqualification, which imputation is not subject to judicial investigation. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 539, 77 Pac. 312.

The jurisdiction granted to district courts and their judges to issue the writ of habeas corpus is exclusive; and the power of a district judge to inquire into the legality of the detention of persons in custody is confined to cases where the complainant, who seeks his release, is so detained within the boundaries of the district over which the judge presides. If such judge is absent and no judge temporarily presides over such court, the application should be made to the supreme court, or a justice thereof, and not to a district judge in another district. State v. District Court, 35 Mont. 51, 53, 88 Pac. 564. See In re Lewis, 51 Mont. 539, 542, 154 Pac. 713.

The district courts have exclusive jurisdiction in probate matters. State ex rel. King v. District Court, 42 Mont. 182, 184, 111 Pac. 717.

Every power conferred upon the judges is judicial in character, and in so far as the corrupt practice act seeks to make a judge a mere agent to gather evidence for the legislature to consider in passing upon the qualifications of a member, that act is invalid. State ex rel. Smith v. District Court, 50 Mont. 134, 140, 145 Pac. 721.

In order that a judgment for contempt may be proof against an attack made by habeas corpus proceedings, the court rendering it must have had jurisdiction of the person and of the subject-matter, and must have possessed the power of authority to render the particular judgment it pronounced. In re Mettler, 50 Mont. 299, 301, 146 Pac. 747.

Primarily, though the judge of the district court is classed as a state officer, he is such only for the purpose of administering justice in his own district; and, though the process of his court extends to all parts of the state, ordinarily the exercise of his power is limited to the territorial boundaries of his district. State ex rel. Mannix v. District Court, 51 Mont. 310, 317, 152 Pac. 753.

In the absence of statutory provision authorizing a "contest" of a county seat selection alleged to have been the result of fraud and corrupt practices, and quo warranto being available, the district court has jurisdiction under its equity powers to hear and determine such a matter, until such time as the law shall provide the procedure. Poe v. Sheridan County, 52 Mont. 279, 290, 157 Pac. 185.

By this section the district courts are clothed with general equity jurisdiction. At the time of the adoption of the constitution, and for many years before, courts of equity in England and America exercised jurisdiction for the suppression of nuisances—public as well as private. The right of the state to maintain these suits independently of statute cannot be questioned, but the state cannot act sua sponte. Someone authorized to do so must act on its behalf. State ex rel. Ford v. Young, 54 Mont. 401, 403, 170 Pac. 947.

The district court is a court of general jurisdiction; it therefore has power to hear and determine all classes of cases, except petty cases, of which justices of the peace and police courts are by the constitution given exclusive cognizance. Crawford v. Pierse, 56 Mont. 371, 376, 185 Pac. 315.

Wampler, 29 Mont. 61, 66, 74 Pac. 82; State ex rel. Grissom v. Justice Court, 31 Mont. 258, 262, 78 Pac. 498; May v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 32 Mont. 522, 533, 81 Pac. 328, 4 Ann. Cas. 605, 70 L. R. A. 111; State ex rel. Little v. District Court, 49 Mont. 158, 161, 141 Pac. 151.

Sec. 12. The state shall be divided into judicial districts, in each of which there shall be elected by the electors thereof one judge of the district court, whose term of office shall be four years, except that the district judges first elected shall hold their offices only until the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two (1892), and until their successors are elected and qualified. Any judge of the district court may hold court for any other district judge, and shall do so when required by law.

The provision of this section, that "any judge of the district court may hold court for any other district judge," does not, in the absence of constitutional or statutory provision giving district judges concurrent jurisdiction, empower a judge, acting for another, to exercise out of court the judicial power of the judge whose court he is holding; and an order of injunction issued by such judge in chambers, when the judge of the district court was present in his district and discharging his duties, is void. Wallace v. Helena Electric Ry. Co., 10 Mont. 24, 29, 24 Pac. 626, 25 Pac. 278.

Under the provision of this section, that "any judge of the district court may hold court for any other district judge," it is clear that any district judge may go into another district and hold court for another judge. It is equally clear, also, that without a provision of law authorizing it, a district judge would not have authority to go into another district and exercise his judicial functions. The jurisdiction must be conferred by law. Wallace v. Helena Electric Ry. Co., 10 Mont. 24, 29, 24 Pac. 626, 25 Pac. 278; State ex rel. Mannix v. District Court, 51 Mont. 310, 317, 152 Pac. 753.

Section 8821, giving the judge of one district, when holding court for the judge of another district, the same power, in court or chambers, as a judge thereof, does not enlarge the authority given by this section. Farleigh v. Kelly, 24 Mont. 369, 373, 62 Pac. 495, 685.

Under this section, the right to nominate and elect district judges belongs to the electors of the district, and no action of a state convention can validate a nomination for the office of district judge, where the convention making it does not properly represent the electors of the district. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 383, 395, 62 Pac. 583.

The statute providing for the designation and appointment of a district judge to temporarily hold court in another district than his own, and to perform the official duties of the district judge of such district, where such judge is biased or prejudiced, or from any cause disqualified from performing the same, is in violation of and directly contravenes the provisions of this section. In re Weston, 28 Mont. 207, 217, 72 Pac. 512.

This section of the constitution makes provision for the substitution of one judge for another, and must be held to be exclusive, at least until the authority vested in it has been exhausted. In re Weston, 28 Mont. 207, 218, 72 Pac. 512.

There is nothing in the last sentence of this section which would indicate an intention on the part of the framers of the constitution to limit the method of securing the trial of a cause, in which the resident judge is disqualified, to calling in another judge. This provision is simply a means placed in the hands of the judges themselves to facilitate the dispatch of business in which they may be interested, or otherwise disqualified from acting. There is no obligation resting upon a particular judge to call in another, and likewise no obligation resting upon an invited judge to accept the invitation. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 538, 77 Pac. 312.

While this section lodges in a disqualified judge the sole power to invite in another judge to try the case in which he is disqualified, it was never intended thereby to enable such disqualified judge, by refusing to call in another judge, or by delaying unreasonably his invitation, to deny altogether to a litigant a trial of his cause. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 538, 77 Pac. 312.

The act of December 10, 1903, amending section 180 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895 (8868), so as to provide for the disqualification of district judges on the filing of an affidavit of prejudice, thereupon disqualifying him to further act in the case except to arrange his calendar, notify another judge to try the case, or, if he fails to do so within thirty days, to change the place of trial, etc., and amending section 615 of the same code, so that, if another judge is called in within such time, the change of venue shall not be granted, is in harmony with this section. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 539, 77 Pac. 312.

Under this section and section 18 of this article, the terms of district court judges and clerks of the district court are strictly limited to four years, and the words, "and until their successors are elected and qualified," as used in this section, refer to those officers only who were first elected after the adoption of the constitution, and have no application to those thereafter chosen. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 587, 104 Pac. 860.

In adopting this section the convention had three purposes in view: (1) To provide for the division of the state into districts; (2) to provide for district judges and to fix their term of office; and (3) by way of exception, to fix the term of office of those first elected, so that they would hold until the general election in 1892, and until their successors should be elected and qualified. But for the exception, those first elected would also have held for the term of four years. The purpose of it was to so adjust the term of those first elected that thereafter the election would fall regularly upon presidential years, and be uniform throughout the state. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 588, 104 Pac. 860; State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 339, 146 Pac. 932.

In a case where the office of county attorney has been awarded to a person as the successful candidate at an election, and a qualified elector of the county has duly filed a contest on the ground of malconduct on the part of the election officers, the district judge, before whom the hearing would be otherwise, may, deeming himself disqualified, call in a judge from outside the district to hear and determine the cause. Curry v. McCaffery, 47 Mont. 191, 195, 131 Pac. 673.

To "hold court," within the meaning of this section, is to hold court in the district just as does the local judge, and not to sit in chambers in another district. Eustance v. Francis, 52 Mont. 295, 299, 157 Pac. 573.

Sec. 13. Until otherwise provided by law judicial districts of the state shall be constituted as follows: First district, Lewis and Clark county; Second district, Silver Bow county; Third district, Deer Lodge county; Fourth district, Missoula county; Fifth district, Beaverhead, Jefferson and Madison counties; Sixth district, Gallatin, Park and Meagher counties; Seventh district, Yellowstone, Custer and Dawson counties; Eighth district, Choteau, Cascade and Fergus counties.

Sec. 14. The legislative assembly may increase or decrease the number of judges in any judicial district; provided, that there shall be at least one judge in any district established by law; and may divide the state, or any part thereof, into new districts; provided, that each be formed of compact territory and be bounded by county lines, but no changes in the number or boundaries of districts shall work a removal of any judge from office during the term for which he has been elected or appointed.

Sec. 15. Writs of error and appeals shall be allowed from the decisions of said district courts to the supreme court under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

The expression "the decisions," as used in this section, includes every decision of whatever character. Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 124, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517.

Parties litigant have the right of appeal from all the decisions made in the progress of the case, and the supreme court has jurisdiction to hear and determine them, subject only to such reasonable limitations and regulations as the legislature may enact affecting the time within which and the mode by which the appeal may be taken. The only exception to this broad statement of the rule are judgments in contempt, and perhaps orders made in a few summary proceedings. Finlen v. Heinze, 27 Mont. 107, 126, 69 Pac. 829, 70 Pac. 517.

Under this section and sections 2 and 3 of this article, the supreme court has jurisdiction to entertain appeals or writs of error only when the statutory requirements have been complied with. Featherman v. Granite County, 28 Mont. 462, 463, 72 Pac. 972.

The regulations which "may be prescribed by law," mentioned in this section, refer to statutes adopted or to be enacted, providing the methods by which appeals and proceedings upon writs of error may be perfected. Featherman v. Granite County, 28 Mont. 462, 463, 72 Pac. 972.

The right of appeal in any case is not an absolute one; but appeals are only allowed under such regulations as may be prescribed by law. Therefore, since the legislature has not made provision for the appointment of some one, upon whom service of notice of appeal from an order granting a new trial may be made in place of a party who has died after the order is made, the supreme court, on application for a writ of supervisory control, cannot grant relief. State ex rel. Cohn v. District Court, 38 Mont. 119, 127, 99 Pac. 139.

While the constitution secures to a litigant the right of appeal, it does so only on condition that he comply with "such regulations as may be prescribed by law." Jackway v. Hymer, 42 Mont. 168, 169, 111 Pac. 720.

The constitution provides for appeals to the supreme court from the district courts under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, following out which provision section 9731 enumerates the judgments and orders from which appeals are allowed. Taintor v. St. John, 50 Mont. 358, 362, 146 Pac. 939.

Libby Yards, 58 Mont. 444, 193 Pac. 394.

Sec. 16. No person shall be eligible to the office of judge of the district court unless he be at least twenty-five years of age and a citizen of the United States, and shall have been admitted to practice law in the supreme court of the territory or state of Montana, nor unless he shall have resided in this state or territory at least one year next preceding his election. He need not be a resident of the district for which he is elected at the time of his election, but after his election he shall reside in the district for which he is elected during his term of office.

The act of December 10, 1903, amending section 180 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895 (8868) so as to provide for the disqualification of a district judge by the filing of an affidavit of prejudice, is not in violation of this section; the qualifications therein enumerated being limited to qualities necessary to render the person eligible to the office, without application to his qualifications to try particular cases. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 537, 77 Pac. 312.

The legislature cannot impose any additional conditions to those enumerated in this section as a prerequisite to any man's holding the office of district judge who might be elected or appointed to that office. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 537, 77 Pac. 312.

The qualifications enumerated in this section have to do with the eligibility of a man to hold the office, but it does not follow that, because a district judge possesses these qualifications, he shall have the right, by virtue of his office, to try every cause which may be commenced in or transferred to his district. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 537, 77 Pac. 312.

Sec. 17. The district court in each county which is a judicial district by itself shall be always open for the transaction of business, except on legal holidays and non-judicial days. In each district where two or more counties are united, until otherwise provided by law, the judges of such district shall fix the term of court, provided that there shall be at least four terms a year held in each county.

The rule declared in State ex rel. Root v. McHatton, 10 Mont. 370, 25 Pac. 1046, has been changed by section 8826, which provides that there is no term of court in any judicial district of the state where a county is a district. Whitbeck v. Montana Central Ry. Co., 21 Mont. 102, 104, 52 Pac. 1098.

Where a judge has fixed the terms of court for a judicial district, the order therefor cannot be revoked by his successor in office. State v. Bristol, 21 Mont. 578, 55 Pac. 107.

Sec. 18. There shall be a clerk of the district court in each county, who shall be elected by the electors of his county. The clerk shall be elected at the same time and for the same term as the district judge. The duties and compensation of the said clerk shall be as provided by law.

The words "next general election," as used in the act creating Sanders county, with reference to the office of clerk of the district court, mean the next general election for filling that particular office in the judicial district, not the next general election held for any purpose. State ex rel. Livesay v. Smith, 35 Mont. 523,

The term of office of the clerk of the district court and the time of his election depend upon the term of the judge and the time of the election of the judge. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 587, 104 Pac. 860.

COUNTY ATTORNEYS.

Sec. 19. There shall be elected at the general election in each county of the state one county attorney, whose qualifications shall be the same as are required for a judge of the district court, except that he must be over twenty-one years of age, but need not be twenty-five years of age, and whose term of office shall be two years, except that the county attorneys first elected shall hold their offices until the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two (1892), and until their successors are elected and qualified. He shall have a salary to be fixed by law, one-half of which shall be paid by the state, and the other half by the county for which he is elected, and he shall perform such duties as may be required by law.

The county attorney is elected for two years, but is to hold until the election and qualification of his successor. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 590, 104 Pac. 860.

Section 4819 was enacted in pursuance of the above constitutional provision, and indicates the officer whose duty it is to sign informations in prosecutions for offenses against the state. State v. Barry, 45 Mont. 582, 585, 124 Pac. 774.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

Sec. 20. There shall be elected in each organized township of each county by the electors of such township at least two justices of the peace, who shall hold their offices, except as otherwise provided in this constitution, for the term of two years. Justices' courts shall have such original jurisdiction within their respective counties as may be prescribed by law, except as in this constitution otherwise provided; provided, that they shall not have jurisdiction in any case where the debt, damage, claim or value of the property involved exceeds the sum of three hundred dollars.

Justices' courts are of limited jurisdiction, having only such powers as are conferred upon them by statute. Layton v. Trapp, 20 Mont. 453, 455, 52 Pac. 208; State ex rel. Kenyon v. Laurandeau, 21 Mont. 216, 218, 53 Pac. 536; Oppenheimer v. Regan, 32 Mont. 110, 116, 79 Pac. 695; State ex rel. Matthews v. Taylor, 33 Mont. 212, 215, 83 Pac. 484; State ex rel. Collier v. Houston, 36 Mont. 178, 180, 92 Pac. 476, 12 Ann. Cas. 1027; Jenkins v. Carroll, 42 Mont. 302, 312, 112 Pac. 1064; Hosoda v. Neville, 45 Mont. 310, 311, 123 Pac. 20; Miller v. Miller, 47 Mont. 150, 153, 131 Pac. 23.

The term of office of a justice of the peace is two years and no more. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 590, 104 Pac. 860.

While a justice's court is one of limited jurisdiction, having only such powers as are conferred by law, nevertheless, when jurisdiction has been once obtained by the justice over persons brought before him for misdemeanors, errors intervening in course of the proceedings must be availed of by immediate objection, otherwise they are waived. Hosoda v. Neville, 45 Mont. 310, 311, 123 Pac. 20.

Amount claimed or amount due as determining jurisdiction of justice of the peace, see Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1284.

Sec. 21. Justices' courts shall not have jurisdiction in any case involving the title or right of possession of real property, nor in cases of divorce, nor for annulment of marriage, nor of cases in equity; nor shall they have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, certiorari, quo warranto, injunction, or prohibition, nor the power of naturalization; nor shall they have jurisdiction in cases of felony, except as examining courts; nor shall criminal cases in said courts be prosecuted by indictment; but said courts shall have such jurisdiction in criminal matters, not of the grade of felony, as may be provided by law; and shall also have concurrent jurisdiction with the district courts in cases of forcible entry and unlawful detainer.

Jurisdiction of the misdemeanor of assault and battery resides in the justice's court as having been "provided by law." State v. Myers, 11 Mont. 365, 367, 28 Pac. 650.

A justice of the peace has jurisdiction of an action by a landlord against a tenant holding after default in payment of rent, both under the forcible entry and unlawful detainer act and by virtue of this section, whereby justice courts are clothed with concurrent jurisdiction with the district courts in cases of forcible entry and unlawful detainer. State v. Votaw, 13 Mont. 403, 404, 34 Pac. 315.

Justices' courts have no equity jurisdiction and cannot entertain actions involving matters of equitable cognizance. An action by a claimant to establish his claim for services, in so far as it seeks to establish and foreclose a lien on the attached property of the debtor, is a proceeding equitable in its nature, and hence not within the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace as limited by this section. Where a justice of the peace had no jurisdiction of a suit to enforce a lien for services as a preferred claim over the claim of attaching creditors, the district court acquired no jurisdiction to enforce such lien by an appeal from the justice's judgment. Shea v. Regan, 29 Mont. 308, 316, 74 Pac. 737.

This section provides that a justice's court shall have jurisdiction as an examining court in cases of felony, and the statute provides the method of procedure; but that jurisdiction must, of course, be properly invoked. State v. Lagoni, 30 Mont. 472, 475, 76 Pac. 1044.

Section 8840 enacted in pursuance of section 20 and 21 of this article, does not clothe a justice of the peace with jurisdiction to entertain an action against a sheriff for damages for non-performance of an official duty and a penalty imposed by law for such non-performance. Oppenheimer v. Regan, 32 Mont. 110, 115, 79 Pac. 695.

Within the limitations prescribed by the constitution the legislature has power to confer jurisdiction upon justices' courts in any class of cases; but these courts, being thus constituted courts of special and limited jurisdiction, are without power to hear and determine any case when such power is not, specifically or by clear implication, conferred by the statute defining their powers. Oppenheimer v. Regan, 32 Mont. 110, 116, 79 Pac. 695; State ex rel. Matthews v. Taylor, 33 Mont. 212, 215, 83 Pac. 484.

The fact that a plaintiff formulates his pleadings on the theory that he is entitled to equitable relief does not deprive a justice's court of jurisdiction, if upon any theory of his pleadings he is entitled to other relief. Anderson v. Red Metal Min. Co., 36 Mont. 312, 319, 93 Pac. 44.

A justice's court has no equity jurisdiction; but defendants properly substituted in an action by the assignee of a labor claim cannot deprive the justice of jurisdiction by the interposition of the defense of fraud in the assignment, since such defense does not convert the cause into an equitable one. Mettler v. Adamson, 38 Mont. 198, 203, 99 Pac. 441.

The prohibition contained in this section, that justices' courts shall not have jurisdiction in cases of equity, extends to those matters only of which a court of equity has exclusive cognizance. Mettler v. Adamson, 38 Mont. 198, 203, 99 Pac. 441.

Right of justices of the peace to hold court on Sunday, see Ann. Cas. 1916B, 15.

Sec. 23. Appeal shall be allowed from justices' courts, in all cases, to the district courts, in such manner and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

An appeal lies from a judgment entered in a justice's court upon failure of defendant to answer after overruling of his demurrer to the complaint—the demurrer to the complaint raises a question of law, which is apparent upon the face of the papers. Denial of an appeal on questions of law in such a case would violate the provisions of this section. Maxey v. Cooper, 21 Mont. 456, 457, 54 Pac. 562.

A right of appeal is granted from the justice's court to the district court in all cases; and an appeal lies where a justice refuses to set aside a judgment by default, and the district court should entertain the appeal for a trial de novo as it was tried, or should have been tried, in the justice's court. State ex rel. Shanahan v. Linday, 22 Mont. 398, 400, 56 Pac. 827. See State ex rel. Reynolds v. Laurendeau, 27 Mont. 522, 524, 71 Pac. 754.

The right of appeal, though guaranteed by this section of the constitution, may be exercised only in obedience to the statutory regulations applicable. The only appeal from a justice's court provided for is an appeal from a judgment, and no appeal lies to the district court from an order made in a justice's court either before or after judgment. State ex rel. Cobban v. District Court, 30 Mont. 93, 95, 75 Pac. 862.

Only such questions as were raised and presented in the justice's court can be tried on appeal in the district court, and where there was no showing that a motion was made in the justice's court to set aside the judgment and dismiss the cause, but the record showed that the case was tried on issues of fact raised by the answer, it was proper for the district court, on appeal from a judgment for plaintiff, to overrule a motion to dismiss the cause, and to try the issues of fact which had been raised before the justice. Clark v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 30 Mont. 458, 464, 76 Pac. 1003.

Appeals from justices' courts to the district courts are allowed in all cases in such manner and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law. State ex rel. Rosenstein v. District Court, 41 Mont. 100, 102, 108 Pac. 580; 21 Ann. Cas. 1307.

Appeals provided for by this section are subject to statutory regulation, and the mode prescribed for taking them is exclusive. Jenkins v. Carroll, 42 Mont. 302, 312, 112 Pac. 1064.

When the validity of a judgment of a district court, rendered on appeal from a justice's court, is brought in question, the proceedings must show that jurisdiction was acquired in the manner prescribed by statute. Jenkins v. Carroll, 42 Mont. 302, 312, 112 Pac. 1064.

The regulations, prescribed by the legislature under authority of the constitution, for appealing cases from justices' courts to the district court, are found in sections 9754 and sections 9756 and 9757. State ex rel. Hackshaw v. District Court, 48 Mont. 477, 479, 138 Pac. 1100.

POLICE AND MUNICIPAL COURTS.

Sec. 24. The legislative assembly shall have power to provide for creating such police and municipal courts and magistrates for cities and towns as may be deemed necessary from time to time, who shall have jurisdiction in all cases arising under the ordinances of such cities and towns, respectively; such police magistrates may also be constituted ex-officio justices of the peace for their respective counties.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

Sec. 25. The supreme and district courts shall be courts of record.

Sec. 26. All laws relating to courts shall be general and of uniform operation throughout the state; and the organization, jurisdiction, powers, proceedings and practice of all courts of the same class or grade, so far as regulated by law, shall be uniform.

If the specific provisions of the code relating to the drawing of a jury panel may be treated as directory only, and be disregarded by the presiding judge, then juries might be summoned by one judge by open venire, and by another by any particular method which he might prefer, and the result would be an absence of that uniform operation of law relating to the courts of the state contemplated by this section. State v. Landry, 29 Mont. 218, 224, 74 Pac. 418.

Since the act of December 10, 1903, amending section 180 of the Code of Civil Procedure of 1895 (8868), so as to provide for the disqualification of district judges on the filing of an affidavit of prejudice, is general in its terms and operation throughout the state, and therefore sufficiently complies with this section, it is immaterial that it was passed at an extra session of the legislature. State ex rel. Anaconda C. M. Co. v. Clancy, 30 Mont. 529, 542, 77 Pac. 312.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Root v. McHatton, 10 Mont. 370, 25 Pac. 1046; State ex rel. Breen v. Toole, 32 Mont. 4, 8, 79 Pac. 403.

Sec. 27. The style of all process shall be "The State of Montana," and all prosecutions shall be conducted in the name and by the authority of the same.

Infractions of local police regulations are not, in their essence, crimes or misdemeanors, as those terms are employed in criminal jurisprudence, and are therefore not criminal prosecutions. Such actions need not be prosecuted in the name of the state, but should be prosecuted in the name of the city. City of Helena v. Kent, 32 Mont. 279, 290, 80 Pac. 258, 4 Ann. Cas. 235; State ex rel. Streit v. Justice Court, 45 Mont. 375, 381, 123 Pac. 405, 48 L. R. A. (N. S.) 156. See, also, State ex rel. City of Butte v. District Court, 37 Mont. 202, 206, 95 Pac. 841.

Since an officer's authority to sell land on foreclosure emanates from the decree, and not from a so-called order of sale thereon, the fact that such order ran in the name of "The People of the State of Montana," instead of "the State of Montana," the style required for process by this section, was immaterial. Thomas v. Thomas, 44 Mont. 102, 109, 119 Pac. 283, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 616.

The word "process," employed in the constitutional provision "the style of all process shall be 'The State of Montana,'" does not include the order of sale found in the decree of a court of equity in foreclosure proceedings. Thomas v. Thomas, 44 Mont. 102, 110, 119 Pac. 283, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 616.

Prosecutions for violations of local ordinances must be conducted in the name of the municipality, by its prosecuting officer, but criminal cases arising under the state laws must be prosecuted in the name of the state and by the county attorney. State ex rel. Streit v. Justice Court, 45 Mont. 375, 380, 123 Pac. 405, 48 L. R. A. (N. S.), 156.

While the above section is mandatory, it does not follow that an indictment or information is defective if it does not contain a formal specific allegation that it is presented in the name and by the authority of the state. The provision embodies both a command to the courts that they shall not entertain a prosecution of a citizen by any authority other than that of the state, acting through the officers provided for that purpose, and also a guaranty to the citizen that he shall not be held to answer by any other authority. The requirement is complied with if it appears from the record that the prosecution is conducted in the name of the state and by its authority. State v. Barry, 45 Mont. 582, 584, 124 Pac. 774.

District Court, 37 Mont. 202, 205, 207, 95 Pac. 841; State v. Driscoll, 49 Mont. 558, 560, 144 Pac. 153; State ex rel. Payne v. District Court, 53 Mont. 350, 355, 165 Pac. 294.

Sec. 28. There shall be but one form of civil action, and law and equity may be administered in the same action.

The old distinctions between actions at law and in equity have been abolished, and the court, having jurisdiction of the parties, can afford such relief as the facts of the case may justify. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Great Falls Opera House Co., 23 Mont. 33, 40, 57 Pac. 445, 75 Am. St. Rep. 499, 45 L. R. A. 285.

Under this section, a mistake as to the form in which the action should be brought, or as to the relief which may be demanded upon the statement of facts made, is of no moment. If equitable relief is demanded, but the facts do not warrant this character of relief, a complaint will be sustained for legal relief, if the facts warrant it. Anderson v. Red Metal Min. Co., 36 Mont. 312, 319, 93 Pac. 44.

Cited or applied in Lloyd v. Sullivan, 9 Mont. 577, 587, 24 Pac. 218; Edgerton v. Edgerton, 12 Mont. 122, 145, 29 Pac. 966, 33 Am. St. Rep. 557, 16 L. R. A. 94.

Sec. 29. The justices of the supreme court and the judges of the district courts shall each be paid quarterly by the state, a salary, which shall not be increased or diminished during the terms for which they shall have been respectively elected. Until otherwise provided by law, the salary of the justices of the supreme court shall be four thousand dollars per annum each, and the salary of the judges of the district courts shall be three thousand five hundred dollars per annum each.

This section embodies an express restriction upon the powers of the legislative assembly. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 413, 28 Pac. 453.

While a district judge elected prior to, and serving at the time of the passage of an act increasing the salary of the office, would not have been entitled to the increase, his successor appointed to fill the vacancy created by the former's resignation some seven months after its passage, could rightfully demand the enlarged compensation. State ex rel. Jackson v. Porter, 57 Mont. 343, 188 Pac. 375.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Buck v. Hickman, 10 Mont. 497, 499, 26 Pac. 386.

Sec. 30. No justice of the supreme court nor judge of the district court shall accept or receive any compensation, fee, allowance, mileage, perquisite or emolument for or on account of his office, in any form whatever, except the salary provided by law.

This section embodies an express restriction upon the powers of the legislative assembly. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 413, 28 Pac. 453.

Sec. 31. No justice or clerk of the supreme court, nor judge or clerk of any district court shall act or practice as an attorney or counsellor at law in any court of this state during his continuance in office.

This section is a prohibition directed against the district judge. State v. Jackson, 9 Mont. 508, 519, 24 Pac. 213.

Right of judge of court of record to practice as attorney, see Ann. Cas. 1914B, 446.

Sec. 32. The legislative assembly may provide for the publication of decisions and opinions of the supreme court.

Sec. 33. All offices provided for in this article, excepting justices of the supreme court, who shall reside within the state, shall respectively reside during their term of office in the district, county, township, precinct, city or town for which they may be elected or appointed.

Sec. 34. Vacancies in the office of justice of the supreme court, or judge of the district court, or clerk of the supreme court, shall be filled by appointment, by the governor of the state, and vacancies in the offices of county attorney, clerk of the district court, and justices of the peace, shall be filled by appointment, by the board of county commissioners of the county where such vacancy occurs. A person appointed to fill any such vacancy shall hold his office until the next general election and until his successor is elected and qualified. A person elected to fill a vacancy shall hold office until the expiration of the term for which the person he succeeds was elected.

All judges of the district courts, who have been elected or appointed, are governed by the same provisions of the constitution. In the absence of any statute, they are entitled to receive from the state the salary which has been defined in the constitution. State ex rel. Buck v. Hickman, 10 Mont. 497, 499, 26 Pac. 386.

In the event of a tie vote for clerk of the district court, the board of county commissioners is authorized to appoint to fill the vacancy. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 592, 104 Pac. 860.

In every instance of appointment to fill a vacancy in an elective office, unless an exception be made in the office of county commissioner, the constitution specifically limits the tenure of the appointee to the next general election, or "until his successor is elected and qualified"; and this phrase is literally construed by the concluding sentence of the above section, for if an appointee holds for the residue of the term, then there could never be "a person elected to fill a vacancy" if an appointment had been made. That sentence is intelligible only upon the theory that the appointee holds only until the next general election, or until the person elected for the residue of the term qualifies. State ex rel. McGowan v. Sedgwick, 46 Mont. 187, 190, 127 Pac. 94.

The general policy of the state government is that election to office, when it may be conveniently done, is the rule, and that appointment to fill vacancies shall be effective only until the people can elect. That this was the intention of the constitutional convention is clearly indicated by the last two sentences of this section. State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 340, 146 Pac. 932.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Breen v. Toole, 32 Mont. 4, 8, 79 Pac. 403; State ex. rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 585, 144 Pac. 162.

Sec. 35. No justice of the supreme court or district judge shall hold any other public office while he remains in the office to which he has been elected or appointed.

This section is a prohibition against a district judge holding any other office. State v. Jackson, 9 Mont. 508, 519, 24 Pac. 213.

Right of persons to hold two judicial positions at the same time, see 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1107.

Sec. 36. A civil action in the district court may be tried by a judge pro tempore, who must be a member of the bar of the state, agreed upon in writing by the parties litigant, or their attorneys of record, approved by the court, and sworn to try the cause; and in such case any order, judgment or decree, made or rendered therein by such judge pro tempore, shall have the same force and effect as if made or rendered by the court with the regular judge presiding.

The authority given by this section to a special judge to try a case carries with it authority to do any act incidental or necessary to the exercise thereof. Littrell v. Wilcox, 11 Mont. 77, 79, 27 Pac. 394.

Sec. 37. Any judicial officer who shall absent himself from the state for more than sixty consecutive days shall be deemed to have forfeited his office.

ARTICLE IX.

RIGHTS OF SUFFRAGE AND QUALIFICATIONS TO HOLD OFFICE.

Section 1. All elections by the people shall be by ballot.

The use of voting machines is not in contravention of this section. State ex rel. Fenner v. Keating, 53 Mont. 371, 163 Pac. 1156.

Sec. 2. Every person of the age of twenty-one years or over, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all general elections and for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be, elective by the people and upon all questions which may be submitted to the vote of the people: First, he shall be a citizen of the United States; second, he shall have resided in this state one year immediately preceding the election at which he offers to vote, and in the town, county or precinct such time as may be prescribed by law; provided, first that no person convicted of felony shall have the right to vote unless he has been pardoned; provided, second, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to deprive any person of the right to vote who has such right at the time of the adoption of this constitution; provided, that after the expiration of five years from the time of the adoption of this constitution, no person except citizens of the United States shall have the right to vote.

Note.—Section 2 is given as amended by act approved January 25, 1913 (L. 1913, Ch. 1), and adopted at the general election of November, 1914. Effective under governor's proclamation December 9, 1914.

The fact that by section 3 of chapter 29 Laws of 1907, pp. 50, 920 et seq., establishing county free high schools, the electors who favor the establishment of such schools are designated as the persons who shall determine the location of it, is not a valid objection to its constitutionality as depriving those opposed to such school of the right to vote on the question of its location, contrary to this section. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 151, 92 Pac. 462.

Save where otherwise indicated, the term "qualified elector" means a person who possesses the qualifications prescribed by the constitution as necessary to entitle him to vote; it does not mean simply a registered voter. State ex rel. Lang v. Furnish, 48 Mont. 28, 32, 134 Pac. 297.

In the absence of any property test for voters, a person who possesses the qualifications enumerated in this section, and who is duly registered, is entitled to vote without reference to his property holdings. State ex rel. Eagye v. Bawden, 51 Mont. 357, 359, 152 Pac. 761.

Sec. 3. For the purpose of voting no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the state, or of the United States, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the state, or of the United States, nor while a student at any institution of learning, nor while kept at any almshouse or other asylum at the public expense, nor while confined in any public prison.

Sec. 4. Electors shall in all cases, except treason, felony or breach of peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at elections and in going to and returning therefrom.

Sec. 5. No elector shall be obliged to perform military duty on the days of election, except in time of war or public danger.

Sec. 6. No soldier, seaman or marine in the army or navy of the United States shall be deemed a resident of this state in consequence of being stationed at any military or naval place within the same.

Sec. 7. No person shall be elected or appointed to any office in this state, civil or military, who is not a citizen of the United States, and who shall not have resided in this state at least one year next before his election or appointment.

Sec. 8. No idiot or insane person shall be entitled to vote at any election in this state.

Cited or applied in State v. Martin, 24 Mont. 403, 408, 62 Pac. 590.

Sec. 9. The legislative assembly shall have the power to pass a registration and such other laws as may be necessary to secure the purity of elections and guard against abuses of the elective franchise.

Registration is no part of the qualifications of an elector, and adds nothing to them; it is merely a method of ascertaining who the qualified electors are, in order that abuses of the elective franchise may be guarded against. State ex rel. Lang v. Furnish, 48 Mont. 28, 33, 134 Pac. 297; State ex rel. Fadness v. Eie, 53 Mont. 138, 145, 162 Pac. 164.

Sec. 10. Women shall be eligible to hold the office of county superintendent of schools or any school district office, and shall have the right to vote at any school district election.

The constitution prescribes no other qualifications for a county superintendent of schools than those provided for in this and the following sections; that is, the person must be either a woman, or a person qualified to vote at general elections and for state officers in this state. State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 Mont. 37, 43, 77 Pac. 299.

Sec. 11. Any person qualified to vote at general elections and for state officers in this state, shall be eligible to any office therein except as otherwise provided in this constitution, and subject to such additional qualifications as may be prescribed by the legislative assembly for city offices and offices hereafter created.

By the adoption of the suffrage amendment to the constitution, the sex attribute as a qualification to hold office was eliminated, and the use of the word "male" in a statute prescribing a qualification for office is of no effect. Rose v. Sullivan, 56 Mont. 480, 185 Pac. 562.

Sec. 12. Upon all questions submitted to the vote of the taxpayers of the state, or any political division thereof, women who are taxpayers and possessed of the qualifications for the right of suffrage required of men by this constitution, shall equally with men have the right to vote.

Sec. 13. In all elections held by the people under this constitution, the person or persons who shall receive the highest number of legal votes shall be declared elected.

If section 10814 permits a candidate who did not receive the highest number of legal votes to be declared elected upon a judgment of ouster in a contest proceeding, it is void as in contravention of this section. Cadle v. Town of Baker, 51 Mont. 176, 185, 149 Pac. 960.

STATE INSTITUTIONS AND PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Section 1. Educational, reformatory and penal institutions, and those for the benefit of the insane, blind, deaf and mute, soldiers' home, and such other institutions as the public good may require, shall be established and supported by the state in such a manner as may be prescribed by law.

There being no constitutional prohibition, the state may, under its police power, lawfully engage in the business of operating a grain elevator or in other similar business for the benefit of the public. State ex rel. Lyman v. Stewart, 58 Mont. 1, 6, 190 Pac. 129.

Sec. 2. At the general election in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, the question of permanent location of the seat of government is hereby provided to be submitted to the qualified electors of the state, and the majority of all the votes upon said question shall determine the location thereof. In case there shall be no choice of location at said election, the question of choice between the two places for which the highest number of votes shall have been cast shall be, and is hereby, submitted in like manner to the qualified electors at the next general election thereafter; provided, that until the seat of government shall have been permanently located the temporary seat of government shall be and remain at the city of Helena.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Lloyd v. Rotwitt, 15 Mont. 29, 30, 37 Pac. 845.

Sec. 3. When the seat of government shall have been located as herein provided the location thereof shall not thereafter be changed, except by a vote of two-thirds of all the qualified electors of the state voting on that question at a general election at which the question of the location of the seat of government shall have been submitted by the legislative assembly.

Sec. 4. The legislative assembly shall make no appropriations or expenditures for capitol buildings or grounds until the seat of government shall have been permanently located, as herein provided.

Sec. 5. The several counties of the state shall provide as may be prescribed by law for those inhabitants, who, by reason of age, infirmity or misfortune, may have claims upon the sympathy and aid of society.

The statute imposing a poll-tax is a police regulation designed to carry into effect the provisions of this section; such an imposition is not a "tax" within the meaning of the constitution and revenue measures generally, and is therefore not subject to the uniformity rule or other restrictions incident to such measures. Pohl v. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co., 52 Mont. 572, 577, 160 Pac. 515. See, also, Hilger v. Moore, 56 Mont. 146, 169, 182 Pac. 477.

ARTICLE XI.

EDUCATION.

Section 1. It shall be the duty of the legislative assembly of Montana to establish and maintain a general, uniform and thorough system of public, free, common schools.

While the legislative assembly has the power to establish a series of text-books for use in the public schools of the state, this section does not require the adoption of a uniform series of text-books throughout the state by that body. Campana v. Calderhead, 17 Mont. 548, 550, 44 Pac. 83, 36 L. R. A. 277.

This section does not prohibit the enactment of a law classifying school districts for the purposes of the election of trustees according to population, so long as the law provides for a reasonable classification and is reasonable and uniform in its operation and effect upon all districts within the same classification—although, at the time of the passage of the act, only a few districts would be included within the law. State ex rel. Bray v. Long, 21 Mont. 26, 30, 52 Pac. 645.

This section and section 11 of this article are not exclusive so as to limit the legislative power to the establishment and maintenance of common schools and state institutions only. The purpose of this section is to insure a system of common schools, but there is nothing in it which limits the power of the legislature to provide for other schools. The section is not a limitation upon the legislative power, but is a solemn mandate to the legislature. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 150, 92 Pac. 462.

For text treatment of this subject, see 24 R. C. L. 553; also, article on Schools in Cal. Jur.

Sec. 2. The public school fund of the state shall consist of the proceeds of such lands as have heretofore been granted, or may hereafter be granted, to the state by the general government known as school lands; and those granted in lieu of such; lands acquired by gift or grant from any person or corporation under any law or grant of the general government; and of all other grants of land or money made to the state from the general government for general educational purposes, or where no other special purpose is indicated in such grant; all estates, or distributive shares of estates that may escheat to the state; all unclaimed shares and dividends of any corporation incorporated under the laws of the state, and all other grants, gifts, devises or bequests made to the state for general educational purposes.

Neither this provision nor that contained in section 1 of article XVII deals with the subject of the capacity of the state to acquire property. Both are limitations upon the power of disposal by the legislature. They also embody an express injunction upon the legislature that the property with which they deal must be devoted exclusively to the purposes for which it has been or may be acquired. Sec. 3. Such public school fund shall forever remain inviolate, guaranteed by the state against loss or diversion, to be invested, so far as possible, in public securities within the state, including school district bonds, issued for the erection of school buildings, under the restrictions to be provided by law.

An act providing for the investment of school funds is not invalid because it discriminates against certain securities. State ex rel. Evans v. Stewart, 53 Mont. 18, 24, 161 Pac. 309.

Sec. 4. The governor, superintendent of public instruction, secretary of state and attorney general shall constitute the state board of land commissioners, which shall have the direction, control, leasing and sale of the school lands of the state, and the lands granted or which may hereafter be granted for the support and benefit of the various state educational institutions, under such regulations and restrictions as may be prescribed by law.

Sec. 5. Ninety-five per centum (95%) of all the interest received on the school funds of the state, and ninety-five per centum (95%) of all rents received from the leasing of school lands and of all other income from the public school funds shall be apportioned annually to the several school districts of the state in proportion to the number of children and youths between the ages of six (6) and twenty-one (21) residing therein respectively, but no district shall be entitled to such distributive share that does not maintain a public free school for at least six months during the year for which such distribution is made. The remaining five per centum (5%) of all the interest received on the school funds of the state, and the remaining five per centum (5%) of all the rents received from the leasing of school lands and of all other income from the public school funds, shall annually be added to the public school funds of the state and become and forever remain an inseparable and inviolable part thereof.

Sec. 6. It shall be the duty of the legislative assembly to provide by taxation, or otherwise, sufficient means, in connection with the amount received from the general school fund, to maintain a public, free common school in each organized district in the state, for at least three months in each year.

Sec. 7. The public free schools of the state shall be open to all children and youth between the ages of six and twenty-one years.

Sec. 8. Neither the legislative assembly, nor any county, city, town, or school district, or other public corporations, shall ever make directly or indirectly, any appropriation, or pay from any public fund or moneys whatever, or make any grant of lands or other property in aid of any church, or for any sectarian purpose, or to aid in the support of any school, academy, seminary, college, university, or other literary, scientific institution, controlled in whole or in part by any church, sect or denomination whatever.

Sec. 9. No religious or partisan test or qualification shall ever be required of any person as a condition of admission into any public educational institution of the state, either as teacher or student; nor shall attendance be required at any religious service whatever, nor shall any sectarian tenets be taught in any public educational institution of the state; nor shall any person be debarred admission to any of the collegiate departments of the university on account of sex.

Sec. 10. The legislative assembly shall provide that all elections for school district officers shall be separate from those elections at which state or county officers are voted for.

Sec. 11. The general control and supervision of the state university and the various other state educational institutions shall be vested in a state board of education, whose powers and duties shall be prescribed and regulated by law. The said board shall consist of eleven members, the governor, state superintendent of public instruction, and attorney general, being members ex-officio; the other eight members thereof shall be appointed by the governor; subject to the confirmation of the senate, under the regulations and restrictions to be provided by law.

The state board of education was created by the legislature under the authority of this section. State ex rel. Koch v. Barret, 26 Mont. 62, 66, 66 Pac. 504.

This section does not limit the legislative authority to establishing and maintaining common schools and state institutions, and is not offended by Laws of 1907, chapter 29, p. 50, authorizing the establishment of county free high schools. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 149, 92 Pac. 462.

Sec. 12. The funds of the state university and of all other state institutions of learning, from whatever source accruing, shall forever remain inviolate and sacred to the purpose for which they were dedicated. The various funds shall be respectively invested under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, and shall be guaranteed by the state against loss or diversion. The interest of said invested funds, together with the rents from leased lands or properties shall be devoted to the maintenance and perpetuation of these respective institutions.

Pursuant to the constitution, the legislature has enacted regulations under which, in default of sale, all agricultural and grazing lands may be leased under the direction of the state land commission for terms not exceeding five years, and requiring the revenues derived therefrom to be paid into the hands of the state treasurer. The lands selected for the use of the state agricultural college under the grant by congress are subject to these regulations. State ex rel. Koch v. Barret, 26 Mont. 62, 65, 66 Pac. 504.

The state normal school is one of the institutions of learning to which reference is made in this section. The funds referred to mean all funds, which shall be invested to draw interest, and used for no other purpose. State ex rel. Haire v. Rice, 33 Mont. 365, 385, 83 Pac. 874.

Chapter 3 of the session laws of 1905, authorizing the state board of land commissioners to issue and sell bonds, the proceeds to be applied to the erection, furnishing, and equipment of an addition to the state normal school building, and pledging as security, for the payment of the principal and interest on such bonds the lands granted by section 17 of the Enabling Act, is void as being in violation of this section. State ex rel. Haire v. Rice, 33 Mont. 365, 385, 83 Pac. 874; affirmed in State of Montana ex rel. Haire v. Rice, 204 U. S. 291, 27 Sup. Ct. 281, 51 L. Ed. 490.

This section is not in conflict with section 17 of the Enabling Act, which grants certain lands to the state of Montana for the state normal school, and provides for the manner in which such lands shall be held and disposed of and the funds derived therefrom applied. State ex rel. Haire v. Rice, 33 Mont. 365, 387, 83 Pac. 874.

The purpose of the grant in aid of the state normal school is observed, and carried into effect by this section. Provision is made for the support of the state normal school for all time. The principal sums derived from the sales of lands or of timber are made to serve this institution, by earning interest which may be applied to its maintenance and perpetuation, while the principal sums themselves are kept inviolate. State ex rel. Haire v. Rice, 33 Mont. 365, 388, 83 Pac. 874.

ARTICLE XII.

REVENUE AND TAXATION.

Section 1. The necessary revenue for the support and maintenance of the state shall be provided by the legislative assembly, which shall levy a uniform rate of assessment and taxation, and shall prescribe such regulations as shall secure a just valuation for taxation of all property, except that specially provided for in this article. The legislative assembly may also impose a license tax, both upon persons and upon corporations doing business in the state.

The constitution does not require that licenses shall be uniform, and the first sentence of this section and section 11 of this article should be read together and a statute providing for a graduated license tax on steam laundries and laundrymen is valid. State ex rel. Sam Toi v. French, 17 Mont. 54, 41 Pac. 1078, 30 L. R. A. 415.

The word "also" in the last sentence of this section was not used to carry into the sentence where it occurs the idea expressed in the sentence preceding it, to the effect that the legislature may also impose license taxes for the support of the state, but was used simply to connect the idea of the two systems of revenue, and for that reason the imposing of license taxes is not restricted to the purpose of state revenue alone. State v. Camp Sing, 18 Mont. 128, 44 Pac. 516, 56 Am. St. Rep. 551, 32 L. R. A. 635.

The act, approved March 4, 1897, providing that all property of a decedent shall be subject to a tax at a fixed rate on every one hundred dollars, but that an estate valued at less than seven thousand five hundred dollars shall not be subject to any such "tax or duty," is not in conflict with this section, although the act does not impose a uniform rate of taxation upon all heirs, devisees, legatees, and distributees. Gelsthorpe v. Furnell, 20 Mont. 299, 307, 51 Pac. 267, 39 L. R. A. 170.

It was the intention of the legislature acting under the power vested in it by the constitution to make the action of the assessor and county commissioners final, when sitting as a board of equalization, and to deny to the courts the power to review their judgment or to assume supervisory control over their proceedings, and it is only where they act fraudulently or maliciously, or the mistake is so gross as to be inconsistent with any exercise of honest judgment that the courts will interfere. Danforth v. Livingston, 23 Mont. 558, 59 Pac. 916.

Two schemes or systems of taxation are recognized by this section—a property tax and a license tax. Authority is also given by this section for the coexistence of both of these systems of taxation with reference to the same person or corporation. The two systems are not mutually dependent. Each is independent of the other, and the existence of one is not a bar to the imposition of the other. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis and Clark County, 28 Mont. 484, 490, 72 Pac. 982, 98 Am. St. Rep. 572.

The franchise right of a foreign company to do business in this state is property, and if it proves valuable, it is a proper subject for taxation within the meaning of this article. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis and Clark County, 28 Mont. 484, 493, 72 Pac. 982; 98 Am. St. Rep. 572.

The provision that the legislature "shall prescribe such regulations as shall secure a just valuation for taxation of all property," applies to artificial as well as to natural persons. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis and Clark County, 28 Mont. 484, 495, 72 Pac. 982, 98 Am. St. Rep. 572.

While section 681 of the Civil Code of 1895, declaring that "each and every insurance corporation or company transacting business in this state must be taxed upon the excess of premiums received over losses and ordinary expenses incurred within the state during the year" is constitutional, the portion of said section which provides that such companies are subject to no other taxation under the laws of this state, except taxes on real estate and fees imposed by law, is unconstitutional, as being in conflict with section 1 and section 7 of this article. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis and Clark County, 28 Mont. 484, 495, 72 Pac. 982, 98 Am. St. Rep. 572.

This article of the constitution deals exclusively with the subject of taxation for state, county, and other purposes, including city revenue. State ex rel. City of Butte v. Weston, 29 Mont. 125, 128, 74 Pac. 415.

This section provides that the legislative assembly shall prescribe such regulations as shall secure a just valuation for taxation of all property, except that particularly exempted. Daly Bank etc. Co. v. Board of Commrs., 33 Mont. 101, 105, 81 Pac. 950.

The purpose of section 2003, which provides for the taxation of solvent credits, less such debts as may be owing by the taxpayer, being merely to ascertain the just amount and value of property subject to taxation, in conformity with the above section of the constitution, does not have the effect of exempting from taxation property other than that enumerated in the next succeeding section of this article, and said section is therefore not unconstitutional. Daly Bank etc. Co. v. Board of Commrs., 33 Mont. 101, 107, 81 Pac. 950.

The provisions of this section are prohibitory, and the legislature cannot delegate the authority conferred thereby to cities and towns. But, while the legislature may not confer upon cities and towns the right to impose a license tax upon professions and occupations for the purpose of raising revenue, it may, in the absence of constitutional limitation, authorize them to impose such a tax in aid of police regulations. Johnson v. City of Great Falls, 38 Mont. 369, 373, 99 Pac. 1059, 16 Ann. Cas. 974. See, also, Reilly v. Hatheway, 46 Mont. 1, 9, 125 Pac. 417; City of Butte v. Montana Independent Tel. Co., 50 Mont. 574, 579, 148 Pac. 384.

The constitution gives the power to impose a license tax upon persons doing business in the state, and in exercising the power given the legislature is not required to tax all occupations equally or uniformly; it may single out one for the purpose, provided in imposing the tax it treats all persons alike who are engaged in it. Quong Wing v. Kirkendall, 39 Mont. 64, 69, 101 Pac. 250.

All property in the state, except such as is specifically mentioned in the constitution, is subject to taxation. Hale v. County of Jefferson, 39 Mont. 137, 141, 101 Pac. 973.

The legislature is vested with the power, and is required, to provide the necessary revenue for the support and maintenance of government, and for this purpose to levy a uniform rate of taxation upon all property in the state, except such as is exempted by express provision of the constitution itself. Its power in this behalf is to be exercised in regular session and not at other times, because provision for its support and maintenance is one of the ordinary functions of government. State ex rel. Bennett v. State Board of Examiners, 40 Mont. 59, 62, 104 Pac. 1055.

Property and occupation are alike legitimate objects of taxation. An occupation tax may be imposed either for regulation or revenue, or both, as provided for in Laws of 1909, chapter 67, p. 81, an act to create a state accident insurance and total permanent disability fund for coal miners, etc. Cunningham v. Northwestern Improvement Co., 44 Mont. 180, 213, 119 Pac. 554.

All occupations are now required to be taxed equally, provided the burden falls upon all of the same class alike. State v. Hammond Packing Co., 45 Mont. 343, 123 Pac. 407.

The provisions of chapters 48 and 49, Laws of 1919 (2123), relating to the powers and duties of the state board of equalization, and authorizing said board to make an orignal assessment of the rights of way, pole, and transmission lines, distributing systems, etc., of electric power companies, and of section 2001, providing that all taxable property must be assessed at its full cash value, are to be read in the light of the constitutional requirement that there shall be a uniform rate of assessment and taxation, and a just valuation for taxation of all property. State v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Mont. 413, 444, 185 Pac. 708.

This section does not prohibit the legislature from classifying property for the purpose of taxation. Hilger v. Moore, 56 Mont. 146, 182 Pac. 477.

Idem. The rule of uniformity of taxation, based upon the mandatory injunction to the legislature contained in the first sentence of this section and a consideration of section 11, article XII, of the constitution, held to be: That it shall prescribe such uniform mode of assessment as shall secure a just valuation of all taxable property; that all taxes shall be levied and collected by general laws and for public purposes only, and that they shall be uniform upon the same class of property within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax.

Idem. "Assessment," within the meaning of this section, is the process by which persons subject to taxation are listed, their property described, and its value ascertained and stated; "taxation" is the determination of the rate of levy and imposing it.

Sections 3220 et seq. requiring a levy of a tax upon lands "agricultural in character" for the purpose of bond issues for the construction of state terminal elevators, does not violate the uniformity clause of the constitution. State ex rel. Lyman v. Stewart, 58 Mont. 1, 6, 190 Pac. 129. Reversed on the ground of exempting personal property from taxation in Stoner v. Timmons, 59 Mont. —, 196 Pac. 519.

Sec. 2. The property of the United States, the state, counties, cities, towns, school districts, municipal corporations and public libraries shall be exempt from taxation; and such other property as may be used exclusively for the agricultural and horticultural societies, for educational purposes, places for actual religious worship, hospitals and places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, institutions of purely public charity and evidences of debt secured by mortgages of record upon real or personal property in the state of Montana, may be exempt from taxation.

Note.—Section 2 is given as amended by chapter 142, Laws of 1917, adopted at the general election of 1918, effective under governor's proclamation December 28, 1918.

Only property that is devoted exclusively to a charitable use can be exempt from taxation. Montana Catholic Missions v. Lewis and Clark County, 13 Mont. 559, 35 Pac. 2, 22 L. R. A. 684.

As the provisions of the constitution are declared to be mandatory and prohibitory, the enumerations in this section are exclusive of any other. Daly Bank etc. Co. v. Board of Commrs., 33 Mont. 101, 107, 81 Pac. 950.

It was not the intention of the framers of the constitution to write into the fundamental law any useless or meaningless phrases; and the very fact that they declared an exemption from taxation in favor of public property is a recognition of the principle that, without such express exemption, that property would be subject to taxation, along with the property of the private individuals, corporations, and others. City of Kalispell v. School District, 45 Mont. 221, 228, 122 Pac. 742, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1101.

Special assessments are within the meaning of the constitution where it prohibits imposition by the legislature of taxes upon any property or instrumentality of the federal government. Ford v. City of Great Falls, 46 Mont. 292, 307, 127 Pac. 1004.

Under this section, and section 2088, before the land embraced in a mining claim becomes subject to taxation at a valuation greater than the price paid the government therefor, the taxing officers must ascertain, and they have the burden of showing when their authority is questioned, that the surface ground, or some portion thereof, is used for other than mining purposes and has an independent value for such purpose. Barnard Realty Co. v. City of Butte et al., 50 Mont. 159, 145 Pac. 946.

The provision of this section, declaring what property shall be exempt from taxaction, is mandatory in character and self-executing, and denies the legislature authority to tax any property of the class therein specified. Cruse v. Fischl, 55 Mont. 258, 263, 175 Pac. 878.

The legislature may extend the exemption to the property enumerated in this section, but it cannot go further or include any other. Cruse v. Fischl, 55 Mont. 258, 263, 175 Pac. 878.

State and county bonds held in private ownership within the state are "property," within the meaning of that term as employed in the constitution and revenue laws of the state, and, not being declared exempt, are taxable as such. Cruse v. Fischl, 55 Mont. 258, 265, 175 Pac. 878.

Cited or applied in Cobban v. Meagher, 42 Mont. 399, 406, 113 Pac. 290.

Sec. 3. All mines and mining claims, both placer and rock in place, containing or bearing gold, silver, copper, lead, coal or other valuable mineral deposits, after purchase thereof from the United States, shall be taxed at the price paid the United States therefor, unless the surface ground, or some part thereof, of such mine or claim, is used for other than mining purposes, and has a separate and independent value for such other purposes, in which case said surface ground, or any part thereof, so used for other than mining purposes, shall be taxed at its value for such other purposes, as provided by law; and all machinery used in mining, and all property and surface improvements upon or appurtenant to mines and mining claims which have a value separate and independent of such mines or mining claims, and the annual net proceeds of all mines and mining claims shall be taxed as provided by law.

The annual net proceeds of coal mines and mining claims, acquired under the laws of the United States, relative to the acquisition of coal lands, are subject to taxation in the manner provided for by the constitution and laws of the state. Montana Coal & Coke Co. v. Livingston, 21 Mont. 59, 52 Pac. 780.

Where a mining claim was within the limits of a city, and, while it had never been made an addition to the city, the owners had made a plat, and sold lots and blocks from the claim for town site purposes, describing the portions sold by metes and bounds, and it appeared that a shaft had once been sunk on such reserve, but that it had been abandoned, and that the lot on which the shaft was sunk had been sold, the so-called reserve was taxable for purposes other than mining. Murray v. Hinds, 30 Mont. 466, 469, 76 Pac. 1039.

This section, limiting the measure of value of mines for taxation purposes, does not apply to a tax imposed on the privilege of taking by will, succession, or testamentary grant. In re Tuohy's Estate, 35 Mont. 431, 437, 90 Pac. 170.

Mines and mining claims of all sorts are exempt from taxation, the exemption having no reference, however, to the surface ground used for some other purpose and having a separate value. Hale v. County of Jefferson, 39 Mont. 137, 141, 101 Pac. 973.

The object of this section was to encourage the acquisition and profitable development of mines, by requiring the owners to pay taxes upon the annual net proceeds or profits only, in addition to the cost of acquisition, the water rights and ditches used in connection with them being not otherwise taxable, unless they can be shown to have an independent value by reason of profitable use for some other purpose. Hale v. County of Jefferson, 39 Mont. 137, 143, 102 Pac. 973.

This section was designed to favor the mining industry of the state in the matter of the taxation of mining property. Kipp v. Davis-Daly Copper Co., 41 Mont. 509, 519, 110 Pac. 237, 21 Ann. Cas. 1372, 36 L. R. A. (N. S.) 666.

The surface ground of an unpatented mining claim, when used for other than mining purposes, and when it has a separate value for such other purposes, is subject to taxation. Cobban v. Meagher, 42 Mont. 399, 409, 113 Pac. 290.

The expression "all mines" in the last clause of this section, providing that among other things the net proceeds thereof shall be taxed, was intended to apply to all mineral deposits—both those found in lands purchased from the United States under the mining laws, and those obtained by grant or purchase under other laws. Northern Pacific Ry. Co. v. County of Musselshell et al., 54 Mont. 96, 169 Pac. 53.

Cited or applied in Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Mjelde, 48 Mont. 287, 304, 137 Pac. 386.

Sec. 4. The legislative assembly shall not levy taxes upon the inhabitants or property in any county, city, town, or municipal corporation for county, town, or municipal purposes, but it may by law invest in the corporate authorities thereof powers to assess and collect taxes for such purposes.

The provisions of this section contemplate that the power to levy and collect taxes authorized by law for municipal purposes may be vested in the city government. Lockey v. Walker, 12 Mont. 577, 583, 31 Pac. 639.

A license tax is not within the inhibition of this section, and the boundary license tax law, allowing seventy per cent of the licenses to be retained by the county does not levy a tax upon the inhabitants or property in a county for county purposes. State v. Camp Sing, 18 Mont. 129, 44 Pac. 516, 56 Am. St. Rep. 551, 32 L. R. A. 635.

There is no particular significance in the use of the words "inhabitants" and "property" as used in this section, for the taxation referred to means a tax upon a person levied upon the basis of the property owned. State v. Camp Sing, 18 Mont. 128, 44 Pac. 516, 56 Am. St. Rep. 551, 32 L. R. A. 635.

Subdivision 64 of section 4800 of the Political Code of 1895 (5039), providing that no municipality having a water supply furnished by private persons shall erect any water plant to be operated by itself, but if it desires to acquire such a plant, shall purchase or condemn such supply, is in conflict with this section. Helena C. W. Co. v. Steele, 20 Mont. 1, 8, 49 Pac. 382, 37 L. R. A. 412. Followed in State ex rel. Gerry v. Edwards, 42 Mont. 135, 148, 111 Pac. 734, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1063, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1078.

The provisions of this section and of section 11 and section 18 of this article do not, either by implication or by express words, give the legislature power to make anybody but the county treasurer a collector of taxes. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Martien, 27 Mont. 437, 440, 71 Pac. 470.

Section 4867 et seq. of the Political Code of 1895, authorizing the collection of city taxes by the city treasurer, is not in violation of section 5 of article XVI of the constitution, when construed together with this section. State ex rel. City of Butte v. Weston, 29 Mont. 125, 127, 74 Pac. 415.

Section 4919, in so far as it makes it incumbent upon the clerk of the district court to collect from petitioners filing letters of administration or guardianship sums ranging from five to ninety-five dollars, regulated by the appraised value of the estate, the fees thus collected to become part of the public moneys of the county, is in contravention of this section. Hauser v. Miller, 37 Mont. 22, 24, 94 Pac. 197.

This section, in empowering cities and towns to assess and collect taxes, deals with revenue and taxation exclusively, and does not impliedly deny the power to such municipalities to impose license taxes in furtherance of police regulations. Johnson v. City of Great Falls, 38 Mont. 369, 375, 99 Pac. 1059, 16 Ann. Cas. 974.

Since this section deals exclusively with revenue and taxation, and does not attempt to deal with police regulations, Laws of 1897, p. 203, empowering cities and towns to impose occupation taxes, is not in contravention thereof. Johnson v. City of Great Falls, 38 Mont. 369, 375, 99 Pac. 1059, 16 Ann. Cas. 974.

Though special assessments for local improvements in the shape of drains in order to relieve marshy lands of surplus moisture are laid under the taxing power, their imposition does not fall within the restraints prescribed by this section and section 11 of this article, relative to how, upon whom, and on what property "taxes" may be levied. These sections refer solely to revenues which go to defray general governmental expenditures, as distinguished from special outlays to provide for purely local improvements. Billings Sugar Co. v. Fish, 40 Mont. 256, 276, 106 Pac. 565, 20 Ann. Cas. 264, 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 973.

The words "corporate authorities," as used in this section, mean those municipal officers who are either directly elected by the inhabitants of the municipalities, or appointed in some mode to which they have given their assent. State ex rel. Gerry v. Edwards, 42 Mont. 135, 142, 111 Pac. 734, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1063, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1078.

In the absence of any definite information as to the meaning which the framers of the constitution attached to the words "corporate authorities," as employed in this section, it is a fair presumption that they used them with reference to the meaning which they had acquired in other states having the same constitutional provision. State ex rel. Gerry v. Edwards, 42 Mont. 135, 143, 111 Pac. 734, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1063, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1078.

Since the exercise of the taxing power is a legislative function, the term "corporate authorities," as used in this section, must be interpreted as meaning the legislative branch of a city government, namely, the mayor and council. State ex rel. Gerry v. Edwards, 42 Mont. 135, 143, 111 Pac. 734, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1063, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1078.

The purpose of the framers of the constitution in drafting this section was to secure to the people of cities that measure of local self-government which they enjoyed at the time that instrument was framed and adopted. State ex rel. Gerry v. Edwards, 42 Mont. 135, 150, 111 Pac. 734, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1063, 135 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1078.

The act of 1901, creating, in cities of the first class, boards of park commissioners, the members thereof to be appointed by the governor, and empowering them to raise by taxation such sums each year as they may deem necessary to carry on their work, is not only violate of the theory of local self-government established in this state, but also of the provisions of this section, in that such boards are not "corporate authorities" which may lawfully assess and collect taxes for municipal purposes. State ex rel. Gerry v. Edwards, 42 Mont. 135, 152, 111 Pac. 734, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1063, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1078.

In the absence of a showing that in its operation section 2897, Revised Codes of 1907, requiring county printing to be done within the state, imposes upon the taxpayers a burden greater than they would have to bear if outside competition were permitted, and thus indirectly operates as a tax upon the inhabitants of counties contrary to this section, its constitutionality in that regard will not be determined. Hersey v. Neilson, 47 Mont. 132, 146, 131 Pac. 30, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 963.

Sections 3879 et seq., creating a public service commission and defining its powers, does not run counter to this section, no tax being levied by the commission, and the regulation of water rentals not constituting a levy of taxes. Public Service Commission v. City of Helena, 52 Mont. 527, 540, 159 Pac. 24.

Sec. 5. Taxes for city, town and school purposes may be levied on all subjects and objects of taxation, but the assessed valuation of any property shall not exceed the valuation of the same property for state and county purposes.

The municipal authorities of an incorporated city could make a legal assessment in electing to take the assessment made by the county and state assessing authorities as the basis for the levy of municipal taxes on property within such city; and the levy of lawful taxes thereon by such city for municipal purposes, according to the provisions of its charter and ordinances, constituted a legal levy. Lockey v. Walker, 12 Mont. 577, 583, 31 Pac. 639.

Sec. 6. No county, city, town or other municipal corporation, the inhabitants thereof nor the property therein, shall be released or discharged from their or its proportionate share of state taxes.

This section refers only to state taxes, and not to those imposed for county or local purposes, such as poll-taxes. Pohl v. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co., 52 Mont. 572, 576, 160 Pac. 515.

Cited or applied in Montana Catholic Missions v. County of Lewis and Clark, 13 Mont. 559, 35 Pac. 2, 22 L. R. A. 684; Anaconda C. Min. Co. v. Ravalli County, 52 Mont. 422, 425, 158 Pac. 682.

Sec. 7. The power to tax corporations or corporate property shall never be relinquished or suspended, and all corporations in this state, or doing business therein, shall be subject to taxation for state, county, school, municipal and other purposes, on real and personal property owned or used by them and not by this constitution exempted from taxation.

The evident meaning of this constitutional provision is that the property of corporations shall bear its equal share of the burden of taxation. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis and Clark County, 28 Mont. 484, 495, 72 Pac. 982, 98 Am. St. Rep. 572.

Section 611 of the Civil Code of 1895, providing that the property of trust deposit and security corporations shall be assessed for purposes of taxation in the same manner as national banks, is repugnant to sections 1 and 7 of this article, in that it exempts the personal property of such companies from taxation. Daly Bank etc Co. v. Board of Commrs., 33 Mont. 101, 105, 81 Pac. 950.

The authorized capital stock of a corporation is not taxable as such against the corporation. Butte Land & Inv. Co. v. Sheehan, 44 Mont. 371, 120 Pac. 241.

Sec. 8. Private property shall not be taken or sold for the corporate debts of public corporations, but the legislative assembly may provide by law for the funding thereof, and shall provide by law for the payment thereof, including all funded debts and obligations, by assessment and taxation of all private property not exempt from taxation within the limits of the territory over which such corporations respectively have authority.

This section means nothing more than that the legislature is prohibited from enacting any statute under which private property may be taken to pay the debts of a public corporation, such as a county or city. Aside from this limitation the legislature was left free to enact such measures as it deemed best touching the subject-matter under consideration. If it failed to act at all, there is no power other than public opinion which can coerce it into activity. The provision of the constitution is addresed to the legislature, not to the board of county commissioners, and justification for the board's action must be fonud in the statutes, if such action can be justified at all. Edwards v. County of Lewis and Clark, 53 Mont. 359, 364, 165 Pac. 297.

Sec. 9. The rate of taxation on real and personal property for state purposes, except as hereinafter provided, shall never exceed two and one-half mills on each dollar of valuation; and whenever the taxable property of the state shall amount to six hundred million dollars ($600,000,000.00) the rate shall never exceed two (2) mills on each dollar of valuation, unless the proposition to increase such rate, specifying the rate proposed and the time during which the rate shall be levied shall have been submitted to the people at the general election and shall have received a majority of all votes cast for and against it at such election; provided, that in addition to the levy for state purposes above provided for, a special levy in addition may be made on live stock for the purpose of paying bounties on wild animals and for stock inspection, protection and indemnity purposes, as may be prescribed by law, and such special levy shall be made and levied annually in amount not exceeding four mills on the dollar by the state board of equalization, as may be provided by law.

Note.—Section 9 is given as amended by act approved February 9, 1909 (L. 1909, Ch. 4), adopted at the general election of November, 1910, effective under governor's proclamation December 6, 1910.

The provision of this section, as it stood prior to its amendment, that when the taxable property in the state shall amount to three hundred million dollars, the rate of taxation for state purposes shall never thereafter exceed one and one-half mills on each dollar of valuation, was held not to be self-executing, in the sense that when the taxable property reached the above amount, after the levy had been fixed by the legislature at two and one-half mills, the then lawful rate, the rate was ipso facto reduced to one and one-half mills, but such reduction became operative only upon legislative action had at regular session. State ex rel. Bennett v. State Board of Examiners, 40 Mont. 59, 63, 104 Pac. 1055.

Sec. 10. All taxes levied for state purposes shall be paid into the state treasury, and no money shall be drawn from the treasury but in pursuance of specific appropriations made by law.

The only reasonable construction of this section, in connection with a provision that the county treasurer shall be the collector, is that the collector shall collect, and then pay into the state treasury, all taxes levied for state purposes. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Martien, 27 Mont. 437, 440, 71 Pac. 470.

Where a judgment ordered the state auditor to draw his warrant on the treasurer for the payment of money held as escheated property, as provided in chapter 132, Laws of 1913 (9962), although the legislature had not made an appropriation for that purpose, it was invalid as in direct conflict with this section. In re Pomeroy, 51 Mont. 119, 125, 151 Pac. 333.

Sec. 11. Taxes shall be levied and collected by general laws and for public purposes only. They shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax.

Section 681 of the Civil Code of 1895 applies to domestic, as well as foreign, insurance companies, and therefore complies with the above provision requiring taxes to be "uniform upon the same class of subjects." Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis and Clark County, 28 Mont. 484, 491, 72 Pac. 982; 98 Am. St. Rep. 572.

The part of subdivision 8 of section 3695 of the Political Code of 1895, granting to private bankers the right to deduct their deposits (debts) from moneys on hand, for purposes of assessment, violates sections 11 and 16 of this article. Clark v. Maher, 34 Mont. 391, 400, 87 Pac. 272.

Section 4919, in so far as it makes it incumbent upon the clerk of the district court to collect from petitioners filing letters of administration or guardianship sums ranging from five to ninety-five dollars, regulated by the appraised value of the estate, is obnoxious to this section, in that the burdens imposed upon the estates falling within the enumerated classes are fixed arbitrarily and at unequal rates. Hauser v. Miller, 37 Mont. 22, 24, 94 Pac. 197.

Though special assessments for local improvements in the shape of drains in order to relieve marshy lands of surplus moisture are laid under the taxing power, their imposition does not fall within the restraints prescribed by this section and section 4 of this article, relative to how, upon whom, and on what property "taxes" may be levied. These sections refer solely to revenues which go to defray general governmental expenditures, as distinguished from special outlays to provide for purely local improvements. Billings Sugar Co. v. Fish, 40 Mont. 256, 276, 106 Pac. 565, 20 Ann. Cas. 264, 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 973.

The question whether a particular purpose for which taxes may be levied and collected is a public one, under this section, is for the legislature in the first instance, and courts will indulge every reasonable presumption in favor of the legislative decision in this respect. Lewis and Clark County v. Industrial Accident Board, 52 Mont. 6, 12, 155 Pac. 268, L. R. A. 1916D, 628.

Taxes levied to provide a fund to be devoted to the relief of injured employees of a county which is subject to the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 are for a public purpose, and therefore not obnoxious as offending against the provision of this section. Lewis and Clark County v. Industial Accident Board, 52 Mont. 6, 13, 155 Pac. 268, L. R. A. 1916D, 628.

A statute which seeks to make the counties of the state the guarantor of loans made by the state to individuals is invalid. State ex rel. Evans v. Stewart, 53 Mont. 18, 161 Pac. 309.

The seed-grain law of 1915, designed to furnish aid to persons engaged in agriculture who, because so reduced in circumstances by natural or other conditions beyond their control, that they have no means wherewith to purchase seed, is not in contravention of this section. State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrich, 54 Mont. 390, 394, 170 Pac. 942.

Sections 1113 et seq., providing for teachers' pensions, is not invalid as in contravention of this section. Trumper v. School District No. 55, 55 Mont. 90, 93, 173 Pac. 946.

The term "subject of taxation" found in this section, held to have been used by the constitutional convention in its then popular sense, to-wit, to denote the different kinds of property liable to taxation. Hilger v. Moore, 56 Mont. 146, 182 Pac. 477.

Failure to make provision for reimbursement of the county from which the greater area for a proposed new county is taken for the expense incident to the creation of the new county, held not to render chapter 226, Laws of 1919, violative of this section, as casting an unequal burden of taxation upon the old county. State ex rel. Woodward v. Moulton et al., 57 Mont. 414, 189 Pac. 59.

A statute requiring the taxation of all livestock brought into the state after a certain date for the purpose of grazing, and not applying to all other personal property, constitutes an unjust discrimination and violates the uniformity rule of taxation. Hayes v. Smith, 58 Mont. 306, 311, 192 Pac. 615.

Constitutionality of statutes providing for bounty or pension for soldiers, see 7 A. L. R. 1636.

Appropriations of public moneys for private purposes, see 1 Ann. Cas. 935.

Sec. 12. No appropriation shall be made nor any expenditures authorized by the legislative assembly whereby the expenditures of the state during any fiscal year shall exceed the total tax then provided for by law, and applicable to such appropriation or expenditure, unless the legislative assembly making such appropriation shall provide for levying a sufficient tax, not exceeding the rate allowed in section nine (9) of this article, to pay such appropriations or expenditures within such fiscal year. This provision shall not apply to appropriations or expenditures to suppress insurrection, defend the state, or assist in defending the United States in time of war. No appropriation of public moneys shall be made for a longer term than two years.

This section, providing that no appropriation of public moneys shall be made for a longer term than two years, is prospective only, and does not affect an appropriation made by the act of the legislature relating to the publication of the supreme court reports, approved March 8, 1889, before the adoption of the constitution. State ex rel. Maddox v. Kenney, 11 Mont. 553, 555, 29 Pac. 89.

This section operates as an automatic limit, so that an unlimited appropriation as to time will expire at the end of two years, and is not void ab initio. Hill v. Rae, 52 Mont. 378, 388, 158 Pac. 826, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 210, L. R. A. 1917A, 495.

To assist the United States in war is expressly recognized by this section as a proper and probable occasion for the use of state funds. State ex rel. Campbell v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 504, 510, 171 Pac. 755, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1101.

The purpose of sections 5624 et seq., known as the war defense act, being to assist in the defense of the United States, the appropriation made therein falls within the exception found in this section, under which the legislature may properly make an appropriation without a fund behind it, and without provision having been first made for levying a tax to furnish such fund, it having, in these circumstances, the power to authorize any proper public agency to procure the necessary funds by borrowing; that is, the sale of bonds. State ex rel. Campbell v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 504, 511, 171 Pac. 755, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1101.

The right and duty of the state to assist in defending the United States in time of war is recognized by express declaration of this section of our constitution. State v. Kahn, 56 Mont. 108, 116, 182 Pac. 107.

Sec. 13. The state treasurer shall keep a separate account of each fund in his hands, and shall at the end of each quarter of the fiscal year report to the governor in writing, under oath, the amount of all moneys in his hands to the credit of every such fund, and the place or places where the the same is kept or deposited, and the number and amount of every warrant paid or redeemed by him during the quarter. The governor, or other person or persons authorized by law, shall verify said report and cause the same to be immediately published in at least one newspaper printed at the seat of government, and otherwise as the legislative assembly may require. The legislative assembly may provide by law further regulations for the safe keeping and management of the public funds in the hands of the treasurer; but notwithstanding any such regulations, the treasurer and his sureties shall in all cases be held responsible therefor.

Sec. 14. The governor, state auditor and state treasurer are hereby constituted a state depository board with full power and authority to designate depositories with which all funds in the hands of the state treasurer shall be deposited, and at such rate of interest as may be prescribed by law. When money shall have been deposited under direction of said depository board and in accordance with the law, the treasurer shall not be liable for loss on account of any such deposit occurring through damage by the elements or for any other cause or reason occasioned through means other than his own neglect, fraud or dishonorable conduct. The making of profit out of public moneys, or using the same for any purpose not authorized by law, by the state treasurer or by any other public officer, shall be deemed a felony, and shall be punished as provided for by law and part of such punishment shall be disqualification to hold any public office.

Note.—Section 14 is given as amended by act approved March 6, 1907 (Ch. 123, L. 1907), and adopted at the general election November, 1908, effective under governor's proclamation December 9, 1908.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Evans v. Stewart, 53 Mont. 18, 24, 161 Pac. 309.

Sec. 15. The board of county commissioners of each county shall constitute a county board of equalization and the governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, state auditor and attorney general shall constitute a state board of equalization. The duty of the county board of equalization shall be to adjust and equalize the valuation of taxable property within their respective counties and all such adjustments and equalization may be supervised, reviewed, changed, increased or decreased by the state board of equalization. The state board of equalization may adjust and equalize the valuation of taxable property among the several counties and the different classes of taxable property in the same and in the several counties and between individual taxpayers; supervise and review the acts of county assessors and county boards of equalization; change, increase or decrease valuations made by county assessors or equalized by county boards of equalization and has such authority and may do all things necessary to secure a fair, just and equitable valuation of taxable property among the counties and between the different classes of property and individuals.

Note.—Section 15 is given as amended by act approved March 1, 1915 (Ch. 47, L. 1915), adopted at the general election of November, 1916, effective under governor's proclamation December 4, 1916.

The state board of equalization has no power to increase the total valuation of the property of the state as disclosed and fixed by the abstracts and statements transmitted to it by the assessors and county boards of equalization. State ex rel. Wallace v. Equalization Board, 18 Mont. 473, 46 Pac. 266.

Since this section was adopted from the constitution of Colorado after an interpretation thereof by the court of last resort of that state, the presumption is that the convention which framed the Montana constitution was conversant with and designed to adopt also the interpretation previously given to the section in Colorado. State ex rel. State Board etc. v. Fortune, 24 Mont. 154, 60 Pac. 1086.

The omission from this section, as amended, of the words, that the boards "shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law," does not imply any restriction upon the power of the state board of equalization in the matter of original assessment, nor confine it to the assessment of the property of railroads. State v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Mont. 413, 442, 185 Pac. 708.

Cited or applied, before amendment, in Missouri River Power Co. v. Steele, 32 Mont. 433, 438, 80 Pac. 1093.

Sec. 16. All property shall be assessed in the manner prescribed by law except as is otherwise provided in this constitution. The franchise, roadway, roadbed, rails and rolling stock of all railroads operated in more than one county in this state shall be assessed by the state board of equalization and the same shall be apportioned to the counties, cities, towns, townships and school districts in which such railroads are located, in proportion to the number of miles of railway laid in such counties, cities, towns, townships and school districts.

The franchise which is made taxable by the constitution is not the bare right conferred upon corporations to do business in the state, but that special privilege, not enjoyed by citizens generally, which represents something out of which the tax may be realized by forced sale, if necessary, as, for instance, the franchise of street railway, telephone and telegraph, gas and water companies; hence the franchise of an express company, under which it enjoys no such special privilege, is not subject to taxation. Wells Fargo & Co. v. Harrington, 54 Mont. 235, 238, 169 Pac. 463.

Electric transmission lines are not part of a roadbed and are assessable by the county assessor. Chicago, Mil. & St. P. Ry. v. Murray, 55 Mont. 162, 174 Pac. 704.

By this section the legislature is vested with plenary power in matters of the assessment of property for purposes of taxation, including the power to designate the agency through which the assessment shall be made; hence section 2123, which authorizes the state board of equalization to make an original assessment of the rights of way, pole, and transmission lines, distributing systems, etc., of electric power companies, is not constitutionally objectionable as conferring the power upon an unauthorized agency. State v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Mont. 413, 440, 185 Pac. 708.

By conferring the power of assessing the property of railroads upon the state board of equalization, the constitution did not impliedly exclude all other powers of original assessment. State v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Mont. 413, 442, 185 Pac. 708.

The authority contained in the first sentence of this section is not in anywise abridged by the remainder of the section, which empowers the state board of equalization to assess railroad property. The provisions of the section are mandatory and prohibitory, in the sense that the legislature cannot take from the board the power to assess railroad property, nor vest such power elsewhere. State v. State Board of Equalization, 56 Mont. 413, 442, 185 Pac. 708.

Cited or applied in Danforth v. Livingston, 23 Mont. 558, 59 Pac. 916; Missouri River Power Co. v. Steele, 32 Mont. 433, 440, 80 Pac. 1093; Clark v. Maher, 34 Mont. 391, 400, 87 Pac. 272; Anaconda Copper Min. Co. v. Ravalli County, 52 Mont. 422, 425, 158 Pac. 682.

Sec. 17. The word property as used in this article is hereby declared to include moneys, credits, bonds, stocks, franchises and all matters and things (real, personal and mixed) capable of private ownership, but this shall not be construed so as to authorize the taxation of the stocks of any company or corporation when the property of such company or corporation represented by such stocks is within the state and has been taxed.

A collateral inheritance or succession tax is not a tax upon property; it is a tax or duty imposed by the state upon the right to receive property by inheritance, succession, or any deed or instrument to take effect after the death of the grantor. Gelsthorpe v. Furnell, 20 Mont. 299, 303, 51 Pac. 267, 39 L. R. A. 170; In re Tuohy's Estate, 35 Mont. 431, 436, 90 Pac. 170; State ex rel. Gilmore v. District Court, 45 Mont. 335, 338, 122 Pac. 922, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 469.

This section, in its definition of that which may be made subject to taxation, is sufficiently comprehensive to include all matters and things, visible and invisible, tangible and intangible, corporeal and incorporeal, capable of private ownership. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lewis and Clark County, 28 Mont. 484, 491, 72 Pac. 982, 98 Am. St. Rep. 572; Cobban v. Meagher, 42 Mont. 399, 407, 113 Pac. 290.

Since stocks of a state bank or trust company fall within the definition of property as given in this section, they must be assessed to the owners at their full cash value, except to the extent that that value is represented in property which is assessed to the bank or trust company. Daly Bank etc. Co. v. Board of Commrs., 33 Mont. 101, 106, 81 Pac. 950.

As this section is in the nature of a prohibition, it is so far self-executing as to prohibit the assessment upon the stocks of a bank or trust company of any greater valuation than the full cash value of such stocks, less the amount of the property representing the stock, which is assessed to the bank or trust company. Daly Bank etc. Co. v. Board of Commrs., 33 Mont. 101, 106, 81 Pac. 950; Dennis v. First Nat. Bank of Great Falls, 55 Mont. 448, 456, 178 Pac. 580.

For purposes of taxation a water right is personal property. Helena Water Works Co. v. Settles, 37 Mont. 237, 239, 95 Pac. 838.

State and county bonds held in private ownership within the state are "property," within the meaning of that term as employed in the constitution and revenue laws of the state, and, not being declared exempt, are taxable as such. Cruse v. Fischl, 55 Mont. 258, 265, 175 Pac. 878.

The definition of "property" in this section was intended as a limitation upon the power of the legislature to extend, by indirection, the exemptions from taxation authorized or commanded by section 2 of the article. Hilger v. Moore, 56 Mont. 146, 182 Pac. 477.

A statute in providing a method for the assessment of shares of bank stock which prescribes that the assessed valuation of real estate owned by such bank shall be deducted from the total value of the shares in determining their value is invalid, because not providing that the actual value thereof shall be so deducted. Dennis v. First Nat. Bank of Great Falls, 55 Mont. 448, 178 Pac. 580.

County of Musselshell et al., 54 Mont. 96, 169 Pac. 53; Wells Fargo & Co. v. Harrington, 54 Mont. 235, 238, 169 Pac. 463.

Sec. 18. The legislative assembly shall pass all laws necessary to carry out the provisions of this article.

The legislature has endeavored to carry the mandate of this section into execution by the enactment of our revenue laws, in which the term "franchise" is construed to mean a special privilege conferred by the state directly or indirectly to do or perform certain acts or things which, in the absence of the special privilege, could not be done, and which special privilege the citizens generally do not enjoy by common right. The construction was placed upon the language of the constitution, substantially contemporaneous with its adoption, has been continued throughout the twenty-six years since the enactment of the statute, has been acquiesced in by the people and applied by the revenue officers, constituting a part of the executive branch of the government, and is indicative of the public policy of the state. Wells Fargo & Co. v. Harrington, 54 Mont. 235, 242, 169 Pac. 463.

The constitution imposes upon the legislature the duty to provide the means for carrying into effect the provisions relating to taxation, and it is a general rule that contemporaneous construction by the department of government specially delegated to carry out a provision of the constitution raises a strong presumption that such construction, if uniform and long acquiesced in, rightly interprets the provision. While such construction is not conclusive upon the courts, it is entitled to the most respectful consideration, and it furnishes the only key to the intention of the framers of the instrument in employing the term "franchise" in the above article. Wells Fargo & Co. v. Harrington, 54 Mont. 235, 243, 169 Pac. 463.

Cited or applied in Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Martien, 27 Mont. 437, 440, 71 Pac. 470; State v. State Board of Equalization, 57 Mont. 413, 456, 185 Pac. 708.

ARTICLE XIII.

PUBLIC INDEBTEDNESS.

Section 1. Neither the state, nor any county, city, town, municipality, nor other subdivision of the state shall ever give or loan its credit in aid of, or make any donation or grant, by subsidy or otherwise, to any individual, association or corporation, or become a subscriber to, or a shareholder in, any company or corporation, or a joint owner with any person, company or corporation, except as to such ownership as may accrue to the state by operation or provision of law.

Chapter 96, Laws of 1915 (2816 et seq.), known as the Workmen's Compensation Act, is neither obnoxious as class legislation, nor in violation of the constitutional prohibition against donations to individuals. Lewis and Clark County v. Industrial Accident Board, 52 Mont. 6, 12, 155 Pac. 268, L. R. A. 1916D, 628.

The provision of chapter 28, Laws of 1915, appropriating twenty thousand dollars to serve as a guaranty fund to assure prompt payment of interest on farm loan bonds, is void under this section, because by it the credit of the state is given as an assurance for the benefit of those who may become lenders under the act. Hill v. Rae, 52 Mont. 378, 388, 158 Pac. 826, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 210, L. R. A. 1917A, 495.

The seed-grain law of 1915, designed to furnish aid to persons engaged in agriculture who, because so reduced in circumstances by natural or other conditions beyond their control that they have no means wherewith to purchase seed, does not offend against this section when construed with section 5, article X, of the constitution, making it the duty of counties to provide for those inhabitants who, by reason of misfortune, may have claims upon the aid of society. State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrich, 54 Mont. 390, 394, 170 Pac. 942.

The origin and purposes of the restriction contained in this section are well known. They arose in a time when the evils of public aid to railroads were notorious; they were intended to prevent the extension of such aid to either individuals or corporations for the purpose of fostering business enterprises, whether of a semi-public or private nature; they had and were designed to have no reference whatever to suitable measures, elsewhere commanded, for the relief of the poor. State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrich, 54 Mont. 390, 397, 398, 170 Pac. 942.

Sections 5624 et seq., known as the war defense act, is not repugnant to the provisions of this section forbidding the state from making loans, giving credit, or making gifts or donations to persons, corporations, or associations. State ex rel. Campbell v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 504, 509, 171 Pac. 755, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1101.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Evans v. Stewart, 53 Mont. 18, 29, 161 Pac. 309.

Sec. 2. The legislative assembly shall not in any manner create any debt except by law which shall be irrepealable until the indebtedness therein provided for shall have been fully paid or discharged; such law shall specify the purpose to which the funds so raised shall be applied and provide for the levy of a tax sufficient to pay the interest on, and extinguish the principal of such debt within the time limited by such law for the payment thereof; but no debt or liability shall be created which shall singly, or in the aggregate with any existing debt or liability, exceed the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) except in case of war, to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, unless the law authorizing the same shall have been submitted to the people at a general election and shall have received a majority of the votes cast for and against it at such election.

Sections 5624 et seq., known as the war defense act, is not in conflict with this section as creating a debt without providing by irrepealable law "for the levy of a tax sufficient to pay the interest and to extinguish the principal of such debt, without the time limited by such law for the payment thereof." State ex rel. Campbell v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 504, 512, 171 Pac. 755, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1101.

The terms of this section imply and contemplate a specific obligation created by the legislature itself, of such a character that computation will disclose in advance what tax lavy is requisite to pay the interest on and to extinguish the debt at its maturity. State ex rel. Campbell v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 504, 513, 171 Pac. 755, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 1101.

Where the legislature seeks to provide a method, other than the levy of a tax, for raising funds to meet the demands of the interest and principal on bonds issued to erect a state terminal elevator, it should first provide for the levy of the tax and then if sufficient funds for any particular year are raised to meet such demand, that the tax shall not be levied for such year. State ex rel. Lyman v. Stewart, 58 Mont. 1, 9, 190 Pac. 129. Reversed as to the validity of tax levy on the ground of exempting personal property from taxation in Stoner v. Timmons, 59 Mont. —, 196 Pac. 519.

A statute which in substance provides for the levy of a tax on agricultural lands for the purpose of paying interest and principal on state terminal elevator bonds, only in the event that the receipts from the operation of the elevator are insufficient to provide the proper amount, is not invalid for failure to provide for the extinguishment of the debt within a specified time, when it can be ascertained therefrom by rules of statutory construction that the legislature intended to impose a tax for the payment of the bonds and that the surplus accumulated from the operation of the elevator might be used to discharge the debt at such time as the legislature may make provision therefor. State ex rel. Lyman v. Stewart, 58 Mont. 1, 9, 190 Pac. 129. Reversed as to the validity of the tax levy on the ground of exempting personal property from taxation in Stoner v. Timmons, 59 Mont. —, 196 Pac. 519.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Palmer v. Hickman, 11 Mont. 541, 552, 29 Pac. 92.

Sec. 3. All moneys borrowed by or on behalf of the state or any county, city, town, municipality or other subdivision of the state, shall be used only for the purpose specified in the law authorizing the loan.

A statute which authorizes payment of advances to a board of school trustees for the purpose of building a school in reliance upon the proceeds of bonds, which were declared to be invalid, from the proceeds of the sale of bonds subsequently issued, is not invalid under this section. State ex rel. Northwestern, etc., v. Dickerman, 16 Mont. 278, 292, 40 Pac. 698.

Funds provided by the sale of bonds by the board of county commissioners for the particular purpose of constructing bridges, after securing the consent of the electors, may not be expended for any purpose other than that for which they have been provided. State ex rel. Furnish v. Mullendore, 53 Mont. 109, 115, 161 Pac. 953.

Sec. 4. The state shall not assume the debt, or any part thereof, of any county, city, town or municipal corporation.

That the framers of the constitution did not intend municipal corporations to include counties is clear, for the two terms are used, as in this section, to distinguish different organizations. Hersey v. Neilson, 47 Mont. 132, 141, 131 Pac. 30, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 963.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Palmer v. Hickman, 11 Mont. 541, 550, 29 Pac. 92.

Sec. 5. No county shall be allowed to become indebted in any manner, or for any purpose, to an amount, including existing indebtedness, in the aggregate, exceeding five (5) per centum of the value of the taxable property therein, to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of such indebtedness, and all bonds or obligations in excess of such amount given by or on behalf of such county shall be void. No county shall incur any indebtedness or liability for any single purpose to an amount exceeding ten thousand dollars ($10,000) without the approval of a majority of the electors thereof, voting at an election to be provided by law.

The legislative assembly has the power to provide by law for the funding of all funded debts and obligations. Hotchkiss v. Marion, 12 Mont. 218, 222, 29 Pac. 821.

The issuance of refunding bonds merely changes the form of the evidence of pre-existing indebtedness, and does not involve the creation of any new indebtedness within the meaning of this section. The inhibition therein contained is directed to the legislature. Hotchkiss v.

Marion, 12 Mont. 218, 223, 29 Pac. 821; Palmer v. City of Helena, 19 Mont. 61, 64, 47 Pac. 209; Edwards v. County of Lewis and Clark, 53 Mont. 359, 369, 165 Pac. 297.

The issuance by a county of coupon bonds to the extent of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the purpose of redeeming outstanding county warrants to that amount, is merely a change in the form of a subsisting liability, and not the creation of a new indebtedness or liability, and is therefore not within the inhibition of the constitution and laws of the state, which provide, in effect, that counties shall not incur an indebtedness or liability for any single purpose in an amount exceeding ten thousand dollars without the approval of a majority of the electors of the county. Hotchkiss v. Marion, 12 Mont. 218. 222, 29 Pac. 821. See, also, Hoffman v. Board of Commrs., 18 Mont. 224, 244, 44 Pac. 973; Palmer v. City of Helena, 19 Mont. 61, 64, 47 Pac. 209; E. H. Rollins & Sons v. Board of Commrs., 80 Fed. 692, 698, 26 C. C. A. 91; City of Huron v. Second Ward Sav. Bank, 86 Fed. 272, 278, 30 C. C. A. 38.

The evident meaning of this section is that the approval must be the result of an expression of a majority of those voting. The expression "majority of the electors thereof voting at an election," etc., clearly means a majority of those who vote, and not a majority of all the electors of the county, or of those who vote upon any other issue at the same or some other time. This conclusion is reached because the language employed indicates that the convention had adopted the theory that the control of public affairs must be regarded as belonging to those electors who take sufficient interest in them to give expression to their views at the ballot-box. Tinkel v. Griffin, 26 Mont. 426, 431, 68 Pac. 859; Morse v. Granite County, 44 Mont. 78, 95, 119 Pac. 286.

A favorable majority of all the votes cast on the question of incurring indebtedness to build and furnish a county courthouse, at a general election at which the question is submitted, is sufficient to authorize the indebtedness, though such majority is not a majority of all the electors voting at such election. Tinkel v. Griffin, 26 Mont. 426, 429, 68 Pac. 859; Morse v. Granite County, 44 Mont. 78, 95, 119 Pac. 286.

The mileage and per diem of county commissioners, charged to their county on account of trips made to the site of a bridge, and expenses incurred for services of the county surveyor in surveying and locating the site, are not proper items to be taken into consideration in arriving at the amount of indebtedness which could be lawfully incurred by the county on account of the construction of the bridge, without first obtaining the approval of a majority of the electors of the county. Jenkins v. Newman, 39 Mont. 77, 80, 101 Pac. 625.

Where the commissioners of two counties entered into a contract for the construction of a bridge over a river separating them, the contract price of which was $19,998, and each county became obligated in the sum of $9,999, but without proper approaches, the cost of which would approximate $300, the bridge would be useless, although the contract did not make any provision for them, it was held that, in view of a section of the code then in force declaring that the word "bridge" included the approaches thereto, the single purpose sought to be accomplished by the commissioners was the building of a bridge, with approaches thereto, and that, since that purpose could not be consummated without exceeding the constitutional limitation, the contract was void. Jenkins v. Newman, 39 Mont. 77, 80, 101 Pac. 625.

This section is a restriction upon the authority of the board of county commissioners, and has no reference to the power of the people. The power of the board is limited, but that of the people themselves is unlimited, save as affected by other constitutional declarations. Reid v. Lincoln County, 46 Mont. 31, 57, 125 Pac. 429.

A statute authorizing the erection of a county high school immediately after a favorable vote thereon, at a cost in excess of the constitutional limitation without requiring the question of the indebtedness to be submitted to the electors, is invalid on the ground that the legislature cannot authorize an expenditure in excess of such limitation. Panchot v. Leet, 50 Mont. 315, 146 Pac. 927.

This section has to do with the creation of new indebtedness or liability. Edward v. County of Lewis and Clark, 53 Mont. 359, 369, 165 Pac. 297.

The term, "incur indebtedness or liability," as used in this section, is not synonymous with the term "borrow money" used in section 2933 of the codes. Edwards v. County of Lewis and Clark, 53 Mont. 359, 369, 165 Pac. 297.

The seed-grain law of 1915, designed to furnish aid to persons engaged in agriculture who, because so reduced in circumstances by natural or other conditions beyond their control that they have no means wherewith to purchase seed, in so far as it seeks to create an indebtedness by a county bond issue in excess of ten thousand dollars, upon a mere petition, and no provision for an election having been made, is in conflict with this section. State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrich, 54 Mont. 390, 398, 170 Pac. 942.

Held, under this section, that the limit of county indebtedness is five per cent of the value of its taxable property as that value is disclosed by the last assessment roll, i. e., the value fixed by the county assessor as equalized by the county and state boards of equalization—the full cash value. State ex rel. Galles v. Board of County Commissioners et al., 56 Mont. 387, 185 Pac. 456.

Idem. The limit of county indebtedness is to be computed upon the assessed valuation of its taxable property as disclosed by the last assessment roll, and not upon the percentages of values upon which taxes are computed under chapter 51, Laws of 1919.

Idem. The last assessment roll, within the meaning of this section, from which the limit of indebtedness of a county shall be computed, is the last complete roll before the debt is contracted, and not the last assessment roll in existence at the time the indebtedness was authorized at the polls.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Evans v. Stewart, 53 Mont. 18, 29, 161 Pac. 309; Hamilton v. Board of County Commrs., 54 Mont. 301, 169 Pac. 729.

Sec. 6. No city, town, township or school district shall be allowed to become indebted in any manner or for any purpose to an amount, including existing indebtedness, in the aggregate exceeding three (3) per centum of the value of the taxable property therein, to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of such indebtedness, and all bonds or obligations in excess of such amount given by or on behalf of such city, town, township or school district shall be void; provided, however, that the legislative assembly may extend the limit mentioned in this section, by authorizing municipal corporations to submit the question to a vote of the taxpayers affected thereby, when such increase is necessary to construct a sewerage system or to procure a supply of water for such municipality which shall own and control said water supply and devote the revenues derived therefrom to the payment of the debt.

The act of March 5, 1891, authorizing certain incorporated cities to incur indebtness for specific purposes by the issuance of bonds to an extent not exceeding four per cent. of their assessed valuation, instead of three per cent. as limited by this section, is not void as being wholly in conflict with said section, but is void only to the extent of such repugnancy; and therefore bonds issued by a city under such act are valid where the amount of indebtedness so incurred is less than three per cent. of the assessed valuation of such city. Dunn v. City of Great Falls, 13 Mont. 58, 59, 31 Pac. 1017.

The argument of ab inconveniente cannot avail in the interpretation of constitutional provisions relative to the limitations placed upon the power of a city to contract indebtedness; the rule of strict construction must be applied, and any doubt as to such power must be resolved against it. Palmer v. City of Helena, 19 Mont. 61, 68, 47 Pac. 209; State ex rel. Helena W. W. Co. v. City of Helena, 24 Mont. 521, 537, 63 Pac. 99, 81 Am. St. Rep. 453, 55 L. R. A. 336; Butler v. Andrus, 35 Mont. 575, 583, 90 Pac. 785.

The funding by a city of an existing indebtedness by the issuance of bonds does not create a new or additional indebtedness, but merely changes the form of the liability. This section, forbidding the creation by a city of an indebtedness greater than three per cent. of the assessed value of property within its limits, unless the creation thereof is necessary and authorized by a vote of the taxpayers, for the purpose of constructing a sewer or water system, prohibits the creation of an indebtedness beyond the three per cent. limit for such purposes by a city which had its sewerage system at the time of the adoption of the constitution. Palmer v. City of Helena, 19 Mont. 61, 65, 47 Pac. 209. See Butler v. Andrus, 35 Mont. 575, 582, 90 Pac. 785, and Edwards v. County of Lewis and Clark, 53 Mont. 359, 369, 165 Pac. 297.

A city having already exceeded the constitutional limit of its indebtedness, and a water company having furnished it water for municipal purposes under an ordinance providing for the obtaining of water for such purposes for a certain period and at a certain price, appropriating out of the city's yearly revenues sufficient money to pay for it, and ordering the city council for such term to levy annual taxes to meet the appropriation, the company could not recover for water so furnished, inasmuch as the liability of the city would be general, and not special, and the contract entered into created, and the amount due for water furnished thereunder constituted, an indebtedness within the prohibition of this section. State ex rel. Helena W. W. Co. v. City of Helena, 24 Mont. 521, 525, 63 Pac. 99, 81 Am. St. Rep. 453, 55 L. R. A. 336.

The constitutional limitation contained in the above section is clear and unambiguous, and means just what it says, namely, that no indebtedness may be contracted in any manner or amount, for any purpose, in excess of the prescribed limit. State ex rel. Helena W. W. Co. v. City of Helena, 24 Mont. 521, 530, 63 Pac. 99, 81 Am. St. Rep. 453, 55 L. R. A. 336; Butler v. Andrus, 35 Mont. 575, 581, 90 Pac. 785; Lepley v. City of Fort Benton, 51 Mont. 551, 555, 154 Pac. 710.

A complaint by a city for the condemnation for a water supply for certain water rights in a stream is not defective for failing to allege that the water supply can be procured without incurring an indebetedness which, with the existing indebtedness, will exceed three per cent. of the assessed valuation, or that the limit was extended by having the question submitted to the voters, and that a majority of the votes was in favor of the proposition. City of Helena v. Rogan, 26 Mont. 452, 472, 68 Pac. 798.

The word "indebtedness," as used in this section, means what a city owes, irrespective of the demands which it may hold against others. The amount of cash on hand may be deducted from the "indebtedness," but claims against a county for road taxes collected for the city, and the amount due from landowners for sidewalks, cannot be so deducted. Jordan v. Andrus, 27 Mont. 22, 26, 69 Pac. 118.

A city which has exceeded its debt limit prescribed by this section cannot incur an indebtedness not payable from a specially authorized tax, but payable from funds previously appropriated, under an agreement that the claimants should accept warrants in payment of their claims, and that if the warrant should not be paid, the city should not be liable therefor. The payment of such claims on the theory that the appropriation by ordinance was an assignment of the funds so appropriated for the payment of the claims was unauthorized. Helena W. W. Co. v. City of Helena, 27 Mont. 205, 206, 70 Pac. 513. See Palmer v. City of Helena, 40 Mont. 498, 504, 107 Pac. 512.

Under this constitutional provision, a city may not resort to the ten per cent. extended limit of indebtedness, until its financial condition and the needs of the people have created the necessity for such action, and a city had no authority to arbitrarily declare a second bond issue of ten thousand dollars for water supply purposes, within the extended limit, so long as there was ample margin within the constitutional limit to cover such issue. Butler v. Andrus, 35 Mont. 575, 579, 90 Pac. 785.

The authority conferred upon a city council by a special election called for that purpose, to incur additional indebtedness for water and sewer purposes, does not lapse upon the completion of the assessment roll for the year in which the election is held. The requirement of this section, that the question whether the debt shall be incurred must be submitted to the taxpayers "to be affected thereby," is satisfied if the council, after authority to act has been voted, proceeds with reasonable diligence to issue and sell the bonds. Carlson v. City of Helena, 39 Mont. 82, 103, 102 Pac. 39, 17 Ann. Cas. 1233.

The provision of this section, that the revenues derived from a water system purchased or installed by a city shall be devoted to the payment of the debt incurred in its acquisition, does not impliedly prohibit the municipality from resorting to taxation to pay the principal and interest on the bonds evidencing the indebtedness. Carlson v. City of Helena, 39 Mont. 82, 107, 102 Pac. 39, 17 Ann. Cas. 1233.

A city which is indebted beyond the constitutional limitation may not use its surplus revenues, no matter from what source derived, to acquire an electric light plant to supply itself and its inhabitants with light, where a company, operating both gas and electric light systems, under a franchise from the city, has ample facilities to meet all requirements. Palmer v. City of Helena, 40 Mont. 498, 504, 107 Pac. 512.

Where a city's existing indebtedness incurred under the constitutional three per cent. limit has, by reason of payments thereon, fallen below that limit, or because of the increase of the assessed valuation of its taxable property a sufficient margin within such limit is left for the purpose, it may, irrespective of any legally incurred indebtedness under the ten per cent. limit authorized by the statute relating to the powers of municipal councils, contract an additional debt for general purposes. Arnold v. City of Miles City, 46 Mont. 478, 479, 128 Pac. 915.

Cities and towns may not go beyond the prescribed limit of indebtedness in any manner or for any purpose, except as prescribed in the constitution, and they cannot transcend this limit except when necessary. Lepley v. City of Fort Benton, 51 Mont. 551, 557, 154 Pac. 710.

Where a city acquires a water supply without resort to indebtedness beyond the constitutional three per cent. of the city's taxable property, it stands on an equal footing with an individual or private corporation engaged in furnishing water to it and its inhabitants, and is subject to all reasonable regulation and control by the state under the police power. Public Service Commission v. City of Helena, 52 Mont. 527, 534, 159 Pac. 24.

Under the rule that, since the constitution limits, rather than grants, power, any of its provisions open to construction should be held to come within the general rule, unless a contrary conclusion is forced by the circumstances of the particular case, the concluding sentence of this section must be understood as expressing constitutional restrictions imposed as a condition to the exercise of the privilege implied in the provision for extended indebtedness, and not as a grant of power not enjoyed by a city acquiring a water system without incurring additional indebtedness. Public Service Commission v. City of Helena, 52 Mont. 527, 536, 159 Pac. 24.

It cannot be said that the injunction contained in this section, that the revenues derived from a water system shall be devoted to the payment of the extended indebtedness, secures to a city any special privilege. On the contrary, that language is not susceptible of any meaning other than that the city is prohibited from dissipating the funds derived from the operation of its water system, or using them for general municipal purposes, and is commanded to devote them to the single purpose indicated. It is strictly a limitation imposed in the interest of the city and the holders of its securities. Public Service Commission v. City of Helena, 52 Mont. 527, 538, 159 Pac. 24.

The "revenues" referred to in this section, which must be devoted to a discharge of the indebtedness incurred in procuring a water system, are the net revenues, or the gross receipts less necessary operating expenses, against which the expense of regulation by the public service commission, if reasonable, is chargeable. Public Service Commission v. City of Helena, 52 Mont. 527, 541, 159 Pac. 24.

Where a city had a water supply sufficient in quantity but unsuitable as to quality, issued bonds with the approval of the electors, and sold the same to procure funds to install a filtration plant, the constitutional three per cent. limit of indebtedness having already been reached, the contemplated expenditure was properly justifiable as one "to procure a water supply," within the meaning of this section. McClintock v. City of Great Falls, 53 Mont. 221, 224, 163 Pac. 99.

The only limitation placed by this section upon the amount of indebtedness which a city may incur, in addition to the three per cent. limit, for the purpose of procuring a water supply, is that it must have the approval of the taxpayers affected thereby. McClintock v. City of Great Falls, 53 Mont. 221, 226, 163 Pac. 99.

Where, after making ample provision for retiring bonds issued to procure a water system, a city had accumulated a surplus over and above the amount necessary to discharge the interest on the indebtedness as it became due, it could properly expend such surplus in part payment of a necessary filtration plant, without the sanction of the taxpayers' vote, transfer it to its general fund, place it in a special fund, or devote it to any legitimate municipal purpose, without violating the provisions of the above section. McClintock v. City of Great Falls, 53 Mont. 221, 228, 229, 163 Pac. 99.

Though a city cannot authorize a water system bond issue beyond the three per centum limit, so long as there was sufficient margin unexhausted within the limit to secure the funds, because the city council declared it was necessary to increase the indebtedness beyond the limit, bonds authorized by the vote of the electors are not void, unless the vote was procured or influenced by deception or fraud. Edwards v. City of Helena, 58 Mont. 292, 295, 191 Pac. 387.

Where a city water system bond issue is beyond the three per centum limit, the revenues from the city owned water plant are irrevocably set aside and dedicated to the discharge of the interest and principal, and a taxpayer who is not a water user may not be called upon to contribute, unless the water plant revenues are insufficient, when a property tax may be levied to supply such deficiency. ARTICLE XIV.

MILITARY AFFAIRS.

Section 1. The militia of the state of Montana shall consist of all able-bodied male citizens of the state between the ages of eighteen (18) and forty-five (45) years inclusive, except such persons as may be exempted by the laws of the state or of the United States.

Cited or applied in In re McDonald, 49 Mont. 454, 477, 143 Pac. 947, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 1166, L. R. A. 1915B, 988.

Validity of enlistment of minor in state military service without consent of parents, see 1913C, 1273.

Sec. 2. The legislative assembly shall provide by law for the organization, equipment, and discipline of the militia, and shall make rules and regulations for the government of the same. The organization shall conform as nearly as practicable to the regulations for the government of the armies of the United States.

Power of state under federal constitution to legislate with respect to militia, see L. R. A. 1918C, 307.

Are state militias subject to the articles of war of the United States? see 40 L. R. A. (N. S.) 354.

Sec. 3. The legislative assembly shall provide by law for maintaining the militia, by appropriations from the treasury of the state.

Under this section the weight of authority is to the effect that it is not necessary that there be any physical invasion of an individual's property for public use to entitle him to compensation. Root v. Butte A. & P. Ry. Co., 20 Mont. 354, 51 Pac. 155.

Power of legislature to make appropriation to compensate injured militiaman, see 44 L. R. A. (N. S.) 83.

Sec. 4. The legislative assembly shall provide by law for the safe keeping of the public arms, military records, relics and banners of the state.

Sec. 5. When the governor shall, with the consent of the legislative assembly, be out of the state in time of war, at the head of any military force thereof, he shall continue commander-in-chief of all the military forces of the state.

ARTICLE XV.

CORPORATIONS OTHER THAN MUNICIPAL.

Section 1. All existing charters, or grants of special or exclusive privileges, under which the corporations or grantees shall not have organized or commenced business in good faith at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall thereafter have no validity.

This section only annulled private charters or special grants, under which corporations had not organized and does not affect a mining company incorporated under the general laws, though it had omitted to commence business prior to the adoption of the constitution. Morrison v. Clark, 24 Mont. 515, 63 Pac. 98.

For text treatment of this subject see 7 R. C. L. 1; also, article on Corporations in Cal. Jur.

Provision in constitution or statute for forfeiture of corporate charter as self-executory, see Ann. Cas. 1914A, 936.

Meaning of term "carrying on business" as used in statute relating to corporation, see 18 Ann. Cas. 32.

Sec. 2. No charter of incorporations shall be granted, extended, changed or amended by special law, except for such municipal, charitable, educational, penal or reformatory corporations as are or may be under the control of the state; but the legislative assembly shall provide by general law for the organization of corporations hereafter to be created; provided, that any such laws shall be subject to future repeal or alteration by the legislative assembly.

When a mining company was organized between 1889 and 1898, there existed and was read into and made a part of its charter the then existing statute, which gave notice to all concerned that the legislature of Montana, acting under the above constitutional provision, might at any time alter, amend, or repeal the law under which it existed. Allen v. Ajax Mining Co., 30 Mont. 490, 504, 77 Pac. 47. See Somerville v. St. Louis M. & M. Co., 46 Mont. 268, 275, 127 Pac. 464, L. R. A. 1915B, 811.

The power reserved in the state to amend the laws under which a corporation is organized may be exercised not only as relates to the contract (created by the granting of the charter and its acceptance), existing between the state and the corporation, but also as it affects the contract between the corporation and its stockholders, and also the contract as between the stockholders themselves; and legislation looking to that end is not objectionable on the constitutional ground that it impairs the obligation of contracts. Allen v. Ajax Mining Co., 30 Mont. 490, 504, 77 Pac. 47; Somerville v. St. Louis M. & M. Co., 46 Mont. 268, 275, 127 Pac. 464, L. R. A. 1915B, 811.

Chapter 83, Laws of 1903, p. 156, relative to the liability of railway corporations for damages sustained by an employee by reason of the negligence of certain of his co-employees, is a valid exercise of legislative power under this and the following section. Lewis v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 36 Mont. 207, 219, 92 Pac. 469.

Under the right reserved to the state by this and the following section, it seems that the legislature may not only alter corporate charters, but, if deemed expedient, destroy the corporate body. Lewis v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 36 Mont. 207, 219, 92 Pac. 469.

Corporations being creatures of the statute, the legislature may, under this and the following section, enact any legislation by way of amendment of the law creating them, which does not violate the rule that property acquired under the operation of their charters cannot be taken away, and that contracts made in like manner may not be impaired. Lewis v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 36 Mont. 207, 221, 92 Pac. 469.

Where a corporation was organized under chapter 25, division 5, Compiled Statutes of 1887, at which time there was not any law under which non-assessable stock could be made assessable, its certificate of incorporation and every stock certificate issued reciting that the stock was non-assessable, and in 1901 the requisite number of shares of stock were voted in favor of making the stock assessable by taking advantage of the provisions of 3888 of the Revised Codes of 1907, authorizing such procedure, the statute in question was not unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contracts, under the reserved power of the state to amend the laws under which a corporation is created. Somerville v. St. Louis M. & M. Co., 46 Mont. 268, 276, 127 Pac. 464, L. R. A. 1915B, 811.

The legislature may alter the charter of an existing corporation by imposing greater burdens thereafter to be assumed by the stockholders than were imposed at the time it was granted; provided only that the alteration does not involve a confiscation of the rights of individuals, deprive them of their property without due process of law, or violate the elementary principles of natural justice. Barth v. Pock, 51 Mont. 418, 429, 155 Pac. 282.

Cited or applied in Morrison v. Clark, 24 Mont. 515, 63 Pac. 98; Lewis v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 36 Mont. 207, 219, 92 Pac. 469; In re Beck's Estate, 44 Mont. 561, 573, 121 Pac. 784.

Sec. 3. The legislative assembly shall have the power to alter, revoke or annul any charter of incorporation existing at the time of the adoption of this constitution, or which may be hereafter incorporated, whenever in its opinion it may be injurious to the citizens of the state.

Cited or applied in Lewis v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 36 Mont. 207, 219, 92 Pac. 469; Barth v. Pock, 51 Mont. 418, 429, 155 Pac. 282.

Sec. 4. The legislative assembly shall provide by law that in all elections for directors or trustees of incorporated companies, every stockholder shall have the right to vote in person or by proxy the number of shares of stock owned by him for as many persons as there are directors or trustees to be elected, or to cumulate said shares, and give one candidate as many votes as the number of directors multiplied by the number of his shares of stock shall equal, or to distribute them, on the same principle, among as many candidates as he shall think fit, and such directors or trustees shall not be elected in any other manner.

Inasmuch as corporations are the creatures of statute, it is within the power of the legislature to adopt either the share of stock or the individual owning stock as the unit of voting power, unless restrained by the constitution. The only constitutional provision upon the subject is found in this section, which establishes the share of stock as the unit of voting power in the election of trustees or directors of such corporations. Since this restriction is limited to a single purpose, the legislature is left free to establish either the share or the individual as the unit for any purpose other than the election of trustees or directors. Smith v. Iron Mountain Tunnel Co., 46 Mont. 13, 15, 125 Pac. 649, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 551.

Sec. 5. All railroads shall be public highways, and all railroad, transportation and express companies shall be common carriers and subject to legislative control, and the legislative assembly shall have the power to regulate and control by law the rates of charges for the transportation of passengers and freight by such companies as common carriers from one point to another in the state. Any association or corporation, organized for the purpose, shall have the right to construct and operate a railroad between any designated points within this state and to connect at the state line with railroads of other states and territories. Every railroad company shall have the right with its road to intersect, connect with, or cross any other railroad.

Under this section and section 7 of this article, a railroad, though built by a private corporation, and with its main line and spurs running convenient to private mines and ore houses, is none the less a public use, and may exercise the right of eminent domain. Butte, Anaconda & Pacific Ry. Co. v. Montana Union Ry. Co., 16 Mont. 504, 525, 41 Pac. 232, 50 Am. St. Rep. 508, 31 L. R. A. 298.

As one of the means of fostering and encouraging the development of the state's mineral resources in every reasonable way, the constitution has declared that all railroads shall be public highways, and all railroad companies shall be public carriers. Kipp v. Davis-Daly Copper Co., 41 Mont. 509, 519, 110 Pac. 237, 21 Ann. Cas. 1372, 36 L. R. A. (N. S.) 666.

Sec. 6. No railroad corporation, express or other transportation company, or the lessees or managers thereof, shall consolidate its stock, property or franchises, with any other railroad corporation, express or other transportation company, owning or having under its control a parallel or competing line; neither shall it in any manner unite its business or earnings with the business or earnings of any other railroad corporation; nor shall any officer of such railroad, express or other transportation company act as an officer of any other railroad, express, or other transportation company owning or having control of a parallel or competing line.

One railroad company can lease its road to a parallel and competing road for a term of ten years, and such a lease is not a consolidation of the two roads. State ex rel. Nolan v. Railway Companies, 21 Mont. 221, 234, 53 Pac. 623, 45 L. R. A. 271.

When two railroad companies have but one common terminus, and are brought into competition between common terminal points by traffic arrangements with other roads, they are competing roads within the meaning of this section. State ex rel. Nolan v. Railway Companies, 21 Mont. 221, 236, 53 Pac. 623, 45 L. R. A. 271.

Restrictions on consolidation of parallel or competing lines, see 45 L. R. A. 271.

Sec. 7. All individuals, associations, and corporations shall have equal rights to have persons or property transported on and over any railroad, transportation or express route in this state. No discrimination in charges or facilities for transportation of freight or passengers of the same class shall be made by any railroad, or transportation, or express company, between persons or places within this state; but excursion or commutation tickets may be issued and sold at special rates, provided such rates are the same to all persons. No railroad or transportation, or express company shall be allowed to charge, collect, or receive, under penalties which the legislative assembly shall prescribe, any greater charge or toll for the transportation of freight or passengers to any place or station upon its route or line, than it charges for the transportation of the same class of freight or passengers to any more distant place or station upon its route or line within this state. No railroad, express, or transportation company, nor any lessee, manager, or other employee thereof, shall give any preference to any individual, association or corporation, in furnishing cars or motive power, or for the transportation of money or other express matter.

A railroad company may not grant to one person the exclusive right to the use of a portion of its depot platform to deliver passengers departing, and to receive and solicit the patronage of incoming passengers, to the exclusion of all other persons from the exercise of such rights, as such grant is against public policy and contrary to the provisions of this section. Montana Union Ry. Co. v. Langlois, 9 Mont. 419, 432, 24 Pac. 209, 18 Am. St. Rep. 745, 8 L. R. A. 753.

This provision, when considered in connection with section 5 of this article, demonstrates that the constitution, in its letter, its spirit, and its policy as well, classes all railroads, with their feeders, as public highways, subject to use by the public of right, amenable to the laws governing common carriers forever forbidding all obnoxious favoritisms between any who desire to use such highways. This stable written policy is doubtless the outgrowth of pernicious systems of discrimination and preferences which railroad corporations may have indulged in throughout the land where their powers are unrestrained by constitution or other restriction. Butte, Anaconda & Pacific Ry. Co. v. Montana Union Ry. Co., 16 Mont. 504, 526, 41 Pac. 232, 50 Am. St. Rep. 508, 31 L. R. A. 298; John v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 42 Mont. 18, 36, 111 Pac. 632, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 85.

This section and the cases of Rose v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 35 Mont. 70, 88 Pac. 767, 119 Am. St. Rep. 836, and Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. R. Co., 40 Mont. 109, 105 Pac. 489, 20 Ann. Cas. 311, 25 L. R. A. (N. S.) 459, recognize the distinction between a ticket sold at the regular fare and one sold at a reduced fare or special price. Miley v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 41 Mont. 51, 55, 108 Pac. 5.

As one of the means of fostering and encouraging the development of the state's mineral resources in every reasonable way, the constitution has declared that all persons shall have equal right to have persons or property transported on and over any railroad. Kipp v. Davis-Daly Copper Co., 41 Mont. 509, 519, 110 Pac. 237, 21 Ann. Cas. 1372, 36 L. R. A. (N. S.) 666.

In view of this section, providing that all individuals shall have equal rights to be transported over any railroad in the state, provided that excursion or commutation tickets may be issued and sold at special rates, section 6571, making it unlawful for any common carrier to charge any person for any ticket a greater sum than is charged for a similar ticket of the same class, and section 11256, making every railroad corporation which fails to observe any of the duties prescribed by law in reference to railroads subject to a fine, etc., the giving of all free passes, with certain exceptions recognized by law, is prohibited, so that the carriage of a passenger by a railroad company on a pass issued without compensation to the employee of another railroad company which issued similar free passes for use by the former company's employees is illegal, and hence a provision therein exempting the carrier from liability for injuries caused by its negligence was a nullity. John v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 42 Mont. 18, 36, 111 Pac. 632, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 85.

It is not permitted to a railroad company arbitrarily to classify the patrons of its road. Even the legislative assembly, in making classifications for taxation and license purposes, must exercise a reasonable discretion in so doing. John v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 42 Mont. 18, 38, 111 Pac. 632; 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 85.

Sec. 8. No railroad, express, or other transportation company, in existence at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall have the benefit of any future legislation, without first filing in the office of the secretary of state an acceptance of the provisions of this constitution in binding form.

Sec. 9. The right of eminent domain shall never be abridged, nor so construed as to prevent the legislative assembly from taking the property and franchises of incorporated companies, and subjecting them to public use the same as the property of individuals; and the police powers of the state shall never be abridged, or so construed, as to permit corporations to conduct their business in such manner as to infringe the equal rights of individuals, or the general well being of the state.

Cited or applied in Butte, Anaconda & Pacific Ry. Co. v. Montana Union Ry. Co., 16 Mont. 504, 536, 41 Pac. 232; 50 Am. St. Rep. 508, 31 L. R. A. 298.

Sec. 10. No corporation shall issue stocks or bonds, except for labor done, services performed, or money and property actually received; and all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void. The stock of corporations shall not be increased except in pursuance of general law, nor without the consent of the persons holding a majority of the stock first obtained at a meeting held after at least thirty days notice given in pursuance of law.

The purchase of a mine which the stockholders knew was not worth over $125,000 and payment therefor in stock whose par value is $7,500,000 and which is purchased by the stockholders with full knowledge of the transaction at 2½ per cent. of its par value, is fraudulent as to a creditor, and the stock will be treated as unpaid to the extent of the difference between the actual value of the mine and the nominal value of the stock. Kelly v. Clark, 21 Mont. 291, 53 Pac. 959, 69 Am. St. Rep. 668, 42 L. R. A. 621.

Sec. 11. No foreign corporation shall do any business in this state without having one or more known places of business, and an authorized agent or agents in the same, upon whom process may be served. And no company or corporation formed under the laws of any other country, state or territory, shall have, or be allowed to exercise, or enjoy within this state any greater rights or privileges than those possessed or enjoyed by corporations of the same or similar character created under the laws of the state.

Section 697, fifth division, Compiled Statutes of 1887, declaring the liability of the corporation to an employee injured through the negligence of his superior to be the same as if the employee were a passenger, being originally part of an act for the incorporation of railroad companies in the territory, and having application only to corporations created under such act, imposes upon domestic railroad companies a burden not imposed upon foreign railroad companies operating within the state, and was therefore annulled by the adoption of the state constitution. Criswell v. Montana Central Ry. Co., 18 Mont. 167, 168, 44 Pac. 525, 33 L. R. A. 554.

The plain purpose of this section is to restrain the legislature from granting to foreign corporations rights and privileges which cannot be enjoyed by domestic corporations of like character under similar circumstances. Criswell v. Montana Central Ry. Co. v. 18 Mont. 167, 171, 44 Pac. 525, 33 L. R. A. 554; State v. Thomas Cruse Savings Bank, 21 Mont. 50, 55, 52 Pac. 733, 45 L. R. A. 760; Daily v. Marshall, 47 Mont. 377, 397, 133 Pac. 681.

The prohibition contained in this section lays down a principle of protection to domestic corporations that at once, upon the adoption of the constitution and the admission of the state, became a sufficient rule by means of which the rights and privileges possessed by domestic companies were and are protected against legislative or other discriminations extending the possession or enjoyment of rights or privileges to foreign corporations greater than those already possessed, or those that may be attempted to be granted by any future action. To this extent the provision was completely self-executing, and no legislation was required to give the prohibition full force and operation. Criswell v. Montana Central Ry. Co., 18 Mont. 167, 171, 44 Pac. 525; 33 L. R. A. 554. See, also, Goodwell v. Montana Central Ry. Co., 18 Mont. 293, 297, 45 Pac. 210.

This section is self-executing as a prohibition, but not as an affirmative imposition upon, or securement to, foreign companies of the rights or privileges only accorded by state laws to domestic companies. Criswell v. Montana Central Ry. Co., 18 Mont. 167, 173, 44 Pac. 525, 33 L. R. A. 554.

Section 697 of the Compiled Statutes of 1887, giving to one employee injured by the negligence of a superior a right of action against the master, was repealed by this section. Wastl v. Montana Union Ry. Co., 24 Mont. 159, 170, 61 Pac. 9.

It is not against the public policy of the state for one corporation to hold and vote stock in another of like character. MacGinnins v. Boston & M. C. C. & S. M. Co., 29 Mont. 428, 461, 75 Pac. 89.

A foreign corporation, authorized by the laws of the state in which it is organized, and by its charter, to build a dam across the Missouri river in Montana, and maintain and operate an electric power plant in connection therewith, is neither by the constitution nor laws of this state clothed with the right of eminent domain. Helena Power Transmission Co. v. Spratt, 35 Mont. 108, 132, 88 Pac. 773, 10 Ann. Cas. 1055, 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 567.

Foreign corporations doing business in the state are not entitled to any greater rights than are enjoyed by domestic corporations engaged in the same kind of business. Lewis v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 36 Mont. 207, 222, 92 Pac. 469.

When a foreign corporation enters the state of Montana for the purpose of conducting business here, it does so only upon submitting itself to our laws, and it must recognize and obey the prohibitory force of this section. While no greater burden may be put upon foreign corporations than is placed upon domestic corporations of a similar character, yet it cannot occupy any higher ground than they do. Lewis v. Northern Pacific Ry. Co., 36 Mont. 207, 222, 92 Pac. 469; Spratt v. Helena Power Transmission Co., 37 Mont. 60, 89, 94 Pac. 631.

The act of 1907, granting foreign corporations the power to condemn lands for certain purposes, is not open to the constitutional objection that under it such corporations are granted greater rights or privileges than are accorded to domestic corporations, in that, after permission to do business in this state, they may, under their charters granted in other states, thereafter divert the property taken for a public use to an exclusively private one; the state having full power to prevent such a contingency. Spratt v. Helena Power Transmission Co., 37 Mont. 60, 88, 94 Pac. 631.

This provision was intended to prohibit the passage of laws giving to foreign corporations the right to exercise or enjoy any greater privileges than those possessed or enjoyed by domestic corporations, and it is only in cases where a foreign corporation attempts to exercise or enjoy a right or privilege expressly given to it by the legislative assembly that its right to exercise the same may be questioned. The mere fact that a burden is placed upon domestic corporations from which foreign corporations are exempt does not operate to bring foreign corporations within the provisions of a law intended to apply solely to domestic corporations. Uihlein v. Caplice Commercial Co., 39 Mont. 327, 337, 102 Pac. 564. See First National Bank of Butte v. Weidenbeck, 97 Fed. 896, 38 C. C. A. 131.

Laws intended to apply to foreign corporations must be framed on the theory that they are created under conditions and limitations over which the state legislature has no control; acts of the legislature are in harmony with the constitution unless they discriminate against domestic corporations. Daily v. Marshall, 47 Mont. 377, 398, 133 Pac. 681.

See also First Nat. Bank v. Weidenbeck, 87 Fed. 271, 272, as to the effect of the adoption of this section upon territorial statute relative to liability of trustees for corporate debts on failure to file required reports.

Sec. 12. No street or other railroad shall be constructed within any city or town without the consent of the local authorities having control of the street or highway proposed to be occupied by such street or other railroad.

The granting of a right of way, under statutory authority, to street railways or other such corporations, and the regulating the running and management of them in the use of the streets, etc., carries out, on the part of the municipality, the plain intent of this constitutional provision. Kipp v. Davis-Daly Copper Co., 41 Mont. 509, 516, 110 Pac. 237, 21 Ann. Cas. 1372, 36 L. R. A. (N. S.) 666.

"Town," when used in the constitution as intended to convey the sense only of incorporated town, has always the qualifying word with it. State ex rel. Powers v. Dale, 47 Mont. 227, 230, 131 Pac. 670, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 227.

Sec. 13. The legislative assembly shall pass no law for the benefit of a railroad or other corporation, or any individual or association of individuals, retrospective in its operation, or which imposes on the people of any county or municipal subdivision of the state, a new liability in respect to transactions or considerations already passed.

A statute which provides for the payment of advances to a school district for the erection of school buildings in reliance upon a bond issue declared invalid by the subsequent issue of bonds, is not restrospective in operation under this section. State ex rel. Northwestern etc. v. Dickerman, 16 Mont. 278, 40 Pac. 698.

As applied to municipalities having contracts with private persons for water supply at the time of the enactment of the statute, subdivision 64 of section 4800 of the Political Code of 1895 (5639), providing that no municipality having a water supply furnished by private persons shall erect any water plant to be operated by itself, but if it desires to acquire such a plant, shall purchase or condemn such supply, is in violation of this section. Helena C. W. Co. v. Steele, 20 Mont. 1, 11, 49 Pac. 382, 37 L. R. A. 412.

The purpose of section 1034 of the Civil Code of 1895, providing that "any foreign corporation that has heretofore engaged in business, performed acts, or made contracts in this state, may, within ninety days from the date this act goes into effect, comply with the provisions hereof, and thereupon all its acts and contracts done and made before this act goes into effect shall be valid and enforceable, any statute of this state heretofore enacted to the contrary notwithstanding," being merely to make valid and enforceable contracts made by foreign corporations which were voidable because of a failure to file certain statements and certificates by law required, and not referring to or making valid contracts of such corporations which are void for other reasons, the same is not in conflict with the above constitutional provision. The section of the code in question is a curative statute and not retrospective in its operation, as it does not interfere with any vested right or impair the obligation of any contract. Mutual Benefit Life Ins Co. v. Winne, 20 Mont. 20, 37, 49 Pac. 446.

Chapter 132, Laws of 1913 (9962), providing for the recovery of escheated property, is not retrospective within the meaning of that term as used in this section. In re Pomeroy, 51 Mont. 119, 122, 151 Pac. 333.

While the state is forbidden by this section to impose upon its municipal subdivisions a liability in respect to a transaction or consideration already passed, it may impose such a liability upon itself. In re Pomeroy, 51 Mont. 119, 125, 151 Pac. 333.

Sec. 14. Any association or corporation, or the lessees or managers thereof, organized for the purpose, or any individual, shall have the right to construct or maintain lines of telegraph or telephone within this state, and connect the same with other lines; and the legislative assembly shall by general law of uniform operation provide reasonable regulations to give full effect to this section. No telegraph or telephone company shall consolidate with, or hold a controlling interest in, the stock or bonds of any other telegraph or telephone company owning or having the control of a competing line, or acquire by purchase or otherwise, any other competing line of telegraph or telephone.

The above section was incorporated in the constitution because the telephone and the telegraph were considered of so much importance to the people as a means of communication. Hershfield v. Rocky Mt. Bell Tel. Co., 12 Mont. 102, 116, 29 Pac. 883.

Where a city council refuses to designate the location of poles for a telephone line, and requires the wires to be laid in conduits four feet under the streets, the proper remedy is by mandamus to compel the council to designate the location of the poles. A general law relating to telephone corporations is not modified by the statutes concerning the government of cities. State ex rel. Rocky etc. Tel. Co. v. Mayor of Red Lodge, 30 Mont. 338, 340, 76 Pac. 758. See, also, State ex rel. Rocky etc. Tel. Co. v. Mayor etc. of City of Red Lodge, 33 Mont. 345, 347, 83 Pac. 642.

This section is not self-executing. Legislation must be had to make the right granted effective. If the legislature failed or refused to enact any measure on the subject at all, then the right granted would simply lie dormant, for it must be conceded that there is not any power which can coerce the legislature into enacting a particular law. In the absence of legislation making the grant effective, it is of no use whatever. In the absence of legislation, it would be an unlawful obstruction of any public highway to place poles, posts, or other fixtures for use of a telephone or telegraph line in it. The constitution commands the legislature to enact a law upon the subject; but, if the legislature refuses to do so, there is not any way to enforce the command. If, however, the legislature does act, the law which it enacts must be a general one of uniform operation, providing reasonable regulations which will give full effect to the grant contained in the section. State ex rel. Crumb v. City of Helena, 34 Mont. 67, 71, 85 Pac. 744.

Chapter IV of the Sessions Laws of 1905, p. 122, authorizing any person or corporation desirous of engaging in the telegraph, telephone, electric light or power business, to construct the necessary poles and appliances along and upon any of the public highways, but adding that "the provisions of this act shall not apply to public roads and highways within the limits of incorporated cities or towns," is, as to this proviso, invalid, in that by its insertion the carrying on of such business would practically be confined to country districts, contrary to the purpose of the constitutional grant with respect to this subject. State ex rel. Crumb v. City of Helena, 34 Mont. 67, 71, 85 Pac. 744.

While the authority to regulate the telegraph and telephone business is vested in the legislature by this section, this cannot be so construed as to prevent any part of the same from being delegated to, or conferred upon, cities and towns, which may likewise, acting through their respective councils, prescribe reasonable regulations upon the subject. A city ordinance requiring wires used for the transmission of electricity for telegraph and telephone purposes, among others, to be placed underground in the congested business district, and providing punishment for disobedience, was therefore a valid exercise of the police power of the city, and did not encroach upon the legislative right of regulation. City of Butte v. Montana Independent Tel. Co., 50 Mont. 574, 577, 148 Pac. 384.

Cited or applied in MacGinnis v. Boston & M. C. C. & S. M. Co., 29 Mont. 428, 453, 75 Pac. 89; State ex rel. Rocky etc. Tel. Co. v. Mayor of Red Lodge, 30 Mont. 338, 340, 76 Pac. 758.

Sec. 15. If any railroad, telegraph, telephone, express or other corporation or company organized under any of the laws of this state, shall consolidate, by sale or otherwise, with any railroad, telegraph, telephone, express, or other corporation, organized under any of the laws of any other state or territory of the United States, the same shall not thereby become a foreign corporation, but the courts of this state shall retain jurisdiction over that part of the corporate property within the limits of the state, in all matters that may arise as if said consolidation had not taken place.

This section does not prohibit consolidations. Its prohibition extends only to any device by which an attempt is made to deprive the state courts of jurisdiction. MacGinnis v. Boston & M. C. C. & S. M. Co., 29 Mont. 428, 461, 75 Pac. 89.

Sec. 16. It shall be unlawful for any person, company or corporation to require of its servants or employees, as a condition of their employment or otherwise, any contract or agreement whereby such persons, company or corporation, shall be released or discharged from liability or responsibility on account of personal injuries received by such servants or employees while in the service of such person, company or corporation, by reason of negligence of such person, company or corporation, or the agents or employees thereof; and such contracts shall be absolutely null and void.

The defense of assumption of risk, which has for its basis the common-law principle expressed by the maxim, "Volenti non fit injuria," and does not rest in contract between the master and servant, is not abrogated by this section of the constitution and code provisions providing that a contract releasing an employer from liability for his negligence is void. Osterholm v. Boston etc. Min. Co., 40 Mont. 508, 523, 107 Pac. 499.

Cited or applied in Schmidt v. Montana Cent. Ry. Co., 15 Mont. 106, 38 Pac. 226; Criswell v. Montana Central Ry. Co., 18 Mont. 167, 171, 44 Pac. 525, 33 L. R. A. 554.

Sec. 17. The legislative assembly shall not pass any law permitting the leasing or alienation of any franchise so as to release or relieve the franchise or property held thereunder from any of the liabilities of the lessor or grantor, or lessee or grantee, contracted or incurred in the operation, use or enjoyment of such franchise, or any of its privileges.

The execution of a mortgage by a street-railway corporation in due course of business, while the company was solvent, did not constitute a violation of this section, though such mortgage on the subsequent insolvency of the corporation might operate to prevent the payment of a judgment for injuries subsequently recovered. Central Trust Co. v. Warren, 121 Fed. 323, 326, 58 C. C. A. 289.

Sec. 18. The term "corporation," as used in this article, shall be held and construed to include all associations and joint stock companies, having or exercising any of the powers or privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships; and all corporations shall have the right to sue, and shall be subject to be sued in all courts in like cases as natural persons, subject to such regulations and conditions as may be prescribed by law.

Sec. 19. Dues from private corporations shall be secured by such means as may be prescribed by law.

Sec. 20. No incorporation, stock company, person or association of persons in the state of Montana, shall directly, or indirectly, combine or form what is known as a trust, or make any contract with any person, or persons, corporation, or stock company, foreign or domestic, through their stockholders, trustees, or in any manner whatever, for the purpose of fixing the price, or regulating the production of any article of commerce, or of the product of the soil, for consumption by the people. The legislative assembly shall pass laws for the enforcement thereof by adequate penalties to the extent, if necessary for that purpose, of the forfeiture of their property and franchises, or in case of foreign corporations, prohibiting them from carrying on business in the state.

In order to subject offenders to the severe penalties which the legislature might impose in enacting laws in pursuance of this section, there must be shown a specific intent to do the prohibited act, or that the association or combination necessarily tends to accomplish the same result. MacGinnis v. Boston & M. C. C. & S. M. Co., 29 Mont. 428, 454, 75 Pac. 89.

In cases involving the above provision, the nature of the arrangement or combination is a question of fact, to be determined by the court from the evidence before it, or from the vice inherent in the contract of combination itself. MacGinnis v. Boston & M. C. C. & S. M. Co., 29 Mont. 428, 455, 75 Pac. 89.

Section 321 of the Penal Code of 1895, prohibiting the formation of combinations or trusts for the purpose of fixing the price or regulating the production of articles of commerce, and section 325 of the same code, to the effect that such prohibition shall not apply to persons engaged in agriculture and horticulture, are dependent upon each other and void. These provisions are the result of an effort to carry out the above mandate of the constitution. State v. Cudahy Packing Co., 33 Mont. 179, 183, 82 Pac. 833, 114 Am. St. Rep. 804, 8 Ann. Cas. 717.

ARTICLE XVI.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS AND OFFICERS.

Section 1. The several counties of the territory of Montana, as they shall exist at the time of the admission of the state into the union, are hereby declared to be the counties of the state until otherwise established or changed by law.

This article of the constitution deals with municipal corporations, but has special reference to counties. It does not refer to cities or towns, nor does it contain any provisions applicable to them, except that by implication, under section 6 thereof, the legislature is empowered, within the restriction therein stated as to the length of the term, to provide for the election or appointment of such officers to administer the government of cities and towns as circumstances may require. State ex rel. City of Butte v. Weston, 29 Mont. 125, 128, 74 Pac. 415.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Sackett v. Thomas, 25 Mont. 226, 240, 64 Pac. 503.

For text treatment of this subject, see 7 R. C. L. 921; also, article on Counties in Cal. Jur.

Sec. 2. The legislative assembly shall have no power to remove the county seat of any county, but the same shall be provided for by general law; and no county seat shall be removed unless a majority of the qualified electors of the county, at a general election on a proposition to remove the county seat, shall vote therefor; but no such proposition shall be submitted oftener than once in four years.

The provision of this section, denying power to the legislature to remove a county seat, in so far as it relates to the vote required, is a prohibition and is self-executing. State ex rel. Stringfellow v. Board of Commrs., 42 Mont. 62, 75, 111 Pac. 144.

Conceding that the selection or removal of a county seat is a political function, the constitution, as well as the legislation upon the subject, confides that function, not to judges of election or the canvassers of the returns, but to a certain proportion of the qualified electors of the county affected. Poe v. Sheridan County, 52 Mont. 279, 288, 157 Pac. 185.

On what basis majority essential to adoption of proposition for change of county seat is to be computed, see 22 L. R. A. (N. S.) 478.

Sec. 3. In all cases of the establishment of a new county it shall be held to pay its ratable proportion of all then existing liabilities of the county or counties from which it is formed, less the ratable proportion of the value of the county buildings and property of the county or counties from which it is formed; provided, that nothing in this section shall prevent the re-adjustment of county lines between existing counties.

A new county is liable to the counties from which its territory was taken for interest upon its rateable proportion of the debt of each county until warrants were issued in payment therefor. Holliday v. Sweet Grass County, 19 Mont. 364, 48 Pac. 553.

The constitution recognizes the power of the legislature to create new counties, to change those already established, and to alter their boundaries. State ex rel. Sackett v. Thomas, 25 Mont. 226, 240, 64 Pac. 503; State ex rel. Geiger v. Long, 43 Mont. 401, 409, 117 Pac. 104.

Time of apportionment of assets or liabilities of counties, towns, or municipalities in case of division of territory by legislature, see 18 Ann. Cas. 324.

Sec. 4. In each county there shall be elected three county commissioners, whose term of office shall be six years; provided, that the term of office of those elected on November 6, 1900, shall expire on the first Monday in January, 1907; provided further, that at the general election to be held in November, 1902 (in counties where commissioners are to be elected that year), three commissioners shall be elected whose terms shall expire on the first Monday in January, 1907; provided further, that at the general election to be held in November, 1906, one commissioner shall be elected for a term of two years, one commissioner shall be elected for a term of four years, and one commissioner shall be elected for a term of six years, whose term of office shall commence on the said first Monday in January, 1907; and, provided further, that at each general election thereafter commencing with the general election to be held in November, 1908, one commissioner shall be elected for a term of six years. A vacancy in the board of county commissioners shall be filled by appointment by the judge of the judicial district in which the vacancy occurs.

Note.—Section 4 is given as amended by act approved February 26, 1901 (7th Sess., p. 208), declared to be in force by proclamation by the governor December 5, 1902.

The amendment to this section proposed by the legislative assembly by the act approved February 23, 1891, providing for the election of county commissioners at the general election of 1894, not having been advertised as required by the constitution, was not adopted for failure to comply with this formality. State ex rel. Woods v. Tooker, 15 Mont. 8, 9, 37 Pac. 839, 25 L. R. A. 560.

In an act creating a new county, the legislative assembly may provisionally appoint the officers thereof, including the county commissioners, who are entitled to serve for the full constitutional term, which begins at the first general election succeeding the creation of the county, and is not computed quadrennially from the adoption of the constitution in 1889. State v. Mayhew, 21 Mont. 93, 52 Pac. 981.

This amendment does not violate section 31, article V, or section 9, article XIX, of the constitution. State ex rel. Teague v. Board of Commrs., 34 Mont. 426, 430, 87 Pac. 450.

The power to fill a vacancy in the office of county commissioner is conferred by this section upon the district judge of the district in which the vacancy occurs and the provisions of the statute enacted in pursuance thereof. Although it is vested in a judicial officer, it is not a prerequisite to its exercise that it be invoked by an application in the form of a complaint or petition, nor is the validity of its exercise in a given case made dependent in any measure upon facts judicially ascertained to exist. The appointing officer pronounces no decree, nor does he adjudicate any right. His action is the result of an opinion based upon personal knowledge of the existence of the vacancy, or information derived from any source which he deems reliable. State ex rel. Dowen v. District Court, 50 Mont. 249, 251, 146 Pac. 467.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 Mont. 37, 42, 77 Pac. 299; Missouri River Power Co. v. Steele, 32 Mont. 433, 438, 80 Pac. 1093; State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 264, 99 Pac. 940; State ex rel. McGowan, v. Sedgwick, 46 Mont. 187, 189, 191, 127 Pac. 94; State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 587, 144 Pac. 162.

Sec. 5. There shall be elected in each county the following officers: One county clerk, who shall be clerk of the board of the county commissioners and ex-officio recorder; one sheriff; one treasurer, who shall be collector of taxes; provided, that no person shall hold the office of county treasurer for more than two consecutive terms; one county superintendent of schools; one county surveyor; one assessor; one coroner; one public administrator. Persons elected to the different offices named in this section shall hold their respective offices for the term of two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified. Vacancies in all county, township and precinct offices, except that of county commissioners, shall be filled by appointment by the board of county commissioners, and the appointee shall hold his office until the next general election.

The office of county auditor is not expressly provided for in the constitution. State ex rel. McGinnis v. Dickinson, 26 Mont. 391, 392, 68 Pac. 468.

Section 3940 of the Political Code of 1895, providing that the county assessor must collect the taxes on all personal property, when, in his opinion, such taxes are not a lien on real property sufficient to secure payment thereof, is unconstitutional and void; the legislature having no power to vest any person other than the treasurer with power to collect taxes. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Martien, 27 Mont. 437, 439, 71 Pac. 470. See, also, Missouri River Power Co. v. Steele, 32 Mont. 433, 437, 80 Pac. 1093; City of Butte v. Bennetts, 51 Mont. 27, 30, 149 Pac. 92, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 1019; Pohl v. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co., 52 Mont. 572, 577, 160 Pac. 515.

The provisions of section 4867 et seq. of the Political Code of 1895, authorizing the collection of city taxes by the city treasurer, are not in violation of this section, when construed in connection with article XII, section 4, of the constitution. State ex rel. City of Butte v. Weston, 29 Mont. 125, 127, 74 Pac. 415.

Section 1171 of the Political Code of 1895, providing that in case of a tie vote for a county officer, except county commissioner, the county commissioners shall appoint some eligible person to fill the office, as in case of other vacancies in such office, is invalid as to county superintendent of schools and other officers named in this section. State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 Mont. 37, 40, 77 Pac. 299.

This section regulates the terms of all county officers. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 590, 104 Pac. 860.

The language contained in the last sentence of this section should be read in connection with the sentence occurring in section 4 of this article, that "a vacancy in the board of county commissioners shall be filled by appointment by the judge of the judicial district in which the vacancy occurs." The meaning expressed is as follows: Vacancies in all county, township, and precinct offices shall be filled by appointment, and the appointee shall hold his office until the next general election; vacancies in the office of county commissioner shall be filled by appointment by the district judge of the district in which the vacancy occurs; and vacancies in all other offices shall be filled by appointment by the board of county commissioners. State ex rel. McGowan v. Sedgwick, 46 Mont. 187, 191, 127 Pac. 94; State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 587, 144 Pac. 162.

The offices of clerk of the district court, county attorney, and justice of the peace, being enumerated in the constitution as judicial offices, are to be excluded from the enumeration of the offices referred to in this section. It refers only to the offices of sheriff, treasurer, county clerk, assessor, auditor, superintendent of common schools, county surveyor, coroner, and public administrator. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 586, 144 Pac. 162.

Under this section, declaring that the appointees to vacancies in county offices shall hold until the next general election, section 4454, which extends the tenure of such appointees "until the first Monday in January next after a general election," is invalid. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 589, 144 Pac. 162.

For the county officers mentioned in this section who have been elected to their positions, it plainly contemplates a fixed term of two years, with a contingent occupancy until their successors are elected and qualified. State ex rel. Dunne v. Smith, 53 Mont. 341, 344, 163 Pac. 784.

The vacancies in county offices referred to in the last clause of this section, the appointees to fill which shall hold until the next succeeding general election, are those occurring after the fixed term has commenced, but before a general election; and no appointment holds good beyond the next succeeding general election, whether the interval between it and the fixed term be great or small. State ex rel. Dunne v. Smith, 53 Mont. 341, 344, 345, 163 Pac. 784.

Cited or applied in Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 413, 28 Pac. 453; Meagher County Commissioners v. Gardner, 18 Mont. 110, 44 Pac. 407; State v. Mayhew, 21 Mont. 93, 52 Pac. 981; State ex rel. Donyes v. Board of Commrs. of Granite County, 23 Mont. 250, 252, 58 Pac. 439; State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 264, 99 Pac. 940.

Power of board to appoint officer or to make contract for term extending beyond its own term, see 29 L. R. A. (N. S.) 652, L. R. A. 1915E, 581.

Sec. 6. The legislative assembly may provide for the election or appointment of such other county, township, precinct and municipal officers as public convenience may require and their terms of office shall be as prescribed by law, not in any case to exceed two years, except as in this constitution otherwise provided.

If authority be requisite for the creation of the office of county auditor, it may be found in this section. State ex rel. McGinnis v. Dickinson, 26 Mont. 391, 392, 68 Pac. 468.

Strictly speaking, a policeman is not a "municipal" officer—that is, a "city" officer—as that term is used in this section; nor is such officer a mere servant or employee of the municipality. State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 267, 268, 99 Pac. 940.

The word "municipal," found in this section, is used in its restricted sense, meaning "city." State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 Mont. 250, 269, 99 Pac. 940.

In view of the provisions of this section, the legislative assembly had the authority, as expressed in the drainage district law of 1905, authorizing the commissioners of each county desiring to avail itself of the benefits of the act to appoint a drain commissioner with certain powers, among which was his authority to fix assessments to be paid by those directly benefited by the construction of drains, to be collected through the agency of the regular county officers, to confer upon said commissioner the powers specified in the act, since the legislature could, for convenience in carrying out the object of the statute, create new agencies in addition to availing itself of existing ones. Billings Sugar Co. v. Fish, 40 Mont. 256, 280, 106 Pac. 565, 20 Ann. Cas. 264, 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 973.

It cannot be said that a "patrolman" is a local municipal officer, in contradistinction from a "policeman," and that as such he comes within the designation of "municipal officers" as used in this section; the words are synonymous. State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 40 Mont. 287, 301, 106 Pac. 695, 20 Ann. Cas. 239.

Since a policeman or police officer does not fall within the class designated as "municipal officers" in this section, the legislature did not transcend its power in providing that his term of office shall extend during good behavior, or until he shall become incapacitated by age or disease. State ex rel. Wynne v. Quinn, 40 Mont. 472, 475, 107 Pac. 506.

That the framers of the constitution did not intend municipal corporations to include counties is clear, for the two terms are used, as in this section, to distinguish different organizations. Hersey v. Neilson, 47 Mont. 132, 141, 131 Pac. 30, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 963.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Bray v. Long, 21 Mont. 26, 33, 52 Pac. 645; Missouri River Power Co. v. Steele, 32 Mont. 433, 438, 80 Pac. 1093; State ex rel. Bailey v. Edwards, 40 Mont. 313, 317, 106 Pac. 703.

ARTICLE XVII.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Section 1. All lands of the state that have been, or that may hereafter be granted to the state by congress, and all lands acquired by gift or grant or devise, from any person or corporation, shall be public lands of the state, and shall be held in trust for the people, to be disposed of as hereafter provided, for the respective purposes for which they have been or may be granted, donated or devised; and none of such land, nor any estate or interest therein, shall ever be disposed of except in pursuance of general laws providing for such disposition, nor unless the full market value of the estate or interest disposed of, to be ascertained in such manner as may be provided by law, be paid or safely secured to the state; nor shall any lands which the state holds by grant from the United States (in any case in which the manner of disposal and minimum price are so prescribed) be disposed of, except in the manner and for at least the price prescribed in the grant thereof, without the consent of the United States. Said lands shall be classified by the board of land commissioners, as follows: First, lands which are valuable only for grazing purposes. Second, those which are principally valuable for the timber that is on them. Third, agricultural lands. Fourth, lands within the limits of any town or city or within three miles of such limits; provided, that any of said lands may be re-classified whenever, by reason of increased facilities for irrigation or otherwise, they shall be subject to different classification.

The provisions of this article relate to such lands as the state has acquired or may acquire after the same are selected under the laws provided for that purpose, and are not applicable to lands granted to the state under the act of congress, approved August 18, 1894. State ex rel. Koch v. Wright, 17 Mont. 77, 42 Pac. 103.

Public lands granted to the state by the United States are subject to public sale, and it was so intended by congress and the framers of the state constitution, for the enhancement and enlargement of internal improvements and swelling the common school fund. State ex rel. Galen v. District Court, 42 Mont. 105, 113, 112 Pac. 706.

Neither this provision nor that contained in section 2 of article XI deals with the subject of the capacity of the state to acquire property. Both are limitations upon the power of disposal by the legislature. They also embody an express injunction upon the legislature that the property with which they deal must be devoted exclusively to the purposes for which it has been or may be acquired. In re Beck's Estate, 44 Mont. 561, 576, 121 Pac. 784.

State lands are divided into four classes, of which class 4 comprises "lands within the limits of any town or city, or within three miles of such limits." While lands of the first and third class may be sold or leased, the board is commanded to sell lands of the fourth class, and nothing is said about leasing them. If, however, authority to lease such lands be held to be derived from the Enabling Act, the utmost that can be said is that permission was given the state to lease without requiring it to do so. State ex rel. Gibson v. Stewart, 50 Mont. 404, 406, 147 Pac. 276.

The word "town," within the meaning of this section, is an aggregation of inhabitants and houses used for various purposes so close to one another that the inhabitants may be said to dwell together, upon a regularly platted town site, whether incorporated or not. Davis v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 429, 433, 171 Pac. 281.

This section must be construed in the light of conditions prevailing at the time of its enactment in 1889, and after observing the language used by the framers of the constitution, the subject-matter under consideration, and the object to be attained, all of which justify the conclusion that the framers of the instrument did not intend "incorporated" towns when they used the word "town" without prefix in this section, but that undeniably they intended towns as popularly contemplated, and had in mind the then existing statutes covering the location of "town sites" when they used the word "limits." Davis v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 429, 434, 435, 171 Pac. 281.

The three-mile distance from the limits of towns within which school lands cannot be sold, under the inhibition of this section, must be measured from the nearest point upon the town-site plat. Davis v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 429, 437, 171 Pac. 281.

Applicability of state community property law to real property acquired from federal government, see 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1117.

Sec. 2. The lands of the first of said classes may be sold or leased, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by law. The lands of the second class may be sold, or the timber thereon may be sold, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by law. The agricultural lands may be either sold or leased, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by law. The lands of the fourth class shall be sold in alternate lots of not more than five acres each, and not more than one-half of any one tract of such lands shall be sold prior to the year one thousand nine hundred and ten (1910).

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Koch v. Barret, 26 Mont. 62, 65, 66 Pac. 504; State ex rel. Gibson v. Stewart, 50 Mont. 404, 405, 147 Pac. 276; Davis v. Stewart, 54 Mont. 429, 432, 171 Pac. 429.

Sec. 3. All other public lands may be disposed of in such manner as may be provided by law.

ARTICLE XVIII.

LABOR.

Section 1. The legislative assembly may provide for a bureau of agriculture, labor and industry, to be located at the capital and be under the control of a commissioner appointed by the governor subject to the confirmation of the senate. The commissioner shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor is appointed and qualified; his compensation shall be as provided by law.

Sec. 2. It shall be unlawful for the warden or other officer of any state penitentiary or reformatory institution in the state of Montana, or for any state officer to let by contract to any person or persons or corporation the labor of any convict confined within said institutions.

Sec. 3. It shall be unlawful to employ children under the age of sixteen (16) years of age in underground mines.

Validity and construction of child labor acts, see 9 Ann. Cas. 1108; 15 Ann. Cas. 473; Ann. Cas. 1913E, 339.

Sec. 4. A period of eight hours shall constitute a day's work on all works or undertakings carried on or aided by any municipal, county or state government, and on all contracts let by them, and in mills and smelters for the treatment of ores, and in underground mines.

Constitutionality of statutes limiting length of day's labor, see 1 Ann. Cas. 82; 9 Ann. Cas. 208; 11 Ann. Cas. 90; 13 Ann. Cas. 959; Ann. Cas. 1912D, 393; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1263.

Sec. 5. The legislature by appropriate legislation shall provide for the enforcement of the provisions of this article.

Note.—Sections three (3), four (4) and five (5), of this article, are given as added by act approved March 3, 1903 (Ch. 49, L. 1903), declared to be in force by proclamation by the governor December 8, 1904.

ARTICLE XIX.

MISCELLANEOUS SUBJECTS AND FUTURE AMENDMENTS.

Section 1. Members of the legislative assembly and all officers, executive, ministerial or judicial, shall, before they enter upon the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation, to-wit: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support, protect and defend the constitution of the United States, and the constitution of the state of Montana, and that I will discharge the duties of my office with fidelity; and that I have not paid, or contributed, or promised to pay or contribute, either directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing to procure my nomination or election (or appointment) except for necessary and proper expenses expressly authorized by law; that I have not knowingly violated any election law of this state, or procured it to be done by others in my behalf; that I will not knowingly receive, directly, or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing for the performance or non-performance of any act or duty pertaining to my office other than the compensation allowed by law, so help me God." And no other oath, declaration or test shall be required as a qualification for any office or trust.

Before entering upon his duties an alderman must swear that he will not knowingly receive, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing for the performance or non-performance of any act or duty pertaining to his office other than the compensation allowed by law. State ex rel. Ryan v. Board of Alderman, 45 Mont. 188, 193, 122 Pac. 569.

The provision of this section, requiring every public officer within the state to take the oath therein prescribed, is self-executing. State ex rel. Scollard v. Board of Examiners, 52 Mont. 91, 96, 156 Pac. 124.

Failure to comply with exact form prescribed by law as affecting binding character of oath, see 5 Ann. Cas. 723.

Sec. 2. The legislative assembly shall have no power to authorize lotteries, or gift enterprises for any purpose, and shall pass laws to prohibit the sale of lottery or gift enterprise tickets in this state.

What constitutes a lottery? see 1 Ann. Cas. 91.

Sec. 3. The legislative assembly shall enact suitable laws to prevent the destruction by fire from any cause of the grasses and forests upon lands of the state or upon lands of the public domain the control of which may be conferred by congress upon this state, and to otherwise protect the same.

Sec. 4. The legislative assembly shall enact liberal homestead and exemption laws.

The laws enacted under this section must receive a liberal construction in favor of the debtor. Ferguson v. Speith, 13 Mont. 487, 496, 34 Pac. 1020, 40 Am. St. Rep. 459; Dayton v. Ewart, 28 Mont. 153, 155, 72 Pac. 420, 98 Am. St. Rep. 549.

The purpose of the homestead statutes of the state is to carry out the mandate of the constitution contained in this section. Mitchell v. McCormick, 22 Mont. 249, 252, 56 Pac. 216.

The mode of obtaining the exemption, and the amount and character of it, are left for the legislature to provide. Yerrick v. Higgins, 22 Mont. 502, 509, 57 Pac. 95.

Sections 9427 and 9428, relating to exempt property of debtors, were enacted in obedience to the injunction contained in this section of the constitution, and must be liberally construed. Mennell v. Wells, 51 Mont. 141, 146, 149 Pac. 954.

Sec. 5. No perpetuities shall be allowed, except for charitable purposes.

Validity, within rule against perpetuities, of gifts to charity not in existence and beginning of whose existence is uncertain or contingent, see Ann. Cas. 1913A, 139.

Sec. 6. All county officers shall keep their offices at the county seats of their respective counties.

Referred to in State ex rel. Geiger v. Long, 43 Mont. 401, 414, 117 Pac. 104.

Sec. 7. In the disposition of the public lands granted by the United States to this state, preference shall always be given to actual settlers thereon, and the legislative assembly shall provide by law for carrying this section into effect.

Sec. 8. The legislative assembly may at any time, by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to each house, submit to the electors of the state the question whether there shall be a convention to revise, alter, or amend this constitution; and if a majority of those voting on the question shall declare in favor of such convention, the legislative assembly shall at its next session provide for the calling thereof. The number of members of the convention shall be the same as that of the house of representatives, and they shall be elected in the same manner, at the same places, and in the same districts. The legislative assembly shall in the act calling the convention designate the day, hour and place of its meeting, fix the pay of its members and officers, and provide for the payment of the same, together with the necessary expenses of the convention. Before proceeding, the members shall take an oath to support the constitution of the United States and of the state of Montana, and to faithfully discharge their duties as members of the convention. The qualifications of members shall be the same as of the members of the senate, and vacancies occurring shall be filled in the manner provided for filling vacancies in the legislative assembly. Said convention shall meet within three months after such election and prepare such revisions, alterations or amendments to the constitution as may be deemed necessary, which shall be submitted to the electors for their ratification or rejection at an election appointed by the convention for that purpose, not less than two nor more than six months after the adjournment thereof; and unless so submitted and approved by a majority of the electors voting at the election, no such revision, alteration or amendment shall take effect.

Power of legislature to formulate and submit to people entire new constitution, see Ann. Cas. 1915C, 240.

Sec. 9. Amendments to this constitution may be proposed in either house of the legislative assembly, and if the same shall be voted for by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, such proposed amendments, together with the ayes and nays of each house thereon, shall be entered in full on their respective journals; and the secretary of state shall cause the said amendment or amendments to be published in full in at least one newspaper in each county (if such there be) for three months previous to the next general election for members to the legislative assembly; and at said election the said amendment or amendments shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the state for their approval or rejection and such as are approved by a majority of those voting thereon shall become part of the constitution. Should more amendments than one be submitted at the same election, they shall be so prepared and distinguished by numbers or otherwise that each can be voted upon separately; provided, however, that not more than three amendments to this constitution shall be submitted at the same election.

The provision of this section, requiring that the secretary of state shall publish a proposed constitutional amendment for three months prior to the next general election, is not only mandatory by its express terms, but is also mandatory by virtue of section 29 of the article III, ante, declaring that the provisions of this constitution are mandatory and prohibitory, unless by express words they are declared to be otherwise, and a noncompliance with such requirement for publication renders the adoption of a proposed amendment nugatory. State ex rel. Woods v. Tooker, 15 Mont. 8, 18, 37 Pac. 839; 25 L. R. A. 560. See, also, State ex rel. Lloyd v. Rotwitt, 15 Mont. 29, 38, 37 Pac. 845.

A proposed amendment to the constitution, which provided for calling in a district judge when a supreme court judge was disqualified, was void for failure to enter on the journals of both branches of the legislature a full copy of said amendment, before its submission to the people, as required by this section. Durfee v. Harper, 22 Mont. 354, 361, 56 Pac. 582.

The amendment to section 4 of article XVI of the constitution, changing the term of county commissioners from four years to six years, extending the tenure of the then incumbents, and giving district judges power to fill vacancies on the board, approved February 26, 1901, is not violative of this section, but must be considered as one scheme, with the single purpose of establishing and maintaining in existence a board, two of whom at all times are experienced men. State ex rel. Teague v. Board of Commrs., 34 Mont. 426, 430, 87 Pac. 450.

The fact that an amendment to the state constitution may be separated into two or more propositions is not alone decisive of its unconstitutionality under the clause of this section requiring unity of subject in the submission of an amendment: the rule being that if, in the light of common sense, the propositions have to do with different subjects so essentially unrelated that their association is artificial, they are not one, but if they may be logically viewed as parts or aspects of a single plan, the above constitutional requirement is met in their submission as one amendment. State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 387, 404, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39.

The provision of this section, requiring publication of a proposed constitutional amendment in full in at least one newspaper in each county for three months previous to the next general election, was satisfied by publication is a weekly, or once a week in a daily or semiweekly paper, in the absence of a provision indicating the number of issues in which the proposed amendment must appear, or designating the character of the paper as monthly, weekly, or daily. State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 387, 409, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39.

This section deals with but one subject—amendments to the constitution. In its adoption it was not the purpose of the people to render their fundamental law incapable of change, but, on the contrary, to provide a plain, simple, and easily executed method of amendment. State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 387, 414, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Evans v. Stewart, 53 Mont. 18, 32, 161 Pac. 309.

Provision of constitution for amendment thereof as mandatory or directory, see 15 Ann. Cas. 786.

SCHEDULE.

That no inconvenience may arise by reason of changing from a territorial to a state form of government, it is declared as follows:

Section 1. All laws enacted by the legislative assembly of the territory of Montana and in force at the time the state shall be admitted into the union and not inconsistent with this constitution or the constitution or laws of the United States of America, shall be and remain in full force as the laws of the state until altered or repealed, or until they expire by their own limitation; provided, that whenever in said laws the words "territory," "Montana territory" or "territory of Montana" occur, the words "state" or "state of Montana" shall be appropriately substituted and read therefor; and, provided further, that the duties which now by law devolve upon probate judges as jury commissioners and in relation to issuing marriage licenses and filing and recording marriage certificates, and the duties as ex-officio clerks of their own courts, shall until otherwise provided by law, devolve upon and be performed by the clerks of district courts, in their respective counties; and provided further, that the duties of probate judges now imposed by law relative to town sites and to the approval of bonds of other county officers shall, until otherwise provided by law, be performed by the district judges in the several counties in their respective districts.

Co., 10 Mont. 24, 46, 24 Pac. 626, 25 Pac. 278; State v. Kingsley, 10 Mont. 537, 544, 26 Pac. 1066; State ex rel. Maddox v. Kenney, 11 Mont. 553, 555, 29 Pac. 89; State ex rel. Doran v. Hays, 27 Mont. 174, 176, 70 Pac. 321; Montana O. P. Co. v. Boston & M. C. C. & S. M. Co., 27 Mont. 288, 307, 70 Pac. 1114; In re Beck's Estate, 44 Mont. 561, 581, 121 Pac. 784, 1057.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Metcalf v. District Court, 52 Mont. 46, 51, 155 Pac. 278, L. R. A. 1916F, 132.

The obligations of the territory have been assumed by the state, and the constitution in the most solemn manner protects and enforces the rights of individuals, associations, and corporations which existed at the time the state was admitted into the union. This historic event operated as a repeal or amendment of "all laws enacted by the legislative assembly of the territory of Montana and in force," which were inconsistent with the constitution of the state. State ex rel. Journal Pub. Co. v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 389, 395, 24 Pac. 96.

Sections 324 and 325 of the Probate Practice Act of 1887, providing for appeals directly to the supreme court, enacted prior to the adoption of the constitution, were in conflict with section 1869 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, defining the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court of the territory, and limiting it to appeals in all cases from the final decisions of the district courts; and also with section 1932 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, providing that in all cases an appeal may be taken from any order, judgment, or decree of the probate court to the district courts, and were therefore null and void in so far as they prescribed direct appeals to the supreme court; and, being null and void, did not, upon the adoption of the constitution, become laws of the state under this section. In re McFarland's Estate, 10 Mont. 445, 447, 26 Pac. 185.

The part of section 6 of the Criminal Practice Act of 1887, enacted by the legislative assembly of the territory, conferring upon the district and justices' courts concurrent jurisdiction in all misdemeanors, is invalid, and did not become a law of the state upon the adoption of the constitution. State v. Myers, 11 Mont. 365, 368, 28 Pac. 650.

The adoption of the laws of the territory did not fix the compensation of a sheriff elected before the adoption of the constitution, and deprived the first legislative assembly of the power to pass an act decreasing the emoluments of his office. Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 414, 28 Pac. 453.

It was the policy of the framers of the constitution to preserve in force the body of the statute law on the various subjects of governmental regulation, enacted through a course of years of territorial existence as statutes of the state, except in so far as those statutes were "modified or changed" by the constitution of the state. State ex rel. Coleman v. District Court, 14 Mont. 476, 479, 37 Pac. 7.

Sections 1495 et seq. of the fifth division of the Compiled Statutes of 1887, granting to the owners of mining claims a right of way across the claims of others, and providing for the assessment of damages by commissioners, were not abrogated by the constitution, but merely modified as to the method of determining the damages, leaving the jurisdiction and procedure in other respects unchanged. State ex rel. Coleman v. District Court, 14 Mont. 476, 479, 37 Pac. 7.

This section is self-executing. By it, rights were preserved. It operated of itself to keep in force a system of laws for the government of the state, unless such laws were inconsistent with the constitution. But, as to any such repugnant statutes, it operated as an effective repeal, for, when the constitution became the fundamental law, acts in conflict with it yielded; and when the question of a conflict is presented to the court, and the conflict clearly appears, the statute must be decided to be inoperative and void. Criswell v. Montana Central Ry. Co., 18 Mont. 167, 172, 44 Pac. 525, 33 L. R. A. 554.

The rights of the individual citizen, acquired under the laws of the territory, are preserved and enforced just as effectively as if the constitution had not been adopted. Wastl v. Montana Union Ry. Co., 24 Mont. 159, 170, 61 Pac. 9.

At the time of the adoption of the constitution, substantially the same procedure which had been provided by the territorial legislature under the Practice Act was continued in force; and this was re-enacted substantially in the codes of 1895. State ex rel. Whiteside v. District Court, 24 Mont. 539, 558, 63 Pac. 395.

When the constitution was adopted, there was an extensive body of statute law, all of which was continued in force except where inconsistent with the constitution. State ex rel. Hillis v. Sullivan, 48 Mont. 320, 326, 137 Pac. 392.

Sec. 2. All lawful orders, judgments and decrees in civil causes, all contracts and claims, and all lawful convictions, judgments and sentences in criminal actions, made and entered, or pronounced by the courts within the territory of Montana, and in force at the time the state shall be admitted into the union, shall continue and be and remain in full force in the state unaffected in any respect by the change from a territorial to a state form of government, and may be enforced and executed under the laws of the state.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Journal Pub. Co. v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 389, 395, 24 Pac. 96; In re Dewar's Estate, 10 Mont. 426, 438, 25 Pac. 1026.

A decree of divorce of the district court of the territory must be regarded as if pronounced by a district court of the state. The transformation from a territorial to a state form of government is for many purposes to be considered as a continuity of government. Edgerton v. Edgerton, 12 Mont. 122, 148, 29 Pac. 966, 33 Am. St. Rep. 557, 16 L. R. A. 94.

Sec. 3. No crime or criminal offense committed against the laws of the territory of Montana shall abate, or be in any wise affected, by reason of the change from a territorial to a state form of government; but the same shall be deemed and taken to be an offense against the laws of the state, and the appropriate courts of the state shall have jurisdiction over and to hear and determine the same; provided, that this section shall not in any wise be construed to change the law of the statute of limitations, or the due effect or application of the same.

Cited or applied in State v. Ah Jim, 9 Mont. 167, 171, 23 Pac. 76; State v. Kingsly, 10 Mont. 537, 544, 26 Pac. 1066.

Sec. 4. Except as herein otherwise provided, the word "district" shall be substituted and read in lieu of the word "probate" in the terms "probate court" or "probate judge" whenever the same occur in the laws of the territory of Montana, and all said laws which by their terms apply to probate courts or probate judges shall, except as in this constitution otherwise provided, upon a change from territorial to state government, be deemed and taken to apply to district courts and district judges; provided, that all laws allowing fees to probate judges are hereby repealed.

Upon the organization of the state government, probate jurisdiction was given to the district courts by the constitution, and thereafter appeals to the supreme court from judgments and orders therein were possible only by classifying them under the head of special proceedings. Estate of Tuohy, 23 Mont. 305, 308, 58 Pac. 722.

Sec. 5. Clerks of district courts, until otherwise provided by law, shall each perform the duties and be entitled to the same fees as now provided by law for clerks of the district courts of the territory, and until otherwise provided by law shall also perform the services and be entitled to fees therefor that are now provided for clerks of probate courts.

Cited or applied in State v. Ah Jim, 9 Mont. 167, 172, 23 Pac. 76.

Sec. 6. Upon a change from territorial to state government the seals in use by the supreme court and the territorial district courts in and for the several counties respectively, shall pass to and become, until otherwise provided by law, the seals respectively of the supreme court and of the district courts of the state in such counties.

Sec. 7. Prosecutions for criminal offenses against the laws of the territory of Montana, pending at the time the state shall be admitted into the union shall not abate; but the same shall continue and be prosecuted in the name of the state of Montana, and the title of every such action shall be changed to conform to this provision.

Sec. 8. Parties who, at the time of the admission of the state into the union, may be confined under lawful commitments, or otherwise lawfully held to answer for alleged violations of any of the criminal laws of the territory of Montana, shall continue to be so confined or held until discharged therefrom by the proper courts of the state.

Sec. 9. All writs, processes, prosecutions, actions, causes of action, defenses, claims and rights of individuals, associations and bodies corporate existing at the time the state shall be admitted into the union, shall continue and be respectively executed, proceeded with, determined, enforced and protected under the laws of the state.

The rights which had accrued under section 697, fifth division, Compiled Statutes of 1887, giving to an employee injured by the negligence of a superior a right of action against the master, prior to the repeal of the law by the constitution, were preserved by this provision of the constitution to be enforced under the laws of the state. Wastl v. Montana Union Ry. Co., 24 Mont. 159, 169, 61 Pac. 9.

Sec. 10. All undertakings, bonds, obligations and recognizances in force at the time the state shall be admitted into the union, which were executed to the territory of Montana, or any officer thereof in his official capacity, or to any official board for the benefit of the territory of Montana, are hereby respectively assigned and transferred to the state of Montana, to the state officer successor to said territorial officer, or to the official board successor to the aforesaid official board, for the use of the state, as the case may be, and shall be as valid and binding as if executed under state law to the state, or state officer in his official capacity, or official board, for the benefit of the state; and all fines, taxes, penalties and forfeitures due or owing to the territory of Montana or to any county, school district, or municipality therein, at the time the state shall be admitted into the union, are hereby respectively assigned and transferred, and the same shall be payable to the state, county, school district or municipality, as the case may be, and payment thereof may be enforced under the laws of the state.

Cited or applied in State ex rel.. Journal Pub. Co. v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 389, 395, 24 Pac. 96.

Sec. 11. All property, real and personal, and all moneys, credits, claims, demands and choses in action of every kind, belonging to the territory of Montana at the time the state shall be admitted into the union, are hereby assigned and transferred to, and shall be vested in, and become the property of the state of Montana.

Sec. 12. All obligations of the territory of Montana, existing, in force and unpaid at the time of the admission of the state into the union are hereby assumed by the state, which shall and will well and truly pay the same.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Wade v. Kenney, 10 Mont. 485, 26 Pac. 197.

Sec. 13. All matters, cases and proceedings pending in any probate court in the territory of Montana, at the time the state shall be admitted into the union, and all official records, files, moneys, and other property of, or pertaining to such court, are hereby transferred to the district court in and for the same county, and such district court shall have full power and jurisdiction to hear, determine and dispose of all such matters, cases and proceedings.

In a probate case, where an appeal to the territorial district court was perfected prior to the adoption of the constitution, the appellate jurisdiction of the district court in such case was not ousted by the provisions of the constitution abolishing probate courts and transferring pending probate matters to the district court for the exercise of original jurisdiction. In re Dewar's Estate, 10 Mont. 426, 438, 25 Pac. 1026.

Sec. 14. All actions, cases and proceedings, and matters which shall be pending in the supreme and district courts of Montana territory at the time of the admission of the state into the union whereof the United States circuit or district court might have had jurisdiction, had such court existed at the commencement of such actions, cases, proceedings and matters, respectively, shall be transferred to said United States circuit and district courts respectively; and all the files, records, indictments and proceedings relating to such actions, cases, proceedings and matters shall be transferred to said United States courts; provided, that no civil action, cause or proceeding to which the United States is not a party, shall be transferred to either of said United States courts except upon written request of one of the parties thereto and in the absence of such request, such case shall be proceeded with in the proper state courts.

Sec. 15. All actions, cases, proceedings and matters pending in the supreme and district courts of the territory of Montana at the time the state shall be admitted into the union, and all files, records and indictments relating thereto, except as otherwise provided herein, shall be appropriately transferred, as may be proper to the supreme and district courts of the state, respectively, and all such actions, cases and matters shall be proceeded with in the proper state courts.

Sec. 16. Upon a change from a territorial to a state government, and until otherwise provided by law, the great seal of the territory shall be deemed and taken to be the great seal of the state of Montana.

Sec. 17. All territorial, county and township officers now occupying their respective positions under the laws of the territory of Montana, or of the United States of America, shall continue and remain in their respective official positions and perform the duties thereof as now provided by law after the state is admitted into the union, and shall be considered state officers until their successors in office shall be duly elected and qualified, as provided by ordinance, notwithstanding any inconsistent provisions in this constitution, and shall be entitled to the same compensation for their services as is now established by law; provided, that the compensation for justices of the supreme court, governor and secretary of the territory shall be paid by the state of Montana.

ORDINANCE NO. I.

FEDERAL RELATIONS.

BE IT ORDAINED: First. That perfect toleration of religious sentiment shall be secured and that no inhabitant of the state of Montana shall ever be molested in person or property, on account of his or her mode of religious worship.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Haire v. Rice, 33 Mont. 365, 389, 83 Pac. 874; Stephens v. Nacey, 49 Mont. 230, 241, 141 Pac. 649.

Second. That the people inhabiting the said proposed state of Montana, do agree and declare that they forever disclaim all right and title to the unappropriated public lands lying within the boundaries thereof, and to all lands lying within said limits owned or held by any Indian or Indian tribes, and that until the title thereto shall have been extinguished by the United States, the same shall be and remain subject to the disposition of the United States, and said Indian lands shall remain under the absolute jurisdiction and control of the congress of the United States, that the lands belonging to citizens of the United States, residing without the said state of Montana, shall never be taxed a higher rate than the lands belonging to residents thereof; that no taxes shall be imposed by the said state of Montana on lands or property therein belonging to, or which may hereafter be purchased by the United States or reserved for its use. But nothing herein contained shall preclude the said state of Montana from taxing as other lands are taxed any lands owned or held by any Indian who has severed his tribal relations and has obtained from the United States or from any person a title thereto by patent or other grant, save and except such lands as have been or may be granted to any Indian or Indians under any act of congress containing a provision exempting the lands thus granted from taxation, but said last named lands shall be exempt from taxation by said state of Montana so long and to such extent as such act of congress may prescribe.

The legislature has no power to impose a tax of any character upon any property or instrumentality of the federal government, and this immunity includes special assessments. Ford v. City of Great Falls, 46 Mont. 292, 307, 127 Pac. 1004.

Third. That the debts and liabilities of said territory of Montana shall be assumed and paid by said state of Montana.

Fourth. That provision shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of a uniform system of public schools, which shall be open to all the children of said state of Montana and free from sectarian control.

This section does not prohibit the enactment of a law classifying school districts for the purposes of the election of trustees according to population, but the classification must be reasonable and uniform in its operation and effect on all districts. State ex rel. Bray v. Long, 21 Mont. 26, 30, 52 Pac. 645.

Cited in State ex rel. Shapley v. Board of Commrs. of Yellowstone Co., 12 Mont. 503, 505, 31 Pac. 78.

Fifth. That on behalf of the people of Montana, we in convention assembled, do adopt the constitution of the United States.

Sixth. That the ordinances in this article shall be irrevocable without the consent of the United States and the people of said state of Montana.

Seventh. The state hereby accepts the several grants of land from the United States to the state of Montana, mentioned in an act of congress, entitled "An act to provide for the division of Dakota into two states, and to enable the people of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington, to form constitutions and state governments, and to be admitted into the union on an equal footing with the original states, and to make donations of public lands to such states." Approved February 22, 1889, upon the terms and conditions therein provided.

The state accepted public lands from the United States only upon the terms of the Enabling Act, and these terms were, in part, to the effect that the lands, surveyed or unsurveyed, should be reserved for school purposes only. State ex rel. Galen v. District Court, 42 Mont. 105, 113, 112 Pac. 706.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Koch v. Barret, 26 Mont. 62, 64, 66 Pac. 504.

ELECTIONS.

Be it Ordained by the Convention assembled to form a Constitution for the State of Montana:

First. That an election shall be held throughout the territory of Montana on the first Tuesday of October, 1889, for the ratification or rejection of the constitution framed and adopted by this convention.

An ordinance, framed and adopted by the constitutional convention, and appended to the constitution, and with it adopted by the people, has the same force and effect as a constitutional provision. State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 238, 23 Pac. 733.

The effect of an ordinance upon the statute is to change and modify its provisions so far as it is necessary to give the provisions of the ordinance full scope and effect. State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 241, 23 Pac. 733.

Second. At said election the constitution framed and adopted by this convention shall be submitted to the people of the territory for their ratification or rejection, and all persons who are then qualified electors under the laws of this territory, shall be qualified to vote for the ratification or rejection thereof.

Third. Said elections shall be held at the several polling places and precincts throughout the territory appointed for the holding of elections under the laws of the territory, and shall be conducted in the manner prescribed by the laws of the territory regulating elections. The boards of county commissioners of the several counties of the territory shall appoint judges and clerks of such election in each of said polling places and precincts in the same manner as is now required by law for the appointment of judges and clerks of general elections in the territory.

Fourth. Each elector voting at said election shall have written or printed upon the ticket he may deposit in the ballot box, the words "for the constitution" or "against the constitution."

Fifth. The votes cast at said election for the adoption or rejection of said constitution shall be canvassed by the canvassing boards of the respective counties not later than fifteen days after said election, or sooner, if the returns from all of the precincts shall have been received and in the manner prescribed by the laws of the territory of Montana for canvassing the votes at general elections in said territory, and the returns of said election shall be made to the secretary of the territory, who with the governor, and the chief justice of the territory, or any two of them shall constitute a board of canvassers who shall meet at the office of the secretary of the territory on, or before, the thirtieth day after the election, and canvass the votes so cast and declare the result.

The board of canvassers provided for in this paragraph was the legally constituted canvassing board to canvass the votes for members of the legislative assembly and to declare the result. State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 237, 23 Pac. 733.

Sixth. That on the first Tuesday in October, 1889, there shall be elected by the qualified electors of Montana, a governor, a lieutenant-governor, a secretary of state, an attorney general, a state treasurer, a state auditor, a state superintendent of public instruction, one chief justice, and two associate justices of the supreme court, a judge for each of the judicial districts established by this constitution, a clerk of the supreme court, and a clerk of the district court in and for each county of the state, and the members of the legislative assembly provided for in this constitution. The terms of officers so elected shall begin when the state shall be admitted into the union and shall end on the first Monday in January, 1893, except as otherwise provided.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 236, 23 Pac. 733; State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 588, 104 Pac. 860.

Seventh. There shall be elected at the same time one representative in the fifty-first congress of the United States.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 237, 23 Pac. 733.

Eighth. The votes for the above officers shall be returned and canvassed as is provided by law, and returns shall be made to the secretary of the territory and canvassed in the same manner and by the same board as is the vote upon the constitution, except as to the clerk of the district court.

Cited or applied in State ex rel. Thompson v. Kenney, 9 Mont. 223, 237, 23 Pac. 733.

Ninth. There shall also be elected at the same time the following county and township officers: Three county commissioners, one clerk of the board of commissioners and ex-officio recorder, one sheriff, one county treasurer, one county superintendent of common schools, one county surveyor, one county assessor, one coroner, one public administrator, one county attorney, two justices of the peace, and two constables for each township. The terms of office for the above named officers shall begin upon the admission of the state and end upon the first Monday of January, A. D. 1893, except as to county treasurer, whose term shall begin on the first Monday in March succeeding his election, and end on the first Monday of March, A. D. 1893, and also as to county commissioners, whose terms are otherwise provided for in this constitution.

Cited or applied in Lloyd v. Silver Bow County, 11 Mont. 408, 413, 28 Pac. 453; State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 590, 104 Pac. 860; State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 48 Mont. 582, 586, 144 Pac. 162.

Tenth. The votes for the above county and township officers and for clerk of the district court, shall be returned and canvassed and certificates of election to said officers issued as is now provided by law.

Eleventh. Notice of the election for the adoption or rejection of this constitution, and for state, district, county and township officers shall be given by the clerks of the several boards of county commissioners in the same manner as notice of general elections for delegate to congress and county officers is required to be given by the existing laws of the territory.

Twelfth. That the provisions of this ordinance shall apply only to the election and to the officers elected on the first Tuesday of October, 1899.

Note.—Except where otherwise indicated all sections of the constitution were adopted by the constitutional convention August 17, 1889, and ratified by the people October 1, 1889.

I. POLITICAL CODE

AN ACT TO ESTABLISH A POLITICAL CODE

Be it Enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the State of Montana:

TITLE OF THE ACT.

1. Division of the codes. This act shall be known as The Political Code of the State of Montana, and is divided into six parts, as follows:

Part I. The sovereignty of the state, and the political rights and duties of persons subject to its jurisdiction.
II. The chief political divisions of the state.
III. The government of the state.
IV. The government of counties, cities and towns.
V. The enactment, revision, publication and effect of the codes.
VI. Local and special laws.

History: En. Sec. 1, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1.

Note.—The above section has been changed to conform to the arrangement of this code.

2. When code takes effect. This code takes effect at twelve o'clock, noon, on the first day of July, A. D. 1895.

History: En. Sec. 2, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 2, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 2.

"From" as word of inclusion or exclusion with respect to time of taking effect of statute, see note in Ann Cas. 1918A, 928.

This section was inoperative upon existing laws before the first day of July, 1895. Dowty v. Pittwood, 23 Mont. 113, 117, 57 Pac. 727.

3. Laws, when retroactive. No law contained in any of the codes or other statutes of Montana is retroactive unless expressly so declared.

History: En. Sec. 3, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 3, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 4, L. 1921. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 3.

Prospective and retrospective operation of statutes, see 25 R. C. L. 785.

4. Codes, how construed. The rule of the common law that statutes in derogation thereof are to be strictly construed has no application to the codes or other statutes of the state of Montana. The codes establish the law of this state respecting the subjects to which they relate and their provisions and all proceedings under them are to be liberally construed with a view to effect their objects and to promote justice.

History: En. Sec. 4, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 4, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 2, Ch. 4, L. 1921. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 4.

Though a statute must be liberally construed, still the court cannot go beyond its plain provisions. Harrington v. Butte, Anaconda & Pacific Ry. Co., 36 Mont. 478, 483, 93 Pac. 640.

The doctrine that a "statute in affirmance of the common law is to be construed as was the rule by that law" would, perhaps, be modified by this section. Nelson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 28 Mont. 297, 322, 72 Pac. 642.

The code establishes the law of this state respecting the subjects to which it relates. Lawrence v. Westlake, 28 Mont. 503, 506, 73 Pac. 119.

The statutory requirements as to examining an adverse party before instituting an action are simple, direct, and plain, so that no recourse need be had to similar statutes of other states, and the decisions thereon in those states, in order to understand them. State ex rel. Holcomb v. District Court, 54 Mont. 574, 577, 172 Pac. 329.

Cited or applied as section 4, Revised Codes, in Gehlert v. Quinn, 38 Mont. 1, 3, 98 Pac. 369.

Preamble as aid to construction of statute, see note in Ann. Cas. 1917C, 500.

Interpretation of statute so as not to recognize casus omissus, see note in Ann. Cas. 1913D, 711.

5. Provisions similar to existing laws, how construed. The provisions of this code, so far as they are substantially the same as existing statutes, must be construed as continuations thereof, and not as new enactments.

History: En. Sec. 5, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 5, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 5.

6. Tenure of office preserved. All persons who, at the time this code takes effect, hold office under any of the acts repealed, continue to hold the same according to the tenure thereof, except those offices which are not continued by one of the codes adopted at this session of the legislature, and excepting offices filled by appointment.

History: En. Sec. 6, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 6, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 6.

7. Construction of repeal as to certain officers. When any office is abolished by the repeal of any act, and such act is not in substance re-enacted or continued in either of the four codes, such office ceases at the time the codes take effect.

History: En. Sec. 7, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 7, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 7.

8. Actions, etc., not affected by this code. No action or proceeding commenced before this code takes effect, and no right accrued, is affected by its provisions, but the proceedings therein must conform to the requirements of this code as far as applicable.

History: En. Sec. 8, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 8, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 8.

9. Limitations shall continue to run. When a limitation or period of time prescribed in any existing statute for acquiring a right or barring a remedy, or for any other purpose, has begun to run before this code goes into effect, and the same or any limitation is prescribed in this code, the time which has already run shall be deemed part of the time prescribed as such limitation by this code.

History: En. Sec. 9, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 9, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 9.

The status of a case is not affected by the codes of 1895 when the statute of limitations has fully run, unless tolled, prior to the time when the codes took effect. Wilson v. Pickering, 28 Mont. 435, 439, 72 Pac. 821.

An application by an executor for the sale of real estate does not fall within the provisions of this section and other sections of the code prescribing the time within which actions may be brought to recover real estate, or the possession thereof. In re Tuohy's Estate, 33 Mont. 230, 246, 83 Pac. 486.

Retroactive operation of statute of limitations, see notes in 4 Ann. Cas. 166; Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1041.

10. Legal holidays and business days defined. The following are legal holidays in the state of Montana, to-wit: Every Sunday; the first day of January (New Years Day); the twelfth day of February (Lincoln's Birthday); the twenty-second day of February (Washington's Birthday); the thirtieth day of May (Memorial Day); the fourth day of July (Independence Day); the first Monday of September (Labor Day); the twelfth day of October (Columbus Day); the eleventh day of November (Armistice Day); the twenty-fifth day of December (Christmas Day); every day on which a general election is held throughout the state and every day appointed by the president of the United States or by the governor of this state for a public fast, thanksgiving or holiday. If any of the holidays herein enumerated (except Sunday) fall upon a Sunday, the Monday following is a holiday. All other days than those herein mentioned are to be deemed business days for all purposes.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 10, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 10, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 21, L. 1921. Cal. Pol. C. Secs. 10-11.

Note.—Columbus Day created by chapter 22, Laws of 1909; Lincoln's Birthday, chapter 11, Laws of 1909.

As more than sixty holidays during the year are provided for by this section, an ordinance making it unlawful to keep open a pawn-shop, loan office, or second-hand store after six o'clock p. m., except on days preceding a holiday, when they may be kept open till ten o'clock p. m., will, in the absence of clear proof to the contrary, be held reasonable. City of Butte v. Paltrovich, 30 Mont. 18, 24, 75 Pac. 521; 104 Am. St. Rep. 698.

Transfer of holiday from Sunday to Monday, see note in 19 L. R. A. 320.

11. Provisions of school code excepted. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to amend or change the provisions of section 1300 of chapter 76 of the laws of the thirteenth legislative assembly of Montana of 1913 (section 1062 of this code), said section being hereby expressly declared to define legal holidays for school purposes only.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 21, L. 1921.

12. Certain acts not to be done on holidays. Whenever any act of a secular nature, other than a work of necessity or mercy, is appointed by law or contract to be performed upon a particular day, which day falls upon a holiday, such act may be performed upon the next business day with the same effect as if it had been performed upon the day appointed.

History: En. Sec. 12, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 12, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 13.

There is no prohibition against the performance of any public act on Sunday, as such. State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson 49 Mont. 387, 410, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39.

Instead of embodying a prohibition, this section merely provides an extra day of grace. Any of the enumerated acts may be done lawfully on a holiday, but are in time if not done until the next business day. State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 387, 411, 142 Pac. 210, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 39.

Computation of time for performance of act required by statute when last day falls on Sunday, see notes in 7 Ann. Cas. 325; 20 Ann. Cas. 1318.

13. Seal defined. When the seal of a court, public officer, or person is required by law to be affixed to any paper, the word "seal" includes an impression of such seal upon the paper alone, as well as upon wax or a wafer affixed thereto.

History: En. Sec. 13, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 13, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 14.

What is sufficient corporate seal, see note in Ann. Cas. 1912C, 42.

"Seal" as sufficient seal, see note in 11 Ann. Cas. 1110.

14. Joint authority. Words giving a joint authority to three or more public officers, or other persons, are construed as giving such authority to a majority of them, unless it is otherwise expressed in the act giving the authority.

History: En. Sec. 14, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 14, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 15.

15. Words and phrases, how construed. Words and phrases used in the codes or other statutes of Montana are construed according to the context and the approved usage of the language; but technical words and phrases, and such others as have acquired a peculiar and appropriate meaning in law, or are defined in the succeeding section, as amended, are to be construed according to such peculiar and appropriate meaning or definition.

History: En. Sec. 15, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 15, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 3, Ch. 4, L. 1921. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 16.

"Facility" is not a technical word, but one in common use, and its meaning is to be found in the sense attached to it by approved usage; and moneys raised by a tax to furnish "additional school facilities" may be used to pay the salaries of teachers. State ex rel. Knight v. Cave, 20 Mont. 468, 475, 52 Pac. 200.

Cited or applied as section 15, Revised Codes, in Mullery v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 50 Mont. 408, 416, 148 Pac. 323; State v. Centennial Brewing Co., 55 Mont. 500, 517, 179 Pac. 296.

Words of description or exception as referring to time of passage or time of taking effect of statute, see note in Ann. Cas. 1918D, 825.

Changing, supplying, and eliminating words in statute to correct obvious error, see notes in 1 Ann. Cas. 752; Ann. Cas. 1917C, 500.

16. Certain words defined. Words used in the codes in the present tense include the future as well as the present; words used in the masculine gender include the feminine and neuter; the singular number includes the plural and the plural the singular; the word person includes a corporation as well as a natural person; writing includes printing; oath includes affirmation or declaration, and every mode of oral statement under oath or affirmation is embraced in the term "testify," and every written one in the term "depose"; signature or subscription includes mark when the person cannot write, his name being written near it, and written by a person who writes his own name as a witness. The following words also have in the codes the signification attached to them in this section, unless otherwise apparent from the context:

1. The word "property" includes property real and personal.
2. The words "real property" are co-extensive with lands, tenements, hereditaments and possessory titles to public lands.
3. The words "personal property" include money, goods, chattels, things in action and evidence of debt.
4. The word "year," as used in the codes, means a calendar year, and a "month," a calendar month, unless otherwise expressed. Fractions of a year are to be computed by the number of months, thus, half a year is six months. Fractions of a day are to be disregarded in computations which include more than one day and involve no questions of priority.
5. The word "state," when applied to the different parts of the United States, includes the District of Columbia and the territories, and the words "United States" may include the district and territories.
6. The word "will" includes codicils.
7. The word "writ" signifies an order or precept in writing, issued in the name of the state, or of a court or judicial officer; and the word "process" a writ or summons issued in the course of judicial proceedings.
8. The word "vessel," when used in reference to shipping, includes ships of all kinds, steamboats and steamships, canal boats and every structure adapted to be navigated from place to place.

9. The term "peace officer" signifies any of the officers mentioned in section 8924 of the Penal Code (11620).

10. The term "magistrate" signifies any one of the officers mentioned in section 8923 of the Penal Code (11619).

11. The word "several" as used in the codes in relation, means two or more.

12. The words "third persons," as used in the codes, include all who are not parties to the obligation or transaction concerning which the phrase is used.

13. Usage, within the meaning of the codes, is a reasonable and lawful public custom concerning transactions of the same nature as those which are to be affected thereby, existing at the place where the obligation is to be performed, and either known to the parties or so well established, general and uniform, that they must be presumed to have acted with reference thereto.

14. The words "usual" and "customary," as used in the code, mean "according to usage."

History: En. Sec. 16, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 16, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 4, Ch. 4, L. 1921. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 17.

The legislature has classed an unpatented quartz lode mining claim as real estate, and has provided the same remedies for the protection and enforcement of rights pertaining to it, with the same forms of procedure as it has provided for the protection and enforcement of rights pertaining to other real estate. State ex rel. Baker v. District Court, 24 Mont. 330, 333, 61 Pac. 882.

The singular number when used in this code may include the plural, and the plural the singular; and a statute requiring the notice of a school election to contain "the time and place of holding the election" may designate different "places." Hauswirth v. Mueller, 25 Mont. 156, 161, 64 Pac. 324.

Though the term "person" ordinarily refers to a living human being—a natural person—the definition given it by this and other sections of the codes includes corporations as well as natural persons. In re Beck's Estate, 44 Mont. 561, 572, 121 Pac. 784.

Cited or applied as section 16, Political Code, in Helena Water Works v. Settles, 37 Mont. 237, 239, 95 Pac. 838.

Legal meaning of "stranger," or third person, see note in Ann. Cas. 1912D, 1189.

17. Effect of codes on prior laws. No statute, law or rule is continued in force because it is consistent with the provisions of the codes on the same subject, but in all cases provided for by the codes all statutes, laws and rules heretofore in force in this state, whether consistent or not with the provisions of the codes, unless expressly continued in force by them, are repealed and abrogated. This repeal or abrogation does not revive any former law heretofore repealed, nor does it affect any right already existing or accrued, or any action or proceeding already taken, except as in the codes provided, nor does it affect any private statute not expressly repealed.

History: En. Sec. 17, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 17, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 5, Ch. 4, L. 1921. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 18.

This section did not repeal the whole of the Compiled Statutes of 1887, or of the statutes which were in force, but only such statutes as were inconsistent, or were not consistent, with the provisions of the new codes on the same subject, except where the new codes expressly continued the old statutes in force. This section could have no effect before July 1, 1895. Dowty v. Pittwood, 23 Mont. 113, 116, 57 Pac. 727.

Adoption of code as impliedly repealing statutes, see note in 5 Ann. Cas. 202.

Effect on contract made void by statutory provision of subsequent repeal of such statute, see note in Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1398.

18. Certain statutes preserved. Nothing in any of the four codes affects any of the provisions of any special, local, or private statutes, but such statutes are recognized as continuing in force, notwithstanding the provisions of the codes, except so far as they have been repealed or affected by subsequent laws.

History: En. Sec. 18, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 18, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 19.

PART I.

THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE STATE AND THE POLITICAL RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF PERSONS SUBJECT TO ITS JURISDICTION.

Chapter 1. Sovereignty and Territorial Jurisdiction of the State.
2. General Rights of the State Over Persons.
3. General Rights of the State Over Property.
4. Persons Composing the People of the State.
5. Political Rights and Duties of Persons Subject to the Jurisdiction of the State.

CHAPTER 1.

SOVEREIGNTY AND TERRITORIAL JURISDICTION OF THE STATE.

Section 19. Sovereignty and Style of Process.
20. Territorial Jurisdiction, Limitations on.
21. Military Reservations.
22. Glacier National Park.
23. Yellowstone National Park.
24. Acquisition of Lands by United States.
25. Same—Concurrent Jurisdiction of State.

19. Sovereignty and style of process. The sovereignty of the state resides in the people thereof, but the style of all process must be "The State of Montana," and all prosecutions must be conducted in the name of the state.

History: En. Sec. 30, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 20, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 30.

20. Territorial jurisdiction, limitations on. The sovereignty and jurisdiction of this state extends to all places within its boundaries, as established by the constitution, excepting such places as are under the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States; but the extent of such jurisdiction over places that have been or may be ceded to, purchased, or condemned by the United States, is qualified by the terms of such cession, or the laws under which such purchase or condemnation has been or may be made.

History: En. Sec. 40, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 21, Rec. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 33.

Under this section the state consents to the purchase, condemnation, or acquisition of lands by the United States. Where, however, the United States still retains its original ownership of the land, neither purchase, condemnation, nor acquisition is necessary, but actual occupation for any purpose indicated in these sections stands in lieu thereof. Mere occupancy of government land by the military for any purpose not indicated in the law or the constitution would not of itself be sufficient to divest the state of the sovereignty granted to it by congress, nor does the right reserved to serve state process on these reservations infringe on the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States. State v. Tully, 31 Mont. 365, 376, 78 Pac. 760, 3 Ann. Cas. 824.

Subordination or suspension of state law during war, see note in L. R. A. 1918F, 561.

Power of state under Federal Constitution to legislate with respect to army and navy, see note in L. R. A. 1918C, 307.

Indians as subject to state regulation, see notes in 13 Ann. Cas. 192; 1914B, 652; 1915D, 371.

Right of state or territory to tax personalty on government reservation, see note in 14 Ann. Cas. 964.

Liability to state taxation of United States property granted or sold by government, but to which government still holds legal title, see note in 11 Ann. Cas. 391.

Power of eminent domain over property of United States, see note in 4 A. L. R. 548.

21. Military reservations. Authority is granted to and acknowledged in the United States to exercise exclusive legislation, as provided by the constitution of the United States, over the military reservations of Fort Assinaboine, Fort Custer, Fort Keogh, Fort Maginnis, Fort Missoula, and Fort Shaw, as now established by law, so long as said places remain military reservations, to the same extent and with the same effect as if said reservations had been purchased by the United States by consent of the legislative assembly of the state of Montana.

All legal process of the state, both civil and criminal, may be served upon persons and property found within any of said reservations, or on any Indian reservation, in all cases where the United States has not exclusive jurisdiction.

History: En. Sec. 41, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 22, Rev. C. 1907.

The constitution of Montana and this section acknowledge absolute sovereignty in the United States over the places named or referred to therein. State v. Tully, 31 Mont. 365, 375, 78 Pac. 760, 3 Ann. Cas. 824.

Jurisdiction to prosecute crimes committed on federal military reservation, see note in 3 Ann. Cas. 831.

22. Glacier national park. Exclusive jurisdiction shall be and the same is hereby ceded to the United States over and within all the territory which is now or may hereafter be included in that tract of land in the state of Montana set aside by the act of congress, approved May 11, 1910, for the purposes of a national park, and known and designated as "The Glacier National Park," saving, however, to the said state the right to serve civil or criminal process within the limits of the aforesaid park in any suits or prosecution for or on account of rights acquired, obligations incurred, or crimes committed in said state, but outside of said park; and saving, further, to the said state the right to tax persons and corporations, their franchises, and property, on the lands included in said park: provided, however, that jurisdiction shall not vest until the United States, through the proper officers, notifies the governor of this state that they assume police or military jurisdiction over said park.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 33, L. 1911.

Note.—The boundaries of Glacier national park, as defined in the act above referred to, are as follows: Commencing at a point on the international boundary, between the United States and the Dominion of Canada, at the middle of the Flathead river; thence following southerly along and with the middle of the Flathead river to its confluence with the middle fork of the Flathead river; thence following the north bank of said middle fork of the Flathead river to where it is crossed by the north boundary of the right of way of the Great Northern railroad; thence following the said right of way to where it intersects the west boundary of the Blackfeet Indian reservation; thence northerly along said west boundary to its intersection with the international boundary; thence along said international boundary to the place of beginning.

23. Yellowstone national park. Exclusive jurisdiction shall be and the same is hereby ceded to the United States over all that part of territory situate in the state of Montana now embraced in the Yellowstone national park, described as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of the east boundary of Yellowstone park with the south boundary of Montana; thence north to the northeast corner of said park; thence west along the north boundary of the park to the northwest corner thereof; thence south along the west boundary of the park to the boundary between Montana and Idaho; thence easterly along that boundary to the west boundary of Wyoming; thence north along the west boundary of Wyoming to the northwest corner thereof; thence east along the boundary between Wyoming and Montana to the east boundary of said park, the place of beginning; containing an area of approximately one hundred ninety-eight square miles, saving, however, to the said state the right to serve civil or criminal process within the limits of the aforesaid described lands, as long as the lands herein described are used for a national park, and no other purposes, in suits or prosecutions for or on account of rights acquired, obligations incurred, or crimes committed in said state, but outside the lands aforesaid; and saving, further, to the said state the right to tax persons and corporations, their franchises and property, on said lands; provided, however, that jurisdiction shall not vest until the United States, through the proper officer or officers, notifies the governor of the state of Montana that they assume police or military jurisdiction over said lands.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 112, L. 1917.

24. Acquisition of lands by United States. The legislative assembly consents to the purchase or condemnation by the United States of any tract of land within this state for the purpose of erecting forts, magazines, arsenals, court-houses, postoffices, and other needful buildings, upon the express condition that all civil process issued from the courts of this state, and such criminal process as may issue under the authority of this state, against any person charged with crime, may be served and executed thereon in the same mode and manner, and by the same officers, as if the purchase or condemnation had not been made.

History: En. Sec. 42, Pol. C. 1895; reen. Sec. 23, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 34.

The state of Montana has, through its legislative assembly, recognized absolute authority in the general government over all places subsequently acquired and used by the government for any of the purposes named in the constitution of the United States, and by this section has consented to the purchase or condemnation by the United States of any land within the state for the purpose of erecting forts, magazines, arsenals, courthouses, postoffices, and other needful buildings, and the only condition attached to this consent is that process of the state may be served in any of such places. State v. Tully, 31 Mont. 365, 375, 78 Pac. 760, 3 Ann. Cas. 824.

Acquisition and transfer of property by United States, see 26 R. C. L. 1441.

Nature and extent of power of United States to condemn land, see note in Ann. Cas. 1918E, 39.

25. Concurrent jurisdiction of state. Pursuant to article I, section 8, paragraph 17, of the constitution of the United States, consent to purchase is hereby given, and exclusive jurisdiction ceded, to the United States over and with respect to any lands within the limits of this state, which shall be acquired by the United States, for any of the purposes described in said paragraph of the constitution of the United States, said jurisdiction to continue as long as the said lands are held and occupied by the United States for public purposes; reserving, however, to this state a concurrent jurisdiction for the execution upon said lands of all process, civil or criminal, lawfully issued by the courts of the state, and not incompatible with the cession hereby made; provided, that an accurate map or plat and description by metes and bounds of said land shall be filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the same are situated, and if such lands shall be within the corporate limits of any city, such map or plat shall also be filed in the office of the city clerk of said city; and provided, further, that the state reserves the right to tax all property of any railroad or other corporation having a right of way or location over or upon the said land.

By this section the state gives its consent to the purchase, and exclusive jurisdiction is ceded to the United States over and with respect to any lands within the limits of the state which shall be acquired by the United States for the purposes described in the federal constitution. State v. Tully, 31 Mont. 365, 375, 78 Pac. 760, 3 Ann. Cas. 824.

CHAPTER 2.

1. To punish for crime.
2. To imprison or confine for the protection of the public peace or health, or of individual life or safety.
3. To imprison or confine for the purpose of enforcing civil remedies.
4. To establish custody and restraint for the persons of idiots, lunatics, drunkards, and other persons of unsound mind.

of process; in protecting life and property from fire, pestilence, wreck, and flood; and in such other cases as are provided by statute.

History: En. Sec. 50, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 25, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 37.

CHAPTER 3.

GENERAL RIGHTS OF THE STATE OVER PROPERTY.

Section 27. Original and Ultimate Title.
28. Property Escheats, When.

68. Journals, how authenticated. The journal of the senate must be authenticated by the signature of the president, and the journal of the house of representatives by the signature of the speaker.

History: En. Sec. 203, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 70, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 256.

In determining whether an act has been passed, the enrolled bill, signed and approved by the proper officers, is conclusive upon the courts, and recourse cannot be had to any other evidence, except where the alleged infirmity of the act is based upon a failure to enter the names of those voting upon its final passage, in which case the journals may be consulted. State ex rel. Gregg v. Erickson, 39 Mont. 280, 289, 102 Pac. 336. See, also, Barth v. Pock, 51 Mont. 418, 427, 155 Pac. 282.

Right of legislature to correct or amend journals, see note in 21 Ann. Cas. 814.

69. Duties of sergeant-at-arms. The sergeant-at-arms of the senate and the sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives must give a general supervision, under the direction of their presiding officers, to the senate and house, with the rooms attached; attend during the sittings of their respective bodies; execute their commands and all process issued by their authority; keep an account for pay and mileage of members, and prepare checks for the same.

History: En. Sec. 204, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 71, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 259.

70. Duties of assistant sergeant-at-arms. The assistant sergeant-at-arms of each house must prohibit all persons, except members, officers, and employees, and such other persons as may have the privilege of the floor assigned them by the rules of each house, from entering within the bar of the house, unless upon invitation, and keep order in the halls and lobbies, and perform such other duties as shall be imposed by the presiding officer or the sergeant-at-arms.

History: En. Sec. 205, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 72, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 260.

72. Duties of engrossing and enrolling clerks. The engrossing clerks and enrolling clerks must, within forty-eight hours after their reception, engross or enroll all bills delivered to them for engrossment or enrollment, unless further time be granted.

History: En. Sec. 207, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 74, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 3, Ch. 1, L. 1915.

73. Duties at close of session. The secretary of the senate and clerk of the house of representatives, at the close of each session of the legislative assembly, must mark, label, and arrange all bills and papers belonging to the archives of their respective houses, and deliver them, together with all the books of both houses, to the secretary of state, who must certify to the reception of the same.

Just what is meant to be included in the phrase, "all bills and papers," is not clear; but it would be extremely dangerous to impeach a duly authenticated record—an enrolled bill—by papers which are not authenticated or identified in any manner; this, however, does not apply to the journals, for they are required, by section 70 (68), ante, to be authenticated. State ex rel. Gregg v. Erickson, 39 Mont. 280, 289, 102 Pac. 336.

74. Per diem and mileage of members. Members of the legislative assembly hereafter elected shall receive ten dollars per day, payable weekly, during the session of the legislative assembly, and ten cents per mile for each mile of travel to and from their residences and the place of holding the session, by the nearest traveled route.

75. Per diem and mileage of president of senate and speaker of house. The president of the senate, after the first Monday in January, 1913, and the speaker of the house, shall receive the sum of twelve dollars per day during the session of the legislative assembly, and the same mileage as members.

History: En. Sec. 221, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 78, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 2, Ch. 45, L. 1909. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 267.

76. Compensation of other officers and employees. There must be paid to the secretary of the senate, the chief clerk of the house of representatives, the sergeant-at-arms of each house, ten dollars per day each; to the assistant secretary of the senate, the assistant chief clerk of the house of representatives, the journal clerk, the engrossing clerk, enrolling clerk, bill clerk, and assistant sergeant-at-arms, eight dollars per day each; to the assistant journal clerk, assistant enrolling clerk, assistant engrossing clerk, printing clerk, reading clerk, the clerks of the president of the senate and the speaker of the house, the judiciary clerk of each house, the clerks of the chief clerk of the house and the secretary of the senate, six dollars per day each; to the committee clerks, doorkeepers, janitors, assistant janitors, watchman, and chaplain of each house, five dollars per day each; to each page and messenger, four dollars per day; to all employees of the legislative assembly, not herein specifically enumerated, five dollars per day each.

77. Employment of additional help. The senate and house of representatives may, by a joint resolution adopted and spread upon the minutes of each house, provide for the employment of additional help in cases of emergency, where extraordinary conditions render such a course necessary for the orderly and expeditious conduct of the business of the legislative assembly. The resolution shall set forth the facts and circumstances which make such action necessary, and the number of additional employees required, and the general nature of their duties.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 1, L. 1915.

78. Compensation for services after close of session. For services performed under the provisions of section 73 of this code, each of the officers therein named receive a compensation of fifty dollars.

WITNESSES BEFORE THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Section 79. Subpoenas.
80. Service of Subpoenas.
81. Contempt.
82. Compelling Attendance.
83. Witness Will Not Be Held to Answer Criminally—Refusal to Testify.

79. Subpoenas. A subpoena requiring the attendance of any witness before either house of the legislative assembly, or a committee thereof, may be issued by the president of the senate, speaker of the house, or the chairman of any committee before whom the attendance of the witness is desired; and it is sufficient if:

1. It states whether the proceeding is before the house of representatives, or the senate, or a committee.
2. It is addressed to the witness.
3. It requires the attendance of such witness at a time and place certain.
4. It is signed by the president of the senate, speaker of the house, or chairman of a committee.

History: En. Sec. 260, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 95, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 300.

80. Service of subpoenas. The subpoena may be served by any elector of the state, and his affidavit that he delivered a copy to the witness is evidence of service.

History: En. Sec. 261, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 96, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 301.

81. Contempt. If any witness neglects or refuses to obey such subpoena, or appearing, neglects or refuses to testify, the senate or house may, by resolution entered on the journal, commit him for contempt.

History: En. Sec. 262, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 97, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 302.

Power of legislature or legislative committee to punish witness for contempt, see notes in 7 Ann. Cas. 877; Ann. Cas. 1916B, 1118; L. R. A. 1917F, 288.

82. Compelling attendance. Any witness neglecting or refusing to attend in obedience to subpoena may be arrested by the sergeant-at-arms and brought before the senate or house. The only warrant of authority necessary to authorize such arrest is a copy of a resolution of the senate or house, signed by the president or speaker of the house of representatives, and countersigned by the secretary or clerk.

History: En. Sec. 263; Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 98, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 303.

83. Witness will not be held to answer criminally—Refusal to testify. No person sworn and examined before either house of the legislative assembly, or any committee thereof, can be held to answer criminally, or be subject to any penalty or forfeiture, for any fact or act touching which he is required to testify; nor is any statement made or paper produced by any such witness competent evidence in any criminal proceeding against such witness; nor can such witness refuse to testify to any fact or to produce any paper touching which he is examined, for the reason that his testimony, or the production of such paper, tends to disgrace him or render him infamous. Nothing in this section exempts any witness from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed by him on such examination.

History: En. Sec. 264, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 99, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 304.

CHAPTER 5.

STATUTES; THEIR ENACTMENT AND OPERATION.

Section 84. Bills Received by the Governor, How Indorsed.
85. Approval of Bills.
86. Bills Returned Without Approval.
87. Return, When House Not in Session.
88. Bills Remaining With the Governor More Than Five Days.
89. Effect of Final Adjournment on Bills.
90. Statutes, When Effective.
91. "Final Passage," Meaning of.
92. When Joint Resolution Takes Effect.
93. Effect of Amendment.
94. Construction of Statutes.
95. Repeal of Statutes.
96. Act Repealed Not Revived by Repeal of Repealing Act.
97. Repeal of Laws Creating Criminal Offenses, When Bar to Prosecution.
98. Amendatory Act, When Void.

84. Bills received by the governor, how indorsed. Every bill must, as soon as delivered to the governor, be indorsed as follows: "This bill was received by the governor this .... day of ....., 19...." The indorsement must be signed by the private secretary of the governor, or by the governor himself.

History: En. Sec. 270, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 100, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 309.

Presentation of bill to governor for his signature, see note in Ann. Cas. 1914D, 268.

85. Approval of bills. When the governor approves a bill he must set his name thereto, with the date of his approval, and deposit the same in the office of the secretary of state. If any bill presented to the governor contains several distinct items of appropriation of money, he may disapprove one or more items, while approving other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and his objections thereto. If the legislative assembly be in session, the governor must transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items so objected to must be separately reconsidered in the same manner as bills which have been disapproved by the governor.

History: En. Sec. 271, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 101, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 310.

Power of governor to approve bill in part only, see note in 20 Ann. Cas. 162.

86. Bills returned without approval. When a bill has passed both houses of the legislative assembly, and is returned by the governor without his signature, and with objections thereto, or if it be a bill containing several items of appropriation of money, with objections to one or more items, and upon reconsideration, such bill, or item, or items, pass both houses by the constitutional majority, the bill, or item, or items must be authenticated as having become a law by a certificate indorsed on or attached to the bill, or indorsed or attached to the copy of the statement of objections, in the following form: "This bill having been returned by the governor with his objections thereto, and, after reconsideration, having passed both houses by the constitutional majority, has become a law this .... day of ....., A. D. .....;" or, "The following items in the within statement (naming them) having, after reconsideration, passed both houses by the constitutional majority, have become a law this .... day of ....., A. D. .....," which indorsement, signed by the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives, is a sufficient authentication thereof. Such bill or statement must then be delivered to the governor, and by him must be deposited with the laws in the office of the secretary of state.

History: En. Sec. 272, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 102, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 311.

87. Return, when house not in session. If, on the day the governor desires to return a bill without his approval, and with his objections thereto, to the house in which it originated, that house has adjourned for the day (but not for the session), he may deliver the bill with his message to the presiding officer, secretary, clerk, or any member of such house, and such delivery is as effectual as though returned in open session, if the governor, on the first day the house is again in session, by message, notifies it of such delivery, and of the time when and the person to whom such delivery was made.

History: En. Sec. 273, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 103, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 312.

88. Bills remaining with the governor more than five days. Every bill which has passed both houses of the legislative assembly, and has not been returned by the governor within five days, thereby becoming a law, is authenticated by the governor causing the fact to be certified thereon by the secretary of state, in the following form: "This bill having remained with the governor five days (Sundays excepted), and the legislative assembly being in session, it has become a law this .... day of ....., A. D. .....," which certificate must be signed by the secretary of state and deposited with the laws in his office.

History: En. Sec. 274; Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 104, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 313.

89. Effect of final adjournment on bills. No bill shall become a law after the final adjournment of the legislative assembly, unless approved by the governor within fifteen days after such adjournment. In case the governor fails to approve of any bill after the final adjournment of the legislative assembly, it must be filed, with his objections, in the office of the secretary of state.

History: En. Sec. 275, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 105, Rev. C. 1907.

90. Statutes, when effective. Every statute, unless a different time is prescribed therein, takes effect on the first day of July of the year of its passage and approval.

History: En. Sec. 3466, C. Civ. Proc. 1895; re-en. Sec. 8074, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 92, L. 1921. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 323.

91. "Final passage," meaning of. The words "final passage," as used in the preceding section, shall be held to mean the enactment into law of a bill which has passed the legislative assembly, either with or without the approval of the governor, as provided in section 12 of article VII of the constitution.

History: En. Sec. 3467, C. Civ. Proc. 1895; re-en. Sec. 8075, Rev. C. 1907.

Meaning of statutory terms, referring to time of "passage of act," see notes in 3 Ann. Cas. 737; 21 Ann. Cas. 989.

What is time of "passage" of an act, see note in 15 L. R. A. 243.

92. When joint resolutions take effect. Every joint resolution, unless a different time is prescribed therein, takes effect from its passage.

History: En. Sec. 291, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 118, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 324.

Joint resolution as having force and effect of law, see notes in 18 Ann. Cas. 706; 2 L. R. A. 612.

93. Effect of amendment. Where a section or a part of a statute is amended, it is not to be considered as having been repealed and re-enacted in the amended form, but the portions which are not altered are to be considered as having been the law from the time when they were enacted, and the new provisions are to be considered as having been enacted at the time of the amendment.

History: En. Sec. 292, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 119, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 325.

This section merely states a general rule as it was recognized by the authorities at the time of the adoption of the codes. State ex rel. Jacobson v. Board of Commrs., 47 Mont. 531, 539, 134 Pac. 291.

Where the legislature declares that an existing statute is amended "to read as follows," the new act takes the place of the old one exclusively, and so much only of the original act as is repeated in the new statute is continued in force. Effect of partial invalidity of amending statutes, see note in Ann. Cas. 1916D, 21.

When change in statute is to be regarded as creating new statute instead of mere amendment thereof, see note in Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1171.

94. Construction of statutes. The general rules for the construction of statutes are contained in the provisions of the different codes.

History: En. Sec. 293, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 120, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 326.

95. Repeal of statutes. Any statute may be repealed at any time, except when it is otherwise provided therein. Persons acting under any statute are deemed to have acted in contemplation of this power of repeal.

History: En. Sec. 294, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 121, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 327.

96. Act repealed not revived by repeal of repealing act. No act or part of an act, repealed by another act of the legislative assembly, is revived by the repeal of the repealing act without express words reviving such repealed act or part of an act.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 2, p. 390, Cod. Stat. 1871; re-en. Sec. 146, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; re-en. Sec. 203, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 295, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 122, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 328.

Effect of repeal or amendment of repealing statute as reviving repealed statute, see note in Ann. Cas. 1918B, 281.

97. Repeal of laws creating criminal offenses, when bar to prosecution. The repeal of any law creating a criminal offense does not constitute a bar to the indictment or information and punishment of an act already committed in violation of the law so repealed, unless the intention to bar such indictment or information and punishment is expressly declared in the repealing act.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 8, p. 390, Cod. Stat. 1871; re-en. Sec. 152, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; re-en. Sec. 209, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 296, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 123, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 329.

The fact that the trustees of a corporation may have increased the capital stock of the company immediately after its incoporation for the purpose of evading the provisions of this section authorizing a fee of fifty cents on each one thousand dollars of the capital stock, upon the filing of the certificate of incorporation, does not warrant the secretary of state in refusing to file such certificate of increase. State ex rel. Home B. & L. A. v. Rotwitt, 17 Mont. 537, 539, 43 Pac. 922.

Where each of two foreign corporations, upon entering the state to transact business, had paid the full legal fees for filing its articles of incorporation, and subsequently the former absorbed the latter and increased its capital stock, the certificate presented to the secretary of state showing an increase of capital stock, the secretary was not required to deduct the amount of the capital stock of the absorbed corporation, upon which the fees have once been paid, from the amount shown by the certificate of increase, but properly charged a fee based upon the difference between its former capitalization and the present one. United Missouri River Power Co. v. Yoder, 41 Mont. 245, 248, 108 Pac. 912.

This section is void in so far as it affects a corporation engaged in interstate commerce, organized under the laws of a sister state, which seeks to do business in this state, in that it imposes a tax upon interstate commerce, is an imposition upon the corporation's property beyond the limits of the state, and constitutes a taking thereof, without due process of law, to the amount of the fee sought to be collected. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co. v. Swindlehurst, 47 Mont. 119, 124, 130 Pac. 966.

The fee demanded by this section is not a property tax; it is graduated according to the par value of the company's capital stock, without reference to the full cash value of the property owned by the corporation; and it does not become a lien upon any property which the corporation may have in this state, as does a property tax under section 2152, post. State ex rel. General Electric Co. v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 29, 32, 33, 140 Pac. 82.

The fee fixed by this section, based on the amount of capital stock, for the recording and filing of certificates of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state, is not a property tax but a license tax exacted of every corporation, domestic as well as foreign, engaged in intrastate business, for the privilege of doing business within the state, enjoying the protection of its laws, and the pecuniary advantages afforded by its markets. State ex rel. General Electric Co. v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 29, 33, 140 Pac. 82.

The secretary of the state cannot demand the fee mentioned in the fourth and tenth subdivisions of this section from a foreign corporation that seeks to engage in interstate commerce in this state; to permit him to do so would impose a burden upon interstate commerce. State ex rel. General Electric Co. v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 29, 37, 140 Pac. 82.

This section, though inoperative so far as it authorizes the secretary of state to exact prescribed fees for recording and filing certificates of incorporation of foreign corporations engaged in interstate commerce, is valid as to such corporations seeking to engage in strictly private, intrastate business. State ex rel. General Electric Co. v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 29, 37, 140 Pac. 82.

This section, fixing a fee for the recording and filing of certificates of incorporation "of any foreign corporation," applies to foreign corporations that seek to conduct private intrastate business—those over which this state has the right to exercise some degree of regulation or control; it has no application to foreign coporations that seek to engage in interstate commerce in this state. State ex rel. General Electric Co. v. Alderson, 49 Mont. 29, 39, 140 Pac. 82.

If an express company is a foreign corporation, it must pay, for the privilege of entering this state to do business, the fees prescribed by this section, as modified by chapter 37, Laws of 1915. Wells Fargo & Co. v. Harrington, 54 Mont. 235, 244, 169 Pac. 463.

Cited or applied as section 410, Political Code, before amendment, in State ex rel. Aachen & Munich F. Ins. Co. v. Rotwitt, 17 Mont. 41, 43, 41 Pac. 1004; State ex rel. Travelers' Ins. Co. v. Rotwitt, 18 Mont. 87, 89, 44 Pac. 409; as section 165, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Cascade Bank v. Yoder, 39 Mont. 202, 208, 103 Pac. 499; as modified, in Wells Fargo & Co. v. Harrington, 54 Mont. 235, 244, 169 Pac. 463.

146. Fees of religious and fraternal societies. The secretary of state shall charge and collect from each foreign or domestic religious society, church organization for religious purposes and fraternal society not having capital stock, and not being organized for the purpose of profit hereafter organized, a fee of twenty dollars for all services in connection with the issuance of certificate, filing and recording.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 43, L. 1903; re-en. Sec. 166, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 2, Ch. 91, L. 1921.

147. Water users' association exempt from payment of fees. Any water users' association, organized in conformity with the requirements of the laws of the United States and of the state of Montana, under the reclamation act of June 17, 1902, which, under the articles of incorporation, is authorized to furnish water only to its stockholders, shall be exempt from the payment of any incorporation tax and from the payment of any annual franchise tax, and upon filing its articles of incorporation with the secretary of state, shall be required to pay only a fee of ten dollars for the filing and recording of such articles of incorporation, and the issuance of certificate of incorporation.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 66, L. 1905; re-en. Sec. 167, Rev. C. 1907.

148. Official bond. The secretary of state must execute an official bond in the sum of ten thousand dollars.

History: En. Sec. 412, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 169, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 423.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 86, L. 1921.

150. Transfer of funds. All moneys now standing to the credit of said secretary of state trust fund, or which may hereafter accrue thereto are hereby transferred to the general fund, and the state treasurer and state auditor are hereby directed to make such entries upon their books of account as will fully effectuate such transfer.

History: Sec. 236, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

243. Time for meeting for action on unsettled claims. On the first Monday of November preceding the meeting of each legislative assembly, the board must hold a session for the purpose of examining the class of claims referred to in the preceding section, and may adjourn from time to time until their work is completed. They must cause a list and brief abstract of all claims filed with them up to that date to be made and published in some newspaper at the seat of government for such time as they may prescribe. The list must be accompanied by a general notice of the order in which and of the time when the board will proceed to examine the claims.

History: Sec. 237, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

History: Sec. 239, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

History: Sec. 240, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

247. Restrictions on power of board. The board must not entertain for the second time a demand against the state once rejected by it or by the legislative assembly, unless such facts are presented to the board as in suits between individuals would furnish sufficient ground for granting a new trial.

History: Sec. 241, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

248. Appeals. Any person interested, who is aggrieved by the disapproval of a claim by the board, may appeal from the decision to the legislative assembly of the state, by filing with the board a notice thereof, and upon the receipt of such notice the board must transmit the demand and all the papers accompanying the same, with a statement of the evidence taken before it, to the legislative assembly.

History: Sec. 242, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

249. Auditor not to draw warrant for claims not audited. The state auditor must not draw his warrant for any claim unless it has been approved by the board, except for salaries or compensation of officers fixed by law.

History: Sec. 243, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

250. Board may prevent payment of auditor's warrants. Whenever the board has reason to believe that the state auditor has drawn, or is about to draw his warrant without authority of law, or for a larger amount than the state actually owes, the board must notify the state treasurer not to pay the warrant so drawn or to be drawn; and thereupon the treasurer is prohibited from paying the warrant, whether already drawn or not, until he is otherwise directed by the legislative assembly or the board.

History: Sec. 244, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

251. Must examine books of auditor and treasurer. As often as it may deem proper the board must examine the books of the state auditor and state treasurer, the accounts and vouchers in their offices, and count the money in the treasury, and for that purpose they may demand, and the state auditor and state treasurer must furnish without delay, all information touching the books, papers, vouchers, or matters pertaining to their offices.

ine the books and papers in their respective offices, and the treasurer must permit the money in the treasury, without delay on any pretense whatever, to be counted whenever the board wishes to make an examination or count.

History: Sec. 247, Rev. C. 1907. See also history of Sec. 232.

254. Furnishing board. The governor, secretary of state, and attorney-general of the state of Montana are hereby constituted ex-officio a furnishing board, with the powers and duties hereinafter specified.

History: En. Sec. 702, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 248, Rev. C. 1907.

255. Board of supplies. The board of examiners is also a board of supplies and furnishing board.

History: En. Sec. 703, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 249, Rev. C. 1907.

256. Duties of such board. It is the duty of such board:

1. To contract for the furnishing of all stationery, printing, binding, paper, fuel, lights, and other necessary supplies, to be used by the legislative assembly and all other departments of the government, and the printing, binding, and distributing of the laws, codes, journals, department reports, reports of the decisions of the supreme court, and all other printing and binding, and repairing of any books used by any state officer or department.

2. To hire all offices for the state officers, and to furnish the same; to keep the furniture in repair, and to hire and furnish halls and rooms for the use of the legislative assembly, and to provide furniture therefor, and keep the same in repair.

3. To cause to be deposited in the office of the secretary of state all stationery, books, and other articles and supplies furnished and on hand, and to issue to any officer a requisition on the secretary of state for any books, stationery, or other supplies needed by such officer.

4. At the end of each fiscal year, and at such other times as the board thinks proper, to cause an inventory to be taken of all articles and supplies on hand and contracted for, and to make an examination of all accounts and vouchers for such supplies.

5. To establish rules for the government of the board in relation to all contracts not inconsistent with law.

History: En. Sec. 704, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 250, Rev. C. 1907.

257. Contracts must be advertised. Before any contract is let the board must advertise for twenty days in two daily newspapers printed in the state, one of which must be published at the seat of government, for sealed proposals to furnish any and all the supplies mentioned in the next preceding section.

History: En. Sec. 705, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 251, Rev. C. 1907.

Where advertising for bids is a statutory requirement, neither the municipality nor its agents can make a contract binding upon it without compliance with the formalities so prescribed. State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 35, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

Where an advertisement for proposals for the furnishing of supplies was not made in compliance with this section, but was made only in a newspaper which had the contract for the public printing, the contention that the publication was lawful because the advertisement was public printing was without merit. State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 35, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

This section is not repugnant to section 30, article V of the constitution. State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 36, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

258. Contents of advertisement. The board must specify in the advertisement the amount and kind of each article required. A sample and minute description of each article must accompany and be deposited with each proposal.

History: En. Sec. 706, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 252, Rev. C. 1907.

Cited or applied as section 706, Political Code, in State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 27, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

259. Awarding the contract. The proposals received must be directed to the board, opened and compared by it at its office at twelve o'clock, noon, of the day specified in the advertisement, and the board must award the contract for furnishing such supplies, or any of them, to the lowest responsible bidder at such time.

History: En. Sec. 707, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 253, Rev. C. 1907.

The statute imposes upon the board of examiners the duty to award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder, unless the bids be rejected; and whenever, after a compliance with the statutory prerequisites essential to the valid acceptance of a bid, it has regularly awarded the contract, there spring into existence vested rights which the board cannot destroy or impair. It cannot insert into the formal written contract any condition not consonant with the contract already made by virtue of the acceptance of the bid. In the absence of fraud, accident, and mistake, or other legal reason sufficient to render the acceptance void or voidable, the contract resulting therefrom cannot (unless by mutual consent) be changed or annulled, nor by its obligation be impaired, by any act of the board. State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 29, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

Where the board regularly accepts a bid for supplies, its action in subsequently attempting to rescind the contract because the bidder is shown to be a corporation employing non-union workmen, and hostile to labor organizations, is void. State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 30, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

260. State printing—Union label. All printing for which the state of Montana is chargeable, including reports of state officers, state boards, pamphlets, blanks, letter heads, envelopes, and printed matter of every kind and description, save and except certificates of appointment and election to office, shall have the label of the branch of the international typographical union of the city in which they are printed.

History: En. Sec. 1, p. 58, L. 1897; re-en. Sec. 254, Rev. C. 1907.

Validity of statute protecting use of union label, see note in Ann. Cas. 1912D. 373.

261. Penalty. Any officer of the state who shall accept any printed matter, save and except certificates named in the preceding section, for which the state is chargeable, which does not bear a label indicating that it was printed in an office under the jurisdiction of the international typographical union, shall be subject to a fine of fifty dollars for each and every offense.

History: En. Sec. 1, p. 58, L. 1897; re-en. Sec. 255, Rev. C. 1907.

262. The bond. Each bid must be accompanied by a bond, with two or more sureties, in a sum not less than twice the amount of the value of the articles to be supplied, payable to the state, conditioned that if the bidder receives the contract he will deliver the supplies for which he has contracted, under such rules and regulations as the board may prescribe, and for the faithful performance of the contract.

Cited or applied as section 708, Political Code, in State ex rel. State Pub. Co. v. Hogan, 22 Mont. 384, 385, 56 Pac. 818; State ex rel. State Pub. Co. v. Smith, 23 Mont. 44, 46, 57 Pac. 449; State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 27, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

263. Supplies may be classified. The board may in the advertisement classify the supplies and articles to be furnished, and may receive bids, and award contracts for such separate class of supplies, or such separate articles, as it considers the lowest and best bid. The board may require any class of supplies or separate articles thereof to be delivered in installments. Any and all bids may be rejected, and the board may advertise again.

History: En. Sec. 709, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 257, Rev. C. 1907.

Cited or applied as section 709, Political Code, in State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 29, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

264. Must be approved by governor and state treasurer. All contracts made by the board must be approved by the governor and the state treasurer.

History: En. Sec. 710, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 258, Rev. C. 1907.

A compliance with this section is indispensable to the validity of a contract for public printing, and such a contract, entered into by a party with the state board of examiners, without the approval of the governor and state treasurer, is void. State ex rel. State Pub. Co. v. Hogan, 22 Mont. 384, 390, 56 Pac. 818.

The duty of the governor and state treasurer to approve a contract for state printing is not ministerial, but involves judicial discretion, and cannot be controlled by mandamus. State ex rel. State Pub. Co. v. Smith, 23 Mont. 44, 50, 57 Pac. 449.

Cited or applied as section 710, Political Code, in State ex rel. Robert M. F. Co. v. Toole, 26 Mont. 22, 29, 66 Pac. 496, 91 Am. St. Rep. 386, 55 L. R. A. 644.

265. For supplies for the legislative assembly. The board must, at least one month before the meeting of the legislative assembly, advertise as provided in the preceding sections for the repairing and furnishing the halls and rooms, and stationery, fuel, light, and such other supplies as are necessary for the members of the legislative assembly, at the ensuing session, and at the commencement of each session thereof the board must report to the legislative assembly an account of the supplies, expenditures for the same, and the stock on hand.

History: En. Sec. 711, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 259, Rev. C. 1907.

266. Rooms for state officers. The board may hire the necessary rooms for the state officers, and halls and rooms for the legislative assembly and its committees, without advertising as provided in this chapter, if the board so decide.

History: En. Sec. 712, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 260, Rev. C. 1907.

267. No officer to be interested in contracts. No member or officer of any department of the government must be in any way interested in any contract made under the provisions of this chapter.

History: En. Sec. 713, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 261, Rev. C. 1907.

268. Board may employ clerical help for state officers. The board of examiners may, at any time when necessary, employ clerical help for any state officer or board, and no clerks must be employed by such officers or board without the authority of the board of examiners, and no such clerks must be employed by the board of examiners except when all the duties of the office cannot be performed by the officer himself.

History: En. Sec. 714, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 262, Rev. C. 1907.

This section does not apply to the employees of the supreme court; that court, viewed as a department of the state government, is neither an officer nor a board, and therefore does not fall within the provision concerning "clerical help for any state officer or board." State ex rel. Schneider v. Cunningham, 39 Mont. 165, 172, 101 Pac. 962.

The governor shall designate one of said appointive members to serve for three years to act as chairman of the board, one to serve for the term of two years and one to serve for the term of one year. After the first appointments each appointive member of the board shall be appointed for three years, subject to removal by the governor for cause. The said board shall hold meetings when necessary and essential for the proper conduct of its business, at the state capitol in the office of the secretary, and is hereby authorized, directed and empowered to make such rules and regulations as it may from time to time find practicable, necessary and beneficial for the conduct of the department of hail insurance, subject to the provisions of this act. It shall have full charge of said department as herein provided for; it shall prepare blank forms for all purposes necessary, proper and incidental to the effective operation and enforcement of this act, and furnish such forms to all public officers respectively charged with the performance of any official duty in connection therewith; it shall prepare a special form outlining the purposes, scope and benefits of this act in furnishing protection against loss by hail, at the actual cost of the risk to all taxpayers who may elect to become subject to the provisions of this act, such form to be submitted by the county assessor of each county at the time in which the regular assessments of property are by such assessors made, to each farmer in each county in the state engaged in the growing of crops subject to injury or destruction by hail, on which forms each such farmer taxpayer shall signify whether he desires to become subject to the provisions of this act or not. No owner of land, who has more than one year's delinquent taxes on his land shall be allowed hail insurance under the provisions of this act, unless his application is accompanied with a cash payment for the amount that would be due on said application in the event of a maximum levy for that year.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 169, L. 1917; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 17, Ex. L. 1918; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 141, L. 1921.

351. Annual tax levy—Estimate—Rates. A tax is hereby authorized and directed to be levied on all lands in this state growing crops subject to injury or destruction by hail, the owners of which have elected to become subject to the provisions of this act. The state board of hail insurance shall annually estimate, as near as may be possible, the amount required to pay all losses, interest on warrants and costs of administration, and shall recommend the levy to be made on each kind of land respectively, subject to the provisions of this act, to the state board of equalization; provided, however, that such tax shall not exceed in any one year the sum of one dollar and twenty cents per acre on lands sown to grain crops, nor fifty cents per acre on lands sown to hay crops; and provided further, that if the tax required to pay the estimated losses, interest on warrants and costs of administration, be less than fifty cents per acre on lands sown to grain crops, and a proportionate amount on lands sown to hay crops, the said board of hail insurance must recommend a tax levy sufficient to raise the full amount thereof; provided, further, that the state board of hail insurance may, when they deem it advisable, establish and maintain maximum rates in various parts of the state, which rates shall be commensurate with the risk incurred as nearly as they can determine from past experiences or from any records available. The highest of these rates shall be the same as the maximum established herein and the lowest shall not be less than eighty-five cents per acre on lands sown to grain crops, and a proportionate amount on lands sown to hay crops. In establishing these zones the board may lay out not more than three different districts. Notice of the various rates established for any year shall be plainly printed on the applications for hail insurance, and in any year when the requirements of the hail insurance law as herein provided do not require a levy of the maximum rates as established, then the rates for the year shall be determined and levied by the state board of hail insurance for each of the various districts as established, in such proportion as will in their judgment be fair and equitable.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 169, L. 1917; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 34, L. 1919; amd. Sec. 2, Ch. 141, L. 1921.

1. The payment of all expenses of administration, together with all interest owed or to be owing on registered warrants.

2. For that portion of the losses incurred during the current year which are not paid from funds drawn from the reserve fund.

3. For the maintenance of a reserve fund, a part or all of which may be used in any one year for the purpose of paying the costs of administration, interest on warrants, and losses as the same shall be settled and adjusted by the said board.

Whenever the losses together with expense and costs of administration in any one year shall amount to a less amount than the sum of eighty-five cents per acre for every acre of grain insured, and a proportionate amount on hay crops, the state board of hail insurance may levy such amount as they may consider proper and just for the purpose of providing a reserve fund; provided, however, that such levy, when added to the amount necessary to pay costs of administration, interest, and losses for the current year, shall not exceed the sum of eighty-five cents per acre on lands sown to grain crops and a proportionate amount on hay crops; and provided, further, that in any one year there shall not be added to the reserve fund an amount greater than the sum of five per cent. of the total risk for that particular year; and provided, further, that the amount of said reserve fund shall not exceed the sum of one million dollars. The reserve fund hereby created shall be a continuous fund, and the state board of hail insurance is hereby granted the power to draw from said fund such amounts as it may deem necessary for the purpose of paying costs of administration, interest, and losses; and provided, further, that whenever in any one year the costs of administration, interest, and losses shall be less than the sum of fifty cents per acre on land sown to grain crops and a proportionate amount on hay crops, the state board of hail insurance shall not draw on the reserve fund for any purpose, unless the amount required for the payment of losses, interest on warrants, and cost of administration shall exceed the amount of the estimate made by the state board of hail insurance.

History: En. Sec. 2, Ch. 34, L. 1919.

353. Withdrawal of crop in case of destruction. When any crop insured under this act shall have been destroyed by any other cause than hail, the applicant may, by furnishing the proof required by the state board of hail insurance, cause the crop to be withdrawn from the regular levy of the state board for the current year. Such proof shall be submitted before the first day of July in case of winter wheat and winter rye, and before the twentieth day of July in the case of spring wheat or other spring grain, and if such proof is accepted the state board will cause a charge, proportionate to the time said crop has been insured per acre to be made against such claimant for all crops that are withdrawn; provided, however, that no withdrawal shall be made on any crop that has been harvested when such crop has been harvested for grain.

354. Collection of hail insurance tax. The county treasurer in each county in the state shall collect all levies made under this act, in the same manner as other property taxes are collected, and shall keep all moneys collected by him for hail insurance in a separate fund to be known as the hail insurance fund, and remit same to the state treasurer in the same manner as provided by law for the remittance of other moneys due the state. The county treasurer of each county in which hail insurance taxes are levied shall issue a separate receipt covering the hail insurance tax only, said receipt to be separate from the receipt issued for general taxes. Whenever the hail insurance tax shall be paid by warrant from the state board of hail insurance, the county treasurer shall thereupon issue his receipt in quadruplicate, mailing the original receipt to the taxpayer and a duplicate to the state board of hail insurance.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 169, L. 1917; amd. Sec. 4, Ch. 34, L. 1919.

355. State hail insurance fund—Warrants. The state treasurer shall receive all moneys paid to him under this act and shall place same to the credit of a fund to be known as the "State Hail Insurance Fund" and may from time to time transfer to the hail insurance administrative fund such sums as the state board deem necessary and proper to pay the expenses of administration for the next year's operation, together with such sums as may be needed to pay all warrants registered against the hail insurance administrative fund plus the accrued interest thereon, and shall pay out of such funds on warrants drawn by the state auditor by order of the state board of hail insurance. If such warrants be presented and there be no money in the said funds to pay the same, such warrants shall be registered and thereafter bear interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum until called for payment by the state treasurer. All interest and earnings obtained by the state treasurer for such moneys shall be credited to the respective funds. If at any time more funds are in the administrative fund than the board estimates are needed for the purposes mentioned above, the state treasurer may on the order of the state board of hail insurance transfer such funds back to the hail insurance fund as the state board may direct.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 169, L. 1917; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 183, L. 1921.

356. Duty of county assessor—Election of benefits of law. It shall be the duty of each county assessor in the state, at the time in which the annual assessment of property is made, to explain to each taxpayer engaged in the growing of crops subject to injury or destruction by hail, the provisions of this act and the protection afforded thereby, and to request each such taxpayer to certify, on the forms provided for such purpose, if such taxpayer desires to become subject to this act and liable for the tax levies provided hereby, and thereby eligible to the benefits and protection of this act; and each such taxpayer who so elects to become subject to this act shall be liable for the taxes levied for hail insurance, and shall participate in the benefits and protection afforded by this act; provided, that the owners of lands worked by others under lease or contract shall elect if such lands shall be subject to the tax levies herein provided for, and the crops grown thereon protected for hail insurance, or the lessee of such land may tender payment of the tax levied for hail insurance to protect his crops, in cash, to the officer authorized to receive same, whereupon such crops shall become eligible to the benefits and protection afforded by this act for hail insurance.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 169, L. 1917.

357. What crops subject to provisions of law. The crops grown on the lands of all taxpayers who shall elect to become subject to this act, shall be insured under the provisions of this act for the acreage and the kind of crop for which taxes for hail insurance will have been levied, which insurance shall be provided for, determined, and adjusted and paid for as provided by this act.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 169, L. 1917.

358. Reporting losses to crops. All losses by hail to crops insured under this act shall be reported immediately by the owner of such crops, his agent or attorney, to the state board of hail insurance, who shall require the claimant to make a sworn statement of the losses sustained, the causes thereof, and such other information as the state board of hail insurance may require, on forms to be provided for such purpose.

History: En. Sec. 7, Ch. 169, L. 1917.

359. Appraisers—Appointment—Qualifications and duties. The state board of hail insurance shall, as soon as practicable, each year appoint three men in each county to appraise all losses by hail incurred under this act in the various counties. The men so appointed shall be actively engaged in farming or shall have had practical experience in farming and shall be selected from names submitted by regularly organized farmers societies in the various counties. If the recommendations are not made as provided above, then the state board shall select the appraisers from men actively engaged in farming or men who have had practical experience in farming as heretofore provided. Provided, further, that the state board of hail insurance may call on one or more of the duly appointed appraisers for the adjustment of each and every loss and the said appraisers shall promptly report their findings to the state board of hail insurance, according to the rules provided by the said state board. Provided, further, that no appraiser who shall be a relative, attorney, agent, employee or creditor or in any manner interested by lien, mortgage or otherwise in the crop injured or destroyed, shall assist in adjusting any such loss. The state board may in case of emergency appoint more than three appraisers in any county. Also it may send any duly appointed appraiser or appraisers into any county as the occasion may require.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 169, L. 1917; amd. Sec. 5, Ch. 34, L. 1919; amd. Sec. 4, Ch. 141, L. 1921.

360. Appointment of appraisers in case of dissatisfaction with official adjustment. In case the party who has sustained the loss is dissatisfied with and refuses to accept the adjustments made by the official appraisers, then he shall have the right to appoint one disinterested person as appraiser, and the official appraiser shall appoint another person as appraiser, and the two shall select a third disinterested person, and the three shall then proceed to adjust the loss in the same manner as specified in the preceding section and the judgment of the majority shall be the judgment of said appraisers, and shall be binding upon both parties as the final determination of said loss; provided, however, that if the insured does not recover a greater sum than allowed by the official appraiser in the first instance, he shall pay the expenses of the said three appraisers and their witnesses in making said adjustment, but if he is awarded a larger sum, then the same shall be paid by the state board of hail insurance out of the hail insurance fund.

If the insured shall be required to pay the expenses of such reappraisement as above provided, the state board of hail insurance is hereby authorized to deduct the amount of such expenses from the amount allowed said insured, before making settlement for said loss.

The state board of hail insurance shall examine all reports of appraisers and verify same, and adjust all losses, and for such purposes may order hearings, subpoena witnesses, and conduct examinations and do all things necessary to secure a fair and impartial appraisement of losses by hail.

History: En. Sec. 9, Ch. 169, L. 1917; amd. Sec. 6, 34, L. 1919.

361. Payment of losses. The state board of hail insurance shall, as soon as practicable after loss has been sustained, arrange for the payment of the losses as follows: From the amount of the loss as adjusted for each claimant the state board of hail insurance shall deduct the amount the claimant then owes as delinquent hail insurance tax and the maximum amount assessed as hail insurance tax for the current year, and shall make settlement within forty days from time loss is sustained in the following manner: By paying, either by registered warrant or otherwise if funds are immediately available, fifty per cent. of the total loss as agreed on, less, however, the maximum rate of assessment; balance to be paid at the expiration of the hail season. The state board of hail insurance shall, on or before November first, order the state auditor to draw a warrant for the amount so deducted on the state hail insurance fund which warrant shall be remitted to the county treasurer of the county in which the tax was assessed. The state board of hail insurance shall then order the state auditor to draw a warrant on the state hail insurance fund for the balance of the adjustment which warrant shall be sent to the claimant; provided, however, that in no case shall the payment for loss exceed twelve dollars per acre for grain crops and five dollars per acre for hay crops; provided, further, that no claimant shall receive payment for any loss incurred where said loss does not exceed five per cent. of the total value of the crop insured. In any year the state board of hail insurance may by resolution authorize its chairman and secretary to borrow as needed, from any person, bank or corporation such sum or sums of money as the state board may deem necessary to carry on the business of the department and for the purpose of paying all warrants as issued. For any moneys borrowed under the provisions of this act, the state board of hail insurance shall cause warrants to be drawn against the state hail insurance fund and said warrants shall bear interest at not to exceed six per cent. per annum, and said warrants and the interest thereon shall be paid out of funds from the state hail insurance department as they are collected from the various counties in the state. The state board of hail insurance shall not at any time borrow a total sum greater than the amount of the levies as made for taxes for the current year, together with such delinquent taxes as remain unpaid on the books of the county treasurers. The state board of examiners is hereby empowered to invest surplus money belonging to any fund in warrants of the hail insurance fund.

362. Who may elect to become subject to provisions of law. Any taxpayers or associations of taxpayers engaged in the growing of crops, other than specified herein, or other agricultural or horticultural products subject to injury or destruction by hail, by their individual or joint election filed with and approved by the state board of hail insurance, may accept the provisions of this act, and elect to become subject thereto, and in such event such risks may be classified by the said board and suitable levies imposed as may be agreed upon by the said board and such taxpayers, whereupon such taxpayers shall be entitled to the benefits and protection afforded by the insurance provisions of this act.

The chairman of the state board of hail insurance shall receive a salary of two hundred dollars per month while actually engaged in service and actual traveling expenses, and all appointive officers under this act shall be paid their actual traveling expenses and shall be allowed such per diem as the state board of hail insurance may determine for each day of eight hours while actually engaged in service under this act, out of the hail insurance administrative fund.

This provision is one usually found in the codes of the states, being based upon the requirements of public policy, which demands that if, from any cause, the new incumbent of an office fails to qualify, or if there has not been an election of any person, there should not be a vacancy in the office, and a consequent suspension of the public business. State ex rel. Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 244, 50 Pac. 719.

This section is applicable only to a case where the term of office of an incumbent has expired; it does not refer to a case of vacancy caused by resignation. State ex rel. Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 248, 50 Pac. 719.

Where a vacancy occurs in a county office, the board of county commissioners has general power, and it is its duty, to exercise such power to prevent an interregnum in the office and the consequent suspension of the public business. Even though it may happen that the proper officer or authority may omit to call an election or cannot do so under the particular emergency, nevertheless the board need not by subsequent neglect or inaction permit the public business to be suspended, and upon the happening of either contingency the appointed incumbent, as temporary locum tenens, must perform the duties of the office until his successor has qualified, so that an interregnum can never happen in any public office. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 590, 144 Pac. 162.

Cited or applied as section 355, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 586, 104 Pac. 860.

Under this section, the state land agent should properly be commissioned by the governor. He is a state official appointed by the governor, ordinarily with the consent of the state land board; and it is in accord with the spirit of the law that such an official should bear a commission signed by the governor, as evidence of his appointment. State ex rel. Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 245, 50 Pac. 719.

The state officers, the several county, city, town, and township officers of this state, their deputies and clerks, are prohibited from purchasing or selling, or in any manner receiving to their own use or benefit, or to the use or benefit of any person or persons whatever, any state, county, or city warrants, scrip, orders, demands, claims, or other evidences of indebtedness against the state, or any county, city, town, or township thereof, except evidences of indebtedness issued to or held by them for services rendered as such officer, deputy, clerk, and evidences of the funded indebtedness of such state, county, city, township, town, or corporation.

History: En. Sec. 1023, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 371, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 923.

An information, which charges defendant with being accessory to a county official in purchasing evidences of indebtedness against a county, contrary to the provisions of this section and 10827, post, which fails to state that defendant knew that the person, whose accessory he was charged with being, was a county officer, was defective. State v. Danzer, 35 Mont. 269, 272, 88 Pac. 952.

A police captain is an "officer," within the meaning of this section and section 10827, post, making the purchase of a city warrant by city officers a crime punishable by disqualification from holding office, and the fact that the accused brought the warrant for a brother officer is unavailing as a defense. State ex rel. O'Brien v. City of Butte, 54 Mont. 533, 537, 172 Pac. 134.

448. Auditing officers, duties of. Every officer whose duty it is to audit and allow the accounts of other state, county, city, township, or town officers, must, before allowing such accounts, require each of such officers to make and file with him an affidavit that he has not violated any of the provisions of this chapter.

History: En. Sec. 1024, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 372, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 924.

449. Treasurer, duties of. Officers charged with the disbursement of public moneys must not pay any warrant or other evidence of indebtedness against the state, county, city, town, or township, when the same has been purchased, sold, received, or transferred contrary to any of the provisions of this chapter.

450. When settlements must be withheld. Every officer charged with the disbursement of public moneys, who is informed by affidavit establishing probable cause that any officer whose account is about to be settled, audited, or paid by him, has violated any of the provisions of this chapter, must suspend such settlement or payment, and cause such officer to be prosecuted for such violation by the county attorney of the county. In case there be judgment for the defendant upon such prosecution, the proper officer may proceed to settle, audit, or pay such account as if no such affidavit had been filed.

History: En. Sec. 1026, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 374, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 926.

451. Title contested, salary must not be paid. When the title of the incumbent of any office in this state is contested by proceedings instituted in any court for that purpose, no warrant can thereafter be drawn or paid for any part of his salary until such proceedings have been finally determined.

History: En. Sec. 1040, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 375, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 936.

This section recognizes the principle that he who has the title to an office may receive the salary incident to it, whether he serves or not. Peterson v. City of Butte, 44 Mont. 401, 410, 120 Pac. 483, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 538.

Under this section, it was no defense to an action by a police officer for his salary during the time he was wrongfully deprived of his office, that it had been paid to a de facto officer, after the commencement of quo warranto proceedings by the plaintiff. Wynne v. City of Butte, 45 Mont. 417, 422, 123 Pac. 531.

If a police officer is wrongfully excluded from his office, his earnings in other employments during the time of his exclusion cannot be charged against his claim for salary. Wynne v. City of Butte, 45 Mont. 417, 423, 123 Pac. 531.

452. Pendency of suit must be certified by the clerk. As soon as such proceedings are instituted, the clerk of the court in which they are pending must certify the facts to the officers whose duty it would otherwise be to draw such warrant or pay such salary.

History: En. Sec. 1041, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 376, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 937.

The failure of the clerk of the court to comply with the above section, by certifying to the disbursing officer the fact that the title to an office was contested, did not prevent a police officer from recovering his salary for the time during which he was wrongfully ousted and the salary paid to a de facto officer. Wynne v. City of Butte, 45 Mont. 417, 422, 123 Pac. 531.

453. Office hours. Unless otherwise provided by law, every officer must keep his office open for the transaction of business continuously from nine o'clock a. m. until five o'clock p. m. each day, and at other times when the accommodation of the public or the proper transaction of business requires, except upon holidays.

History: En. Sec. 1134, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 436, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1030.

454. Signature of officer acting ex-officio. When an officer discharges ex-officio the duties of another office than that to which he is elected or appointed, his official signature and attestation, except as otherwise provided by law, must be in the name of the office the duties of which he discharges.

History: En. Sec. 1135, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 437, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1031.

455. Records open to public inspection—Exceptions. The public records and other matters in the office of any officer are at all times, during office hours, open to the inspection of any person. In cases of attachment, the clerk of the court with whom the complaint is filed must not make public the fact of the filing of the complaint, or the issuing of such attachment, until after the filing of return of service of attachment.

History: En. Sec. 1136, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 438, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1032.

456. Itemized accounts. All state officers and appointees must produce itemized accounts for all moneys, other than salaries, expended by them, accompanied by affidavit that the money has been expended.

History: En. Sec. 1137, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 439, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 424.

457. Traveling expenses. Each state officer shall be allowed his necessary office and his actual and necessary traveling expenses when performing the duties pertaining to his office. No such officer shall be allowed as expenses a larger amount than has been actually and necessarily incurred or paid out by him. Each officer shall be required to travel by the shortest practicable route, and in cases when same can be done, shall be required to use mileage books or other means of reduced transportation.

History: En. Sec. 1, p. 102, L. 1897; Sec. 440, Rev. C. 1907.

Meaning of "necessary travel" or "necessarily traveled" as used with respect to mileage allowance, see note in Ann. Cas. 1918D, 934.

458. Vouchers presented to state board of examiners. Each officer shall be required to make out and file with the state board of examiners an itemized and verified account, with proper vouchers thereto attached, of his expenses, and same shall be passed upon and allowed by such board before being paid.

History: En. Sec. 2, p. 102, L. 1897; Sec. 441, Rev. C. 1907.

459. Penalty for collecting expenses not due. Any such officer who shall knowingly collect or receive as expenses a greater sum than has actually and necessarily been paid out or incurred by him shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction thereof be fined in any sum not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars, and it is hereby made the duty of the attorney-general to prosecute any violation of the provisions of this act.

History: En. Sec. 3, p. 102, L. 1897; Sec. 442, Rev. C. 1907.

460. Possession of books and papers. Every public officer is entitled to the possession of all books and papers pertaining to his office, or in the custody of a former incumbent by virtue of his office.

History: En. Sec. 1120, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 427, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1014.

461. Proceedings to compel delivery of. If any person, whether a former incumbent or another person, refuse or neglect to deliver to the actual incumbent any such books or papers, such actual incumbent may apply, by complaint, to any district court, or judge of the county where the person so refusing or neglecting resides, and the court or judge must proceed in a summary way, after notice to the adverse party, to hear the allegations and proofs of the parties, and to order any such books and papers to be delivered to the petitioners.

History: En. Sec. 1121, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 428, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1015.

462. Attachment and warrant to enforce. The execution of the order and delivery of the books and papers may be enforced by attachment as for a witness, and also, at the request of the plaintiff, by a warrant directed to the sheriff or a constable of the county, commanding him to search for such books and papers, and to take and deliver them to the plaintiff.

History: En. Sec. 1122, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 429, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1016.

The principal and sureties upon any official bond are also in all cases liable for the neglect, default, or misconduct in office of any deputy, clerk, or employee, appointed or employed by such principal.

All official bonds must be signed and executed by the principal and two or more sureties, or by the principal, and one or more surety companies organized as such under the laws of this state, or licensed to do business herein.

By the last sentence of the first paragraph of this section the illegal act or official misconduct of the deputy is expressly put in the same category as the illegal act or misconduct of the principal. County of Silver Bow v. Davies, 40 Mont. 418, 427, 107 Pac. 81.

Under this section, the liability of the sureties on the bond of a district court clerk for losses sustained by the county through the issuance of spurious jurors' and witnesses' certificates by the clerk's chief deputy depended, not on the fact that in executing and issuing the certificates the deputy was not technically guilty of forgery because he omitted to impress on the certificates the seal of the court as required by statute, but on the question whether their issuance in the form in which they were issued, and under color of office, operated as an effective cause of the county's loss. County of Silver Bow v. Davies, 40 Mont. 418, 427; 107 Pac. 81.

The surety on an official bond, joint and several in character, is not released from liability thereon because of the failure of the principal to sign the bond. Deer Lodge County v. United States F. & G. Co., 42 Mont. 315, 325, 112 Pac. 1060, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1010.

476. Qualifications of sureties. The individual sureties on all official bonds must justify before an officer authorized to administer oaths by an affidavit, to the effect that they are residents and householders or freeholders within the state of Montana, and that each is worth the sum for which he becomes surety in said bond over and above his just debts and liabilities, exclusive of property exempt from execution. No surety company or corporation organized under or that has complied with the laws of this state, and has been duly licensed to do business as such herein, shall be required to justify as a surety, and no such company or corporation shall be accepted as a surety in any case when its liabilities exceed its assets, as ascertained in the manner provided by law.

No member of the board of county commissioners can be accepted as a surety upon the official bond of any county, township, or school district officer in his county; nor must any county officer become a surety upon the official bond of any other county officer.

Validity of statute authorizing surety company as surety on official bonds, see note in 2 Ann. Cas. 487.

477. When sureties liable for less than full amount. When the penal sum of any bond required to be given amounts to more than one thousand dollars, the sureties may become severally liable for portions not less than five hundred dollars thereof, making in the aggregate a liability of double the amount named as the penal sum of the bond. And if any such bond becomes forfeited, an action may be brought thereon against any or all of the obligors and judgment entered against them, either jointly or severally, as they may be liable. The judgment must not be entered against a surety severally bound for a greater sum than that for which he is specially liable by the terms of the bond. Each surety is liable to contribute to his co-sureties in proportion to the amount for which he is liable.

History: En. Sec. 1064, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 391, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 961.

Whenever an official bond does not contain the substantial matter or conditions required by law, or there are any defects in the approval or filing thereof, it is not void so as to discharge such officer and sureties; but they are equitably bound to the state or party interested; and the state or such party may, by action in any court of competent jurisdiction, suggest the defect in the bond, approval, or filing, and recover the proper and equitable demand or damages from such officer and the persons who intended to become and were included as sureties in such bond.

In all actions on a defective bond, recognizance, or written undertaking, the plaintiff or relator may suggest the defect in his complaint and recover to the same extent as if such bond, recognizance, or written undertaking were perfect in all respects.

486. Insufficiency of sureties. Whenever it is shown by the affidavit of a credible witness, or otherwise comes to the knowledge of the court, judge, board, person or body whose duty it is to approve the official bond of any officer, that the sureties on any bond given pursuant to the provisions of this chapter as amended by this act, or any one of them have since such bond was approved died, removed from the state, become insolvent, or from any other cause have become incompetent or insufficient sureties on such bond, the court, judge, board, officer or other person may issue a citation to such officer, requiring him on a day therein named, not less than five nor more than ten days after date, to appear and show cause why such office should not be vacated, which citation must be served and return thereof made as in other cases. If the officer fails to appear and show good cause why such office should not be vacated, on the day named, or fails to give ample additional security, the court, judge, board, officer, or other person must make an order vacating the office, and the same must be filled as provided by law.

The additional bond must be in such penalty as directed by the court, judge, board, officer, or other person, and in all other respects similar to the original bond, and approved by and filed with the same officer as required in case of the approval and filing of the original bond. Every such additional bond so filed and approved is of like force and obligation upon the principal and sureties therein, from the time of its execution, and subjects the officer and his sureties to the same liabilities, suits, and actions as are prescribed respecting the original bonds of officers.

History: En. Sec. 1068, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 396, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 965.

491. Contribution between sureties. Whenever the sureties on either bond have been compelled to pay any sum of money on account of the principal obligor therein, they are entitled to recover in any court of competent jurisdiction of the sureties on the remaining bond a distributive part of the sum thus paid, in the proportion which the penalties of such bonds bear one to the other and to the sums thus paid, respectively.

Whenever any sureties on the official bond of any officer wish to be discharged from their liability, they and such officer may procure the same to be done, if such officer will execute a new bond in accordance with the provisions of this chapter in like form, penalty and conditions, and to be approved and filed as the original bond. Upon the filing and approval of the new bond, such first sureties are exonerated from all further liability; but their bond remains in full force as to all liabilities incurred previous to the approval of such new bond. The liability of the principal and surety or sureties in such new bond is in all respects the same and may be enforced in like manner as the liability of the principal and sureties of the original bond.

Since, under the provisions of this section, a surety on an official bond may withdraw therefrom at any time, a complaint against a surety company to recover on the bond of a constable, in failing to state that the relationship of principal and surety existed between him and the company at the time of his alleged wrongful seizure and detention of plaintiff's chattels, did not state a cause of action, the allegation that such relationship existed at the time of filing the complaint being insufficient. 497. Office declared vacant for want of official bond. In ten days after the service of such notice, the judge, court, board, officer, or other person with whom the same is filed, must make an order declaring such office vacant, and releasing such surety from all liability thereafter to arise on such official bond, and such office thereafter is in law vacant, and must be immediately filled by election or appointment, as provided for by law as in other cases of vacancy of such office, unless such officer has before that time given good and ample surety for the discharge of all his official duties as required originally.

History: En. Sec. 1078, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 406, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 975.

498. Supplemental bond. Whenever, from any cause, a surety on the official bond of any officer elected or appointed under the laws of this state withdraws from his bond or becomes insolvent, or from other cause becomes incompetent to remain as surety thereon, such officer may file a supplemental bond, executed and approved in the same manner as the original bond, for the amount for which the surety so withdrawing or incompetent was bound by the original bond.

History: En. Sec. 1079, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 407, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 976.

499. Effect of release, discharge, etc. The release, discharge, voluntary withdrawal, or incompetency of a surety on any official bond does not affect the bond as to the remaining sureties thereon, or alter or change their liability in any respect.

500. Same—Withdrawal of surety and filing of new bond. Whenever a surety on any official bond gives notice of an intention to withdraw therefrom, or is removed, or becomes otherwise incompetent, the principal on the bond must, within ten days after such notice or disqualification, execute and file, subject to the same conditions as the original, a supplemental bond, wherein must be recited the names of the remaining original sureties and of the new surety or sureties, and the respective amounts for which he, or they, become bound, who are substituted in lieu of the surety, or sureties, released or disqualified.

History: En. Sec. 1081, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 409, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 978.

501. Same—Supplemental bond not required when. Whenever the original bond is given for an amount in excess of the sum required by law, if the withdrawal or removal of any surety does not reduce the bond below the amount required by law to be secured by sureties, then no supplemental or additional bond is required or necessary; and whenever any supplemental bond is so filed and approved, the officer with whom the bond is filed, or in whose office the same is recorded, must give ten days' notice by publication in some paper published in the county, or if there is no paper in the county, then in the county nearest thereto in which a newspaper is published, and in case of a bond of a state officer, in some paper at the seat of government, of the fact of the filing of the bond and the name of the party withdrawing from the former and the substitute on the new bond; and until the filing and approval of the supplemental bond the sureties on the former bond are liable for all the acts of their principal.

504. Bonds of receivers, assignees, etc. All bonds or undertakings given by trustees, receivers, assignees, or officers of a court in an action or proceeding for the faithful discharge of their duties, where it is not otherwise provided, must be in the name of and payable to the state of Montana, and, upon the order of the court where such action or proceeding is pending, may be prosecuted for the benefit of any and all interested therein.

When an action is commenced in any court in this state, for the benefit to the state, to enforce the penalty of or to recover money upon an official bond or obligation, or any bond or obligation executed in favor of the state of Montana, or of the people of this state, the attorney or other person prosecuting the action may file with the clerk of the court in which the action is commenced an affidavit, stating either positively or on information and belief that such bond or obligation was executed by the defendant, or one or more of the defendants (designating whom), and made payable to the people of the state, or to the state of Montana, and that the defendant or defendants have real estate or some interest in lands (designating the county or counties in which the same is situated), and that the action is prosecuted for the benefit of the state; and thereupon the clerk of the court receiving such affidavit must certify to the county clerk in which such real estate is situated the names of the parties to the action, the name of the court in which the action is pending, and the amount claimed in the complaint, with the date of the commencement of the suit.

506. Same. Upon receiving such certificate, the county clerk must indorse upon it the time of its reception, and such certificate must be filed in the same manner as notices of the pendency of action affecting real estate; and any judgment recovered in such action is a lien upon all real estate situated in any county in which such certificate is so filed, belonging to the defendant, or to one or more of such defendants, for the amount the owner thereof is or may be liable upon the judgment, from the filing of this certificate.

History: En. Sec. 1087, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 415, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 984.

Under this section, an officer may indemnify himself by requiring a bond of his deputy; failing to do this, neither the officer nor his surety may complain that they have suffered loss. County of Silver Bow v. Davies, 40 Mont. 418, 433, 107 Pac. 81.

508. Bond of county clerk, where filed. The official bond of the county clerk must, after being recorded, be filed in the office of the county treasurer, and the safe-keeping of the same is hereby made the duty of the county treasurer.

History: En. Sec. 1089, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 417, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 986.

509. Actions to compel specific performance, etc. In any action to compel the specific performance of an agreement to sell real estate affected by the lien created by the filing of the certificate mentioned in section 506, which agreement was made prior to the filing of such certificate, but the purchase price thereof is not due until after the filing of said certificate, the judge of the district court in which said action for specific performance is tried, must, if the purchaser is otherwise entitled to specific performance of such agreement, order the said purchaser to pay the purchase price, or so much thereof as may be due, to the state treasurer, taking his receipt therefor. Upon such payment the purchaser is entitled to enforce the specific performance of the agreement, and take said real estate free from the liens created by the filing of said certificate. The moneys so paid to the state treasurer must be held by him, pending the litigation mentioned in said certificate, and subject to the lien created by the filing of said certificate. If judgment is recovered against the defendant, the state treasurer in his settlement must pay to the county treasurer entitled to the same the amount due the county.

RESIGNATIONS AND VACANCIES.

Section 510. Resignations, How Made.
511. Vacancies, How They Occur.
512. Notice of Removal, by and to Whom Given.
513. Vacancies in Legislative Assembly, How Filled.
514. Vacancies, How Filled When Not Otherwise Provided for.
515. Vacancies Occurring During Recess of the Legislative Assembly.
516. Vacancies in Certain State Offices, How Filled.
517. Powers and Duties of Officer Filling Unexpired Term.

510. Resignations, how made. Resignations must be in writing and made as follows:

1. By the governor and lieutenant-governor, to the legislative assembly, if it is in session; and if not, then to the secretary of state.

2. By all officers commissioned by the governor, to the governor.

3. By senators and members of the house of representatives, if the legislative assembly is not in session, to the governor; if it is in session, to the presiding officer of the branch to which the member belongs, who must immediately transmit the same to the governor.

4. By all county and township officers not commissioned by the governor, to the clerk of the board of commissioners of their respective counties.

5. By all other appointed officers, to the body or officer that appointed them.

6. In all cases not otherwise provided for, by filing the resignation in the office of the secretary of state.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 41, p. 468, Cod. Stat. 1871; re-en. Sec. 553, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; re-en. Sec. 1045, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 1100, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 419, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 8, L. 1921. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 995.

Where the state land agent sent his resignation in writing to the governor, and the latter accepted it, there was a vacancy in the office, though the board did not consent to the acceptance. State ex rel. Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 244, 50 Pac. 719.

Right of public officer to withdraw resignation from office, see notes in 36 A. S. R. 527; 5 Ann. Cas. 689; 15 Ann. Cas. 139; 16 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1058; L. R. A. 1917F, 547.

511. Vacancies, how they occur. An office becomes vacant on the happening of either of the following events before the expiration of the term of the incumbent:

1. The death of the incumbent.

2. His insanity, found upon a commission of lunacy issued to determine the fact.

3. His resignation.

4. His removal from office.

5. His ceasing to be a resident of the state, or, if the office be local, of the district, city, county, town, or township, for which he was chosen or appointed, or within which the duties of his office are required to be discharged.

6. His absence from the state, without the permission of the legislative assembly, beyond the period allowed by law.

7. His ceasing to discharge the duty of his office for the period of three consecutive months, except when prevented by sickness, or when absent from the state by permission of the legislative assembly.

8. His conviction of a felony, or of any offense involving moral turpitude, or a violation of his official duties.

9. His refusal or neglect to file his official oath or bond within the time prescribed.

10. The decision of a competent tribunal declaring void his election or appointment.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 42, p. 385, Bannacks Stat.; re-en. Sec. 42, p. 468, Cod. Stat. 1871; amd. Sec. 554, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; re-en. Sec. 1046, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 1101, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 420, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 996.

Where the state land agent tendered his resignation to the governor, to be effective at the discretion of the governor, and the governor in writing accepted the resignation, to take effect on a certain date, the incumbent, on that date, ceased to be state land agent without any action by the state board of land commissioners. State ex rel Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 245, 50 Pac. 719.

By a resignation before the expiration of a term, as provided in this section, is meant a resignation before the end of a fixed time, or before the expiration of the time during which an official has a right to serve. State ex rel. Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 246, 50 Pac. 719.

An office becomes vacant on the happening of certain events enumerated in this section, which enumeration is exclusive. The contingency of a tie vote not being provided for, when the two candidates for the office of county superintendent of schools received an equal number of votes, there was no vacancy, and the previous incumbent was entitled to hold the office, until a successor was regularly elected. State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 Mont. 37, 39, 77 Pac. 299. See, however, State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 587, 590, 591, 592, 104 Pac. 860; State ex rel. Klick v. Wittmer, 50 Mont. 22, 26, 144 Pac. 648.

Though it may be granted that a vacancy is not created by any circumstance not mentioned in this section, it does not follow that a resignation, which is mentioned therein as a cause of vacancy, may not impliedly arise upon the acceptance of an incompatible office. On the contrary, the authorities are practically unanimous that, as to an office which the incumbent may vacate by his own act, a resignation does occur upon his acceptance of another office incompatible therewith. The office of city purchasing agent being incompatible with that of alderman of a city, the acceptance of the former by such officer was equivalent to his resignation as alderman, and a vacancy was thereby created which the city council was authorized to fill by a majority vote of the members then composing the council. State ex rel. Klick v. Wittmer, 50 Mont. 22, 26, 144 Pac. 648.

Upon the approval of an act creating an additional judgeship for a designated county, there is ipso facto a vacancy in the office until it is filled by the governor by appointment. State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 335, 146 Pac. 932.

Upon the creation of an additional judgeship in a judicial district, a vacancy existed until filled by appointment by the governor, this section, enumerating the instances when vacancies occur, not being exclusive. State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 336, 146 Pac. 932.

Cited or applied as section 1101, Political Code, in In re Craigie's Estate, 24 Mont. 37, 42, 60 Pac. 495; as section 420, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Cutts v. Hart, 56 Mont. 571, 573, 185 Pac. 769, 7 A. L. R. 1678.

Effect of death of person elected before taking office, or of his failure to qualify, see notes in 17 Ann. Cas. 86; 50 L. R. A. (N. S.) 374.

Vacancy in office by failure to file bond within the time prescribed, see note in 16 L. R. A. 140.

512. Notice of removal, by and to whom given. Whenever an officer is removed, declared insane, or convicted of a felony or offense involving moral turpitude, or a violation of his official duty, or whenever his election or appointment is declared void, the body, judge, or officer before whom the proceedings were had must give notice thereof to the officer authorized to fill the vacancy.

History: En. Sec. 1102, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 421, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 997.

Removal of officers for cause, see note in 135 A. S. R. 250.

Necessity of notice to officer to effect his summary removal, see note in 19 Ann. Cas. 920.

Right of officer holding for fixed term to notice and hearing before removal for cause, see notes in 12 Ann. Cas. 995; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1209.

Right of appointing power to remove officer in cases where term of office is fixed and not fixed, see notes in Ann. Cas. 1912C, 374; Ann. Cas. 1914B, 524.

Right to jury trial in proceeding for removal of public officer, see notes in in 3a A. L. R. 232; 8 A. L. R. 1476.

Personal liability of public officer for removing another officer, see note in 4 A. L. R. 1371.

513. Vacancies in legislative assembly, how filled. Whenever a vacancy, or failure to elect by reason of a tie vote occurs in either house of the legislative assembly, the governor must at once issue a writ of election to fill such vacancy.

History: En. Sec. 1103, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 422, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 998.

Cited or applied as section 422, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Cutts v. Hart, 56 Mont. 571, 573, 185 Pac. 769, 7 A. L. R., 1678.

Appointment or election of officers in case of tie on vote to fill vacancy, see note in 47 L. R. A. 563.

514. Vacancies, how filled when not otherwise provided for. When any office becomes vacant, and no mode is provided by law for filling such vacancy, the governor must fill such vacancy by granting a commission, to expire at the end of the next legislative assembly or at the next election by the people.

History: En. Sec. 1104, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 423, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 999.

This section applies to all cases of vacancies where no mode is provided by law for filling the same. While the consent of the state board of land commissioners to an appointment by the governor is necessary where a person is appointed to succeed one whose term has expired, where a vacancy is to be filled in the office of state land agent the special provision relating to vacancies obtains, and the governor alone must appoint, by granting a commission until the end of the next session of the legislature. State ex rel. Neill v. Page, 20 Mont. 238, 247, 50 Pac. 719.

In view of section 45, article V, and section 29, article III, of the constitution, the method provided by this section for filling vacancies in office where no other filling is provided by law has no application to a legislative vacancy. State ex rel. Cutts v. Hart, 56 Mont. 571, 574, 185 Pac. 769, 7 A. L. R. 1678.

This section does not, in view of article V, section 45, and article III, section 29, of the constitution, authorize an appointment by the governor to fill a legislative vacancy, even though such vacancy occurred during a session of the legislature, and an appointment made by the governor to fill such a vacancy is contrary to the constitutional provisions above cited; the appointee was, in such case, at most, only a de facto officer. State ex rel. Cutts v. Hart, 56 Mont. 571, 574, 185 Pac. 769, 7 A. L. R. 1678.

515. Vacancies occurring during recess of the legislative assembly. Vacancies occurring in office during the recess of the legislative assembly, the appointment to which is vested in the governor and senate, or in the legislative assembly, must be filled by appointment made by the governor; but the person so appointed can only hold the office until the adjournment of the next session of the legislative assembly.

History: En. Sec. 1105, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 424, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1000.

Right of governor to make an ad interim appointment to an office whose fixed term expires before the senate's adjournment, where the incumbent is authorized to hold over until his successor is appointed, see note in 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1202.

516. Vacancies in certain state offices, how filled. A vacancy in the office of either the secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney-general, clerk of the supreme court, or superintendent of public instruction, must be filled by a person appointed by the governor, who holds his office until the first Monday in January next after a general election. At such election the office must be filled by election for the unexpired term.

History: En. Sec. 1106, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 425, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1001.

517. Powers and duties of officer filling unexpired term. Any person elected or appointed to fill a vacancy, after filing his official oath and bond, possesses all the rights and powers, and is subject to all the liabilities, duties, and obligations, as if he had been elected to the office for a full term.

History: En. Sec. 1107, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 426, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1004.

TIME OF HOLDING AND ELECTION PROCLAMATIONS.

Section 531. General Elections, When to Be Held.
532. Special Elections; Purpose and Calling.
533. Election Proclamations by the Governor.
534. Governor's Proclamation, Contents.
535. Publication and Posting by County Commissioners.
536. Election Proclamation by County Commissioners.

531. General elections, when to be held. There must be held throughout the state, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, and in every second year thereafter, an election to be known as the general election.

History: En. Sec. 1150, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 450, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1041.

A general election is one held for the election of officers throughout the state. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 591, 144 Pac. 162.

Cited or applied as section 450, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 338, 146 Pac. 932.

Notice or proclamation of general or special election, see note in 120 A. S. R. 794.

Statutory provision for time of holding election as directory or mandatory, see note in Ann. Cas. 1913E, 371.

First and last days in computing time of elections, see notes in 49 L. R. A. 244; 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 691.

Exclusion or inclusion of Sunday or holiday in computation of time for notice of election, see note in Ann. Cas. 1917E, 942.

532. Special elections; purpose and calling. Special elections are such as are held to supply vacancies in any office, and are held at such times as may be designated by the proper officer or authority. The board of county commissioners shall be authorized to call a special election at any time for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of the county a proposition to raise money for any public improvement desired to be made in the county.

History: En. Sec. 1151, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 451, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1043.

A special election is one held to supply a vacancy in a public office, or one in which is submitted to the electors a proposition to raise money for any public improvement. State ex rel Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 591, 144 Pac. 162.

Cited or applied as section 451, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 338, 146 Pac. 932.

Necessity of compliance with statutory requirements as to notice of election for issuance of bonds, see note in 18 Ann. Cas. 1137.

533. Election proclamations by the governor. At least sixty days before a general election, and whenever he orders a special election to fill a vacancy in the office of state senator or member of the house of representatives, at least ten days before such special election, the governor must issue an election proclamation, under his hand and the great seal of the state, and transmit copies thereof to the boards of commissioners of the counties in which such elections are to be held.

History: En. Sec. 1160, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 452, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1053.

The governor issued his proclamation giving notice of a general election to be held November 8, 1904, under this and the following section, and omitted therefrom the mention of an election of three judges for the second judicial district, and called for the election of two judges. Upon mandamus proceedings against the governor the relator claimed that three judges should have been mentioned in the proclamation, and that he was elected and entitled to receive from the governor a commission as judge. As it failed to appear that the electors voted for more than two candidates for judgeships, the petition was dismissed. State ex rel. Breen v. Toole, 32 Mont. 4, 8, 79 Pac. 403.

As this section does not impose upon the governor the duty to call an election to fill vacancies other than those in the offices of state senator and member of the house of representatives, and he is not presumed to know what, if any, vacancy exists in any local county office, apparently proclamation by the governor is necessary only when an election is to be held to fill offices for the next regular term, except to fill vacancies in the two offices mentioned. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 591, 592; 144 Pac. 162.

While the provisions of the codes relating to the manner of calling special elections are crude and not in the most appropriate terms to confer the necessary powers upon boards of county commissioners, they are nevertheless sufficient for this purpose. State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 343, 146 Pac. 932.

The governor's proclamation should state the offices to be filled, especially where a state office, such as a judgeship, held by his appointee, is to be filled; but, if the people have actual notice that a judge is to be elected and indicate their choice, no insufficiency of notice, in the governor's proclamation, of a vacancy in that office, in any particular district, or other informality in the election, will suffice to defeat their will, as expressed by their votes. State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 343, 146 Pac. 932.

A statement in the proclamation of the governor giving notice of a general election, that among other officers there was to be elected "also a district judge in any judicial district where a vacancy may exist," was not such a notice of the necessity of filling a vacancy by election as required by this section. State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 343, 146 Pac. 932.

534. Governor's proclamation, contents. Such proclamation must contain:

1. A statement of the time of election, and the offices to be filled.

2. An offer of rewards, in the following form: "And I do hereby offer a reward of one hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any person violating any of the provisions of sections 10747 to 10772, of the Penal Code. Such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of five thousand dollars."

History: En. Sec. 1161, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 453, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1054.

Cited or applied as section 1161, Political Code, in State ex rel. Breen v. Toole, 32 Mont. 4, 8, 79 Pac. 403; as section 453, subdivision 1, Revised Codes, with other sections, in State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 591, 144 Pac. 162; as section 453, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 343, 146 Pac. 932.

535. Publication and posting by county commissioners. The board of county commissioners, upon the receipt of such proclamation, may, in the case of general or special elections, cause a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper printed in the county, if any, and to be posted at each place of election at least ten days before the election; and in case of special elections to fill a vacancy in the office of state senator or member of the house of representatives, the board of county commissioners, upon receipt of such proclamation, may in their discretion, cause a copy of the same to be published or posted as hereinbefore provided, except that such publication or posting need not be made for a longer period than five days before such election.

History: En. Sec. 1162, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 454, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1055.

Cited or applied as section 454, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 591, 144 Pac. 162; in State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrick, 54 Mont. 390, 170 Pac. 942.

536. Election proclamation by county commissioners. Whenever a special election is ordered by the board of county commissioners, they must issue an election proclamation, containing the statement provided for in subdivision one of section 534, and must publish and post it in the same manner as proclamations issued by the governor.

History: En. Sec. 1163, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 455, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1056.

The notice of election does not take the place of the election proclamation. Evers v. Hudson, 36 Mont. 135, 154, 92 Pac. 462.

This section has no reference to elections held for raising money for public improvements. The power conferred in this behalf is exercised under special provisions on the subject, found in that part of the codes relating to county government. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 592, 144 Pac. 162.

In case of vacancies in county offices, boards of county commissioners have the power, and it is their duty to call and provide for the holding of special elections to fill them. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 592, 144 Pac. 162.

Cited or applied as section 455, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 343, 146 Pac. 932; State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrick, 54 Mont. 390, 399, 170 Pac. 942.

CHAPTER 45.

PUBLICATION OF QUESTIONS SUBMITTED TO POPULAR VOTE.

Section 537. Manner of Publication.
538. Same.

537. Manner of publication. Whenever a proposed constitution, or constitutional amendment, or other question, is submitted to the people of the state for popular vote, the secretary of state must duly, and not less than thirty days before the election, certify the same to the clerk of each county in the state, and the clerk of each county must cause to be published in one newspaper in the county a copy of the proposed question to be submitted to the people of the state, once a week for three successive weeks. One of such publications in each of said newspapers must be made upon the last day upon which such newspaper is issued before election.

History: En. Sec. 14, p. 138, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1321, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 531, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 130, L. 1919.

Where the electors had actual notice of and participated generally in a special election held to determine the advisability of issuing bonds for high school purposes, failure of the county clerk to publish in a newspaper the notice required by this section did not avoid the election. Wright v. Flynn et al., 55 Mont. 61, 173 Pac. 421; Leary v. Young et al., 55 Mont. 275, 176 Pac. 36.

Publication of notice for bond issue election, see note in 18 Ann. Cas. 1141.

Necessity of stating singly propositions submitted to voters of municipality, see notes in 2 Ann. Cas. 369; 12 Ann. Cas. 851; Ann. Cas. 1912D, 319.

What objects or purposes may be combined in a single question submitted to the voters of a municipality, see note in 26 L. R. A. (N. S.) 665.

538. Same. Questions to be submitted to the people of the county or municipality must be advertised by publication in at least one newspaper within the county or municipality, once a week for two successive weeks, and one of such publications in such newspaper must be upon the last day upon which such newspaper is issued before the election.

or city, or any subdivision thereof, constitutes such person a taxpayer at such election.

History: En. Sec. 1188, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 469, Rev. C. 1907.

Note.—Since the constitutional amendment granting equal rights of suffrage to women section 468 of the Revised Codes of Montana, 1907, has been omitted from this codification and the last line of section 544 as enacted has also been omitted.

Legal meaning of taxpayer, see note in Ann. Cas. 1914C, 1057.

555. Who may register. Any elector residing within the county may register by appearing before the county clerk and ex-officio registrar and making correct answers to all questions propounded by the county clerk touching the items of information called for by such registry card, and by signing and verifying the affidavit or affidavits on the back of such card.

History: En. Sec. 8, Ch. 122, L. 1915.

556. Elector infirm or residing at a distance. If any elector resides more than ten miles distant from the office of the county clerk, he may register before the deputy registrar within the precinct where such elector resides. If by reason of physical infirmity the elector is unable to appear before the county clerk or any deputy registrar, he may send written notice to the county clerk or to the deputy registrar of such disability, with the request that his registration be made at his residence. Upon receipt of such notice and request it shall be the duty of the county clerk or deputy registrar, as the case may be, to make the registration of such elector at his residence; provided, that no greater sum than twenty-five cents may be charged or received by any officer or person for taking the registration of the elector herein provided for; and provided further, that no officer or person shall be entitled to receive from any county in the state of Montana any charge for expenses incurred by reason of the provisions of this section.

557. Notaries and justices of the peace as deputy registrars. All notaries public and justices of the peace are designated as deputy registrars in the county in which they reside, and may register electors residing more than ten miles from the county courthouse in any precinct within the county. The county commissioners shall appoint a deputy registrar, other than notaries public and justices of the peace, for each precinct in the county. Such deputy registrar shall be a resident elector in the precinct for which he is appointed and shall register electors in that precinct, and shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of twenty-five cents for each elector registered by him. Each deputy registrar shall forward by mail, within two days, all registration cards filled out by him to the county clerk and recorder.

558. Hours of registration—Registry cards—Duty of clerk. The office of the county clerk shall be open for registration of voters between the hours of nine a. m. and five p. m. on all days except legal holidays. Registry cards shall be numbered consecutively in the order of their receipt at the office of the county clerk; provided, however, that electors who are registered upon the registry books in use in any county prior to the passage and approval of this law shall retain upon their registry cards the same number as they have severally had upon such books; and provided also that such electors need not again appear at the office of the county clerk to register, but the county clerk is hereby authorized to fill out from such registry books registry cards for all electors entitled to vote at the time of the passage and approval of this law, transcribing from such books the data called for by such cards. The cards so filled out from the registry books shall be marked "transcribed" by the county clerk, and shall constitute part of the official register, and shall entitle the elector represented by each such card to vote in the same manner as if the card had been filled out, signed and verified by such elector. The county clerk shall classify registry cards according to the precincts in which the several electors reside, and shall arrange the cards in each precinct in alphabetical order. The cards for each precinct shall be kept in a separate filing case or drawer which shall be marked with the number of the precinct. The county clerk shall, immediately after filling out the card index or registry cards as herein provided, enter upon the official register of the county in the proper precinct the full information given by said elector.

If any applicant for registration applies to be registered who has not resided within the state of Montana, or the county or city, for the required length of time, and who shall be entitled to and is qualified to register on or before the day of election, provided he answers the question of the county clerk in a satisfactory manner, and it is made to appear to the county clerk that he will be entitled to become a qualified elector by the date upon which the election is to be held, the county clerk shall accept such registration. If any person applies to be registered who is not a citizen of the United States, but states that he will be qualified to be registered as a citizen of the United States before the date upon which the election is to be held, the county clerk shall accept such registration, but shall place opposite the name of such person the words, "to be challenged for want of naturalization papers," and such person shall not be entitled to vote unless he exhibits to the judges of election his final naturalization papers.

county, may cause his registry card to be transferred to the register of the precinct of his new residence, by a request in writing to the county clerk of such county, in the following form:

My registration number is.....

The county clerk shall compare the signature of the elector upon such request in either case, with the signature upon the registry card of the elector as indicated, and may question the elector as to any of the information contained upon such registry card, and if the county clerk is satisfied concerning the identity of the elector and his right to have such transfer made, he shall endorse upon the registry card of such elector the date of the transfer and the precinct to which transferred, and shall file said card in the register of the precinct of the elector's present residence, or of the precinct to which he has requested that his registry card be transferred, and the county clerk shall in each case make a transfer of the elector's name, together with all data connected therewith, to the proper precinct in the register.

Said affidavit may be sworn to before any officer authorized to administer oaths within the state of Montana. Upon filing such affidavit in duplicate with the county clerk, such elector shall fill out a registry card as herein provided for the original registration of voters, and he shall thereupon be entitled to all of the rights of an elector in the precinct of his present residence, and such registry card shall be filed in the official registry of such precinct in the same manner as an original registry card.

Upon receiving the duplicate affidavits above referred to the county clerk shall file one in his own office, and shall within two days thereafter transmit the other to the county clerk of the county wherein said elector was previously registered. Upon the receipt of such duplicate affidavit by the county clerk of such other county, he shall transfer the registry card of the elector named in such affidavit to the canceled file of said county. Upon receiving the duplicate affidavit referred to in this section, the county clerk shall cancel the name of such elector in the register herein provided for, by drawing a line through said entry in red ink and by indorsing thereon the cause of said cancellation.

The county clerk shall at the same time cancel, by drawing a red line through the entry thereof, the name of all such electors who have failed to vote at such election.

Every citizen of the state of Montana who was engaged in the active military or naval services of the United States during the late war, and was duly registered and entitled to vote at the last general election, and by reason of such service was unable to vote at such election, shall not be considered to have lost any rights by reason thereof, and the provisions of the preceding section shall not apply.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 19, Ex. L. 1919.

564. Duty of county clerk to restore names to registration rolls. The county clerk shall, within ten days after the passage and approval of this act, withdraw from the "canceled file" the registration cards of all persons subject to the provisions of this act, and place such cards in the active precinct registration files, and enter the names of such person upon the proper registration rolls.

Upon the filing of such affidavit, said judges shall enter the name of such person upon the register of voters for such precinct and forward to the county clerk the affidavit so made. The county clerk shall immediately withdraw the registration card of such person from the "canceled file," and place the same in the proper precinct file.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 19, Ex. L. 1919.

566. Close of registration—Procedure. The county clerk shall close all registration for the full period of forty-five days prior to and before any election. He shall immediately transmit to the secretary of state a certificate showing the number of voters registered in each precinct in said county. The county clerk of each county must cause to be published in a newspaper within his county, having a general circulation therein, for thirty days before which time when such registration shall be closed for any election, a notice signed by him to the effect that such registration will be closed on the day provided by law, and which day shall be specified in such notice; and must also state that electors may register for the ensuing election by appearing before the county clerk at his office, or by appearing before a deputy registrar or before any notary public or justice of the peace in the manner provided by law. The publication of such notice must continue for the full period of thirty days. At least thirty days before the time when the official register is closed for any election, the county clerk shall cause to be posted, in at least five conspicuous places in each voting precinct at such election, notice of the time when the official register will close for such election.

Such printed list of registered electors shall contain the name of the elector in full, together with his residence, giving the number and street, or the name of the house, or the section, township and range, as shown by the official register card of the elector, and the registry number. The expense of printing said list shall be paid by said county, city or town, or school district in which the election is to be held. The county clerk shall cause to be posted, not less than thirty days before any such election, as in this act provided for, at least five copies of such printed registry list in at least five conspicuous places within the said precinct, a copy of the list of registered voters herein provided for, and shall retain sufficient number of said printed lists of registered voters in his office as may be necessary for the convenience of the public. Whenever the period during which the official registry is closed preceding any election shall occur during the time within which any elector is entitled to register for another election, such elector shall be permitted to register for such other election, but the county clerk shall retain his registry card in a separate file until the official register is again open for filing of cards, at which time all cards in such temporary file shall be placed in their proper position in the official register.

Whether former section 491 of the Revised Codes is unconstitutional or not, an election in pursuance thereof should be held valid, unless it appears that a sufficient number of legal voters to have changed the result were prevented by such law from casting their ballots. 573. Challenges and action to be taken thereon. At any time not later than the tenth day prior to any election, a challenge may be filed with the county clerk, signed by a qualified elector in writing, and duly verified by the affidavit of the elector, that the elector designated therein is not entitled to register. Such affidavit shall state the grounds of challenge, objection and disqualification. The county clerk shall file the affidavit of challenge in his office as a record thereof. The county clerk must deliver a true and correct copy of any and all of such affidavits so filed, challenging the right of any elector to vote who has been so registered at the same time, and together with the copy of the precinct registers and check lists, and other papers required by this act to be delivered to the judges of election, as in this act provided, and he must write distinctly opposite to the name of any person to whose qualification as an elector objections may be thus made, the words, "To be challenged." It shall be the duty of the judges of election, if on election day such person who has been objected to and challenged applies to vote, to test, under oath, his qualifications. Notwithstanding the elector is registered, his right to vote may be challenged on the day of election by any qualified registered elector, orally stating, to the judges of election, the grounds of such objection or challenge to the right of any registered elector to vote.

It is the duty of the judges of election, when it appears that any elector offers to vote and is either challenged by a duly qualified registered elector, on election day, or if an affidavit of objection to the right of such elector to vote has been filed with the county clerk and the copy of the precinct registers furnished to the judges of election have indorsed thereon, opposite to the name of such elector, "to be challenged," to test the qualifications of the elector and ask any questions that such judges may deem proper, and shall compare the answers of the elector to such questions with the entries in the precinct register books, and if it be found that said elector is disqualified, or that the answers given by such elector to the questions propounded by the judges do not correspond to the entry in the precinct registers, or that said elector is disqualified from any cause under the law, or if he refuses to take an oath as to his qualifications, he shall not be permitted to vote. The judges of election, in their discretion, may require such elector to produce before them one or more freeholders of the county, as they may deem necessary, and have them examined under oath as to the qualifications of the elector.

574. Residence, rules for determining. For the purpose of registration or voting, the place of residence of any person must be governed by the following rules as far as they are applicable:

1. That place must be considered and held to be the residence of a person in which his habitation is fixed, and to which, whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning.

2. A person must not be held to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States, or of this state, nor while a student at any institution of learning, nor while kept at any almshouse or other asylum at the public expense, nor while confined in any public prison, nor while residing on any military reservation.

3. No soldier, seaman, or marine in the army or navy of the United States shall be deemed a resident of this state in consequence of being stationed at any military or naval place within the same.

4. A person must not be considered to have lost his residence who leaves his home to go into another state, or other district of this state, for temporary purposes merely with the intention of returning, provided he has not exercised the right of the election franchise in said state or district.

5. A person must not be considered to have gained a residence in any county into which he comes for temporary purposes merely without the intention of making such county his home.

6. If a person removes to another state with the intention of making it his residence, he loses his residence in this state.

7. If a person removes to another state with the intention of remaining there for an indefinite time, and as a place of present residence, he loses his residence in this state, notwithstanding he entertains an intention of returning at some future period.

8. The place where a man's family resides is presumed his place of residence, but any man who takes up or continues his abode with the intention of remaining, or a place other than where his family resides, must be regarded as a resident of the place where he so abides.

9. A change of residence can only be made by the act of removal joined with the intent to remain in another place. There can only be one residence. A residence cannot be lost until another is gained.

10. The term of residence must be computed by including the day of the election.

630. Penalties.

612. Convention or primary meeting defined. Any convention or primary meeting held for the purpose of making nominations to public office, or the number of electors required in this chapter, may nominate candidates for public office to be filled by election in the state. A convention or primary meeting within the meaning of this chapter is an organized assemblage of electors or delegates representing a political party or principle.

History: En. Sec. 2, p. 135, L. 1889; amd. Sec. 1310, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 521, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1186.

This and the two succeeding sections, recognize systems of conventions and primary meetings held to nominate candidates for public office. Such conventions are meant to be organized assemblages of electors or delegates fairly representing the entire body of electors of the political party which may lawfully vote for the candidates of any such convention. Where, therefore, a judicial district comprises two counties, the nomination of a candidate for district judge by a political party at a county convention composed of delegates of that county alone, without the other having been represented or having an opportunity to participate in the proceedings, such action was a mere nullity. State ex rel. Woody v. Rotwitt, 18 Mont. 502, 506 et seq.; 46 Pac. 370.

Where a political club composed of four hundred members nominated a county ticket at a meeting of some fifty members, and no call for a convention was ever made nor any person ever elected as a delegate to a convention, nor any notice given that a convention was to be held, such proceedings were not those of an organized assemblage of delegates representing a political party within the meaning of this section. State ex rel. Russell v. Tooker, 18 Mont. 540, 543 et seq., 46 Pac. 530, 34 L. R. A. 315.

In the following case the supreme court, without directly citing this section, defined a political convention as "an organized assemblage of electors or delegates representing a political party or principle," and convention representation as "a gathering of electors springing from the electors who compose a political party or adhere to a political principle." Where it appeared that a convention was participated in by twenty-one electors of the county who appeared in response to personal invitation, and after acting as a county convention then proceeded to hold a state convention, no call for a state convention having ever been given or delegates elected to either convention, and no notice published throughout the state or county of the gathering of the new party, the nomination of a county ticket and presidential electors by such convention was a nullity. State ex rel. Metcalf v. Johnson, 18 Mont. 548, 552, 46 Pac. 533, 34 L. R. A. 313; State ex rel. Woody v. Rotwitt, 18 Mont. 502, 46 Pac. 370, affirmed.

A mass meeting in one of two counties composing a judicial district, called without notice, except to those present at the final adjournment of a regular county convention, for the announced purpose of formulating a protest to the action of the convention, has no authority to name delegates to represent the county in a state and judicial convention in place of those named by the regular county convention; and delegates named by such meeting, though recognized and seated by the state convention, have no authority to represent the county in the judicial convention, and a nomination made by it is invalid, because the electors of both counties are not represented. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 383, 392, 62 Pac. 583. See, also, State ex rel. Gilchrist v. Weston, 27 Mont. 185, 191, 70 Pac. 519.

Where a call for a mass convention of electors stated that the object was to organize central committees opposed to corporate rule, and to give the voters of the state an opportunity to vote for men free from corporate control, but failed to state that the convention was to assemble to nominate candidates for any office whatever, it was not a call of the electors of the state to assemble and select candidates for public office. State ex rel. Athey v. Hays, 31 Mont. 233, 236, 78 Pac. 486.

A mass convention of electors can make nominations of candidates for public office only where such convention was called for that purpose. If the convention could not make such nominations because the call of the convention did not set forth such purpose, a committee appointed by the convention was without authority to make the nominations. State ex rel. Athey v. Hays, 31 Mont. 233, 236, 78 Pac. 486.

Partisan nominations of candidates for judicial offices are recognized by this and the next two succeeding sections. State ex rel. Holliday v. O'Leary, 43 Mont. 157, 167, 115 Pac. 204.

Held, that since the primary election law is made applicable only to general elections, fails to provide for the nomination of candidates to be voted for at special elections, and does not repeal prior statutes on the latter subject, this section and section 615, are still in force, and therefore nomination of candidates to be voted for at special elections must be made pursuant to the provisions of either this section or section 524. State ex rel. Reibold v. Duncan, 55 Mont. 380, 177 Pac. 250.

"Primary elections" as elections within constitution or statute relating to elections generally, see notes in 2 Ann. Cas. 251; 16 Ann. Cas. 251; Ann. Cas. 1913A, 702; Ann. Cas. 1918E, 79; 18 L. R. A. (N. S.) 412.

613. Certificates of nomination, what to contain. All nominations made by such convention or primary meeting must be certified as follows: The certificate of nomination, which must be in writing, must contain the name of each person nominated, his residence, his business, his business address, and the office for which he is named, and must designate, in not more than five words, the party or principle which such convention or primary meeting represents, and it must be signed by the presiding officer and secretary of such convention or primary meeting, who must add to their signatures their respective places of residence, their business, and business addresses. Such certificates must be delivered by the secretary or the president of such convention or primary meeting to the secretary of the state or to the county clerk, as in this chapter required.

History: En. Sec. 3, p. 136, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1311, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 522, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1187.

The requirement of this section is evidently designed to guide the proper officer in printing the ballot, so that he may group the candidates and distinguish them by this designation. State ex rel. Kennedy v. Martin, 24 Mont. 403, 406, 62 Pac. 588.

Under this section all convention nominations of one party must be contained in a single certificate, and a separate certificate for each nominee cannot be filed. State ex rel. Galen v. Hays, 31 Mont. 227, 230, 78 Pac. 301.

Conclusiveness of certificate of nomination at primary election, see note in 99 L. R. A. (N. S.) 916.

614. Certificate, where filed. Certificates of nomination of candidates for offices to be filled by the electors of the entire state, or of any division or district greater than a county, must be filed with the secretary of state. Certificates of nomination for county, township, and precinct officers must be filed with the clerks of the respective counties wherein the officers are to be elected. Certificates of nomination for municipal officers must be filed with the clerks of the respective municipal corporations wherein the officers are to be elected. The certificate of nomination of joint member of the house of representatives must be filed in the offices of the county clerks of the counties to be represented by such joint member.

History: En. Sec. 4, p. 136, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1312, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 523, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1189.

An error in the certificate of nomination filed in accordance with this section, consisting of a misnomer in the name of the party which the convention represented, renders such certificate insufficient and void. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 397, 401, 62 Pac. 683.

A district judge is a state officer, but there is no provision in this section requiring the certificate of nomination of such an officer from a district containing only a single county to be filed with the secretary of state. In this regard, therefore, there is no specific provision enjoining any duty upon this officer. In view of the policy of the statute and constitution, however, which appears to be that the nomination and election of officers in any county of the state shall be controlled exclusively by the electors therein and their local officers, the certificate of a candidate for district judge of a district containing only one county is, like that of a county officer, to be filed with the clerk of the county. State ex rel. Doran v. Hays, 27 Mont. 174, 177, 70 Pac. 321.

Referred to, in connection with related sections, as section 1312 of the Political Code in State ex rel. Woody v. Rotwitt, 18 Mont. 502, 506, 46 Pac. 370; cited or applied as section 1312, Political Code, in State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 379, 380, 62 Pac. 493, 51 L. R. A. 958; as section 523, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Holliday v. O'Leary, 43 Mont. 157, 167, 115 Pac. 204.

615. Certificates of nomination otherwise made. Candidates for public office may be nominated otherwise than by convention or primary meeting in the manner following:

A certificate of nomination, containing the name of a candidate for the office to be filled, with such information as is required to be given in certificates provided for in section 613, must be signed by electors residing within the state and district, or political division in and for which the officer or officers are to be elected, in the following required numbers:

The number of signatures must not be less in number than five per cent. of the number of votes cast for the successful candidate for the same office at the next preceding election, whether the said candidate be state, county, township, municipal, or any other political division or subdivision of state or county; but the signatures need not all be appended to one paper. Each elector signing a certificate shall add to his signature his place of residence, his business, and his business address. Any such certificate may be filed as provided for in the next preceding section of this chapter, in the manner and with the same effect as a certificate of nomination made by a party convention or primary meeting.

In the case cited below the court refrained from deciding the question whether, under the section of the Political Code corresponding with the above, a certificate of nomination to be valid must contain the designation of a party or principle, but was disposed to regard it as contemplating simply the candidacy of one not a nominee of a party—an independent or electors' candidate.

When all the statutes were read with relation to the different conditions contemplated, it was not prepared to say that the information referred to in said section necessarily extended to more than the name, residence, business address, and the office for which the candidate was nominated. It was decided that a candidate for district judge could not, by petitions, have his name placed on the ticket of a regular party in existence. State ex rel. Woody v. Rotwitt, 18 Mont. 502, 509, 46 Pac. 370.

Cited or applied as section 524, Revised Codes, in State ex rel. Haviland v. Beadle, 42 Mont. 174, 176, 111 Pac. 720; State ex rel. Holliday v. O'Leary, 43 Mont. 157, 165, 115 Pac. 204; State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 Mont. 582, 584, 144 Pac. 162; State ex rel. Reibold v. Duncan, 55 Mont. 376, 383, 177 Pac. 248.

616. Certificate not to contain certain things—One person not to be nominated for more than one office. No certificate of nomination must contain the name of more than one candidate for each office to be filled. No person must join in nominating more than one person for each office to be filled, and no person must accept a nomination to more than one office.

History: En. Sec. 6, p. 136, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1314, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 525, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1190.

Where the same committee appointed by a mass convention nominated two tickets, composed of different persons as candidates for the same offices, such a proceeding was not only wrong, but illegal, and was within the inhibition of this section. This could not have been done by the convention, nor could it be done by the committee, and the names of such nominees were not entitled to places on the official ballot. State ex rel. Athey v. Hays, 31 Mont. 233, 237, 78 Pac. 486.

617. Certificates to be preserved one year. The secretary of state and the clerks of the several counties and of the several municipal corporations must cause to be preserved in their respective offices for one year all certificates of nomination filed under the provisions of this chapter. All such certificates must be open to public inspection under proper regulations to be made by the officers with whom the same are filed.

History: En. Sec. 7, p. 137, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1315, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 526, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1191.

618. When certificate to be filed. Certificates of nomination to be filed with the secretary of state must be filed not more than sixty days and not less than thirty days before the day fixed by law for the election. Certificates of nomination herein directed to be filed with the county clerk must be filed not more than sixty days and not less than twenty days before the election; certificates of the nomination of candidates for municipal offices must be filed with the clerks of the respective municipal corporations not more than thirty days and not less than three days previous to the day of election; but the provisions of this section shall not be held to apply to nominations for special elections to fill vacancies.

History: En. Sec. 8, p. 137, L. 1889; amd. Sec. 1316, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 527, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1192.

This section, requiring certificates of nomination to be filed with the secretary of state not more than sixty nor less than thirty days before election, is mandatory, and a certificate of original nominations made by a party convention cannot be filed less than thirty days before election. State ex rel. Galen v. Hays, 31 Mont. 227, 230, 78 Pac. 301.

Construction of provision in primary election law with respect to time of filing certificate of nomination, see note in Ann. Cas. 1914A, 1135.

619. Secretary of state to certify to county clerk names of persons nominated. Not less than twenty nor more than thirty days before an election to fill any public office, the secretary of state must certify to the county clerk of each county, within which any of the electors may by law vote for candidates for such office, the name and description of each person nominated, as specified in the certificates of nomination filed with the secretary of state.

History: En. Sec. 9, p. 137, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1317, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 528, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1193.

It is by means of the certificate mentioned in this section that the county clerk is informed how to prepare the official ballot for the electors. The secretary of state cannot certify a candidate nominated by electors, as the candidate of a political party, for clearly he is not such a candidate and has no place in a group of candidates certified as nominated by a regular political party convention or organization, under the name of the party making such nomination. State ex rel. Woody v. Rotwitt, 18 Mont. 502, 510, 511, 46 Pac. 370.

Cited or applied as section 1317, Political Code, in State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 379, 380, 62 Pac. 493, 51 L. R. A. 958.

620. Candidate may decline ten days before election—In municipal election, two days. Whenever any person nominated for public office, as in this chapter provided, shall at least ten days before election, except in the case of municipal elections, in writing, signed by him, notify the officer with whom the certificate nominating him is by this chapter to be filed, that he declines such nomination, such nomination shall be void. In municipal elections, such declination must be made at least two days before the election.

An election will not be declared void by reason of non-prejudicial defects in the nominating certificate. Stackpole v. Hallahan, 16 Mont. 40, 51 et seq., 40 Pac. 80, 28 L. R. A. 502.

Referred to as section 1319 of the Political Code in State ex rel. Kennedy v. Martin, 24 Mont. 403, 408, 62 Pac. 588.

Refusal to have one's name placed on primary ballot, see note in L. R. A. 1916E, 709.

621. Vacancies may be filled by further certificates. If any person so nominated dies before the printing of the tickets, or declines the nomination as in this chapter provided, or if any certificate of nomination is or becomes insufficient or inoperative from any cause, the vacancy or vacancies thus occasioned may be filled in the manner required for original nomination. If the original nomination was made by a party convention which had delegated to a committee the power to fill vacancies, such committee may, upon the occurring of such vacancies, proceed to fill the same. The chairman and secretary of such committee must thereupon make and file with the proper officer a certificate setting forth the cause of the vacancy, the name of the person nominated, the office for which he was nominated, the name of the person for whom the new nominee is to be substituted, the fact that the committee was authorized to fill vacancies, and such further information as is required to be given in an original certificate of nomination. The certificate so made must be executed in the manner prescribed for the original certificate of nomination, and has the same force and effect as an original certificate of nomination. When such certificate is filed with the secretary of state, he must, in certifying the nominations to the various county clerks, insert the name of the person who has thus been nominated to fill a vacancy in place of the name of the original nominee. And in the event he has already transmitted his certificate he must forthwith certify to the clerks of the proper counties the name and description of the person so nominated to fill a vacancy, the office he is nominated for, the party or political principle he represents and the name of the person for whom such nominee is substituted.

This section does not forbid a political convention from appointing and delegating to a committee power to make nominations for office, and a nomination made by such committee after the adjournment of the convention is in effect the act of the convention, and therefore valid. State ex rel. Piggott v. Benton, 13 Mont. 306, 325 et seq.; 34 Pac. 301.

Where a convention of a political party has made a nomination, and authorized its committee to fill vacancies, and there is an error in the certificate of nomination filed, consisting of a misnomer of the party which the convention represented, such error renders the certificate void, thereby creating a vacancy to be filled by the committee as provided in this section, construed as section 1320 of the Political Code. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 397, 399 et seq.; 62 Pac. 683.

This section is silent touching the time within which must be filed the certificate of nomination made by a committee to fill a vacancy occasioned by the insufficiency of the certificate of the original nomination. When a convention has made a nomination, and has authorized its committee to fill any vacancy that may occur, the filling of the vacancy by the committee upon the death or resignation of the candidate, or because the original certificate of nomination was or became insufficient or inoperative, may be made at any time before the day of election. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 397, 402, 62 Pac. 683; State ex rel. Galen v. Hays, 31 Mont. 227, 231, 78 Pac. 301.

The inadvertent failure to include the name of a convention nominee for a certain office in the certificate of nominations renders the certificate insufficient, within the meaning of this section, and entitles the proper committee to fill the vacancy. State ex rel. Galen v. Hays, 31 Mont. 227, 231, 78 Pac. 301.

Referred to as section 1320 of the Political Code in State ex rel. Kennedy v. Martin, 24 Mont. 403, 408, 62 Pac. 588.

622. Errors, how corrected. Whenever it appears by affidavit that an error or omission has occurred in the publication of the name or description of a candidate nominated for office, or in the printing of the ballots, the district court of the county may, upon application of any elector, by order require the county or municipal clerk to correct such error, or to show cause why such error should not be corrected.

History: En. Sec. 19, p. 140, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1322, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 532, Rev. C. 1907.

This section contemplates and authorizes the institution of proceedings to cure, not alone clerical omissions or errors, but likewise extends to instances of defects by way of omissions of names of candidates from the ballot, as well as to erroneous insertions of names of persons as candidates who are not in fact entitled to be so regarded, and whose names, unless stricken off the official ballot, will be erroneously printed thereon. State ex rel. Brooks v. Fransham, 19 Mont. 273, 288, 48 Pac. 1.

Cited or applied as section 1322, Political Code, in State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 Mont. 383, 392, 62 Pac. 583.

623. Qualification of voter at primary election. No person shall be entitled to vote at any caucus, primary meeting, or election, held by any political party, except he be an elector of the state and county within which such caucus, primary meeting, or election is held, and a legal resident of the precinct or district within which such caucus, primary meeting, or election is held, and the limits of which said precinct or district are fixed and prescribed by the regularly chosen and recognized representatives of the party issuing the call for such caucus, primary meeting, or election.

History: En. Sec. 1330, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 533, Rev. C. 107.

Note.—In State ex rel. Reibold v. Duncan, 55 Mont. 380, it was held that sections 521 et seq., Rev. C. 1907 (Secs. 612 to 630 of this code), are still in effect for purposes of special elections. There is a question as to whether sections 533 to 540, Rev. C. 1907 (Secs. 623 to 630 of this code), have not been wholly superseded by the direct primary law. Since it is possible that these sections may now have application to the "conventions or primary meetings" referred to in section 612, this code, they have been retained in the present codification.

624. Who entitled to vote. No person shall be entitled to vote at any caucus, primary meeting, or election, who is not identified with the political party holding such caucus, primary meeting, or election, or who does not intend to act with such political party at the ensuing election, whose candidates are to be nominated at such caucus or primary meeting. And no person, having voted at any primary meeting or election of any political party whose candidates are to be or have been nominated, shall be permitted to vote at the primary meeting or election of any other political party whose candidates are to be or have been nominated and to be voted for at the same general or special election.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1331, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 1, p. 115, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 534, Rev. C. 1907.

625. Judges. Three judges, who shall be legal voters in the precinct where such caucus or primary meeting is held, shall be chosen by the qualified voters of said precinct or district, who are present at the opening of such caucus or primary meeting, and said judges shall be empowered to administer oaths and affirmations, and they shall decide all questions relating to the qualifications of those voting or offering to vote at such caucus or primary meeting, and they shall correctly count all votes cast and certify the results of the same.

History: En. Sec. 1332, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 535, Rev. C. 1907.

626. Clerk. The judges shall select one of their number who shall act as clerk, and the clerk must keep a true record of each and every person voting, with their residence, giving the street and number and postoffice address.

History: En. Sec. 1333, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 536, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1229.

627. Challenges—Oath—Penalty. Any qualified voter may challenge the right of any person offering to vote at such caucus or primary meeting, and in the event of such challenge, the person challenged shall swear to and subscribe an oath administered by one of the judges, which oath shall be substantially as follows:

"I do solemnly swear that I am a citizen of the United States, and am an elector of this county and of this precinct where this primary is now being held, that I have been and now am identified with the party or that it is my intention bona fide to act with the party, and identify myself with the same at the ensuing election, and that I have not voted at any primary meeting or election of any other political party whose candidates are to be voted for at the next general or special election.''

If the challenged party takes the oath above prescribed he is entitled to vote; provided, in case a person taking the oath as aforesaid shall intentionally make false answers to any questions put to him by any one of the judges concerning his right to vote at such caucus or primary meeting or election, he shall, upon conviction be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of not less than one year nor more than three years.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1334, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 2, p. 115, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 537, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1230.

628. Fraudulent voting or counting. It shall be unlawful for any judge of any caucus or primary meeting or primary election to knowingly receive the vote of any person whom he knows is not entitled to vote, or to fraudulently or wrongfully deposit any ballot or ballots in the ballot-box, or take any ballot or ballots from the ballot-box of said caucus or primary election, or fraudulently or wrongfully mix any ballots with those cast at such caucus or primary election, or knowingly make any false count, canvass, statement, or return of the ballots cast or vote taken at such caucus or primary election.

History: En. Sec. 1335, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 538, Rev. C. 1907.

629. Unlawful interference. No person shall, by bribery or other improper means or device, directly or indirectly, attempt to influence any elector in the casting of any ballot at such caucus or primary meeting, or deter him in the deposit of his ballot, or interfere or hinder any voter at such caucus or primary meeting in the full and free exercise of his right of suffrage at such caucus or primary meeting.

History: En. Sec. 1336, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 539, Rev. C. 1907.

630. Penalties. Any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this act, except as provided in section 627, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars, nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than three months nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

History: En. Sec. 3, p. 116, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 540, Rev. C. 1907.

As soon as the clerks and judges have sorted and fastened together the ballots separately for each political party, then they shall take the tally sheets provided by the county clerk and shall count all the ballots for each political party separately until the count is completed, and shall certify to the number of votes for each candidate for nomination for each office upon the ticket of each party. They shall then place the counted ballots in the box. After all have been counted and certified to by the clerks and judges they shall seal the returns for each of said political parties in separate envelopes, to be returned to the county clerk.

History: En. Sec. 5, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

637. Form of tally sheets—Canvass of votes. Tally sheets for each political party having candidates to be voted for at said primary nominating election shall be furnished for each voting precinct by the county clerk, at the same time and in the same manner that the ballots are furnished and shall be substantially as follows:

Tally sheet of the primary nominating election for ..... (name of political party) held at.....precinct, in the county of ..... on the ..... day of ..... 19....

The names of the candidates shall be placed on the tally sheets and numbered in the order in which they appear on the official and sample ballots, and in each case shall have the proper political party designated at the head thereof.

The following shall be the form of the tally sheets kept by the judges, and clerks of the primary nominating election under this law, containing the number and name of each person voted for, the particular office for nomination to which each person was voted for, the total number of votes cast for each candidate for nomination. The tally or count as it is kept by each of the clerks shall be audibly announced as it proceeds, and shall be kept in the manner and form as follows:

The tally sheets shall conclude with the following form of certificate:

We hereby certify that at the above primary nominating election and polling place each of the foregoing named persons received the number of votes set opposite his name, as above set forth, for the nomination for the office specified.

The clerks shall then prepare a statement of that portion of the tally sheets showing the number and name and political party of each candidate for nomination and the office and total votes received by each in the precinct, and shall prepare the certificate thereto, which statement shall be signed by the judges and clerks who complete the count, and shall be immediately posted in a conspicuous place on the outside of said polls, there to remain for ten days.

History: En. Sec. 6, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

638. Poll-books and tally sheets to be sealed and returned. Immediately after canvassing the votes in the manner aforesaid, the judges and clerks who complete the count, before they separate or adjourn shall inclose the poll-books in separate covers and securely seal the same. They shall also inclose the tally sheets in separate envelopes and seal the same securely. They shall also envelope all the ballots fastened together, as aforesaid, and seal the same securely; and they shall be in writing, with pen and ink, specify the contents, and address each of said packages upon the outside thereof to the county clerk of the county in which the election precinct is situated. When the count is completed, the ballots counted and sealed, and enveloped and marked for identification as aforesaid, shall be packed in the two ballot-boxes, and nothing else shall be put into the boxes. The boxes shall then be locked, and the official seal of the board shall be pasted over the keyhole and over the rim of the lid of the box, so that the box cannot be opened without breaking the seal. Thereafter neither the county clerk nor the canvassers making the abstracts of the votes shall break the said seals upon the ballot-boxes, nor shall anyone break the seals on the boxes or the ballots, except upon the order of the proper court in case of contest, or upon the order of the county board when the boxes are needed for the ensuing election.

Every political party shall nominate all its candidates for public office under the provisions of this law, and not in any other manner; and it shall not be allowed to nominate any candidate in the manner provided by section 612 of this code. Every political party and its regularly nominated candidates, members, and officers, shall have the sole and exclusive right to the use of the party name and the whole thereof, and no candidate for office shall be permitted to use any word of the name of any other political party or organization than that of that by which he is nominated. No independent or non-partisan candidate shall be permitted to use any word of the name of any existing political party or organization in his candidacy. The names of candidates for public office nominated under the provisions of this law shall be printed on the official ballots for the ensuing election as the only candidates of the respective political parties for such public office in like manner as the names of the candidates nominated by other methods are required to be printed on such official ballots.

If the candidate shall be unwilling to sign the above statement, then he may sign the following statement as a part of his petition:

Note.—The bracketed portion of the above section is now obsolete.

642. Percentage of electors required on petition. The vote cast by a political party in each voting precinct for representative in congress at the last preceding general election shall be the basis on which the percentage for petitions shall be counted. In the case of any political party not represented by any candidates for any office on the ballot at the last preceding general election, nomination papers must be signed by as many voters as are required in the case of the candidates of the party requiring the least numbers of signatures entitled, as herein provided, to a place on the ballot at such primary. If the nomination is for a municipal office, or for an office to be voted for in only one county, the necessary number of signers shall include electors residing in at least one-fifth of the voting precincts of the county, municipality or district; if it be a state or district office, and the district comprises more than one county, the necessary number of signers shall include electors residing in each of at least one-eighth of the precincts in each of at least two counties in the district; if it be an office to be voted for in the state at large, the necessary number of signers shall include electors residing in each of at least one-tenth of the precincts in each of at least seven counties of the state; if it be an office to be voted for in a congressional district, the necessary number of signers shall include electors residing in at least one-tenth of the precincts in each of at least one-fourth of the counties in such district. The number of signers required on every such petition shall be at least two per cent. of the party vote in the electoral district as above stated; provided, that the whole number of signers required on a nominating petition under the provisions of this law for any office to be voted for in the state at large or in a congressional district shall not exceed one thousand, nor in any other case shall the whole number required exceed five hundred signers. All the leaves or sheets making one petition shall be fastened together before they are forwarded to the proper officers for filing. There shall not be in any petition the name of more than one candidate for nomination. Any elector may sign more than one nominating petition required by this law for the same office. It shall be unlawful for any person to sign another person's name to any petition required by this law. It shall be unlawful for any person to sign any nominating petition required by this law unless he is a qualified elector. Any names or signatures placed on any petition in violation of the provisions of this law shall not be counted in computing the number of signers necessary to make the same a valid and effective petition.

History: En. Sec. 11, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

643. Qualification of petitioners. No person who is not a qualified elector shall be qualified to join in signing any petition for nomination, or to vote at said primary nominating election. But this shall not be construed to prevent any member of any party from signing a petition for the nomination of any independent or non-partisan candidate after the primary nominating election, nor shall it be construed to prevent any qualified elector from signing petitions for more than one candidate for the same office on one party ticket.

History: En. Sec. 12, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

644. Time for filing petitions for nominations. All petitions for nomination under this act for offices to be filled by the state at large, or by any district consisting of more than one county, and nominating petitions for judges of district courts in districts consisting of a single county, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state not less than twenty days before the date of the primary nominating election; and for other offices to be voted for in only one county, or district or city, every such petition shall be filed with the county clerk or city clerk, as the case may be, not less than fifteen days before the date of the primary nominating election.

History: En. Sec. 13, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

645. "Register of Candidates." The county clerk, secretary of state, and the city clerk of towns and cities having two thousand inhabitants or more, shall keep a book entitled "Register of Candidates for Nomination at the Primary Nominating election," and he shall enter therein, on different pages of the book for the different political parties subject to the provisions of this law, the title of the office sought and the name and residence of each candidate for nomination at the primary nominating election; the name of his political party; the date of receiving the first copy of his petition, signed by the candidate; the words he wishes printed after his name on the nominating ballot, if any; the date of receiving his petition; the number of signatures thereon, and the number of signatures required to make a valid and sufficient petition for nomination to said office by his political party, and such other information as may aid him in arranging his official ballot for said primary nominating election immediately after the canvass of votes at a primary nominating election is completed, the county clerk, secretary of state, or city clerk, as the case may be, shall enter in his book marked "Register of Nominations," the date of such entry, the name of each candidate nominated, the office for which he is nominated, and the name of the party making the nomination.

History: En. Sec. 14, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

646. Register of candidates is public record—Disposition of poll-books, tally sheets, ballots, etc. Such registers of candidates for nomination, and of nominations and petitions, letters and notices, and other writings required by law as soon as filed, shall be public records, and shall be open to public inspection under proper regulations; and when a copy of any such writing is presented at the time the original is filed, or at any time thereafter, and a request is made to have such copy compared and certified, the officers with whom such writing was filed shall forthwith compare such copy with the original on file, and, if necessary, correct the copy and certify and deliver the copy to the person who presented it on payment of his lawful fees therefor. All such writings, poll-books, tally sheets, ballots, and ballot stubs pertaining to primary nominating elections under the provisions of this act shall be preserved as other records are for two years after the election to which they pertain, at which time, unless otherwise ordered or restrained by some court, the county clerk shall destroy the ballots and ballot stubs, by fire, without any one inspecting the same.

History: En. Sec. 15, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

647. Vacancies in nominations, how filled. The provisions of sections 620 and 621 of this code shall apply to nominations, or petitions for nominations, made under the provisions of this law, in case of the death of the candidate or his removal from the state or his county or electoral district before the date of the ensuing election, but in no other case. In case of any such vacancy by death or removal from the state, or from the county or electoral district, such vacancy may be filled by the committee which has been given power by the political party or this law to fill such vacancies substantially in the manner provided by said sections 620 and 621 of this code.

History: En. Sec. 16, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

Neither this section nor section 32 of the primary election law empowers a county central committee to make an original nomination of a candidate to an office to be filled at a special election, the officer-elect having died soon after election and before induction into office. State ex rel. Smith v. Duncan, 55 Mont. 376, 177 Pac. 248.

When does vacancy in party ticket occur within statute authorizing filling of vacancies, see note in 41 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1088.

648. Arrangement and notice of nominations. Not more than twenty days and not less than seventeen days before the day fixed by law for the primary nominating election the secretary of state shall arrange, in the manner provided by this law, for the arrangement of the names and other information upon the ballots, all the names of and information concerning all the candidates for nomination contained in the valid petitions for nomination which have been filed with him in accordance with the provisions of this law, and he shall forthwith certify the same under the seal of the state, and file the same in his office, and make and transmit a duplicate thereof by registered letter to the county clerk of each county in the state, and he shall also post a duplicate thereof in a conspicuous place in his office and keep the same posted until after said primary nominating election has taken place. In case of emergency the secretary of state may transmit such duplicate by telegraph.

History: En. Sec. 17, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

649. Arrangement of ballots and notice. Not more than fifteen days and not less than twelve days before the day fixed by law for the primary nominating election, the county clerk of each county, or the city clerk of each city, as the case may be, subject to the provisions of this law, shall arrange in the manner provided by this law for the arrangement of the names and other information concerning all the candidates and parties named in the valid petitions for nomination which have been filed with him and those which have been certified to him by the secretary of state, in accordance with the provisions of this law; and he shall forthwith certify the same under the official seal of his office, and file the same in his office, and make and post a duplicate thereof in a conspicuous place in his office, and keep the same posted until after the primary nominating election has taken place; and he shall forthwith proceed and cause to be printed, according to law, the colored sample ballots and the official voting ballots required by this law.

History: En. Sec. 18, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

650. Ballots printed and furnished by county clerk. All blanks, ballots, poll-books and other supplies to be used at any primaries shall be provided, and all expenses necessarily incurred in the preparation for, or conducting such primaries shall be paid out of the treasury of the county in the same manner and by the same officers as in the case of elections. Not later than one day next preceding any primary the county clerk must furnish one of the judges of the primaries in each precinct with a copy of the official register and a check list for the precinct.

History: En. Sec. 19, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

651. Ballots, how arranged, printed and voted. At all primaries there shall be a ballot made up of the several party tickets herein provided for, each of which shall be printed on a separate sheet of white paper, all of which shall be of the same size, and all shall be securely fastened together at the top and folded, provided that there shall be as many separate tickets as there are parties entitled to participate in said primary election.

The names of all candidates shall be arranged alphabetically according to surnames, under the appropriate title of the respective officers, and under the proper party designation upon the party ticket. If any elector write upon his ticket the name of any person who is a candidate for the same office upon some other ticket than that upon which his name is so written, this ballot shall be counted for such person only as a candidate of the party upon whose ticket his name is written, and shall in no case be counted for such person as a candidate upon any other ticket. In case any person is nominated, as provided in this act, upon more than one ticket, he shall forthwith file with the secretary of state or county clerk a written declaration indicating the party designation under which his name is to be printed on the official ballot, for the primary election, failing in which his name shall be printed upon the party ticket for which the greater number of nominating signatures have been filed for such candidate and no candidate shall have his name printed on more than one ticket. The ballots with the endorsements shall be printed on white paper in substantially the form of the Australian ballot used in general elections, except that the candidates of each party shall be printed on a separate sheet. After preparing his ballot, the elector shall detach the same from the remaining tickets and fold it so that its face will be concealed and the official stamp thereon seen. The remaining tickets attached together shall be folded in like manner by the elector who shall thereupon, without leaving the polling-place, vote the marked ballot forthwith, and deposit the remaining tickets in the separate ballot-box to be marked and designated as the blank ballot-box. Immediately after the canvass the judges of election shall without examination destroy the tickets deposited in the blank ballot-box.

History: En. Sec. 20, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

652. Official and sample ballots—Preparation and number. There shall be provided and furnished at each primary nominating election for each election precinct for each voter at least two official ballots intended to be voted, and a like number of the colored sample ballots. The sample ballots shall be duplicate impressions of the official ballots to be voted, but in no case shall they be white, nor shall the sample ballots have perforated stubs, nor shall they have the same margin either at the top or sides or bottom, as the official voting ballots have, or nearer thereto than twelve points. These colored sample ballots shall be furnished as soon as printed, at any time before the primary nominating election by the respective county or city clerks in reasonable quantities, to all electors applying for the same; and on the day of said election, under the direction and control of the judges at each polling-place, said colored sample ballots shall be given in proper quantities to all electors applying for them.

History: En. Sec. 21, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

653. Names of candidates for United States senator to be placed on ballots. At all general primary nominating elections next preceding the election of a senator in congress by the legislature of Montana there shall be placed upon the official primary nominating election ballots, by each of the county clerks and clerks of the county board, the names of all candidates for the office of senator in congress, for whose nominations petitions have been duly made and filed under the provisions of this law, the votes for which candidates shall be counted and certified to by the election judges and clerks in the same manner as the votes for other candidates; and records of the vote for such candidates shall be made out and sworn to by the board of canvassers of each county of the state and returned to the secretary of state at the time and in like manner as they shall transmit other records and returns required by this law.

History: En. Sec. 22, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

654. Canvass of returns. On the third day after the close of any primary nominating election, or sooner if all the returns be received, the county clerk, taking to his assistance two justices of the peace of the county of different political parties, if practicable, shall proceed to open said returns and make abstracts of the votes. Such abstracts of votes for nominations for governer and for senator in congress shall be on one separate sheet for each political party, and shall be immediately transmitted to the secretary of state in like manner as other election returns are transmitted to him. Such abstract of votes for nomination of each party for lieutenant-governer, secretary of state, attorney-general, state auditor, superintendent of public instruction, railroad commissioners, clerk of the supreme court, state treasurer, justices of the supreme court, members of congress, judges of the district court, and members of the legislative assembly, who are to be nominated from a district composed of more than one county, shall be on one sheet, separately for each political party, and shall be forthwith transmitted to the secretary of state, as required by the following section. The abstract of votes for county and precinct offices shall be on another sheet separately for each political party; and it shall be the duty of said clerk immediately to certify the nomination for each party and enter upon his register of nominations the name of each of the persons having the highest number of votes for nomination as candidates for members of the legislative assembly, county, and precinct offices, respectively, and to notify by mail each person who is so nominated; provided, that when a tie shall exist between two or more persons for the same nomination by reason of said two or more persons having an equal and the highest number of votes for nomination by one party to one and the same office, the county clerk shall give notice to the several persons so having the highest and equal number of votes to attend at his office at a time to be appointed by said clerk, who shall then and there proceed publicly to decide by lot which of the persons so having an equal number of votes shall be declared nominated by his party; and said clerk shall forthwith enter upon his register of nominations the name of the persons thus duly nominated, in like manner as though he had received the highest number of the votes of his party for that nomination; and it shall be the duty of the county clerk of every county, on receipt of the returns of any general primary nominating election, to make out his certificate stating therein the compensation to which the judges and clerks of election may be entitled for their services, and lay the same before the county board of county commissioners at its next term, and the said board shall order the compensation aforesaid to be paid out of the county treasury. In all primary nominating elections in this state, under the provisions of this law, the person having the highest number of votes for nomination to any office shall be deemed to have been nominated by his political party for that office.

Each committeeman shall hold such position for the term of two years from the date of the first meeting of said committee immediately following their election. In case of a vacancy happening on account of death, resignation, removal from the precinct, or otherwise, the remaining members of said county committee may select a committeeman to fill the vacancy and he shall be a resident of the precinct in which the vacancy occurred. Said county and city central committees shall have the power to make rules and regulations for the government of their respective political parties in each county and city, not inconsistent with any of the provisions of this law, and to elect the county member of the state central committee, and of the members of the congressional committee, and said committees shall have the same power to fill all vacancies and make rules in their jurisdiction that the county committees have to fill county vacancies and make rules. Said county and city central committees shall have the power to make nominations to fill vacancies occurring among the candidates of their respective parties nominated for city or county offices by the primary nominating election, where such vacancy is caused by death or removal from the electoral district, but not otherwise. Said committees shall meet and organize by electing a chairman and secretary within five days after the candidates of their respective political parties shall have been nominated. They may select managing or executive committees and authorize such sub-committees to exercise any and all powers conferred upon the county, city, state and congressional central committees respectively by this law.

History: En. Sec. 32, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

665. Penalty for violation of law. If any candidate for nomination shall be guilty of any wrongful or unlawful act or acts at a primary nominating election which would be sufficient, if such wrongful or unlawful act or acts had been done by such candidate at the regular general election, to cause his removal from office, he shall, upon conviction thereof, be removed from office in like manner as though such wrongful or unlawful act or acts had been committed at a regular general election, notwithstanding that he may have been regularly elected and shall not have been guilty of any wrongful or unlawful act at the election at which he shall have been elected to his office.

History: En. Sec. 33, Initiative Measure Nov. 1912.

History: Secs. 671 to 676 were enacted by the people as an initiative measure at the general election of 1912; effective under governor's proclamation Dec. 13th, 1912; Sec. 673 amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 206, L. 1921.

This act cannot be so construed with the direct primary law as to permit the holding of but one election for state and county officers and to nominate presidential electors and elect delegates to national conventions. State ex rel. Taylor v. Duncan, 52 Mont. 69, 155 Pac. 1111.

672. Voters to express preference—Ballots, how prepared and voted. When candidates for the offices of president and vice-president of the United States are to be nominated, every qualified elector of a political party subject to this law shall have opportunity to vote his preference, on his party nominating ballot, for his choice for one person to be the candidate of his political party for president, and one person to be the candidate of his political party for vice-president of the United States, either by writing the names of such persons in blank spaces to be left on said ballot for that purpose or by marking with a cross before the printed names of the persons of his choice, as in the case of other nominations. The names of any persons shall be so printed on said ballots solely on the petition of their personal supporters in Montana without said persons themselves signing any petition or acceptance. The names of persons in such political party who shall be presented by petition of their supporters for nomination to be party candidates for the office of president or vice-president of the United States, shall be printed on the nominating official ballot, and the ballots shall be marked, and the votes shall be counted, canvassed and returned in like manner and under the same conditions as to names, petitions and other matters, as far as the same are applicable, as the names and petitions of aspirants for the party nomination for the office of governor and for United States senator in congress are, or may be by law required to be marked, filed, counted, canvassed and returned.

History: See History of Sec. 671.

673. Election of delegates to national convention and nomination of presidential electors, how made. The members of the political parties subject to this law shall elect their party delegates to their national conventions for the nomination of their party candidates for president and vice-president of the United States, and shall nominate candidates for their party presidential electors at such nominating election, the governor shall grant a certificate of election to each of the delegates so elected, which certificate shall show the number of votes received in the state by each person of such delegate's political party for nomination as its candidate for president and vice-president. Nominating petitions for the office of delegate to the respective party national conventions, to be chosen and elected at said nominating election, shall be sufficient if they contain a number of signatures of the members of the party equal to one per centum of the party vote in the state at the last preceding election for representative in congress; provided that not more than five hundred signatures shall be required on any such petition. A number of such candidates equal to the number of delegates to be elected by each party which is subject to the provisions of this law, receiving, respectively, each for himself the highest number of votes for such office, shall be thereby elected. Every political party subject to the provisions of this law shall be entitled to nominate, at said nominating election, as many candidates for the office of presidential elector as there are such officers to be elected; that number of aspirants in every such party who shall receive, respectively, each for himself, the highest number of votes of his party for that nomination, shall be thereby nominated as a candidate of his political party for the office of presidential elector.

674. Expenses of delegates, how paid—Oath of office. Every delegate to a national convention of a political party recognized as such organization by the laws of Montana, shall receive from the state treasury the amount of his traveling expenses necessarily spent in actual attendance upon said convention, as his account may be audited and allowed by the secretary of state, but in no case to exceed two hundred dollars for each delegate; provided, that such expenses shall never be paid to any greater number of delegates of any political party than would be allowed such party under the plan by which the number of delegates to the republican national convention was fixed by the republican party of Montana in the year 1912. The election of such national delegates for political parties not subject to the direct primary nominating elections law shall be certified in like manner as nominations of candidates of such political parties for elective public offices. Every such delegate to a national convention to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, shall subscribe to an oath of office than he will uphold the constitution and the laws of the United States and of the state of Montana, and that he will, as such officer and delegate, to the best of his judgment and ability, faithfully carry out the wishes of his political party as expressed by its voters at the time of his election.

History: See History of Sec. 671.

675. Campaign books, how prepared and allotted. The committee or organization which shall file a petition to place the name of any person on the nominating ballot of their political party to be voted for by its members for expression of their choice for nomination as the candidate of such party for president or vice-president of the United States, shall have the right, upon payment thereof, to four pages of printed space in the campaign books of such political party provided for by law. In this space said committee shall set forth their statement of the reasons why such person should be voted for and chosen by the members of their party in Montana and in the nation as its candidate. Any qualified elector of any such political party who favors or opposes the nomination of any person by his own political party as its candidate for president or vice-president of the United States, may have not exceeding four pages of space in his aforesaid party nominating campaign book, at a cost of one hundred dollars per printed page, to set forth his reasons therefor.

History: See History of Sec. 671.

676. Space in campaign books, how allotted and paid for. Every person regularly nominated by a political party, recognized as such by the laws of Montana for president or vice-president of the United States, or for any office to be voted for by the electors of the state at large, or for senator or representative in congress, shall be entitled to use four pages of printed space in the state campaign book provided for by law. In this space, the candidate, or his supporters with his written permission filed with the secretary of state, may set forth the reasons why he should be elected. No charge shall be made against candidates for president and vice-president of the United States for this printed space. The other candidates above named shall pay at the rate of one hundred dollars per printed page for said space, and said payment shall not be counted as a part of the ten per cent of one year's salary that each candidate is allowed to spend for campaign purposes.

History: See history Sec. 681.

684. Stub, size and contents. The ballot shall be printed on the same leaf with a stub, and separated therefrom by a perforated line. The part above the perforated line, designated as the stub, shall extend the entire width of the ballot, and shall be of sufficient depth to allow the following instructions to voters to be printed thereon, such depth to be not less than two inches from the perforated line to the top thereof, upon the face of which stub shall be printed, in type known as brevier capitals. the following: "This ballot should be marked with an 'X' in the square before the name of each person or candidate for whom the elector intends to vote. In cases of a ballot containing a constitutional amendment, or other question to be submitted to a vote of the people, by marking an 'X' in the square before the answer of the question or amendment submitted. The elector may write in the blank spaces, or paste over another name, the name of any person for whom he wishes to vote, and vote for such person by marking an 'X' in the square before such name." On the back of the stub shall be printed or stamped by the county clerk, or other officer whose duty it is to provide the ballots, the consecutive number of the ballot, beginning with number "1," and increasing in regular numerical order to the total number of ballots required for the precinct.

History: See history Sec. 681.

685. Uniformity of size and printing. All of the official ballots of the same sort, prepared by any officer or board for the same balloting place, shall be of precisely the same size, arrangement, quality and tint of paper, and kind of type, and shall be printed in black ink of the same tint, so that when the stubs numbered as aforesaid shall be detached therefrom, it shall be impossible to distinguish any one of the ballots from the other ballots of the same sort, and the names of all candidates printed upon the ballots shall be in type of the same size and character.

History: See history Sec. 681.

686. County clerk to prepare ballot, when and how. Whenever the secretary of state has duly certified to the county clerk any question to be submitted to the vote of the people, the county clerk must print the ballot in such form as will enable the electors to vote upon the question so presented in the manner provided by law. The county clerk must also prepare the necessary ballots whenever any question is required by law to be submitted to the electors of any locality, and any of the electors of the state generally, except that as to all questions submitted to the electors of a municipal corporation alone the city clerk must prepare the necessary ballots.

History: See history Sec. 681.

687. Number of ballots to be provided for each precinct. The county clerk must provide for each election precinct in the county one and one-half times as many ballots as there are electors registered in the precinct. If there is no registry in the precinct, the county clerk must provide ballots to the number of one and one-half times the number of electors who voted at the last preceding election in the precinct. He must keep a record in his office, showing the exact number of ballots, with numbered stubs attached, that are delivered to the judges of each precinct. In municipal elections it is the duty of the city clerk to provide ballots as specified in this section.

689. Time of opening and closing of polls. The polls must be opened at eight o'clock on the morning of election day, and must be kept open continuously until six o'clock in the afternoon of said day, when the same must be closed.

690. Proclamation at opening and thirty minutes before closing polls. Before the judges receive any ballots they must cause it to be proclaimed aloud at the place of election that the polls are open, and thirty minutes before the closing of the polls proclamation must be made that the polls will close in one-half hour.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 11, p. 462, Cod. Stat. 1871; re-en. Sec. 11, p. 73, L. 1876; re-en. Sec. 525, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; re-en. Sec. 1017, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 1291, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 515, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1163.

691. Proclamation at closing polls. When polls are closed, that fact must be proclaimed aloud at the place of election; and after such proclamation no ballots must be received.

Validity of ballot cast after time for closing polls, see note in Ann. Cas. 1913B, 166; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1006.

692. Sufficient booths or compartments must be furnished. All officers upon whom is imposed by law the duty of designating the polling-places must provide in each polling-place designated by them, a sufficient number of places, booths, or compartments, each booth or compartment to be furnished with a door or curtain sufficient in character to screen the voter from observation, and must be furnished with such supplies and conveniences as shall enable the elector to prepare his ballot for voting, and in which electors must mark their ballots, screened from observation, and a guard-rail so constructed that only persons within such rail can approach within ten feet of the ballot-boxes, or the places, booths, or compartments herein provided for. The number of such places, booths, or compartments must not be less than one for every fifty electors, or fraction thereof, registered in the precinct. In precincts containing less than twenty-five registered voters, the election may be conducted under the provisions of this chapter without the preparation of such booths or compartments, as required by this section.

History: En. Sec. 22, p. 141, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1357; p. 118, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 548, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1203.

Effect of failure to comply with statute with respect to arrangement of voting rooms or booths, see note in Ann. Cas. 1916E, 917.

693. Elector to cast his ballot without interference. No person other than electors engaged in receiving, preparing, or depositing their ballots, or a person present for the purpose of challenging the vote of an elector about to cast his ballot, is permitted to be within said rail; and in cases of small precincts where places, booths, or compartments are not required, no person engaged in preparing his ballot shall, in any way, be interfered with by any person, unless it be some one authorized by the provisions of this chapter to assist him in preparing his ballot; nor shall any officer of election do any electioneering on election day. No person whatsoever shall do any electioneering on election day, within any polling-place, or any building in which an election is being held, or within twenty-five feet thereof; said space of twenty-five feet to be protected by ropes and kept free of trespassers; nor shall any person obstruct the doors or entries thereto, or prevent free ingress to and egress from said building. Any election officer, sheriff, constable, or other peace officer is hereby authorized and empowered, and it is hereby made his duty, to clear the passageway, and prevent such obstruction, and to arrest any person so doing. No person shall remove any ballot from the polling-place before the closing of the polls. No person shall show his ballot after it is marked, to any person, in such a way as to reveal the contents thereof, or the name of the candidate or candidates for whom he has marked his vote; nor shall any person solicit the elector to show the same; nor shall any person, except the judge of election, receive from any elector a ballot prepared for voting. No elector shall receive a ballot from any other person than one of the judges of election having charge of the ballots; nor shall any person other than such judge of election deliver a ballot to such elector. No elector shall vote, or offer to vote, any ballot except such as he has received from the judges of election having charge of the ballots. No elector shall place any mark upon his ballot by which it may afterwards be identified as the one voted by him. Every elector who does not vote a ballot delivered to him by the judges of election having charge of the ballots, shall, before leaving the polling-place, return such ballot to such judges.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 22, p. 141, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1358, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 1358, p. 118, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 549, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1215.

Cited or applied as section 1358, Political Code, as amended, in Lane v. Bailey, 29 Mont. 548, 560, 75 Pac. 191.

694. Expenses of providing places for election. The expense of providing such places or compartments, ropes, and guard-rails is a public charge, and must be provided for in the same manner as the other election expenses.

History: En. Sec. 1359, p. 119, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 550, Rev. C. 1907.

695. Delivery of official ballots to elector. At any election the judges of election must designate two of their number whose duty it is to deliver ballots to the qualified electors. Before delivering any ballot to an elector, the said judges must print on the back, and near the top of the ballot, with the rubber or other stamp provided for the purpose, the designation "official ballot" and the other words on same, as provided for in section 603 of this code; and the clerks must enter on the poll-lists the name of such elector and the number of the stub attached to the ballot given him. Each qualified elector must be entitled to receive from the judges one ballot.

Where ballots had been delivered to electors by the judges of election with the official stamp apparently in the place in which the law requires it to be, although in reality it was on the stub instead of on the ballot proper, the act of the judges in removing the stamp with the stub—thus leaving the ballot without the stamp—did not render the ballot void. Harrington v. Crichton, 53 Mont. 388, 164 Pac. 537.

Cited or applied as section 1360, Political Code, before amendment, in State ex rel. Brooks v. Fransham, 19 Mont. 273, 287, 48 Pac. 1.

696. Method of voting. On receipt of his ballot the elector must forthwith, without leaving the polling-place and within the guard-rail provided, and alone, retire to one of the places, booths, or compartments, if such are provided, and prepare his ballot. He shall prepare his ballot by marking an "X" in the square before the name of the person or persons for whom he intends to vote. In case of a ballot containing a constitutional amendment, or other question to be submitted to the vote of the people, by marking an "X" in the square before the answer of the question or amendment submitted. The elector may write in the blank spaces or paste over any other name the name of any person for whom he wishes to vote, and vote for such person by marking an "X" before such name. No elector is at liberty to use or bring into the polling-place any unofficial sample ballot. After preparing his ballot the elector must fold it so the face of the ballot will be concealed and so that the indorsements stamped thereon may be seen, and hand the same to the judges in charge of the ballot-box, who shall announce the name of the elector and the printed or stamped number on the stub of the official ballot so delivered to him, in a loud and distinct tone of voice. If such elector be entitled then and there to vote, and if such printed or stamped number is the same as that entered on the poll-list as the number on the stub of the official ballot last delivered to him by the ballot judge, such judge shall receive such ballot, and, after removing the stub therefrom in plain sight of the elector, and without removing any other part of the ballot, or in any way exposing any part of the face thereof below the stub, shall deposit each ballot in the proper ballot-box for the reception of voted ballots, and the stubs in a box for detached ballot stubs. Upon voting, the elector shall forthwith pass outside the guard-rail, unless he be one of the persons authorized to remain within the guard-rail for other purposes than voting.

In an election contest, the court properly refused to count for a candidate ballots marked as follows: (1) Where the cross was placed after the candidate's name and entirely without his party column; (2) where perpendicular lines were drawn through the names in one party column, but no cross was placed before the candidate's name; and (3) where his name was written in one party column, but no cross marked in the square before the name. In neither instance was there a substantial, or any, compliance with the provisions of this section. Carwile v. Jones, 38 Mont., 590, 595, 101 Pac. 153.

In an election contest, the court properly refused to count a ballot for a candidate which was marked by crossing out all the names in other party columns, but which failed to show an "X" before his name. While the intention of the voter is generally a very material consideration, he must express his intention substantially as indicated by the statute. Carwile v. Jones, 38 Mont. 590, 596, 101 Pac. 153.

Where the cross-mark was placed after the candidate's name but within his party column, the ballot was void, since the elector did not substantially comply with the requirement of this section relative to placing the mark before the name. Carwile v. Jones, 38 Mont. 590, 597, 101 Pac. 153.

Any mark within the square before the candidate's name, which can be said to be a crossing of two lines, will answer the requirements of the statute that the elector must place an "X" in such square; and in the absence of anything to indicate a purpose on his part to identify his ballot by the use of a third line within the square, a defect in the mark is not sufficient to vitiate the ballot. Carwile v. Jones, 38 Mont. 590, 598, 101 Pac. 153.

A ballot properly marked, but from which the stub has not been detached by the ballot judge, as required by this section, should be counted; a voter is not to be disfranchised by the errors or wrongful acts of election officers. Carwile v. Jones, 38 Mont. 590, 599, 101 Pac. 153.

A ballot bearing the indorsement: "Voted by H. and M. (judges election) for illegibility of voter," was not void on the ground that the reason given for assisting the voter was not one recognized by law, since section 699, post, does not require the judges to certify the reason for assisting an elector, and the words "for illegibility of voter" were therefore surplusage; and in the absence of a showing why they gave assistance, it will be presumed that they regularly performed their official duties. Carwile v. Jones, 38 Mont. 590, 597, 101 Pac. 153.

Cited or applied as section 1361, Political Code, before amendment, in State ex rel. Brooks v. Fransham, 19 Mont. 273, 292, 48 Pac. 1; as section 552, Revised Codes, in Harrington v. Crichton, 53 Mont. 388, 164 Pac. 537.

Distinguishing marks which invalidate ballots, see notes in 49 A. S. R. 240; 13 L. R. A. 61.

697. Only one person to occupy booth, and no longer than five minutes. No more than one person must be allowed to occupy any one booth at one time, and no person must remain in or occupy a booth longer than may be necessary to prepare his ballot, and in no event longer than five minutes, if the other booths or compartments are occupied.

History: En. Sec. 25, p. 142, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1362, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 553, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1206.

698. Spoiled ballot. Any elector who by accident or mistake spoils his ballot, may, on returning said spoiled ballot, receive another in place thereof.

History: En. Sec. 26, p. 142, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1363, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 554, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1207.

699. Judges may aid disabled elector. Any elector who declares to the judges of election, or when it appears to the judges of election that he cannot read or write, or that because of blindness or other physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, but for no other cause, must, upon request, receive the assistance of two of the judges, who shall represent different parties, in the marking thereof, and such judges must certify on the outside thereof that it was so marked with their assistance, and must thereafter give no information regarding the same. The judges must require such declaration of disability to be made by the elector under oath before them, and they are hereby authorized to administer the same. No elector other than the one who may, because of his inability to read or write, or of his blindness or physical disability, be unable to mark his ballot, must divulge to any one within the polling-place the name of any candidate for whom he intends to vote, or ask or receive the assistance of any person within the polling-place in the preparation of his ballot.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 27, p. 142, L. 1889; amd. Sec. 1364, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 1364, p. 120, L. 1901; re-en. Sec. 555, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1208.

Where it appeared in an election contest that a voter's ballot had been indorsed by the judges of election, as required by this section, it was necessary to show that it could not thereby be identified, in order to let in, as secondary evidence, testimony as to how he voted. Lane v. Bailey, 29 Mont. 548, 560, 75 Pac. 191.

Cited or applied as section 555, Revised Codes, in Carwile v. Jones, 38 Mont. 590, 597, 101 Pac. 153; Gervais v. Rolfe, 57 Mont. 209, 212, 187 Pac. 899.

Assistance of voter at election, see notes in Ann. Cas. 1912B, 109; 40 L. R. A. (N. S.) 535.

700. Manner of voting. The person offering to vote must hand his ballot to the judges, and announce his name, and in incorporate cities and towns any such person must also give the name of the street, avenue, or location of his residence, and the number thereof, if it be numbered, or such clear and definite description of the place of such residence as shall definitely fix the same.

History: En. Sec. 1366, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 557, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1225.

701. Announcement of voter's name. The judges must receive the ballot, and before depositing it in the ballot-box must, in an audible tone of voice, announce the name, and in incorporated towns and cities the judges must also announce the residence of the person voting, and the same must be recorded on each poll-book.

History: En. Sec. 1367, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 558, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1226.

702. Putting ballot in box. If the name be found on the official register in use at the precinct where the vote is offered, or if the person offering to vote produce and surrender a proper registry certificate, and the vote is not rejected, upon a challenge taken, the judges must immediately and publicly, in the presence of all the judges, place the ballot, without opening or examining the same, in the ballot-box.

History: En. Sec. 1368, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 559, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1227.

703. Record that person has voted, how kept. When the ballot has been placed in the box, one of the judges must write the word "Voted" opposite the number of the person on the check-list for the precinct.

History: En. Sec. 1369, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 560, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1228.

704. Marking precinct registry book when elector has voted—Procedure. The judges of election in each precinct, at every general or special election, shall, in the precinct register book, which shall be certified to them by the county clerk, mark a cross (X) upon the line opposite to the name of the elector. Before any elector is permitted to vote the judges of election shall require the elector to sign his name upon one of the precinct register books, designated by the county clerk for that purpose, and in a column reserved in the said precinct books for the signature of electors. If the elector is not able to sign his name, he shall be required by the judges to produce two freeholders who shall make an affidavit before the judges of election, or one of them, in substantially the following form:

State of Montana, }

"We, the undersigned witnesses, do swear that our names and signatures are genuine, and that we are each personally acquainted with ..... (the name of the elector), and that we know that he is residing at ....., and that we believe that he is entitled to vote at this election, and that we are each freeholders in the county," which affidavit shall be filed by the judges, and returned by them to the county clerk, with the return of the election; one of the judges shall thereupon write the elector's name, and note the fact of his inability to sign, and the names of the two freeholders who made the affidavit herein provided for. If the elector fails or refuses to sign his name, and, if unable to write, fails to procure two freeholders who will take the oath herein provided, he shall not be allowed to vote. Immediately after the election and canvass of the returns, the judges of election shall deliver to the county clerk the copy of said official precinct register, sealed, with the election returns and poll-book, which have been used at said election.

Note.—The foregoing section appears as section 576 of this code. It is also printed here because of its application to the subject embraced in this chapter.

705. List of voters. Each clerk must keep a list of persons voting, and the name of each person who votes must be entered thereon and numbered in the order voting. Such list is known as the poll-list and forms a part of the poll-book of the precinct.

History: En. Sec. 1370, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 561, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1229.

706. Grounds of challenge. Any person offering to vote may be orally challenged by any elector of the county, upon either or all of the following grounds:

1. That he is not the person whose name appears on the register or check-list.
2. That he is an idiot or insane person.
3. That he has voted before that day.
4. That he has been convicted of a felony and not pardoned.

History: En. Sec. 1371, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 562, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1230.

707. Proceedings on challenges for want of identity. If the challenge is on the ground that he is not the person whose name appears on the official register, the judges must tender him the following oath:

"You do swear (or affirm) that you are the person whose name is entered on the official register and check-list."

History: En. Sec. 1372, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 563, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1231.

708. Same on challenges for having voted before. If the challenge is on the ground that the person challenged has voted before that day, the judges must tender to the person challenged this oath:

"You do swear (or affirm) that you have not before voted this day."

History: En. Sec. 1373, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 564, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1234.

709. Same on ground for conviction of crime. If the challenge is on the ground that the person challenged has been convicted of a felony, the judges must tender him the following oath:

"You do swear (or affirm) that you have not been convicted of a felony."

History: En. Sec. 1374, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 565, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1235.

710. Challenges, how determined. Challenges upon the grounds either:

1. That the person challenged is not the person whose name appears on the official register; or

That the person has before voted that day, are determined in favor of the person challenged by his taking the oath tendered.

2. A challenge upon the ground that the person challenged has been convicted of a felony and not pardoned must be determined in favor of the person challenged on his taking the oath tendered, unless the fact of conviction be proved by the production of an authenticated copy of the record or by the oral testimony of two witnesses. If the person challenged asserts that he has been convicted of a felony and pardoned therefor, he must exhibit his pardon or a proper certified copy thereof to the judges, and if the pardon be found sufficient, the judges must tender to him the following oath: "You do swear that you have not been convicted of any felony other than that for which a pardon is now exhibited." Upon taking this oath the person challenged must be permitted to vote if otherwise qualified, unless a conviction of some other felony be proved, as in this section provided for the proof of a conviction.

Personal liability of election officer for rejecting ballots, see note in 11 L. R. A. (N. S.) 501.

711. Trial of challenges. Challenges for causes other than those specified in the preceding section must be tried and determined by the judges of election at the time of the challenge.

The county or city or town clerk shall keep a record of all ballots so delivered for the purpose of absent voting, as well as of ballots, if any, marked before him as hereinafter provided, and shall make and deliver to the judge of election, to whom the ballots for the precinct are delivered, and at the time of the delivery of such ballots, a certificate stating the numbers of ballots delivered or mailed to absent voters, as well as those marked before him, if any, and the names of the voters to whom such ballots shall be delivered or mailed, or by whom they shall have been marked if marked before him.

History: En. Sec. 10, Ch. 110, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 10, Ch. 155, L. 1917.

725. Duty of election judges — Poll-lists, numbering ballots and rejected ballots. The judges of election, at the opening of the polls, shall note on the poll-lists, when one is required by law to be kept, opposite the numbers corresponding to the numbers of the ballots issued to absent voters, as shown by the certificate of the county or city or town clerk, the fact that such ballots were issued to absent voters, and shall reserve said numbers for the absent voters. The notation may be made by writing the words "absent voters" opposite such numbers.

The judges shall not allow any names to be inserted in the poll-list on the lines corresponding to said numbers, except the name of the elector entitled to each particular number according to the certificate of the county or city or town clerk, and the number of his ballot. Any so rejected shall be placed together with the voter's application and the absent voter's envelope provided for the purpose by the clerk and recorder or city or town clerk, which shall be sealed and indorsed by the words, "rejected absent voter ballots" numbered....., and shall put thereon the number of the ballots given to absent voters according to the county or city or town clerk's certificate. There shall be a separate inclosing envelope for the ballot or ballots of each absent voter whose ballot or ballots may have been rejected, and such envelopes shall be placed in an envelope together with the other ballots, and shall not be opened without order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

726. Voting before election day by prospective absentee. Any qualified elector who is present in his county after the official ballots of such county have been printed and who has reason to believe that he will be absent from such county on election day as provided in section 716 may vote before he leaves his county, in like manner as an absent voter, before the county or city or town clerk or some officer authorized to administer oaths and having an official seal; and the provisions of this act shall be deemed to apply to such voting. If the ballot be marked before the county or city or town clerk it shall be his duty to deal with it in the same manner as if it had come by mail.

727. Envelopes containing ballots—Deposit in box and rejection of ballot. At any time between the opening and closing of the polls on such election day, the judges of election of such precinct shall first open the outer envelope only, and compare the signature of such voter to such application, with the signature to such affidavit.

In case the judge find the affidavit is sufficient and that the signatures correspond, and that the applicant is then a duly qualified elector of such precinct, and has not voted at such election, they shall open the absent voter's envelope, in such manner as not to destroy the affidavit thereon, and take out the ballot or ballots therein contained, and without unfolding the same, or permitting the same to be opened or examined, shall ascertain whether the stub or stubs is or are still attached to the ballot or ballots, and whether the number thereon corresponds to the number in the county or city or town clerk's certificate. If so, they shall indorse the same in like manner that other ballots are indorsed, shall detach the stub as in other cases, and deposit the ballot or ballots in the proper ballot-box or boxes, and make in their election list and books the proper entries to show such elector to have voted. In case such affidavit is found to be insufficient, or that the said signatures do not correspond, or that such applicant is not then a duly qualified elector of such precinct, such vote shall not be allowed, but, without opening the absent voter envelope, the judges of such election shall mark across the face thereof "rejected as defective," or "rejected as not an elector" as the case may be. The absent voter envelope, when such absent vote is voted, and the absent voter envelope with its contents, unopened, when such absent vote is rejected, shall be deposited in the ballot-box containing the general or party ballots, as the case may be, retained and preserved in the manner by law provided for the retention and preservation of official ballots voted at such election. If, upon opening the absent voter's envelope, it be found that the stub of any ballot has been detached, or that the number thereon does not correspond to the number in the county or city or town clerk's certificate of the number issued to such absent voter, the ballot shall be rejected, and it shall then and there, and without looking at the face thereof, be marked on the back "rejected on the ground of.....," filling the blank with the statement of the reason of the rejection; which statement shall be dated and signed by the majority of the judges. The ballot or ballots so rejected, together with the absent voter's envelope bearing the application, and the said application, shall be all inclosed in an envelope, which shall be then and there securely sealed, and on such envelope the judges shall write or cause to be written (if not already printed thereon) the words, "rejected ballot of absent voter" (writing in the name of the elector). "The rejected ballot or ballots is or are ....." The judges shall designate the rejected ballot as "general ballot," if it be a ballot for candidates that be rejected. If the rejected ballot be a one put on a question submitted to the vote of the electors, the judges shall designate such ballot as ballot question No..... in the certificate on the envelope. There shall be a separate inclosing envelope for the ballot or ballots of each absent voter whose ballot or ballots may have been rejected and such inclosing envelope shall be placed in the envelope in which the other ballots voted or (are) required to be placed and shall not be opened without an order of a court of competent jurisdiction. The county or city or town clerk shall provide and have delivered to the judge of election suitable envelopes for inclosing rejected absent voter's ballots.

729. Voting in person by elector on election day. Any qualified elector who has marked his ballot as hereinbefore provided, who shall be in his precinct on election day, shall be permitted to vote in person, provided his said ballot has not already been deposited in the ballot-box.

History: En. Sec. 15, Ch. 110, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 15, Ch. 155, L. 1917.

730. Procedure when elector is present after marking absent ballot. In case any elector who shall have marked his ballot as an absent voter, as in this act provided, shall appear at the voting place of his precinct on election day, before his ballot or ballot shall have been deposited in the ballot-box, his envelope containing his ballot shall, if he so desires, be opened in his presence, and the ballot or ballots found therein shall be deposited in the ballot-box as hereinbefore provided. If such elector shall ask for a new ballot or ballots with which to vote, he shall be entitled to the same, but in such case his absent-voter envelope shall not be opened, and the judges shall mark, or cause to be marked, across the face thereof, "unopened because voter appeared and voted in person," and then deposit in the said envelope, unopened, in the ballot-box. If the envelope containing the absent-voter ballot shall have been marked "rejected as defective," and deposited in the ballot-box, such elector so appearing shall have the same right to vote as if he had not attempted to vote as an absent voter. If voting machines are there used, he shall vote by machine as other voters.

History: En. Sec. 16, Ch. 110, L. 1915; re-en. Sec. 16, Ch. 155, L. 1917.

732. False swearing perjury; official misconduct a misdemeanor. If any person shall wilfully swear falsely to any affidavit in this act provided for, he shall, upon conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be punished as in such cases by law provided. If the county or city or town clerk, or any election officer, shall refuse or neglect to perform any of these duties prescribed by this act, or shall violate any of the provisions thereof, or if any officer taking the affidavit provided for in section 720 shall make any false statement in his certificate thereto attached, or look at any mark or marks made by the voter upon any such ballot, or permit or allow any other person to be present at the marking of any such ballot by the voter, or to see any mark or marks made thereon by the voter, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by

If such an elector so appears the judges of election shall note in the poll-books and lists the fact of his appearance as well as whether or not he voted in person.

757. State board of voting-machine commissioners. The governor, secretary of state, and state auditor, and their successors in office, are hereby created and constituted the state board of voting-machine commissioners. It shall be the duty of said board to examine all voting or ballot machines in order to determine whether such machines comply with the requirements of this act and can safely be used by voters at elections under the provisions of this act, and no machine or machines shall be provided or used at any election in this state unless the said machine or machines shall have received the approval of a majority of said board as herein provided. Said board may employ two qualified mechanics, who shall be qualified electors of the state of Montana, to examine said machines and assist said board in the discharge of its duties under this act, the compensation to be paid such qualified mechanics not to exceed the sum of ten dollars each for each day actually employed. Any machine or machines which shall have the approval of the majority of said board may be provided for in this act. The report of said board on each and every kind of voting-machine shall be filed with the secretary of state within thirty days after examining the machine, and the secretary of state shall, within five days after the filing of any report approving any machine or machines, transmit to the board of county commissioners, city council or other board of officers having charge and control of elections in each of the counties and cities of this state, a list of the machines so approved. The compensation of the mechanics and all other expenses connected with the examination of any machine shall be paid, or caused to be paid, by the person or company submitting a machine for examination before the filing of the report thereon. The amount of such expenses shall be certified by the state auditor and paid to the state treasurer.

This act is not invalid as in contravention of section 1, article 9, Constitution of Montana, providing that all elections shall be "by ballot," the term "ballot" being employed, not to designate a piece of paper, but a method to insure, so far as possible, the secrecy and integrity of

Use of voting machines at elections, see notes in 2 Ann. Cas. 840; 5 Ann. Cas. 864; 9 Ann. Cas. 275; 12 Ann. Cas. 474.

758. Specifications of machines required. No machine or machine system shall be approved by the commission unless it be so constructed as to afford every elector a reasonable opportunity to vote for any person for any office, or for or against any proposition for whom, or for or against which he is by law entitled to vote, and enable him to do this in secrecy; and it must be so constructed as to preclude an elector from voting for any candidate for the same office or upon any question more than once, and from voting for any person for any office for whom he is not by law entitled to vote. The machine or machine system must admit of his voting a split ticket as he may desire. It must also be so constructed as to register or record each and every vote cast. For presidential electors one device may be provided for voting for all the candidates of one party at one time by the use of such device, opposite or adjacent to which shall be a ballot on the machine containing the names of all the candidates for all presidential electors of that party, and a vote registered or recorded by the use of such device shall be counted for each of such candidates on said ballot. The machine must be constructed so that it cannot be tampered with or manipulated for any fraudulent purpose; and the machine must be so locked, arranged, or constructed that during the progress of the voting no person can see or know the number of votes registered or recorded for any candidate.

In an action of quo warranto to determine the title to an office, the claim was made that the voting-machines used at an election in one of the counties of the state did not comply with the law which authorizes their use, basing the contention upon the provision of above section, that "the machine must be constructed so that it cannot be tampered with or manipulated for any fraudulent purpose." The provision quoted is, however, to be read in connection with the remainder of the act and, when so read, it becomes obvious that the act does not require a voting-machine which will be proof against all tampering or manipulation, but one which, when honestly operated, will enable an elector to secretly cast his vote as he wishes to cast it and have it counted as cast, and which cannot be tampered with or manipulated in such a way that, though properly operated by the elector, it would seem to receive and record his vote without doing so. State ex rel. Fenner v. Keating, 53 Mont. 371, 381, 163 Pac. 1156.

759. Purchase and use of voting-machines at elections. The boards of county commissioners of counties of the first class shall, and the boards of county commissioners of other counties and city councils of all cities and towns, may, at their option, adopt and purchase, for use in the various precincts, any voting-machine approved in the manner above set forth in this act, by the voting-machine commission, and none other. If it shall be impracticable to supply each and every election district with a voting-machine or voting-machines at any election following the adoption of such machines in a city, village, or town, as many may be supplied as it is practicable to procure, and the same shall be used in such precinct of the municipality, as the proper officers may order. The proper officers of any city, village, or town may, not later than the tenth day of September, in any year in which a general election is held, unite two or more precincts into one for the purpose of using therein at such election a voting-machine, and the notice of such uniting shall be given in the manner prescribed by law for the change of election districts.

History: En. Sec. 3, Ch. 168, L. 1907; Sec. 611, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 6, L. 1909.

760. Payment for machines, how provided for. Payment for voting machines purchased may be provided by the issuance of interest-bearing bonds, certificates of indebtedness, or other obligation, which will be a charge upon such county, city, or town. Such bonds, certificates, or other obligation may be made payable at such time or times, not exceeding ten years from the date of issue, as may be determined, but shall not be issued or sold at less than par.

History: En. Sec. 4, Ch. 168, L. 1907; Sec. 612, Rev. C. 1907.

761. Method of conducting elections. The room in which the election is held shall have a railing separating that part of the room to be occupied by the election officers from that part of the room occupied by the voting-machine. The exterior of the voting-machine and every part of the polling-place shall be in plain view of the judges. The machine shall be so placed that no person on the opposite side of the railing can see or determine how the voter casts his vote, and that no person can so see or determine from the outside of the room. After the opening of the polls, the judges shall not allow any person to pass within the railing to that part of the room where the machine is situated, except for the purpose of voting and except as provided in the next succeeding section of this act; and they shall not permit more than one voter at a time to be in such part of the room. They shall not themselves remain or permit any person to remain in any position that would permit him or them to see or ascertain how the voter votes or how he has voted. No voter shall remain within the voting-machine booth or compartment longer than one minute, and if he should refuse to leave it after that lapse of time he shall at once be removed by the judges. The election board of each election precinct in which a voting-machine is used shall consist of three judges of election. Where more than one machine is to be used in an election precinct, one additional judge shall be appointed for each additional machine. Before each election at which voting-machines are to be used, the custodian shall instruct all judges of election that are to serve thereat in the use of the machine and their duties in connection therewith; and he shall give to each judge that has received such instruction, and is fully qualified to conduct the election with the machine, a certificate to that effect. For the purpose of giving such instruction, the custodian shall call such meeting or meetings of the judges of election as shall be necessary. Each judge of election shall attend such meeting or meetings and receive such instructions as shall be necessary for the proper conduct of the election with the machine; and, as compensation for the time spent in receiving such instruction, each judge that shall qualify for and serve in the election shall receive the sum of one dollar, to be paid to him at the same time and in the same manner as compensation is paid to him for his services on election day. No such judge of election shall serve in any election at which a voting-machine is used, unless he shall have received such instruction and is fully qualified to perform his duties in connection with the machine, and has received a certificate to that effect from the custodian of the machines; provided, however, that this shall not prevent the appointment of a judge of election to fill a vacancy in an emergency.

History: En. Sec. 5, Ch. 168, L. 1907; Sec. 613, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 99, L. 1909.

762. Assistance to elector unable to record vote. If any voter shall, in the presence of the judges of election, declare that he is unable to read or write the English language, or that by reason of a physical disability or total blindness he is unable to register or record his vote upon the machine, he shall be assisted as provided by section.....of the statutes of ..... Any person who shall deceive any elector in registering or recording his vote under this section, or who shall register or record his vote in any other way than as requested by such person or who shall give information to any person as to what ticket or for what person or persons such person voted, shall be punished as provided in section 10753 of the Penal Code.

763. Ballots and instructions to voters. Not more than ten (10) or less than three (3) days before each election at which voting-machines are to be used, the board, or officials, charged with the duty of providing ballots, shall publish in newspapers representing at least two (2) political parties a diagram of reduced size showing the face of the voting-machine, after the official ballot labels are arranged thereon, together with illustrated instructions how to vote, and a statement of the locations of such voting machines as shall be on public exhibition; a voting-machine shall at all time be on exhibition for public demonstration in the office of the county clerk and recorder in the counties where said voting-machines are used, and it shall be the duty of said county clerk and recorder to demonstrate and explain the working and operation of said voting machine to any inquiring voter; or in lieu of such publication, said board or officials may send by mail or otherwise at least three (3) days before the election, a printed copy of said reduced diagram to each registered voter. Not later than forty (40) days before each election at which voting-machines are to be used the secretary of state shall prepare samples of the printed matter and supplies named in this section, and shall furnish one of each thereof to the board or officials having charge of election in each county, city, or village in which the machines are to be used, such samples to meet the requirements of the election to be held, and to suit the construction of the machine to be used. The board or officials charged with the duty of providing ballots, shall provide for each voting-machine for each election the following printed matter and supplies; suitable printed or written directions to the custodian for testing and preparing the voting-machines for the election; one certificate on which the custodian can certify that he has properly tested and prepared the voting-machine for the election; one certificate on which some person other than the custodian preparing the machine, can certify that the voting-machine has been examined and found to have been properly prepared for the election; one certificate on which the party representatives can verify that they have witnessed the testing and preparation of the machines; one certificate on which the deliverer of the machine can certify that he has delivered the machines to the polling-places in good order; one card stating the penalty for tampering with or injuring a voting-machine; two seals for sealing the voting-machine; one envelope in which the keys to the voting-machine can be sealed and delivered to the election officers, said envelope to have printed or written thereon the designation and location of the election district in which the machine is to be used, the number of machine, the number shown on the protective counter thereof after the machine has been prepared for the election and the number or other designation on such seal as the machine is sealed with; said envelope to have attached to it a detachable receipt for the delivery of the keys of the voting-machine to the judge of election; one envelope in which keys to the voting-machine can be returned by the election officers after the election; one card stating the name and telephone address of the custodian on the day of the election; two statements of canvass on which the election officers can report the canvass of the votes as shown on the voting-machine, together with other necessary information relating to the election, said statements of canvass to take the place of all tally papers, statements, and returns as provided heretofore; three (3) complete sets of ballot labels; two diagrams of the face of the machine with the ballot labels thereon, each diagram to have printed above it the proper instructions to voters for voting on the machine; six (6) suitable printed instructions to judges of election; six (6) notices to judges of election to attend the instruction meeting; six (6) certificates that the judges of election have attended the instruction meeting, have received the necessary instruction, and are qualified to conduct the election with the machine. The ballot labels shall be printed in black ink on clear white material of such size and arrangement as shall suit the construction of the machine; provided, however, that the ballot labels for the questions may contain a condensed statement of each question to be voted on, followed by the words "Yes" and "No"; and provided further, that the titles of the officers thereon shall be printed in type as large as the space for each office will reasonably permit, and wherever more than one candidate will be voted for for an office, there shall be printed below the office title thereof the words "vote for any two," or such number as the voter is lawfully entitled to vote for for such office. When any person is nominated for an office by more than one political party his name shall be placed upon the ticket under the designation of the party which first nominated him; or, if nominated by more than one party at the same time, he shall, within the time fixed by law for filing certificates of nomination, file with the officer with whom his certificate of nomination is required to be filed, a written statement indicating the party designation under which he desires his name to appear upon the ballot, and it shall be so printed. If he shall refuse or neglect to so file such a statement, the officer with whom the certificate of nomination is required to be filed shall place his name under the designation of either of the parties nominating him, but under no other designation whatsoever. If the election be one at which all the candidates for office of presidential electors are to be voted for with one device, the county commissioners shall furnish for each machine twenty-five (25) ballots for each political party, each ballot containing the names of the candidates for the office of presidential electors of such party and a suitable space for writing in names, so that the voter can vote thereon for part of the candidates for the office of presidential electors of one party and part of the candidates therefor of one or more other parties or for persons for that office not nominated by any party. For election precincts in which voting-machines are to be used, no books or blanks for making poll-lists shall be provided, but in lieu thereof, the registry lists shall contain a column in which can be entered the number of each voter's ballot as indicated by the number registered on the public counter as he emerges from the voting machine.

764. City and county clerks to set up machines for use. The city or county clerks of each city or county in which a voting-machine is to be used shall cause the proper ballots to be put upon each machine corresponding with the sample ballots herein provided for, and the machines in every way put in order, set and adjusted ready for use in voting when delivered at the precinct, and for the purpose of so labeling the machines, putting in order, setting and adjusting the same, they may employ one or more competent persons, and they shall cause the machine so labeled, in order and set and adjusted, to be delivered at the voting precinct, together with all necessary furniture and appliances that go with the same in the room where the election is to be held in the precinct, in time for the opening of the polls on election day; provided, however, that a shield of tin painted black made to conform with the shape of the keys or levers on said voting-machine, shall be placed over the keys or levers not in use on the face of the ballot of the voting machine; said shields to be plainly marked with the words "not in use"; and provided that a space of at lease one row of keys or levers be left vacant and marked "not in use" between the rows assigned to the two parties obtaining the largest number of votes cast at the previous general election; and provided, also that the general ballot used on the voting-machine shall conform in the location of the various parties and the location of the various names of the candidates, with the paper ballots used in the precincts where voting-machines are not in use. Thus the party assigned to the first vertical column on the paper ballot be given the first vertical column or the top horizontal row on the voting-machine; the party assigned to the second vertical column on the paper ballot be given the second vertical column, or the second horizontal row to be voted on the voting-machine. The judges shall compare the ballots on the machine with the sample ballot, see that they are correct, examine and see that all the counters, if any, in the machine are set at zero, and that the machine is otherwise in perfect order, and they shall not thereafter permit the machine to be operated or moved except by electors in voting, and they shall also see that all necessary arrangements and adjustments are made for voting irregular ballots on the machine, if such machine be so arranged.

765. Irregular ballots. In case a voting-machine be adopted which provides for the registry or recording of votes for candidates whose names are not on the official ballot, such ballots shall be denominated irregular ballots. A person whose name appears on a ballot, or on or in a machine or machine system, shall not be voted for for the same office or on or in any regular device for casting an irregular ticket, and any such vote shall not be counted, except for the office of presidential electors, and an elector may vote in or on such irregular device for one or more persons nominated by one party with one or more persons nominated by any one or all other parties, or for one or more persons nominated by one or more parties with one or more persons not in nomination, or he may vote in such irregular device a presidential electoral ticket composed entirely of names of persons not in nomination.

766. Counting the votes. As soon as the polls of the election are closed the judges shall immediately lock the machine, or remove the recording device so as to provide against voting, and open the registering or recording compartments in the presence of any person desiring to attend the same, and shall proceed to ascertain the number of votes cast for each person voted for at the election, and to canvass, record, announce, and return the same as provided by law.

767. Election returns. The judges, as soon as the count is completed and fully ascertained, shall place the machine for one hour in such a position that the registering or recording compartments will be in full view of the public and any person desiring to view the number of votes cast for each person voted for at the election, must be permitted to do so. Immediately after the above said one hour shall have expired the judges shall seal, close, lock the machine or remove the record so as to provide against voting or being tampered with, and in case of a machine so sealed or locked, it shall so remain for a period of at least thirty (30) days, unless opened by order of a court of competent jurisdiction. When irregular ballots have been voted, the judges shall return them in a properly sealed package endorsed "irregular ballots," and indicating the precinct and county and file such package with the city or county clerk. It shall be preserved for six (6) months after such election and may be opened and its contents examined only upon an order of a court of competent jurisdiction; at the end of such six (6) months unless ordered otherwise by the court, such package and its contents shall be destroyed by the city or county clerk. All tally sheets taken from such machine, if any, shall be returned in the same manner. The officers heretofore charged with the duty of furnishing tally sheets and returns blanks shall furnish suitable returns blanks and certificates to the officers of election. Such return sheets shall have each candidate's name designated by the same reference character that said candidate's name bears on the ballot labels and counters, and shall make provision for writing in of the vote for such candidate in figures and shall also provide for writing in of the vote in words. Such return sheet shall also provide for the return of the vote on questions. It shall also have a blank thereon, on which can be marked the precinct, ward, etc., of which said return sheet bears the returns and the number and make of the machine used. Said return sheet shall also have a certificate thereon, to be executed before the polls open by the judges of election, stating that all counters except the protective counter, if any, and except as otherwise noted thereon, stood at "000" at the beginning of the election, and that all of said counters had been carefully examined before the beginning of the election; that the ballot labels were correctly placed on the machine and correspond to the sample ballot, and such other statements as the particular machine may require; and shall provide for the signature of the election officers. Said return sheet shall also have thereon a second certificate stating the manner of closing the polls, the manner of verifying the returns, that the foregoing returns are correct, giving the indication of the public counter, and poll-list, and protective counter, if any, at the close of the election. Such certificate shall properly specify the procedure of canvassing the vote and locking the machine, etc., for the particular type of machine used, and such certificate shall be such that the election officers can properly subscribe to it as having been followed and shall have provisions for the signature of the election officers. The election officers shall conform their procedure to that specified in the certificate to which they must certify. The certificate and attest of the election officers shall appear on each return sheet.

768. Election laws applicable. History: En. Sec. 14, Ch. 168, L. 1907; Sec. 622, Rev. C. 1907.

771. Penalty for violation of duty by judge of election. Whoever, being a judge of election, with intent to permit or cause any voting-machine to fail to correctly register or record any vote cast thereon, tampers with or disarranges such machine in any way, or any part or appliance thereof, or who causes or consents to said machine being used for voting at any election with knowledge of the fact that the same is not in order or not perfectly set and adjusted, so that it will correctly register or record all votes cast thereon, or who, for the purpose of defrauding or deceiving any voter, or of causing it to be doubtful for what ticket or candidate or candidates or proposition any vote is cast, or of causing it to appear upon said machine that votes cast for one ticket, candidate, or proposition were cast for another ticket, candidate, or proposition, removes, changes, or mutilates any ballot on said machine, or any part thereof, or does any other like thing, shall be imprisoned in the state prison not more than ten years, or fined not exceeding one thousand dollars, or punished by both such fine and imprisonment.

772. Penalty for fraudulent returns or certificates. Any judge or clerk of an election who shall purposely cause the vote registered or recorded on or in such machine to be incorrectly taken down as to any candidate or proposition voted on, or who shall knowingly cause to be made or signed any false statement, certificate, or return of any kind, of such vote, or who shall knowingly consent to such things, or any of them, being done, shall be imprisoned in the state prison not more than ten years, or fined not more than one thousand dollars or punished by both such fine and imprisonment.

773. Experimental use of machines—Defective machines. The proper officers authorized by this act to adopt voting machines, may provide for the experimental use of an election in one or more precincts, of a machine approved by the Montana voting-machine commission without a formal adoption or purchase thereof and its use at such election shall be as valid for all purposes as if formally adopted. If from any cause a machine becomes unworkable, or unfit for use, voting shall proceed as in cases where machines are not used, and the county clerk must furnish each voting place with the supply of ballots and other supplies required by the election laws to be used in the case of emergency herein provided for, and in such case only.

ELECTION RETURNS.

774. Canvass to be public and without adjournment. As soon as the polls are closed, the judges must immediately proceed to canvass the votes given at such election. The canvass must be public in the presence of bystanders and must be continued without adjournment until completed and the result thereof is publicly declared.

Cited and applied in connection with related sections in Harrington v. Crichton, 53 Mont. 388, 392, 164 Pac. 537.

775. Mode of canvassing. The canvass must commence by a comparison of the poll-lists from the commencement, and the correction of any mistakes that may be found therein, until they are found to agree. The judges must then take out of the box the ballots unopened except to ascertain whether each ballot is single, and count the same to determine whether the number of ballots corresponds with the number of names on the poll-lists. If two or more ballots are found so folded together as to present the appearance of a single ballot, they must be laid aside until the count of the ballots is completed, and if, on comparing the count with the poll-lists and further considering the appearance of such ballots, a majority of the judges are of the opinion that the ballots thus folded together were voted by one elector, they must be rejected; otherwise they must be counted.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 23, p. 380, Bannack Stat.; re-en. Sec. 23, p. 464, Cod. Stat. 1871; re-en Sec. 22, p. 75, L. 1876; re-en. Sec. 536, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; re-en. Sec. 1028, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 1401, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 573, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1253.

Cited and applied in connection with other related sections in Harrington v. Crichton, 53 Mont. 388, 392; 164 Pac. 537.

776. Where ballots are in excess of names on check-list. If the ballots then are found to exceed in number the whole number of names on the poll-list, they must be placed in the box (after being purged in the manner above stated), and one of the judges must, publicly, and without looking in the box, draw therefrom singly and destroy unopened so many ballots as are equal to such excess. And the judges must make a record on the poll-list of the number of ballots so destroyed.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 24, p. 380, Bannack Stat.; re-en. Sec. 24, p. 464, Cod. Stat. 1871; re-en. Sec. 23, p. 76, L. 1876; re-en. Sec. 537, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; re-en. Sec. 1029, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 1402, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 574, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1255.

777. What ballots must be counted. In the canvass of the votes, any ballot which is not indorsed as provided in this code by the official stamp is void and must not be counted, and any ballot or parts of a ballot from which it is impossible to determine the elector's choice is void and must not be counted; if part of a ballot is sufficiently plain to gather therefrom the elector's intention, it is the duty of the judges of election to count such part.

History: En. Sec. 30, p. 143, L. 1889; re-en. Sec. 1403, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 575, Rev. C. 1907.

Where, from the manner in which a ballot was marked, it was impossible to determine the elector's choice, the ballot was void under this section, and should not have been counted in an election contest. Carwile v. Jones, 38 Mont. 590, 598, 101 Pac. 153.

This section was enacted prior to the provision for a stub at the head of the ballot. The legislature, by providing for the stub to be numbered, and to be removed only at the time of depositing the ballot in the ballot-box, has hit upon an effective method of guarding against fraud and illegal voting, and has insured the deposit of the ballot in the ballot-box, and the provisions of the section should now be construed in the light of the changed conditions. Hence where ballots had been delivered to electors by the judges of election with the official stamp apparently in the place in which the law requires it to be, although in reality it was on the stub instead of on the ballot proper, the act of the judges in removing the stamp with the stub, thus leaving the ballot without the official designation, did not render the ballots void, and the same should have been counted. Harrington v. Crichton, 53 Mont. 388, 396, 164 Pac. 537.

Cited or applied as section 1403, Political Code, in State ex rel. Brooks v. Fransham, 19 Mont. 273, 292, 48 Pac. 1.

Are rejected ballots to be counted in determining total vote cast, see note in 45 L. R. A. (N. S.) 714.

Effect of blank ballots cast, see notes in 3 Ann. Cas. 70; Ann. Cas. 1916B, 121.

778. Ascertaining the number of votes cast and persons voted for. The ballots and poll-lists agreeing or being made to agree, the judges must then proceed to count and ascertain the number of votes cast for each person voted for. In making such count the ballots must be opened singly by one of the judges, and the contents thereof, while exposed to the view of the other judges, must be distinctly read aloud by the judge who opens the ballot. As the ballots are read, each clerk must write at full length on a sheet to be known as a tally-sheet the name of every person voted for and of the office for which he received votes, and keep by tallies on such sheet the number of votes for each person. The tally-sheets must then be compared and their correctness ascertained, and the clerks must, under the supervision of the judges, immediately thereafter set down, at length and in their proper places in the poll-books, the names of all persons voted for, the offices for which they respectively received votes, and the total number of votes received by each person, as shown by the tally-sheets. No ballot or vote rejected by the judges must be included in the count provided for in this section.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 25, p. 380, Bannack Stat.; re-en. Sec. 25, p. 464, Cod. Stat. 1871; re-en. Sec. 24, p. 76, L. 1876; re-en. Sec. 538, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; re-en. Sec. 1030, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 1404, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 576, Rev. C. 1907.

779. Tickets to be strung and inclosed in sealed envelopes. The ballots, as soon as read or rejected for illegality, must be strung upon a string by one of the judges, and must not thereafter be examined by any person, but must, as soon as all legal ballots are counted, be carefully sealed in a strong envelope, each member of the judges writing his name across the seal.

History: En. Sec. 1405, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 577, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1259.

780. Rejected ballots. Any ballot rejected for illegality must be marked by the judges, by writing across the face thereof "Rejected on the ground of .....," filling the blank with a brief statement of the reasons for the rejection, which statement must be dated and signed by a majority of the judges.

History: En. Sec. 1406, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 578, Rev. C. 1907.

781. Poll-books—Signing and certification of. As soon as all the votes are counted and the ballots sealed up, the poll-books must be signed and certified to by the judges and clerks of election substantially as in the form in section 600 of this code.

History: En. Sec. 1407, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 579, Rev. C. 1907.

782. Election returns by judges; how made. The judges must, before they adjourn, inclose in a strong envelope, securely sealed up and directed to the county clerk, the check-lists, all certificates of registration received by them, one of the lists of the persons challenged, one of the poll-books, one of the tally-sheets, and the official oaths taken by the judges and clerks of election; and must inclose in a separate package or envelope, securely sealed up and directed to the county clerk, all detached stubs from ballots voted and all unused ballots with the numbered stubs attached; and must also inclose in a separate package or envelope, securely sealed up and directed to the county clerk, all ballots voted, including all voted ballots which, for any reason, were not counted or allowed, and indorse on the outside thereof "Ballots Voted." Each of the judges must write his name across the seal of each of said envelopes or packages.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1408, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 6, Ch. 88, L. 1907; Sec. 580, Rev. C. 1907.

783. One of the judges to keep certain papers and the ballot-box. The judges must select one of their number to retain, open to the inspection of all electors, for at least six months, the other list of persons challenged, the other tally-sheet and poll-book. The judge so selected must also retain the ballot-box.

History: En. Sec. 1409, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 581, Rev. C. 1907.

784. Custody of election returns. The sealed envelope containing the check-lists, certificates of registration, poll-book, tally-sheets, oaths of election officers, also the package or envelope containing the detached stubs and unused ballots, must, before the judges adjourn, be delivered to one their number, to be determined by lot, unless otherwise agreed upon.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1410, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 7, Ch. 88, L. 1907; Sec. 582, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1263.

785. Delivery to county clerk. The judges to whom such packages are delivered must, within twenty-four hours, deliver them, without their having been opened, to the county clerk, or convey the same, unopened, to the postoffice nearest the house in which the election for such precinct was held, and register and mail the same, duly directed to the said clerk.

History: En. Sec. 1411, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 583, Rev. C. 1907.

786. Filing of ballots and stubs by county clerk. Upon the receipt of the packages by the county clerk, he must file the one containing the ballots voted and the one containing the detached stubs and unused ballots, and must keep them unopened and unaltered for twelve months, after which time, if there is no contest commenced in some tribunal having jurisdiction about such election, he must burn such packages, or envelopes, without opening or examining their contents.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1412, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 8, Ch. 88, L. 1907; Sec. 584, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1265.

787. Keeping returns pending contest. If, within twelve months, there is such a contest commenced, he must keep the packages of envelopes unopened and unaltered until it is finally determined, when he must, as provided in the preceding section, destroy them, unless the same are by virtue of an order of the tribunal in which the contest is pending, brought and opened before it to the end that evidence may be had of their contents, in which event the packages or envelopes and their contents are in the custody of such tribunal.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1413, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 9, Ch. 88, L. 1907; Sec. 585, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1266.

Cited or applied as section 1413, Political Code, before amendment, in Lane v. Bailey, 29 Mont. 548, 560, 75 Pac. 191.

788. Disposition of returns prior to canvass of vote. The envelopes containing the check-lists, certificates of registration, poll-book, tally-sheets, and oaths of election officers must be filed by the county clerk and be kept by him, unopened and unaltered, until the board of county commissioners meet for the purpose of canvassing the returns, when he must produce them before such board, where the same shall be opened.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1414, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 10, Ch. 88, L. 1907; Sec. 586, Rev. C. 1907.

790. Meeting of county commissioners to canvass returns. The board of county commissioners of each county is ex-officio a board of county canvassers for the county, and must meet as the board of county canvassers at the usual place of meeting of the county commissioners within ten days after each election, at twelve o'clock noon, to canvass the returns.

History: En. Sec. 2, p. 299, L. 1891; amd. Sec. 1430, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 588, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1278.

Presumption as to time of alteration in statement of return of votes made by officials, see note in 39 L. R. A. (N. S.) 115.

791. In case of absence certain county officers to act. If, at the time and place appointed for such meeting, one or more of the county commissioners should not attend, the place of the absentees must be supplied by one or more of the following county officers, whose duty it is to act in the order named, to-wit, the treasurer, the assessor, the sheriff, so that the board of county canvassers shall always consist of three acting members. The clerk of the board of county commissioners is the clerk of the board of county canvassers.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 2, p. 299, L. 1891; amd. Sec. 1431, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 589, Rev. C. 1907.

The members of a county board of canvassers do not necessarily embrace the same officers, but are subject to changes which depend upon circumstances, and a writ of mandate, isued to compel such board to reconvene and canvass the returns from an election precinct which they had excluded, is properly directed to the particular individuals comprising the board, describing them by name, and as constituting the board of county canvassers of election returns for a certain county of the state, the particular members of such board at the time in question being the persons against whom obedience must, if necessary, be enforced. State ex rel. Leech v. Board of Canvassers, 13 Mont. 23, 29, 31 Pac. 879.

Referred to in connection with other sections in State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrich, 54 Mont. 390, 400, 170 Pac. 942.

792. Canvass to be postponed, when. If, at the time of meeting, the returns from each precinct in the county in which polls were opened have been received, the board of county canvassers must then and there proceed to canvass the returns; but if all the returns have not been received, the canvass must be postponed from day to day until all of the returns are received, or until seven postponements have been had. If the returns from any election precinct have not been received by the county clerk within seven days after any election, it is his duty forthwith to send a messenger to the judges for the missing returns, who must procure such returns from the judges, or any of them, and return the same to the county clerk. Such messenger must be paid out of the county treasury fifteen cents per mile in going and coming. If it appears to the board, by evidence, that the polls were not opened in any precinct, and no returns have been received therefrom, the board must certify to the same, and file such certificate with the county clerk, with the evidence, if any, who must enter the same in the minutes and in the statement mentioned in section 794.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 3, p. 300, L. 1891; amd. Sec. 1432, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 590, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1280.

Referred to as section 590, Revised Codes, with other sections, in State ex rel. Cryderman v. Wienrich, 54 Mont. 390, 400, 170 Pac. 942.

793. Canvass to be public. The canvass must be made in public by opening the returns and determining therefrom the vote of such county or precinct for each person voted for, and for and against each proposition voted upon at such election, and declaring the result thereof. In canvassing, no returns must be rejected if it can be ascertained therefrom the number of votes cast for each person. The fact that the returns do not show who administered the oath to the judges or clerks of election, or a failure to fill out all the certificates in the poll-books, or to do or perform any other act in making up the returns, that is not essential to determine for whom the votes were cast, is not such an irregularity as to entitle the board to reject the same, but they must be canvassed as other returns are.

History: En. Secs. 4 and 5, p. 301, L. 1891; re-en. Sec. 1433, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 591, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1281.

A county board of canvassers has no authority to inquire into the validity of a certificate of nomination of a nominee for office, and therefore, where the election returns are genuine and properly certified, prohibition will not lie to restrain the board from canvassing such returns and counting the vote cast for such person, as required by sections 4 and 6, pages 301, 302, laws of the second session, upon the ground that the nomination was invalid. Pigott v. Canvassers of Cascade County, 12 Mont. 537, 538, 31 Pac. 536.

The duties of a county canvassing board are ministerial, and such board has no authority to exclude the returns of an election precinct, regularly made, upon the ground that the voting was shown by affidavits to be illegal, and, having done so, may be compelled by mandamus to canvass such returns. State ex rel. Leech v. Board of Canvassers, 13 Mont. 23, 30, 31 Pac. 879. See, also, State ex rel. Breen v. Toole, 32 Mont. 4, 10, 79 Pac. 403; Poe v. Sheridan County, 52 Mont. 279, 288, 157 Pac. 185.

Where a county canvassing board issued a certificate of election to a candidate for the legislative assembly after unlawfully excluding the returns of a particular precinct, and then adjourned sine die, such board may be compelled by mandamus to reconvene and canvass the returns so excluded, and issue a certificate of election to the person shown by a complete canvass to be entitled thereto. State ex rel. Leech v. Board of Canvassers, 13 Mont. 23, 31, 31 Pac. 879.

Returns in the poll-book being left blank, and the certificate thereto not being properly filled in, are not grounds for rejecting returns, nor are they such irregularities as will entitle a board of canvassers to reject them. State ex rel. Leech v. Board of Canvassers, 13 Mont. 23, 36, 31 Pac. 879.

It is the duty of the board of canvassers to procure the check-lists and surrendered lists before rejecting the vote of a precinct as returned by the poll-books alone. State ex rel. Leech v. Board of Canvassers, 13 Mont. 23, 38, 31 Pac. 879.

Cited or applied as section 591, Revised Codes, in Stephens v. Nacey, 47 Mont. 479, 485, 133 Pac. 361.

794. Statement of the result to be entered of record. The clerk of the board must, as soon as the result is declared, enter on the records of such board a statement of such result, which statement must show:

1. The whole number of votes cast in the county.
2. The names of the persons voted for and the propositions voted upon.
3. The office to fill which each person was voted for.
4. The number of votes given at each precinct to each of such persons, and for and against each of such propositions.
5. The number of votes given in the county to each of such persons, and for and against each of such propositions.

History: En. Sec. 6, p. 301, L. 1891; re-en. Sec. 1434, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 592, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1282.

795. Plurality to elect. The person receiving at any election the highest number of votes for any office to be filled at such election is elected thereto.

History: En. Sec. 1170, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 456, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1066.

796. Duty of canvassing board—Tie vote. The board must declare elected the person having the highest number of votes given for each office to be filled by the votes of a single county or a subdivision thereof, and in the event of two or more persons receiving an equal and sufficient number of votes to elect to the office of state senator, or member of the house of representatives, it shall be the duty of the board, under the direction of and in the presence of the district court, or judge thereof, to recount the ballots cast for such persons, and the board shall declare elected the person or persons shown by the recount to have the highest number of votes. If such recount shall show that two or more such persons receive an equal and sufficient number of votes to elect to the same office, then, and in that event, the board shall certify such facts to the governor.

History: En. Sec. 6, p. 302, L. 1891; 593, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 84, re-en. Sec. 1435, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. L. 1909.

797. Certificates issued by the clerk. The clerk of the board of county commissioners must immediately make out and deliver to such person (except to the person elected district judge) a certificate of election signed by him and authenticated with the seal of the board of county commissioners.

History: En. Sec. 7, p. 302, L. 1891; re-en. Sec. 1436, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 594, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1284.

798. Returns for joint members of house of representatives. When there are members of the house of representatives voted for by the electors of a district composed of two or more counties, each of the clerks of the counties composing such district, immediately after making out the statement specified in section 794, must make a certified abstract of so much thereof as relates to the election of such officers.

History: En. Sec. 8, p. 302, L. 1891; re-en. Sec. 1437, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 595, Rev. C. 1907.

799. How transmitted. The clerk must seal up such abstract, indorse it "Election Returns," and without delay transmit the same by mail to the clerk of the board of commissioners of the county which stands first in alphabetical arrangement in the list of counties composing such district.

History: En. Sec. 1438, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 596, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1286.

800. Duty of clerk receiving such returns. The clerk to whom the returns of a district are made must, on the twentieth day after such election, or sooner, if the returns from all the counties in the district have been received, open in public such returns, and from them and the statement of the vote for such officers in his own county:

1. Make a statement of the vote of the district for such officers, and file the same, together with the returns, in his office.

2. Transmit a certified copy of such statement to the secretary of state.

3. Make out and deliver or transmit by mail to the persons elected a certificate of election (unless it is by law otherwise provided).

History: Ap. p. Sec. 9, p. 303, L. 1891; amd. Sec. 1439, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 597, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1287.

801. State returns, how made. When there has been a general or special election for officers voted for by the electors of the state at large or for judicial officers (except justices of the peace), each clerk of the board of county canvassers, so soon as the statement of the vote of his county is made out and entered upon the records of the board of county commissioners, must make a certified abstract of so much thereof as relates to the votes given for persons for said offices to be filled at such election.

History: En. Sec. 10, p. 303, L. 1891; amd. Sec. 1440, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 598, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1288.

802. How transmitted. The clerk must seal up such abstract, indorse it "Election Returns," and without delay transmit it by mail, registered, to the secretary of state.

History: En. Sec. 11, p. 303, L. 1891; re-en. Sec. 1441, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 599, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec 1289.

803. State canvassers, composition and meeting of board. On the first Monday of December after the day of election, at twelve o'clock noon, the state auditor, state treasurer, and attorney-general, who constitute a board of state canvassers, must meet in the office of the secretary of state and compute and determine the vote, and the secretary of state, who is secretary of said board, must make out and file in his office a statement thereof and transmit a copy of such statement to the governor.

History: En. Sec. 14, p. 304, L. 1891; amd. Sec. 1442, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 600, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1290.

804. Messenger may be sent for returns—His duty and compensation. If the returns from all the counties have not been received on the fifth day before the day designated for the meeting of the board of state canvassers, the secretary of state must forthwith send a messenger to the clerk of the board of county canvassers of the delinquent county, and such clerk must furnish the messenger with a certified copy of the statement mentioned in section 794. The person appointed is entitled to receive as compensation five dollars per day for the time necessarily consumed in such service, and the traveling expenses necessarily incurred. His account therefor, certified by the secretary of state, after being allowed by the board of examiners, must be paid out of the general fund of the state treasury.

History: Ap. p. Secs. 12 and 13, p. 303, L. 1891; amd. Sec. 1443, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 601, Rev. C. 1907.

805. Governor to issue commissions. Upon receipt of such copy mentioned in section 803, the governor must issue commissions to the persons who from it appear to have received the highest number of votes for offices to be filled at such election. In case a governor has been elected to succeed himself, the secretary of state must issue the commission.

History: En. Sec. 15, p. 304, L. 1891; amd. Sec. 1444, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 602, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1291.

806. Defect in form of returns to be disregarded. No declaration of the result, commission, or certificate must be withheld on account of any defect or informality in the return of any election, if it can with reasonable certainty be ascertained from such return what office is intended and who is elected thereto.

History: En. Sec. 17, p. 305, L. 1891; re-en. Sec. 1448, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec 606, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1297.

Cited or applied as section 606, Revised Codes, in Stephens v. Nacey, 47 Mont. 479, 485, 133 Pac. 361.

807. Duty of secretary of state to print election laws. It is the duty of the secretary of state to cause to be published, in pamphlet form, a sufficient number of copies of election laws and such other provisions of law as bear upon the subject of elections, and to transmit the proper number to each county clerk, whose duty it is to furnish each election officer in his county with one of such copies.

CHAPTER 61.

FAILURE OF ELECTIONS—PROCEEDINGS ON TIE VOTE.

Section 809. Tie Vote on Representatives in Congress.
810. Proceedings on Tie Vote.
811. Tie Vote on State Officers.
812. Tie Vote on Judicial Officers.

809. Tie vote on representative in congress. In case of a failure, by reason of a tie vote or otherwise, to elect a representative in congress, the secretary of state must transmit to the governor a certified statement showing the vote cast for such persons voted for, and in case of a failure to elect, by reason of a tie vote or otherwise, the governor must order a special election.

History: En. Sec. 16, p. 305, L. 1891; re-en. Sec. 1447, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 605, Rev. C. 1907.

810. Proceedings on tie vote. In case any two or more persons have an equal and highest number of votes for either governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, attorney-general, state auditor, state treasurer, clerk of the supreme court, superintendent of public instruction, or any other state executive officer, the legislative assembly, at its next regular session, must forthwith, by joint ballot of the two houses, elect one of such persons to fill such office; and in case of a tie vote for clerk of the district court, county attorney, or for any county officer except county commissioner, and for any township officer, the board of county commissioners must appoint some eligible person, as in case of other vacancies in such offices; and in case of a tie vote for county commissioner, the district judge of the county must appoint an eligible person to fill the office, as in other cases of vacancy.

History: En. Sec. 1171, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 457, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Secs. 1067-1068.

This section does not in terms declare that a vacancy in office shall occur when there has been no election to the office by reason of a tie vote. In so far as it relates to officers named in the constitution and the authority of the county commissioners to fill vacancies therein, it is invalid. State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 Mont. 37, 40, 77 Pac. 299. See State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 591, 104 Pac. 860.

If there is a clause in the constitution providing that an officer shall hold for a definite term and until his successor is elected and qualified, and the people fail to elect his successor, there is no vacancy, and he is entitled to hold over until the people have chosen his successor in the usual way; but, in the case of judicial officers, whose terms end at the expiration of a definitely fixed period, the words, "and until his successor has elected and qualified," refer to those officers only who were first elected after the adoption of the constitution; they have no application to those chosen after such first election. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 586, 104 Pac. 860.

The provisions of the constitution, fixing the terms of judicial officers, are exclusive, and vacancies occur by operation of law upon the expiration of the terms designated, even where the people fail to elect their successors; hence, if, by reason of a tie vote, there is a failure to elect the successor of a clerk of a district court upon the expiration of the incumbent's term, there is a vacancy which the county commissioners are authorized, under this section, to fill by appointment. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 Mont. 583, 592, 104 Pac. 860. See, also, State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 Mont. 322, 336, 146 Pac. 932.

Effect of tie vote in election, see note in 17 Ann. Cas. 574; 47 L. R. A. 551.

Contest in case of decision of tie vote, see note in 47 L. R. A. 559.

811. Tie vote on state officers. In case of a tie vote for state officers, as specified in the preceding section, it is the duty of the secretary of state to transmit to the legislative assembly, at its next regular session, a certified copy of the statement showing the vote cast for the two or more persons having an equal and the highest number of votes for any state office.

History: En. Sec. 1445, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 603, Rev. C. 1907.

812. Tie vote on judicial officers. In case any two or more persons have an equal and highest number of votes for justice of the supreme court, or judge of a district court, the secretary of state must transmit to the governor a certified statement showing the vote cast for such person, and thereupon the governor must appoint an eligible person to hold office as in case of other vacancies in such offices.

History: En. Sec. 1446, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 604, Rev. C. 1907.

817. Vacancies, how supplied. In case of the death or absence of any elector chosen, or in case the number of electors from any cause be deficient, the electors then present must elect, from the citizens of the state, so many persons as will supply such deficiency.

History: En. Sec. 5, p. 174, L. 1891; re-en. Sec. 1464, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 630, Rev. C. 1907. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1316.

818. Voting of electors. The electors, when convened, must vote by ballot for one person for president and one for vice-president of the United States, one of whom at least is not an inhabitant of this state.

No informality in such certificate shall vitiate the election, if the number of votes received for each person can reasonably be ascertained from said tally-list. Said books and tally-lists shall be returned to the board of trustees of the district, who shall canvass the vote and cause the clerk of the district to issue a certificate of election to the person or persons elected, designating their term, a copy of which must be forwarded to the county superintendent of schools. 1012. Authority to issue warrants before school moneys are collected. School trustees shall have the authority to issue warrants in anticipation of school moneys which have been levied but not collected for the payment of current expenses of schools, but such warrants shall not be drawn in any amount in excess of the sum already levied.

Note.—The above section is a part of section 964 of this code. It is given here because it relates also to the powers of school trustees.

1013. Transfer of apportionment. Any board of trustees must, when pupils belonging in their district are attending school in another district, transfer school moneys due by apportionment to such pupils to the district in which they are attending school, if in the judgment of the county superintendent of schools said children are attending school in another district for a good and sufficient reason.

The board of trustees shall have power to call a special election for the purpose of bonding the district for the erection and furnishing buildings and purchase of school sites, and for permission to sell school property; provided, that in districts of the first and second classes boards of trustees shall have power to change or select school sites.

History: En. Sec. 507, Ch. 76, L. 1913.

1015. Duties of trustees. Every school board unless otherwise specially provided by law shall have power and it shall be its duty:

1. To prescribe and enforce rules not inconsistent with law, or those prescribed by the superintendent of public instruction for their own government of schools under their supervision.

2. To employ or discharge teachers, mechanics, or laborers, and to fix and order paid their wages; provided, that no teacher shall be employed except under resolution agreed to by a majority of the board of trustees at a special or regular meeting; not unless such teacher be the holder of a legal teacher's certificate in full force and effect. All contracts of employment of teachers, authorized by proper resolution of a board of trustees, shall be in writing and executed in duplicate by the chairman and clerk of the board, for the district and by the teacher.

3. To determine the rate of tuition of non-resident pupils.

4. To fix the compensation of the clerk.

5. To enforce the rules and regulations of the superintendent of public instruction for the government of schools, pupils, and teachers and to enforce the course of study.

6. To provide for school furniture and for everything needed in the schoolhouse or for the use of the school board.

7. To rent, repair, and insure schoolhouses.

8. To build or remove schoolhouses and to purchase or sell school sites; provided, that in districts of the third class they shall not build or remove schoolhouses, nor purchase, sell, or locate school sites unless directed so to do by a majority of the electors of the district voting at an election held in the district for that purpose, and such election shall be conducted and votes canvassed in the same manner as at the annual election of school officers, and notice thereof shall be given by the clerk by posting three notices in three public places in the district at least ten days prior to such election, which notices shall specify the time, place and purpose of such election.

9. To hold in trust for their district all real or personal property for the benefit of the school thereof.

10. To suspend or expel pupils from school who refuse to obey the rules thereof, and to exclude from school, children under six years of age where the interest of the school requires such exclusion.

The clerk of the district shall furnish immediately to each parent or guardian a copy of such portion of the above-mentioned report as pertains to his child or ward.

12. To require pupils to be furnished with suitable books as a condition of membership in school.

13. To exclude from school and school libraries all books, tracts, papers and other publications of immoral and pernicious nature.

14. To require teachers to conform to the law.

15. To make an annual report, as required by law, to the county superintendent on or before the first day of August in each year, in the manner and form and on the blanks prescribed and furnished by the superintendent of public instruction.

16. To make a report directly to the superintendent of public instruction whenever instructed by him to do so.

17. To determine what branches, if any, in addition to those required by law, shall be taught in any school in the district, subject to the approval of the county superintendent, in districts of the third class.

18. To visit every school in their district at least once in each term, and to examine carefully into its management, conditions, and needs. This clause applies to each of the trustees.

19. To provide separate privies or outhouses for the use of the sexes at all schoolhouses, where the same do not exist, and to see that the same are kept in good repair, and in a clean condition. Such privies or outhouses must be located and built in such manner as to secure privacy In all cases where there is no fence dividing the play yards of the sexes, the privies or outhouses herein named shall be separate and distinct buildings, and situated at least twenty feet apart, and to require that all teachers and janitors use due care in keeping all toilets in good repair and in clean condition and free from obscenity; provided, that any trustee or trustees, teacher, janitor, or janitors, failing to comply with the provision of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding ninety days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

The school trustees are hereby authorized and empowered to use such portion of the school funds as remain in their hands, and which is not otherwise appropriated, for the purchase and erection of fixtures.

22. To close school at their discretion during the annual session of the state teachers' association, and to allow teachers to attend the same without loss of salary.

History: Earlier acts governing the duties of trustees were the following: Sec. 27, p. 625, Cod. Stat. 1871; re-en. Sec. 26, p. 126, L. 1874; re-en. Sec. 1113, 5th Div. Rev. Stat. 1879; amd. Sec. 6, p. 55, L. 1883; amd. Sec. 1885, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; amd. Sec. 1797, Pol. C. 1895; amd. Sec. 5, p. 130. L. 1897; re-en. Sec. 875, Rev. C. 1907. The above section was enacted as Sec. 508, Ch. 76, L. 1913; subds. 1-10 were amended by Sec. 1, Ch. 61, L. 1917; subd. 11 amd. by Sec. 1, Ch. 61, L. 1917, and Sec. 13, Ch. 196, L. 1919; subds. 12-13-14 re-en. Sec. 1, Ch. 61, L. 1917; subd. 15 was amd. by Sec. 1, Ch. 61, L. 1917 and by Sec. 2, Ch. 81, L. 1917; subds. 16-17-18 re-en. Sec. 1, Ch. 61, L. 1917; subds. 19-20-21-22 re-en. Sec. 1, Ch. 61, L. 1917.

In considering a provision similar to subdivision 8 of the above section, found in the Compiled Statutes of 1887 (Comp. Stat. 1887, Div. 5, sec. 1885), the court was of the opinion that the term "schoolhouse," as used therein, does not mean simply the house, but refers to the school plant, including the general equipment, pupils and teachers, so that the board has no authority to remove the school properties and equipment to another district without being directed to do so by a vote of the people. State ex rel. Jay v. Marshall, 13 Mont. 136, 139; 32 Pac. 648.

Where the legislature has failed to make provision for a uniform series of text-books throughout the state, or to devolve the duty of doing so upon some officer or board, the trustees of a shcool district, under the general powers vested in them, and particularly the power of the board "to prescribe and enforce rules not inconsistent with law, or those prescribed by the superintendent of public instruction, for their own government of schools under their supervision," could prescribe what books should be used, in the schools of the district. Campana v. Calderhead, 17 Mont. 548, 552, 44 Pac. 83, 36 L. R. A. 277.

The provision of section 1797 of the Political Code of 1895, in regard to the removal of schoolhouse and the purchase or sale of school lots when directed by vote of the district, is not only a grant of power to school boards, but also a limitation upon their power, both as to its extent and as to the mode of its exercise, so that they cannot do any of the acts referred to without first obtaining the consent of the electors. State ex rel. Bean v. Lyons, 37 Mont. 354, 362, 96 Pac. 922.

Mandamus is the proper remedy to require the trustees of a school district to determine the location of a site for a schoolhouse, where they arbitrarily remove a school to a site selected by themselves, without consulting the electors; a resident and taxpayer of the school district is a party beneficially interested, and entitled in such case to make the application. State ex rel. Bean v. Lyons, 37 Mont. 354, 365, 96 Pac. 922.

A school board had no power to allow compensation to a teacher for the full period of twelve months, during two and a half months of which time no school work was required and she was left free to engage in other pursuits; a donation of public funds under the pretext of compensation being unlawful. Finley v. School District No. 1, 51 Mont. 411, 414, 153 Pac. 1010.

1016. Letting contracts and furnishing supplies, trustees not to be interested in. It shall be unlawful for any school trustee to have any pecuniary interest, either directly or indirectly, in the erection of any schoolhouses, or for warming, ventilating, furnishing, or repairing the same, or be in any manner connected with the furnishing of supplies for the maintenance of the schools, or to receive or to accept any compensation or reward for services rendered as trustees, except as hereinbefore provided. No board of trustees shall let any contract for building, furnishing, repairing, or other work, for the benefit of the district, where the amount involved is two hundred and fifty dollars, or more, without first advertising in a newspaper published in the county for at least two weeks, calling for bids to perform such work, and the board shall award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder; provided, however, that the board of school trustees shall have the right to reject any and all bids.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1802, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 882, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 32, L. 1909; amd. Sec. 509, Ch. 76, L. 1913.

1017. Liability. Any board of trustees shall be liable, as trustees, in the name of the district, for any judgment against the district for any salary due any teacher on contract, and for all debts legally contracted under the provisions of this title, and they shall pay such judgments or liabilities out of the school moneys to the credit of such district.

History: En. Sec. 1803, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 883, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 510, Ch. 76, L. 1913.

Section 1803 of the Political Code of 1895, corresponding to the above, does not authorize the entry of a judgment against a school district for the unpaid salary of a school teacher, where the district admits the claim, and the only reason that it does not pay it is that it has no funds applicable to the purpose, since until it has funds on hand with which to pay, failure or refusal to pay is not a violation of duty. Jay v. School District No. 1, 24 Mont. 219, 229; 61 Pac. 250.

1018. Misdemeanor—Penalty. When any school officer is suspended by election or otherwise, he shall immediately deliver to his successor in office all books, papers, and moneys pertaining to his office, and such officer who shall refuse to do so, or who shall wilfully mutilate or destroy any such books or papers, or any part thereof, or who shall misapply any moneys intrusted to him by virtue of his office, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine in the discretion of the court, not exceeding one hundred dollars.

History: En. Sec. 1805; Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 885, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 511, Ch. 76, L. 1913.

1019. Limitation on purchase maps, charts, etc. The board of school trustees in any district of the third class shall not issue any warrant for maps, charts, or other apparatus, unless same is authorized and the warrant countersigned by the county superintendent.

History: En. Sec. 513, Ch. 76, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 63, L. 1921.

School districts are public corporations, but their powers are very limited and they can exercise none except such as are conferred by the law creating them, either expressly or by fair implication. Jay v. School District No. 1, 24 Mont. 219, 232, 61 Pac. 250.

A school district is a body corporate, but does not possess the powers of local legislation and control which are the distinguishing characteristics of a municipal corporation. Hersey v. Neilson, 47 Mont. 132, 141, 131 Pac. 30, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 963.

A school district is a public corporation, but with very limited powers. It may, through its board, exercise only such authority as is conferred by law, either expressly or by necessary implication. Finley v. School District No. 1, 51 Mont. 411, 415, 153 Pac. 1010.

History: En. Sec. 1760, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 849, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 403, Ch. 76, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 1, Ch. 69, L. 1917.

1024. Organization of new districts from other districts. New school districts may be organized out of portions of two or more existing school districts, or by a division of an existing district, in the manner hereinafter provided and not otherwise.

1. For the purpose of organizing a new school district out of portions of two or more existing school districts, a petition in writing shall be made to the county superintendent, signed by the parents or guardians of at least ten census school children, between the ages of six and twenty-one years, residing within the boundaries of the proposed new districts, and residing at a greater distance than two miles from any schoolhouse owned by any one of such school districts, and in which a school is maintained, which petition shall describe the boundaries of the proposed new district and give the names of all children of school age residing within the boundaries of the proposed new district at the date of presenting said petition. The county superintendent shall give notice to all parties interested by posting, or causing to be posted, at least ten days prior to the time appointed by him for considering said petition, in at least three of the most public places in the proposed new district, and one on each schoolhouse door of each district affected by the proposed change, or if there be no schoolhouse, then in one of the most public places in each of said old districts, notices of a hearing by him upon such petition, and shall on the day fixed in the notice proceed to hear said petition at the place designated in said notice, which must be either at the courthouse of the county, or else at a schoolhouse in one of the school districts affected, unless a protest in writing, signed by at least a majority of the school electors residing within such proposed school district, shall be filed with the county superintendent of schools before or at the time fixed in the notice for the hearing of said petition, and in that event such new and proposed school district shall not be created. If no such protest be filed, then the county superintendent, upon such hearing, shall, within ten days from the date of such hearing, make an order establishing said new district and describing the boundaries thereof, or make an order denying such petition; and from an order establishing said new district made by the county superintendent of schools, an appeal may be taken by three resident taxpayers of the said proposed new district, or by three resident taxpayers of the remaining portion of an old district, to the board of county commissioners within thirty days, and a hearing had thereon and a decision rendered by said board, which shall be final; provided, that should the county superintendent refuse to make an order establishing said new district, an appeal may be taken by three resident taxpayers of said proposed new district to the board of county commissioners, a hearing had thereon, and a decision rendered by said board, which shall be final; provided, that no school district shall be established which does not contain property of an assessed valuation of at least ten thousand dollars as shown by the last official assessment-roll of the county in which said proposed school district is located; provided, further, that there shall be at least ten census school children left in the remaining portion of each of the original districts, and also a property valuation, as shown by the last official assessment-roll of the county, of at least fifteen thousand dollars. The appeals mentioned in this section shall be in writing, subscribed by the parties taking the appeal, and shall recite sufficient facts to show their rights to appeal hereunder, and that it is an appeal from the decision rendered, and such appeal shall be filed with the county superintendent within thirty days from the date of the order establishing such new district or denying such petition. The county superintendent shall, within twenty days from the filing of such notice of appeal (transmit to the board of county commissioners, and file in the office of the county clerk, the notice of appeal and all petitions, plats, and papers in his possession pertaining to the petition for the creation of such new school district. The county clerk shall forthwith, upon receipt of such notice of appeal and other papers, give notice to all parties interested, by causing to be posted at least ten days prior to the date of the next regular meeting of the board of county commissioners, in at least three of the most public places in the proposed new district, and one on each schoolhouse door of each district affected by the proposed change, or if there be no schoolhouse, then in one of the most public places in each of said old districts, notices to the effect that the board of county commissioners will, at its office in the courthouse upon a certain date, specifying the same in such notices, which date shall be during the next regular session of the board, finally hear and determine said appeal and said petition for the creation of such new district.

A petition for the creation of a new school district under sections 1026 et seq. is not a pleading, the contents of which are subject to critical legal analysis to determine its sufficiency; but is sufficient to confer jurisdiction upon the board of school trustees if it clearly indicates the desire of a majority of the school electors residing in the proposed new district for segregation, and describes its boundaries. State ex rel. Hall v. Peterson et al., 55 Mont. 355, 177 Pac. 245.

Who may petition in relation to organization of school district, see note in 43 L. R. A. (N. S.) 293.

Who may maintain quo warranto to test validity of organization of school district, see note in 21 L. R. A. (N. S.) 685.

Meaning of term "adjacent" in statute providing for annexation of territory to school district, see note in Ann. Cas. 1913B, 171.

1025. Same—Organization from part of existing district—Incorporated cities not included. For the purpose of organizing a new school district entirely out of a portion of an existing school district, in case such existing school district has a schoolhouse owned by the district and in which school is maintained, a petition in writing shall be made to the board of trustees of said school district, signed by a majority of the school electors of that portion of said school district out of which they desire to create a new school district, which petition shall describe the boundaries of the proposed new district and give the names of all children of school age residing within the boundaries of the proposed new district at the date of presenting such petition, and such petition shall be delivered in person to the clerk of the school district out of which it is proposed to organize such new district. Immediately upon receipt of such petition, the district clerk shall call a special meeting of the board of trustees for the purpose of considering such petition, and shall notify them by mail of the time, place, and purpose of such meeting, and shall immediately give notice to all parties interested, by posting or causing to be posted at least ten days prior to the date of such meeting, in at least three of the most public places in the proposed new district, and one on each schoolhouse door in the district, and in three of the most public places in the remaining portion of the old district, notices stating the time, place, and purpose of such special meetings of the board of trustees, which meeting of the board of trustees shall be not less than twenty days from date of the receipt by the clerk of such petition. The board of trustees of said district at such special meeting shall approve or deny the said petition, and shall enter their approval or denial upon the records of the district within ten days from the date of such meeting; and shall forthwith transmit the original petition, together with a certified copy of the minutes of said meeting, to the county superintendent of schools. If the board of trustees of said school district shall approve of the division of said school district, and no appeal is taken from their decision as herein provided, the county superintendent of schools may thereupon make an order establishing such new district, defining its boundaries. Any three resident taxpayers of either the proposed new district, or the remaining portion of the original district, may within thirty days appeal from the decision of the said board of trustees, granting or denying said petition, to the county superintendent of schools, and may within thirty days appeal from any decision or order made by the county superintendent of schools to the county commissioners, whose decision shall be final. An appeal from the decision of the board of trustees shall be in writing, subscribed by the parties taking the appeal, and recite sufficient facts to show their rights to appeal hereunder, and that it is an appeal from the decision of the board of trustees, and such appeal shall be filed with the county superintendent within the above-mentioned time allowed for appeal. In the event of such appeal to the county superintendent, or in the event of an appeal from the decision or order made by the county superintendent to the county commissioner, notices shall be given by the county superintendent, or by the county clerk, in the same manner provided in the preceding section.

No territory within the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town shall be included in any new school district formed or created under the provisions of this act.

History: Ap. p. Sec. 1751, Pol. C. 1895; Ch. 82, L. 1911; amd. Sec. 404, Ch. 76, re-en. Sec. 840, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 8, Ch. 196, L. 1919.

1026. Selection of trustees. When a new district is organized, such trustees of the old district as reside within the limits of the new one shall be trustees in the new district, and the county superintendent must appoint the remaining trustees for the new and old districts, who shall hold office until the next annual election.

History: En. Sec. 405, Ch. 76, L. 1913; amd. Sec. 9, Ch. 196, L. 1919.

1027. Apportionment of moneys to new districts. No new district, organized as provided in sections 1024 and 1025, shall be entitled to any share of public money belonging to the old district until school has actually been taught one month in the new district; and unless within eight months from the order of the county superintendent granting such new district a school is opened, the action making a new district shall be void, and all elections or appointments of trustees or clerks made in consequence of such action, and all rights and office of parties so elected or appointed, shall cease and determine.

1028. Division of district funds and property. When a new district is formed from one or more old ones, the school funds remaining to the credit of the old district, after providing for all outstanding debts, except debts incurred for building and furnishing schoolhouses, shall be divided as follows: The basis for the division of the school fund shall be the school population, as shown by the last school census before the division of the district or districts occurred, and shall apply to such funds as remain to the credit of said old district or districts at the time of the organization of said new district, and said district shall receive funds in proportion to its per cent. of census. In case of division, each district shall own and hold all permanent property, such as sites, schoolhouses, and furniture situated within its boundaries. All division of funds under this provision shall be made by the county superintendent, and when there are unpaid special taxes on the county tax-book belonging to a district at the date of its division, the county treasurer, upon being notified of such division by the county superintendent, shall retain all moneys received in payment of such special tax until the same shall be apportioned by the county superintendent, whose duty shall be to apportion said money quarterly between the fractions of the divided district according to the location of the property on which said tax was levied. At the first apportionment after the organization of a new district, the county superintendent shall apportion to such district its per capita proportion of the general fund, but no money, either from the general or special fund, shall be paid out of the county treasury on account of such district, until a school shall have been taught therein one month; provided, that any new district shall be entitled to its apportionment, where the time that school was maintained in the old district before division, and in the new one after division, shall be equal to at least four months.

1029. Distribution of indebtedness. If, at the time such new district is created, there is any indebtedness against such old school district, then the county superintendent of the county in which such districts are located shall apportion such indebtedness between said districts, by first deducting from said indebtedness the amount of all moneys in the treasury belonging to the sinking fund of said old district, and then apportioning the remainder of the indebtedness between the respective districts in proportion to the value of the school property in the new district.

1030. Trustees issue interest-bearing warrants. That upon the adjustment of such indebtedness, it shall be the duty of the board of trustees of such new district to cause to be made out, issued, and delivered to the trustees of such old district, warrants equal to the amount of such indebtedness apportioned to such new districts, which warrants, upon presentation, shall be indorsed by the treasurer of the county, "not paid for want of funds," and shall thereafter draw interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum.

Right of school district to waive immunity from garnishment, see note in 2 L. R. A. 1586.

1031. County commissioners levy tax for interest-bearing warrants. Until said warrants are paid, it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners of said county to annually levy a tax upon the taxable property of such new school district sufficient to pay the interest on said warrants, and the money realized from the levy of such taxes shall be, by the county treasurer, kept in a special fund to be used solely for the purpose of paying the interest and principal of said warrants.

1032. Trustees may issue bonds. The school trustees of such new school district shall have, and are hereby given the power and authority, to issue on the credit of their district coupon bonds, and sell and dispose of the same for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay such warrants. Such bonds shall be issued and disposed of upon the conditions and in the manner provided in section 1235 of this code, except that said bonds shall recite in the body of each bond that "This bond is issued for the purpose of providing funds to pay outstanding warrants."

1033. District boundaries. The boundaries of any district cannot be changed, save in forming new districts, except as herein provided. A majority of the resident freeholders residing in territory which is a part of any organized school district may present a petition in writing to the county superintendent, asking that such territory be transferred to or included in any other organized district to which said territory is contiguous. The petition shall prescribe the territory which it is proposed to transfer or include, and shall also state the reason for desiring such change, and the number of children of school age, if any, residing in the territory to be transferred or included.

The county superintendent shall file said petition in his office immediately on receipt thereof, and shall give notice to the parties interested by posting notices at least ten days prior to the time appointed for considering said petition, one of which shall be in a public place in the territory which is proposed to be transferred or included, and one on the door of each schoolhouse in each district affected by the change, or if there be no schoolhouse in such district, then in some public place in such district or districts, and at the time stated in said notice for the consideration of such petition, which shall not be less than ten days nor more than thirty days after the date of filing such petition, he shall proceed to hear such petition, and if he deem it advisable and for the best interests of the territory proposed to be transferred or included, he shall grant said petition and make an order fixing the boundaries of the districts so changed, which order shall be final, unless an appeal be taken to the board of county commissioners of the county wherein such districts are located within thirty days thereafter, and upon hearing thereof the decision of said board shall be final. All the papers, documents, and records in the case shall be certified by the county superintendent to the county commissioners for their determination of the matter on appeal; provided, that lands lying contiguous to a district and not attached to any district shall be attached to an adjacent district by the county superintendent of his own motion, and provided, further, that all districts shall consist of contiguous territory.

1034. Consolidated districts—Procedure in event of consolidation—Bonded debts. Two or more school districts may be consolidated, either by the formation of a new district, or by the annexation of one or more districts to an existing district, as hereinafter provided.

Whenever the county superintendent of schools receives a petition signed and acknowledged by a majority of the resident freeholders of each district affected, qualified to vote at school elections, praying for consolidation, he shall within ten days cause a ten days' posted notice to be given by the clerk in each district, such notice to be posted in three public places, in each district, of an election in such district at a time and place specified in each notice to vote on the question of consolidation.

The votes at such election shall be by ballot, which shall read "For Consolidation" or "Against Consolidation." The presiding officer at such election shall, within ten days thereafter, certify the result of the vote to the county superintendent of the county in which the district mainly lies.

If the majority of the votes cast in each district be for consolidation, it carries, and the superitendent, within ten days thereafter, shall make proper orders to give effect to such vote, and shall thereafter transmit a copy thereof to the county clerk and recorder of each county in which any part of any district lies, and to the clerk of each district affected. If the order be for the formation of a new district, it shall specify the name and number of such district, and he shall appoint three trustees to serve until the first Saturday in April succeeding.

At the regular election succeeding there shall be elected by the regularly qualified electors three trustees, one of whom shall serve for one year, one for two years, and one for three years. The election of trustees and terms shall be the same as for other districts under the general school laws.

In case of annexation of any district or districts to any existing district, as herein provided, the proper officers of the annexed districts, within ten days from the receipt of a copy of such order, shall turn over to the proper officers of the district to which they are annexed, all records, funds, and effects of such annexed district. In case of the formation of a new district, the proper officers of the discontinued districts in like manner, within ten days after the organization of the new district, shall turn over the records, funds, and effects of such old districts to the proper officers of the new districts.

In case of consolidation of districts by annexation, the title to schoolhouses and sites of the separate districts shall vest in the new consolidated district, and the officers of the old district shall continue to exercise their duties until the officers of the new consolidated district have been elected and have qualified.

Consolidated school districts shall be governed by the general school laws of the state.

Bonded indebtedness of any districts merged by consolidation shall be assumed by the consolidated district.

History: En. Sec. 407, Ch. 76, L. 1913. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1577.

1035. Joint districts—Formation, control, discontinuance. Joint districts (districts lying partly in one county and partly in another) may be formed in the same manner as other new districts are formed, except that the petition herein provided for must be made to the county superintendent of each county affected; but in the case of joint districts, all of the provisions herein enumerated for the formation of a new district must be by concurrent action of the superintendent of each county affected.

History: En. Sec. 408, Ch. 76, L. 1913. Cal. Pol. C. Sec. 1577.

1036. Same—Apportionment of school money. Whenever a district lies partly in one county and partly in another, the county superintendent must apportion to such district such proportion of the school money to which such district is entitled as the number of school census children residing in that portion of the district situated in his county bears to the whole number of school census children in the whole district. The trustees and teachers of joint districts must make to the superintendent of each county in which the district is located the reports which other trustees and teachers are required to make, and also the number of pupils attending the school from each county, and all other acts which from their nature should be separately kept and done, as if each portion of said joint district belonging to each county were an entire district in the respective counties. The teachers of such joint district shall have certificates from the superintendent of the county in which the schoolhouse is located.

History: En Sec. 1755, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 844, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 408, Ch. 76, L. 1913.

1037. Discontinuance as joint district. Whenever the county superintendents of two or more counties having a joint district are agreed that there is no good and sufficient reason for the continuance of such district as a joint district, they may, after holding a hearing with the trustees of the district, certify in writing to the county commissioners of the several counties concerned, their reasons for desiring to discontinue such district as a joint district, who shall, within thirty days of receiving notice from the county superintendent, inform the county superintendent of their own county whether, in their judgment, the district should be discontinued as a joint district. If the several boards of county commissioners are agreed to the discontinuance of the district as a joint district, then the several county superintendents, each for her own county, shall proceed, either to organize a new district or districts, under the provisions of section 1024 or 1025, as the same may require, or to attach abandoned territory to adjacent district of the same county, under the provisions of section 1033.

History: En. Sec. 10, Ch. 196, L. 1919.

1038. Joint school districts on division by creation of new county. That all school districts in the state of Montana which have heretofore, or that may be hereafter divided by the creation of a new county under and by virtue of the provisions of chapter 112, laws of the twelfth legislative assembly, or chapter 133, laws of the thirteenth legislative assembly, or chapter 139, laws of the fourteenth legislative assembly, or chapter 226, laws of the sixteenth legislative assembly (4390-4407) shall be joint school districts and shall be subject to all laws of the state of Montana, relating to the management and control of joint school districts.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 110, L. 1921.

1039. Maintenance of schools in isolated sections. In districts in which there may be an isolated section or sections where not less than four children reside, which sections are situated not less than five miles from the established school in such district, in which isolated section or sections is maintained for not less than three months a school presided over by a regular qualified teacher for the benefit of all children of such section, the board of trustees of such district shall pay to the teacher of such school the apportionment of the school moneys for the census children so attending said school, and such other moneys as many be necessary for at least a four months' school; provided, in the judgment of the county superintendent of schools, the district has sufficient funds to support such school.

An elector desiring to vote for such adoption shall do so by marking "X" on his ballot before the phrase "For the County Unit"; an elector desiring to vote against such adoption shall do so by marking "X" on his ballot before the phrase "Against the County Unit."

After the election the ballots shall be counted and the votes canvassed in the manner prescribed in the general election laws, and if a majority of the votes cast at the election is in favor of the county unit, the board of county commissioners shall make and enter an order creating such rural school district and establish the boundaries of each subdivision, and this act shall become effective in so far as the county is concerned.

If a majority of the votes cast at such election are against organization of the rural school district, another election upon the question of organizing a rural school district cannot be held until after the expiration of two years.

As soon as the board of county commissioners has for the first time established the boundaries of the subdivisions as hereinbefore provided, the said board of county commissioners shall thereupon appoint one elector from among the residents of each of the five subdivisions of the rural school district to constitute a board of trustees for the rural school district of the county. Of these five trustees so appointed, two shall serve until the first regular school election after their appointment, two until the second regular school election after their appointment, and one until the third regular school election after his appointment, the terms of trustees so appointed to be determined by lot.

The board of trustees shall cause the names of all candidates for trustees of the rural school district to be printed and sent to the clerk of each subdistrict of the part in which a trustee is to be elected, to be posted at each polling-place at least five days preceding the election. The election of school trustees shall be held and conducted under the supervision of the trustees of the local subdistrict, who shall, not less than fifteen days before the annual election, post notices in three public places in their subdistricts, which notices must specify the time and place of election and hours during which the polls will be open. The local trustees must appoint, by an order entered in their records, three qualified electors of said subdistricts to act as judges at said election, and the local clerk shall notify them by mail of their appointment. If the judges are not present at the time of opening the polls, the electors present may appoint judges, and the judges so appointed shall designate one of their number to act as clerk. The voting must be by ballot without reference to the general election laws in regard to nominations forms of ballots, or manner of voting, and the polls shall be open for such time as the board of trustees may order; provided, that such polls must be open between two p. m. and six p. m. the same to the county clerk in the manner and form as may be prescribed by the general election law of the state, in so far as the same may be applicable to school elections. The returns shall be canvassed and the result declared by the county commissioners, and certificates of election issued by the county clerk in the same manner as may be prescribed by the general election laws of the state, in so far as the same may be applicable thereto; provided, that in the election of said board of trustees the votes cast in each of the five subdivisions of the rural school district shall be canvassed separately, and the candidate receiving the largest number of votes in any one subdivision shall be elected as the trustee for such subdivision; provided, further, that no one shall be eligible as trustee who is not at the time of his election or appointment a bona fide resident and elector of the subdivision of the rural school district for which he is elected.

Persons elected or appointed as trustees shall qualify by taking an oath to perform their duties according to law. Their oaths may be administered by the county superintendent, or any other officer authorized by law to administer oaths, and must be filed with the clerk of the board of trustees within fifteen days after the election or appointment, and said duly elected trustees shall begin their term of service on the third Saturday in April next following their election. The board of county commissioners shall appoint trustees to fill vacancies in the board of rural school district trustees; provided, that such appointment is confirmed by the majority of the remaining members of such board. Trustees so appointed shall serve till the next regular school election, at which election successors shall be elected to serve for the unexpired balance of the term if any.

1044. Powers and duties of trustees—Budget—Taxes—Bonds. The board of trustees of every rural school district shall have only the powers and shall perform only the duties enumerated in this act. The board of trustees of each subdistrict of the rural school district shall have all the powers and perform all the duties imposed upon trustees of school districts according to the provisions of chapter 76 of the session laws of the thirtieth legislative assembly, and acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, except as modified by the terms of this act.

The board of trustees of each subdistrict of the rural school district shall, on or before the regular annual meeting of the board of trustees of the rural school district held on the first Thursday in July, prepare and certify to the board of trustees of the rural school district, a budget containing an estimate of all the different items of expenditures for operation and maintenance to be incurred by such subdistricts for the ensuing school year. Such budget shall explain in detail the several items of estimated expenditures, together with an explanation of the necessity therefor. Such budget shall also be accompanied by a full and complete report of the school facilities of the subdistrict, and of the educational opportunities afforded to each child in such subdistrict.

For any extraordinary expenditure or expenditures for any purpose other than operation and maintenance to be incurred by a subdistrict, not included in the budget for such subdistrict as adopted by the board of trustees of the rural school district, the board of trustees of such subdistrict may cause to be levied upon the property in the subdistrict a special tax pursuant to the provisions of section 1203 of this code.

The board of trustees of the rural school district shall, at its regular annual meeting on the first Thursday in July, examine the budgets certified to it by the trustees of the several subdistricts, and from such budgets shall prepared a complete budget for the rural school district, which shall provide for the furnishing of reasonable educational facilities to every child in the rural school district, including the payment of the board or rent or both, and transportation of children from isolated sections, in cases where the same is more expedient than maintaining a school in such isolated sections, and also including any other reasonable item of expenditure not herein enumerated, and necessary for carrying out the provisions of this act. Such budget shall contain the detailed estimated expenditures for each subdistrict.

The board of trustees of the rural school district shall, on or before the first Monday in August in each year, certify to the board of county commissioners the total amount of money to be raised by taxation for the rural school district pursuant to the budget adopted by the board, and the board of county commissioners shall cause to be levied, at the time of the levy of taxes for state and county purposes, a sufficient levy upon all of the taxable property within the rural school district, a tax sufficient to raise the amount of money so certified by the board of trustees of the rural school district, after allowing a deduction of ten per cent. on account of delinquencies. The board of trustees of the rural school district shall, at its regular meeting held on the second Thursday in December, apportion to the several subdistricts their proportionate part of the taxes then collected, such proportionate part to be determined in accordance with the budget as above mentioned.

The board of trustees of any rural school district is hereby vested with the power and authority to issue and negotiate, on the credit of the rural school district, coupon bonds for any one or more of the purposes authorized in section 1224 of this code. The question of such bond issues shall be submitted to the electors of the rural school district in the same manner provided by said section. The clerk of the board of trustees of the rural school district, upon the passing of the resolution by the board submitting to the electors of the rural school district the question of the issuance of bonds, shall furnish the clerk of each subdistrict with three copies of the notice of election of such bond issue. The clerk of each subdistrict shall, not less than fifteen days before the date specified in such notices for such election, post notices in three public places in said district, one of which shall be at the place of election designated in such notice. The ballots shall be substantially in the form provided in section 1225 of this code, and the votes shall be canvassed by the trustees in each subdistrict, who shall certify the result of the election in each subdistrict to the secretary of the board of trustees of the rural school district. If a majority of the votes cast in such rural school district are in favor of the issuance of bonds, the board of trustees shall thereupon proceed to issue and sell the bonds in accordance with the provisions of sections 1225 and 1226 of this code. The county superintendent of schools shall be ex-officio secretary of the board, and it shall be his duty to enforce the rules, regulations, and orders of the board, but shall not be entitled to vote.

1045. Sinking fund of third-class districts—Assumption of indebtedness. All maintenance money or sinking funds on hand as a surplus or credit to the various third-class districts in any county, prior to and on July first, of the year in which the provisions of this act shall be accepted in such county, as hereinabove provided, shall become a part of the corresponding maintenance or sinking funds of the rural school district of the county.

All the existing indebtedness of the various third-class districts in any county, prior to and on July first of such year, whether for maintenance or bonded indebtedness, or otherwise, shall become the indebtedness of and shall be assumed and paid by the rural school district of that county, such payments being made from the corresponding respective and proper funds. Said board of trustees in the rural school districts is authorized and empowered to issue bonds of the rural school district to take up and cancel such bonded indebtedness.

History: En. Sec. 6, Ch. 211, L. 1919.

1046. Creation of second-class districts—Procedure. Second-class districts may be created from the territory embraced in any rural school district, within the discretion of the board of trustees of such rural school district; provided, that such proposed district has an assessed valuation of not less than six hundred thousand dollars. Such district shall be created only upon the petition of one hundred qualified electors residing in the proposed district, setting forth in the petition the assessed valuation and the boundaries of the proposed district. In the event of the creation of such district, the county superintendent of schools shall, upon notice received from the board of trustees of the rural school district, appoint five trustees for the newly created district, who shall serve until the next regular election.

All school property situated in the new district shall become the property of the new district, and the remainder of the property of the rural school district shall continue to be the property of the rural school district.

If, at the time such new district is created, there is any indebtedness against the rural school district, then the board of county commissioners of the county in which such districts are located shall, at its first regular meeting after the order creating said new district is made, apportion such indebtedness between said districts, by first deducting from said indebtedness the amount of all moneys in the treasury belonging to the sinking fund of said rural school district, and then apportioning the remainder of the indebtedness between the respective districts in proportion to the value of the school property remaining in the rural school district to the value of the school property in the new district. Upon the adjustment of such indebtedness, it shall be the duty of the board of trustees of such new district to cause to be made out, issued, and delivered to the trustees of such rural school district, warrants equal to the amount of such indebtedness apportioned to such new district, which warrants, upon presentation, shall be indorsed by the treasurer of the county, "Not paid for want of funds," and shall thereafter draw interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum until such time as funds may be available for their payment.

Until said warrants are paid, it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners of said county to levy annually a tax upon the taxable property of such new school district, sufficient to pay the interest on said warrants, and the money realized from the levy of such taxes shall be, by the county treasurer, kept in a special fund to be used solely for the purpose of paying the interest and principal of said warrants.

The school trustees of such new district shall have, and are hereby given the power and authority to issue, on the credit of their district, coupon bonds and to sell and dispose of the same for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay such warrants. Such bonds shall be issued and disposed of upon condition and in the manner provided in section 1235 of this code, except that said bonds shall recite in the body of such bond that "This bond is issued for the purpose of providing funds to pay outstanding warrants."

History: En. Sec. 7, Ch. 211, L. 1919.

At this meeting new members elected shall take office, a president shall be elected for the ensuing year by the board from among its own membership, and the executive officers of the board shall make their annual reports. Another regular meeting shall be held on the second Thursday in December, and special meetings may be called by the president, or by three other members of the board. Each member of the board of trustees of the rural school district shall be paid his necessary traveling expenses in attending regular meetings, but not to exceed two special meetings, and an honorarium of fifty dollars per year. Failure to attend two regular meetings in succession, unless excused on account of sickness, shall work a forfeiture of the office.

1048. Dissolution of rural school districts—Procedure to effect. A rural school district organized under the provisions of this act may be dissolved after the expiration of four years from the date of its organization, in the following manner, to-wit:

Whenever, between the first day of January and the first day of March in any year, three hundred registered electors in a rural school district shall petition the board of trustees of the rural school district requesting the dissolution of such school district, the board of trustees of the rural school district shall submit the question of such dissolution to the electors at the annual school election. Notices of election shall be posted in the same manner as for the election of trustees in the subdistricts, and the election shall be conducted and the votes canvassed in the manner provided in the election of school trustees. If a majority of votes cast at such election shall be in favor of the dissolution of the rural school district, the board of trustees of the rural school district shall make an order to that effect and certify the same to the board of county commissioners, and on and after July first the rural school district shall be dissolved, and the several subdistricts shall thereupon become school districts of the third class. The board of county commissioners shall distribute funds of the rural school district, and apportion the indebtedness of the rural school district in the following manner: Each school district (formerly a subdistrict) shall thereupon become the owner of the property of the rural school district located within its boundaries. The county commissioners shall apportion to each school district that portion of the funds of the rural school district other than sinking funds, which is in proportion to the number of school census children within the school district. The county commissioners of the county shall continue to levy the taxes upon all the property located within the territory which formerly constituted the rural school district, until the interest and the principal of all bonds issued by the rural school district shall have been paid in full.

All appointments shall be for two years except two of the first appointments, which two shall be for one year. All vacancies shall be filled for the unexpired term. The members shall serve without pay except for necessary expenses, and any bills incurred by them must be paid out of the moneys received as fees for certificates.

The questions prepared by the state board of educational examiners, when received by the county superintendent, shall not be opened or the seal thereof broken until the day of the examination, and then in the presence of the applicants. And the county superintendent is prohibited from furnishing or giving to any person or persons any information concerning the questions prepared by the state board of educational examiners. If the attendance upon any examination of teachers at the county seat shall work a great hardship to any teacher in the county, the county superintendent, upon the approval of the state superintendent, may provide for such teachers to take the examination at some convenient place, and the county superintendent may appoint some suitable person to conduct such examination, under the rules and regulations prescribed by the state board of educational examiners.

Such claims shall have the approval of the county superintendent of schools.

The revocation of the certificate shall terminate the employment of such teacher in the school in which he may at the time be employed, but the teacher must be paid up to the time of receiving notice of such revocation.

1106. Length of session. Each session of the institute must continue not less than four nor more than ten days.

History: En. Sec. 8, p. 132, L. 1897; re-en. Sec. 948, Rev. C. 1907; amd. Sec. 1001, Ch. 76, L. 1913.

1107. Institute instructors. It shall be the duty of all boards of school trustees, through their clerks, to notify each and all of the teachers within their districts of the time and place of holding the institute, and to direct each and all of their teachers to close their several schools for the purpose of attending the institute. Each and every teacher engaged in teaching a term of school in any district during the time of the institute shall close his school during such time, and shall attend the institute and take active part in the same except as hereinafter provided, without loss of salary for the actual time spent in attending the institute and for the actual time spent in going to and returning from the same. The county superintendent shall, in all cases, keep and preserve a record of the actual time spent by each teacher of his county at the institute, and shall furnish both to each teacher and to his board of school trustees a certificate of the time spent by said teachers at the institute. Wilful failure on the part of the board of school trustees of any school district to close their schools during the time of the holding of the institute, as herein required, shall be considered sufficient cause for withholding the public moneys to which such district would otherwise be entitled; provided, however, that, in the case of boards of school trustees, as in the case of teachers, the great distance of any school district from the place of holding the institute, excessive loss of time, inconvenience, and cost shall be considered good grounds on which the county superintendent, under authority and direction from the state superintendent, may excuse any board of school trustees from closing their school at such times, and from observing the above requirements.

Every parent, guardian, or other person, having charge of any child between the ages of eight and sixteen years, shall send such child to a public, private, or parochial school, for the full time that the school attended is in session, which shall in no case be for less than sixteen weeks during any current year; provided, however, that children fourteen years of age or over who have successfully completed the school work of the eighth grade, or whose wages are necessary to the support of the family of such child, may be employed during the time that the public schools are in session upon making the proof and securing the age and schooling certificate provided for in the following section. School attendance shall begin within the first week of the school term, unless the child is excused from such attendance by the superintendent of the public schools, in city and other districts having such superintendent, or by the clerk of the board of trustees in districts not having such superintendent, or by the principal of the private or parochial school, upon satisfactory showing either that the bodily or mental condition of the child does not permit of its attendance at school, or that the child is being instructed at home by a person qualified, in the opinion of the superintendent of schools in city or other districts having such superintendent, to teach the branches named in this section; provided, that the county superintendent may excuse children from attendance upon such schools where, in his judgment, the distance makes such attendance an undue hardship. The age and schooling certificate shall be formulated by the superintendent of public instruction, and blank certificates shall be furnished by the clerk of the board of trustees. Every person, firm, company, or corporation employing any child under sixteen years of age shall exact the age and schooling certificate, or the certificate permitting the employment of such child, prescribed in this section, and shall, upon the request of the truant officer or other authorized person by school trustees, permit him to examine such certificates. When, however, employment of such child ceases, the employer shall promptly return to the city superintendent of schools, or principal of schools, or county superintendent of schools of such district where said child resides, the age and schooling certificate or certificate permitting the employment of such child. The compensation of the truant officer shall be fixed and paid by the board appointing him. The truant officer shall be vested with police powers, the authority to serve warrants, and have authority to enter workshops, factories, stores, and all other places where children may be employed, and do whatever may be necessary, in the way of investigation or otherwise, to enforce the provisions of this chapter. The truant officer shall conduct said youth to the school he has been attending, or which he should rightfully attend. The truant officer shall institute proceedings against any officer, parent, guardian, person or corporation violating any provisions of this chapter, and perform such other services as the superintendent of schools, or the board of trustees may deem necessary to preserve the morals and secure the good conduct of school children, and to enforce the provisions of this chapter. It shall be the further duty of such principals and teachers to report to the truant officer, the superintendent of public schools, or the clerk of the board of trustees, as the case may be, all cases of truancy or incorrigibility in their respective schools, as soon after these offenses have been committed as practicable.

On request of the superintendent of schools or the board of trustees, or when it otherwise comes to his notice, the truant officer shall examine into any case of truancy or non-attendance within his district, and warn said truant or non-attendant and his parent, guardian, or other person in charge, in writing, of the final consequence of truancy or non-attendance if persisted in. When any child of an age at which attendance at the public schools is enjoined by the laws of this state is not attending school, or is not lawfully employed or lawfully excused from such attendance, the truant officer shall notify the parent, guardian, or other person in charge of such child, of the fact, and require such parent, guardian, or other person in charge to cause the child to attend some recognized school within two days from the date of the notice; and it shall be the duty of the parent, guardian, or other person in charge of the child so to cause its attendance at some recognized school. Upon failure to do so, the truant officer shall make complaint against the parent, guardian, or other person in charge of the child, in any court of competent jurisdiction in the district in which the offense occurs for such failure, and upon such conviction, the parent, guardian, or other person in charge shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than twenty dollars; or the court may, in its discretion, require the person so convicted to give bond in the penal sum of one hundred dollars, with sureties, to the approval of the court, conditioned that he or she will cause the child under his or her charge to attend some recognized school within two days thereafter, and to remain at such school during the term prescribed by law; and upon failure or refusal of any parent, guardian or other person to pay said fine and costs, or furnish said bond, according to the order of the court, then said parent, guardian, or other person shall be imprisoned in the county jail not less than ten days nor more than thirty days.

Such child shall not be considered or declared a pauper by reason of the acceptance of the relief herein provided for. In case the child or its parents or guardians refuses or neglects to take advantage of the provisions thus made for its instruction, such child may be committed to the industrial school hereinafter provided for. In all cases where relief, including books, medical aid, and clothing, is necessary, it shall be the duty of the board of trustees to furnish such aid free of charge, and said board of trustees may furnish any further relief it may deem necessary, the expense incident to furnishing said books, medical aid, clothing, and further relief to be paid from the general fund of the school district.

1227. School district liable on bonds. The faith of each school district is solemnly pledged for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of the bonds which shall be issued under the provisions of this chapter. And for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this chapter each school district shall be a body corporate, which may sue and be sued by or in the name of the board of school trustees of such district.

History: En. Sec. 4, p. 65, L. 1883; re-en. Sec. 1953, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887; re-en. Sec. 1964, Pol. C. 1895; re-en. Sec. 1007, Rev. C. 1907; re-en. Sec. 2018, Ch. 76, L. 1913.

1228. Tax—Sinking fund. The school trustees of each district having an outstanding bonded indebtedness shall, on or before the first Monday in July of each year, ascertain and certify to the board of county commissioners (and in the event that such school district is a joint school district, the board of trustees shall certify to the board of county commissioners of each county in which any portion of such joint district is located) the amount necessary to pay the annual interest upon such outstanding bonds, and a sinking fund to redeem the bonds at their maturity. Any board of trustees failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be subject to immediate removal by the county superintendent. In the event that the board of trustees in said district shall fail to comply with the provisions of this section, the county superintendent shall advise the county commissioners, on or before the first Monday in August, of the amount of money necessary to be raised for the above-mentioned purpose. The county commissioners shall thereupon compute and levy the necessary tax, and said tax shall become a lien upon all the property in said school district, and shall be collected in the same manner as other taxes for school purposes.

1229. Same—Redemption of bonds. The county commissioners, at the time of making the levy of taxes for county purposes, must levy a tax for that year upon the taxable property in such district for the interest and redemption of said bonds, and such tax must not be less than sufficient to pay the interest of said bonds for that year and such portion of the principal as is to become due during such years, and in any event must be high enough to raise annually, for the first half of the term said bonds have to run, a sufficient sum to pay the interest thereon, and during the balance of the term, high enough to pay such annual interest, and to pay annually a portion of the principal of said bonds, equal to a sum produced by taking the whole amount of said bonds outstanding and dividing it by the number of years said bonds have to run; and all moneys so levied, when collected, must be paid into the county treasury to the credit of such district, kept in a separate fund, and be used for the payment of principal and interest on said bonds, and for no other purpose; provided, that the board may, with the surplus of such sinking fund, when the same shall be one thousand dollars or more, purchase any of the outstanding bonds issued by the board. Such purchase shall be made at the lowest price such bonds can be purchased at, but at no more than par value of such bonds; and whenever there shall be such a surplus of sinking fund, amounting to the sum of one thousand dollars, the board shall purchase therewith like bonds, on the same terms and conditions as hereinbefore specified.

If for any reason such bonds cannot be purchased as hereinbefore specified, such sinking fund shall be invested by the treasurer under the direction of the board of trustees, at such times as the board shall direct, in interest-bearing bonds of the United States or of the state of Montana, which shall be purchased at the lowest market price. Interest accruing upon such bonds shall be invested in the same manner and for the same purpose as a sinking fund. Such bonds shall be held by the treasurer until the principal of any bonds issued by the board of trustees shall become due, and shall be sold at the highest market price, and the proceeds applied to the payment of bonds; provided, further, that if at any time the board shall deem it best, it shall be lawful to sell such bonds for the purpose of purchasing the bonds issued by such board; but all such sales shall be at the highest market price, and the bonds of the board purchased with the proceeds of such sale shall be purchased at the lowest price they can be obtained for, and not above the par value of such bonds; provided, further, that the bonds first maturing shall be purchased, if they can be purchased, on terms as favorable to the board as others offered for sale to the said board. All bonds of the said board purchased under the authority hereby given, or paid by the board, shall be forthwith canceled as provided in the next succeeding section.

1230. Redemption—Notice to bondholder. When the sum in said sinking fund shall equal or exceed the amount of any bond then due, the county treasurer shall give notice to each bondholder, if known to him, and shall post in his office a notice that he will, within thirty days from the date of such notice, redeem the bonds then payable, giving the numbers thereof, and preference shall be given to the oldest issue; and if, at the expiration of the said thirty days, the holder or holders of said bonds shall fail or neglect to present the same for payment, interest thereon shall cease; but the treasurer shall at all times thereafter be ready to redeem the same on presentation, and when any bonds shall be so purchased or redeemed, the county treasurer shall cancel all bonds so purchased, and redeem by writing across the face of such bond or bonds, in red ink, the word "Redeemed," and the date of such redemption; provided, that whenever, in the judgment of the board of school trustees and prior to the redemption of said bonds, said board shall deem it advisable and for the best interest of the school district to invest said sinking fund or any part thereof, the board may, by an order entered upon their minutes, direct and require the county treasurer to invest said sinking fund, or any part thereof, in state or county bonds or warrants until such redeemable period.

1231. Duty of county treasurer. The county treasurer shall pay out of any moneys belonging to the school district the interest upon any bonds issued under this chapter by such district, when the same shall become due, upon the presentation at his office of the proper coupon, which shall show the amount due and the number of the bond to which it belonged; and all coupons so paid shall be reported to the school trustees at their first meeting thereafter. But the board of trustees of any school district issuing bonds may, by resolution, direct that said bonds and the interest thereon shall be payable in any city in the United States, and then such bonds and coupons shall be made payable at such bank in said city as shall be designated by the county treasurer at the time of issue; and all bonds and coupons so paid must be returned to the county treasurer and by him canceled and exhibited to the county commissioners at their first meeting thereafter.

1. When there is not sufficient money to the credit of the school district applicable to pay any of said bonds.

2. When, in the judgment of the school trustees, to levy and collect a special tax for the purpose of paying any of said bonds would be a hardship and a burden to the school district.

3. All bonds issued under the provisions of this section of this act shall bear upon their face the words "Refunding School bonds," and shall also recite in the body of the bond that "this bond is issued for the purpose of providing funds to pay maturing and outstanding bonds."

4. Said bonds shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed six per cent. per annum (and interest may be payable semi-annually), and payable and redeemable within a period not exceeding twenty years from the date of issue; provided, said bonds shall not exceed in amount the face value of the bond (and any accrued interest thereon), which they are issued to replace.

5. The trustees shall fix the denominations, terms, rate, and form of said bonds, not inconsistent with the requirements hereinbefore set forth; and may issue, dispose of, or sell such bonds at any time deemed necessary and expedient to enhance, preserve, and maintain the credit of their respective districts.
